The Wonderful Cheap Men.

He Made His Escape.

Thos. Gary Gives His Captors the Slip and is Still at Large.

Thos. Gary, one of the coolest burglars who ever operated in this section of the country, this morning slipped through the hands of the law within sight of the cell. At an early hour this morning Constable Beatty in company with another officer, started to to drive from Tweed with their prisoner, who had been committed to jail to await the spring assizes for burglary. A heavy pair of mits were put on the prisoner's hands, over which a pair of handcuffs were adjusted. Once within the meshes of the law, with a long term in the penitentiary staring him in the face, Gary commenced to actively turn over in his mind some means of escape. Without attracting the attention of the constable he deftly slipped his handcuffs and when the officers drew up in front of the court house at 10.30, the prisoner made a dash for liberty and escaped. Running with the fleetness of a deer down the court house yard he crossed the high school yard and the last seen of him he was making towards Shannonville. It was some time before the officers recovered from astonishment sufficiently to give chase, but the man by this time had got too far beyond their reach.

The description of the prisoner is as follows: Aged 28, 5 feet 4½ inches in height, fresh complexion, brown eyes, dark hair, black worsted clothes, white shirt, lace boots, with narrow toes, smooth plump face, either a stiff hat or wool cap bought in Trenton with name of merchant on inside, red lining. —Belleville Ontario.

Don't experiment with your health. You may be sure of the quality of your medicine, even if you have to take much of your food upon trust. Ask your druggist for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and no other. It is the standard blood-purifier, the most effective and economical.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does, it is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it, a sample bottle free, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and a dollar. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

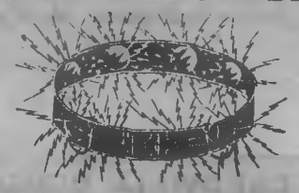
BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them, but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The Bye-Elections.

The trial of strength between the Government and the Opposition in Ontario will begin on Thursday, when bye-elections will be held in Lincoln, Kingston and Halton. On February 4th there will be contests in Lennox and Prince Edward; on February 11th in East Huron, Peel, East Middlesex, North and South Victoria. Four of these have been held by the Government, four by the Opposition. A decidedly adverse verdict in the bye-elections here and in the other Provinces would probably result in the downfall of the Government, whose majority last session sank as low as fifteen. In any event the result will serve as at least a partial indication of popular feeling about the men and their measures. The struggle which is dignified by the title of the reconstruction of the Cabinet is now completed, and must be very disappointing to those who expected that the work of reconstruction would be real and thorough. Ontario loses instead of gaining weight in the councils of the Government, and the least worthy of the men who represent her is the only one who has control of a department of prime importance. When the electors turn from a contemplation of the Government to a consideration of its policy they find the prospect still less encouraging. The progress of disillusion has been rapid since the general election. The last song that was sung to the old triumphant strain was Mr. Desjardins' resolution

GLORIFYING THE N. P. AND THE SUBSIDY SYSTEM.

Within a month afterwards came the census returns. They showed the results of ten years of the policy lauded by Mr. Desjardins, of an expenditure of many millions of dollars upon the C.P.R. and other railways and Government works, of exorbitant taxation and of an increase in the public debt of $97,000,000. The population of Canada in 1881 was 4,324 810. The population of Canada in 1891 was 4,823,344. The increase was a little over half a million. In the meantime the official report of the Government had declared that 866,171 persons had immigrated into Canada. The natural increase of the people at a moderate estimate, was a million. The census showed that we had lost half the natural increase and the whole of the increase by immigration, whether truly or falsely reported. The only parts of Canada where growth had been fairly satisfactory were Manitoba and the Northwest, and even there the increase was insignificant compared with that of the neighboring States of the Northwest. The population of the Maritime Provinces had remained stationary. Ontario, considering her great natural advantages and the energy of her people, had done little better. In the counties where elections are to take place matters stood thus:

Kingston	14,091	19,264
Lincoln	23,300	21,806
Prince Edward	21 044	18.892
Lennox	16,314	14,902
East Simcoe	27,185	35,801
East Middlesex	25,107	25,569
Halton	21,919	21,986
Victoria	27,474	27,304
Bruce	65,218	64 604
Peel	16,387	15,472

So much for the boast that the N.P. and the borrowing, taxing and spending which accompanied it would fill the great vacant areas of Canada with prosperous settlers. What has become of the theory that it would supply the farmer with home markets, which would obviate the necessity of his sending his bulky products abroad, a favorite argument of protectionists? A fine commentary upon it is furnished by the unsuccessful efforts of the Government to find a market for those products in the West Indies, and by the advice now freely tendered to the farmers to grow two-rowed barley, for a market three thousand miles away, a market wherein they will have to face without favor or advantage the competition of the world. Chief among their competitors are the American farmers, who enter the field with several advantages. They have cheaper iron, binding twine, coal oil, sugar, cotton and many lines of factory goods. They have a home market of 64 000,000 against the Canadian farmers' 5,000 000, and they have also the benefit of reciprocity with 21,000,000 of people outside the republic. It has also been made clear that the N. P. has failed to fulfil another promise of its sponsors, namely, that it into reciprocity. The Government caused the dissolution of Parliament last March upon the pretext that they were about to negotiate a reciprocity treaty with the United States. They declared also, by inference at least, that it was to be a natural products treaty, for Sir John Macdonald said that the National Policy was not to be infringed upon; and the protected manufacturers were evidently assured that their monopoly was not to be touched, for they spent money lavishly with the object of securing Sir John's return to power. It was made quite plain that the Government of the United States would not consider a proposal for a treaty which did not include manufactures. It is equally plain that the protected manufacturers of Ontario are as certain now as they were last March that their monopoly will not be interfered with; for the other day they passed a resolution expressing perfect confidence in the Abbott Government and denouncing unrestricted reciprocity. So long as they are satisfied it is certain that no proposal for reciprocity such as the Americans would consider is on the stocks. The loss of several rural constituencies to the Government would decidedly improve the prospect of obtaining a reciprocity treaty. For if it did not put the Liberals in power it would give the Government a hint that a more powerful interest than that of the Red Parlour is to be counted with.

WOULD FORCE THE UNITED STATES

A Thousand Times Better Than Gold.

Midas, they say, possessed the art of old,
Of turning whatso'er he touched to gold.

In our days it is well known that Paine's Celery Compound, when used by the nervous, dyspeptic, rheumatic and neuralgic, always renews life, and bestows joy, peace and happiness.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of dandruff, and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

FATAL FIRE.

Five Men Perish in an Electric Light Station.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 25.—The Ferdinand-street station of the Boston Electric Light Co. was burned at 3.40o'clock Saturday morning, involving a loss of upwards of $200,000. The building was filled with the most approved and costly electric light machinery, all of which is a total loss, the engine room being the only portion which was not totally destroyed. There were six men in the building at the time of the fire, only one of whom escaped. This man says that like a flash the building seemed to be enveloped in flames.

BIG GOLD STRIKE.

The Greatest Output Ever Found in a Colarado Mine.

FLORISANT, Col., Jan. 25.—One of the biggest strikes ever realized in Colorado has been made at Cripple Creek, 18 miles from here, in the El Paso mine, where ore that assays $1000 a ton was taken out. It was found 40 feet from the surface. A blast opened a vein of almost white quartz studded thickly with gold. A large quantity of ore was immediately tested. It proved to carry 240 ounces of gold per ton. The vein is 7 feet thick. Much excitement has resulted over the discovery.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—O. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1892.

MR. WARDEN FORSTER.

Yesterday Mr. Joseph Forster, Reeve of North Monaghan, was elected Warden of the county, a position which he is well fitted, by municipal experience, as well as other qualifications, to fill with credit to both himself and the county. Mr. Forster has for the past twenty years been actively identified with public affairs. He has filled, and still fills, the office of school trustee, and in 1878 he entered the council of North Monaghan. In 1881 he became a member of the county council, being elected reeve, a position he has held continuously since that time, being returned year after year by acclamation. In the county council he has been an active member, holding the office of chairman of the committee on appointments. Mr. Forster is a native Canadian, his ancestors coming from Northumberland, England. He was born in North Monaghan, upon the farm upon which he now lives. Mr. Forster will, doubtless, make a very efficient and careful Warden.

Cruelty to Children.

A Case for the New Society.

The newly formed Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children may find in the county jail at the present time an opportunity for the exercise of its beneficent functions. Some time ago a poor family was sent to jail from the township of Dummer. The family consists of a mother and six children, the oldest of which is only nine years of age, and the youngest one year of age. That this place is not the proper one for such children, who are innocent of every crime, except poverty and friendlessness, is shown by the fact that from the circumstances of this place of confinement they are compelled to spend their days amongst the vicious associations and influences of contact with criminals and depraved persons. This is bad enough but it is particularly to be deplored, that in this Christian land of free schools, children should be deprived of the opportunities of instruction—their only schooling at present being that of an apprenticeship to crime. The matter was brought up in the county council this morning, but that body in the absence of a house of refuge or similar institution, is not in a position to deal with the case in question in an effective and proper manner. Under these circumstances it seems that the society referred to will be able to furnish the relief desired.

The Coroner Explains.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I read in your local columns on the 26th inst. a letter from Thos. J. Barker, enquiring why an inquest was not held on the body of the late W. F. Johnston. The reply to this enquiry is, because no person laid information before the coroner to show that there is suspicion that deceased had come to his death by foul play or by the culpable neglect of any person. It may not be known to your correspondent, or to many other people, that a coroner must proceed on information laid, the same as magistrates take action.

I may here say that I was anxious to have an inquest more for surgical and scientific reasons than to pursue any person because of injury done to the deceased. With the purpose of bringing about an inquest I consulted with Mr. Wood the County Attorney, and he advised me that there were no circumstances connected with his death that would justify holding an inquest. He said I might deposit with him the necessary affidavit and proceed with an inquest but the chances were I would get a rap across the knuckles from the county auditors. Not having the necessary information to proceed on, I communicated with Dr. King, who was in charge of the hospital, and of the patient till his death, and asked him to hold a post mortem for surgical and scientific reasons. To this he agreed and appointed a time, but the body was removed before the time fixed, and so far as I know no post mortem examination was made.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
J. A. FITZ.

THE BOARD OF TRADE MET

Last Evening in the Council Chamber.

The Report of the Mercantile Committee Received—A Protective Association for Merchants Formed—The Rules and Regulations Thoroughly Discussed.

The Board of Trade of this town held a meeting last evening in the council chamber. Probably owing to the inclemency of the weather, there was only a moderate attendance. The members of the Board present were, the President, Mr. Meldrum, the Secretary, Mr. Hampden Burnham, Messrs. Manson, Peplow, Dobbin, McWhinnie, Kingan, Winch, Macfarlane Wilson, McKee, Hurley, Ranney, Richard Winch, Matthews and Phelan.

MERCANTILE COMMITTEES' REPORT.

The meeting was called to order at 8 30 p.m., by Mr. Meldrum, chairman. The first business was the reception of the report of the Mercantile Committee. This was the report of the scheme that had been drawn up by the committee for the protection of merchants, etc., of the town, against parties who being indebted to them, give great difficulty in the collection of the accounts.

The report was read by the Secretary, the various provisions being left open for discussion.

SYNOPSIS OF THE REPORT.

The report provided for the establishment of an association for the town and county of Peterborough, the membership to be limited to members of the Board of Trade. It would be a kind of collecting agency.

The report also provided for the appointment of an active officer, to whom members of the association will report names of parties owing accounts and who refuse or neglect to pay the same. The said officer will at once notify parties to affect settlement within a given time, failing which, their names will be placed on the register of the association, the member of which will thus be in a position to discriminate when asked for credit.

Bulletins will be issued to members at intervals of two weeks, giving particulars of cases reported since the previous bulletin.

Moved by Mr. Peplow, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the report be received.—Carried.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The Board then proceeded to consider the proposed rules and regulations drawn up by the committee for the guidance of the association. They were taken seriatim and thoroughly discussed by the Board as a whole, finally being adopted with some slight alterations.

NEW MEMBERS ELECTED.

The following were then elected members of the Board:—Messrs. Alex. Gibson, Chas. Logue, E B. Locke.

A committee was appointed to issue a circular to the business men explaining the regulations of the new association, and to consult them as to membership. The association will be set running at once. The unanimous opinion of the meeting was that its success is assured on its merits.

Purify the blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditted and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

The meeting to be held at the town council chambers on Wednesday next at 10 a.m., is likely to be a great success. Mr. Craig will give the results of his observations at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, especially in testing hardy varieties. There was a very good attendance last evening at the entertainment given by the Band of Hope of the above church. The programme opened with a song by Miss Maudie Long, a little tot of about 6 years of age, which was sung very well, the Band of Hope children singing the chorus. Miss Tivey followed with a song after which Miss Armstrong rendered a reading in good style. The succeeding numbers were, another song by Miss Maudie Long, and a song by Miss Lilly Jackson. Then Mr. R. Roy gave a lecture on "a trip around the world," which was illustrated by lantern views. The lecture was a very interesting one, and was listened to most attentively throughout. A very pleasant and instructive evening's entertainment was concluded with a chorus sung by the Band of Hope, and God save the Queen.

A fig for the sneezin'! hurrah for the freesin'!
This day we're to play the Bonspiel on the loch!
Then get up, my auld leddy, the breakfast get ready,
For the sun on the snowdrifts' beginning to blink;
Gie me bannocks or brochan, I am aff for the lochan,
To mak' the stanes flee to tee o' the rink!"

Chorus—Then hurrah for the curling from Girvan to Stirlin!
Hurrah for the lads o' the besom and stane!
"Ready noo"! "soop it up"! "clap a guard"! "steady noo"!
Oh! curlin' aboon every game stan's alane!

The ice it is splendid, it canna be mended—
Like a glass ye may glower on't and shave aff yer beard.
And see hoo they gather, comin' ower the brown heather,
The servant and master, the tenant and laird;
There's brave Jamie Fairlie, he's there late and early,
Better curlers than him or Tam Coan canna be.
Wi' the lads frae the Kilwinnin', they'll send the stanes spinnin'
Wi' a whirr and a curr till they sit rain' the tee.

Then hurrah, etc.

It's an unco like story that baith Whig and Tory,
Mauna aye collyshangle like dogs ower a barre.
And a' denominations are wanting in patience,
For nae Kirk will hole to let t'others alane;
But in fine frosty weather let a' meet thegither,
Wi' a broom in their hearn' and a stane by the tee,
And then by my certies, ye'll see hoo a' parties
Like brithers will love and like brithers agree.

Then hurrah, etc.

Close of the Special Meetings—Another Distinguished Officer Coming.

The concluding meeting conducted by Colonel McKie, was held last night in the barracks. Previous to the meeting an illuminated march was held, led by the band, in which a large number took part, not being in any way deterred by the severe weather. A large crowd gathered in the barracks to hear the farewell address which was one of the Colonel's most vivacious and eloquent. His stay in Peterborough, short as it was, has apparently borne good fruit, many having testified to a desire to become Christians.

Another stirring time may be expected in the ranks of the local corps in a few days, when a visit is expected from Staff-Captain Cox. This officer is a lady of wonderful eloquence and has had considerable experience in Salvation Army rescue work.

Good Deeds Done.

The good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever-increasing esteem by the public would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying. dw

A Letter From Mrs. Ough.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Please permit me to refer briefly to a report taken from a Chicago paper which appeared in your issue of January 14th of certain legal proceedings in Chicago in which my name is mentioned. I wish to say that I deny in the most emphatic and unqualified manner the statements reported to have been made in the Chicago court by Dr. Ough and another witness and that I am wholly and entirely innocent of all the charges which were there made against me and have never either directly or indirectly been guilty of any of the offences against morality and decency of which I am accused.

Dr. Ough's statement as to a certain confession which he says I made to him is absolutely false, while those who know the other person who was called as a witness will be very slow indeed to give credence to her evidence. During the time within which I am accused of improper conduct I was an invalid and Mr. Allen visited me only as my pastor, and I can conceive of nothing more infamous than that my illness and the calls which he made at my house in the discharge of his duty as a clergyman, should be taken advantage of and made the occasion of such a base accusation. The public may ask why it was that, being innocent, I did not defend the suit. My reply is that a law suit, especially in a foreign court, cannot be carried on without, at least, some money, and as I was entirely without means, I was compelled, much against my will, to allow the proceedings to go undefended. Had Dr. Ough but sent me during the last year the amount of money he says he did, I might have been able to prove him the offender instead of me. The people of Millbrook who have known us both for years, have almost, without exception, signed a statement declaring their belief in my innocence, while I have in my possession statutory declarations, made by persons who know the facts, and other evidences, which set up a complete defence to the action; but through lack of means, I have been unable to use the evidence at my disposal and am obliged to be satisfied with the knowledge that those who know me best and are acquainted with the facts of the case, believe me innocent.

I do not make this statement in order to parade my wrongs before the public eye; but as the whole matter has now become public property, I think I ought, in justice to very many friends who still believe me innocent, to deny, as emphatically as I can, the outrageous charges which have been made against me.

Thanking you for the privilege you have afforded me, I am,

Yours respectfully,
M. J. H. OUGH.

Letters of Junius.

For many years the authorship of the Letters of Junius was a mystery. There is nothing mysterious about the formula of that great remedy of nature—Paine's Celery Compound. All physicians know its component parts and admit all that is claimed for it. It is an infallible remedy for the sick and suffering.

PETERBOROUGH HEADQUARTERS, January 26th, 1892.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I have read with much interest and pleasure the various reports that have appeared in the columns of your valuable paper, and feel I cannot leave your midst without tendering my sincere thanks for your kindness. Trusting the Army may ever prove itself worthy of the same recognition.

Respectfully yours,
THOS. MCKIE.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER

By Edgar Fawcett.

"—orever," she replied, with one lifted hand waving him away. "You knew and you might have saved him! You might have saved him through me!" Her eyes blazed on Blagden for an instant and he saw her lip curl. "As if I, his loving wife," she went on, "would have let them say and think those hideous things had I only known!" Then her manner changed to one of intense sorrow, and tremulously iterating. "Had I only known: had I only known!" she passed from the sight of him who watched her and passed from his sight for the last time in Blagden's life.

Soon afterwards he quitted New York and his subsequent place of abode was never really known. Some people stated that he went to live in the Far West: others that he had returned to England and had resettled himself in the quiet village, not far from Leeds, where he was born. But the precise truth of his whereabouts never actually transpired.

Meanwhile the pangs of self-accusation were torturing Tallmadge Van Dyke. He would have realized clearly the cause of Justin Worcester's death, even if an interview with Helena had not disclosed it to him. But that interview was an ordeal of keenest torment, and after having held it he kept calling himself in thought a murderer thousands of times. The fever from which he had believed himself thoroughly to have recovered came back in a milder and intermittent form. It was one of those obstinate semi-nervous complaints which baffle the sharpest vigilance or science. Tallmadge was not again prostrated by it, but dreading such result he sought a physician of great eminence.

The judgment which he heard struck him as deplorably commonplace. "Your system is much run down, Mr. Van Dyke," the renowned medical grandee told him. "You need thorough change of air, and I should recommend a trip to Egypt, with an entire Winter passed on the Nile."

Tallmadge was about to consider this counsel seriously when Helena again summoned him. "You see," she said, as she gave him her hand. "I am infinitely better than when you met me last. But you"—and then she paused, regarding him with eyes that were two tender stars of pity.

"I am not well," murmured Tallmadge. "A touch of my old trouble has returned to me." As he spoke he was deeply moved by admiration of her renewed loveliness more interesting than of old because her never-to-be-forgotten bereavement had cast about her, as it were, a delicate and indefinable film of sadness, like that elusive haze which blends itself with the sunshine of some perfect Autumn day.

"No, my dear cousin," she said, "you surely need less gloomy companionship than mine."

"Your companionship is never gloomy," he replied, with a sombre sort of gallantry that she answered by a pathetic little smile.

"Ah!" Helena soon returned. "I meant to ask your advice, your aid on a very melancholy matter. I meant to ask"—and here she broke off with forlorn shakes of the head. "But, no; let us speak of yourself. Have you consulted any doctor of late, Tallmadge?"

"Yes," he said, absently. "This melancholy matter, Helena," he went on: "what is it?" A kind of morbid desperation drove him to pronounce these words. He cared neither for her formal and ordinary condolence with respect to his shattered health. That was all very well in its way, but it was not she. And Tallmadge, though racked by a sense of his own quiet, strongly yearned to hear Helena speak on some subject, any subject, which intimately concerned herself.

"I wanted to ask you," she began, after quite a long pause, "whether you do not think, Tallmadge, that I can possibly find out the author of that anonymous letter?"

He felt his heart stand still for a moment. "What," he managed to respond, "would be your motive in making a discovery like that?"

Her soft eyes flashed and he saw both her hands quietly clench themselves. "I should so love to punish him. There's a law against that sort of dastardly thing, or so they tell me."

"There is a law against it; yes."

"Oh, Tallmadge!" she hurried; "I often feel it is not mere revenge that makes me wish to visit the law on such a being. It's—it's loyalty to the dead man whom that vile action slew. Think! if some one whom you loved very dearly had been killed by——"

But he rose then, and in a few difficult words told her that he must terminate this visit quite abruptly, that he was more unwell than he had supposed himself, that he would at once repair to the carriage which waited him outside.

She followed him, profuse in her eager compassion, to the very door of the carriage. If he were not better quite soon, she told him she would go to him, sit with him, read to him, do any little pleasant act he might desire of her. Why not? Were they not cousins? The world had said hatefully hard things of her, but she surely had the right to visit her own relatives when they were ill. "Besides," she added, pressing his hand, "you are orphaned like myself, Tallmadge, and have no kindred nearer than I."

The answer that he gave almost strangled him as he spoke it. He forgot what it had been, even while he flung himself back upon the cushions of the moving carriage.

Once at home again, he half resolved upon suicide. Then, in the midst of all his passionate condition, her image rose before him, radiant with its resuscitated beauty. Suppose, when a certain length of time had lapsed, she should forget Justin's cruel death! And after all, had he not been the meanest madman to let a flimsy sheet of paper send him to his death?

In spite of all his spiritual torment, Tallmadge could not refrain from the cherishing of a certain hope. This hope gave him a new incentive towards perfect recovery. The Winter was now beginning to set in. What if he escaped its rigors and spent several months in Florida instead of Egypt? About the idea of Florida there was a certain nearness to Helena. He would start off without again seeing her, and in the early Spring he would return. By this time a good interval would have separated her from the savagery of her affliction, and by that time his own aching conscience might have ceased to deal him these poignant qualms.

He made his resolve that day and started soon afterward. But a stay of four months (during which Helena wrote him six or seven precious and warmly fond letters) left his health still in the most uncertain state. All physicians whom he consulted—and Florida is not without good ones—told him that his nervous system was in a curiously unstrung condition. They could not cure his fits of insomnia and depression, and the only thing that they seemed capable of doing was to stave off by their drugs and their hygienic suggestions the old lurking fever, that seemed always in ambush, like a foe that watches for fresh chances of onslaught.

CHAPTER III.

By April he returned to New York, looking somewhat better. Helena, hearing that he was home again, came at once to his residence. Her pity for him was characteristic of her gentle soul. "I insist upon still treating you as an invalid," she said, "and coming to see you while these raw spring days last. You have not quite the same look that you had when you went away. Evidently you are mending."

"Be careful not to forget me," came his warning, as she was about to depart. "If you do, I shall breast icy blasts in seeking your fireside."

"Oh, I'll not forget you," replied Helena, and she kept her word. This kinsman of hers was about the only living person just now for whom she cared with any real depth and tenderness. For years she had believed him the soul of honor; always she had personally liked him, and the menace of death which at present seemed to overshadow him woke in her heart thrills of feeling, full of dreamy self-amazement.

"You must not talk so much about me and the possibilities of my getting well," Tallmadge said to her during the next visit she paid him. "Speak more of yourself, Helena. Are you happier than you were?"

"Do you mean more peaceful in spirit?" she asked.

"Yes, for those who are peaceful in spirit are surely happy."

"Well," she slowly answered, "I do feel as if a certain refreshing calm had descended upon me."

"Then that desire of yours has passed?" he quickly questioned.

"What desire?" she asked. And then, as if remembering, "Ah, the wish to punish him who wrote that vile letter?" A smile full of pain flickered across her lips. "I try not to be vengeful," she said. "I pray not to be. Often I think the praying helps me. That is all." Then, after a slight pause, she added, "But it is hard."

"What is hard?" he enquired suddenly.

"That this creature should be living in security, perhaps in exultation, somewhere not far away. But there's a worse thought than even that."

"Well, what is it?"

"That among the few people I meet nowadays he or she may be one of those with whom I innocently converse, whose hand I take, on whom I smile and who smiles back on me. Oh, no, no," she cried in agitated self-interruption, "I won't think of it, Tallmadge, its too distressing. I've promised myself to tear all these ideas and imaginings from my mind and heart. It's so much better simply to tell oneself that what's done is done and that thirsting for vengeance is just as futile as unwise."

Tallmadge made no direct answer; he had not the courage to make one, and it occurred to him, after Helena flitted away, that he had permitted the whole prized interview to end in weightless trivialities.

That night he slept horribly, and on the following day felt so ill that he sent for his physician.

"There is some mental trouble worrying on you," said his practitioner, who was also his friend.

"No, none," replied Tallmadge, feeling the force of his lie while he spoke it. That night he was obliged to take to his bed, and the old fever whose seeds were in his system, gave strong symptoms of return.

The next afternoon Helena came to him. She was visibly worried by his new overthrow. The fever made Tallmadge bold. "I shall never get thoroughly well," he said to her, "until you consent to be my wife." She started painfully and drew backward several steps from his bedside.

"I see," he persisted. "You think me out of my head, Helena."

"No, no," she murmured.

"Your father wanted us to marry one another," he pursued. "You remember that."

"Yes, yes, Tallmadge; I remember."

"Helena," he exclaimed, lifting himself on the pillow. "I loved you before Justin Worcester ever saw you. Is there no hope for me? My whole life, if I recovered and you married me, would be one devout and intense expiation!"

"Expiation!" she said, wonderingly, and then the thought came to her that he was really out of his head, which may have been partially true, since his malady was now growing apace.

Moved by a sudden impulse, she bent down and kissed him on the forehead. "I'm very fond of you," she said, and meant it. She could never love any man again as she had loved her dead husband, but the magnitude of her pity for this man blent with the regard which she had already felt for him, made her abruptly yet firmly confident that one future day might unite them in marriage.

A sense of absolute ecstasy beset Tallmadge. He closed his eyes under the stress of it, and let his head sink backward. When he rose and looked about him again the room was vacant.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.98
Increase over previous year	2,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,886.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.25
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,282.63
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,234.07
" " " " 1886,	99,493.97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175.69

Harvey and North Smith Sunday School Convention.

MORNING SESSION.

The Harvey and North Smith Sabbath School Convention was held in the Methodist Church, Lakehurst, on Friday, the 15th inst., W. H. Merril in the chair. The convention was called to order at 10.15 a.m. After opening exercises the first subject taken up was the "United Children's Service," which was conducted by Rev. J. McEwen. The lesson chosen was the rejection of Saul and choice of David as king of Israel. The object of the lesson seemed to be to show the advantage of using simple language within the knowledge of the children, and that the teaching should be pointed and definite and bearing directly on the formation of character.

He was followed by W. H. Merrill in an exhortation on "Sabbath schools, their origin, their aim and place in the church.

After singing by the Chemong choir, Mr. Merril and Rev. J. McEwen named the following gentlemen as a committee to nominate the officers for ensuing year Rev. G. H. Raley, and Messrs. Merril, Craft, Hiscott, Brock and Mr. J. R. Roberts, from South Smith. An adjournment was then made for noon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The convention was called to order by Mr. Merril at 2.15 p.m. After devotional exercises, the nominating committee brought in the following report, which was adopted by the convention—For president Mr. Merril, vice-president Rev. G. H. Raley, secretary and treasurer A E Kennedy, committee Messrs. Craft, Hiscott and Brock.

"The Duties of Sabbath School Teachers" was introduced by Mr. Crafts, who urged the necessity of thorough and systematic study, consistency of example and devotion to the work. The Rev. J. McEwen emphasized the necessity of punctuality and regularity on the part of teachers and officers and perfect order on the part of all.

"Teachers' Training" was fully and effectively dealt with by Rev. J. McEwen. He considered a good black-board a necessary adjunct to every Sabbath school, as by its use the mind would be impressed through the eye as well as the ear, and thereby greater interest would be aroused and better work done.

"How to Retain the Senior Scholars" was introduced by Mr. Walroth. He would adopt a system of prizes, visiting the scholars, setting them to work, and showing them you sympathize with them, etc. He was followed by Rev. J. McEwen and Mr. Ventress. It being after 5 o'clock an adjournment was made for tea.

EVENING SESSION.

The convention was again called to order by the president at 7 p.m. In the absence of Rev. Mr. Houck, Mr. J. R. Roberts took his subject, "The Teacher's Influence." He dwelt on the responsibility of parents as well as teachers, the necessity of sympathy and a spirit of confidence being cultivated between parent and their children; the teacher's reward, his method of imparting instruction, the necessity for cheerfulness, and the importance of the old as well as the young attending Sunday school.

"Methods of Teaching" was introduced by A. E. Kennedy, followed by Mr. Hiscott.

"The Teacher's Reward," by Rev. G. H. Raley, followed. The reverend gentleman impressed upon them the necessity for consecration on the part of all teachers and officers—the power of a good example, the teachers' work being carried to different parts of the world by his scholars, he thus becoming the means of spreading the Gospel. The children of to-day are the men and women of the future. He is in good company. The best men of all ages and climates, have been or are engaged in Sabbath School work. The faithful teacher is abundantly rewarded in seeing his teaching reflected in the lives of his scholars Christ is a good Pay Master, and the reward is sure and eternal.

Verbal reports were submitted from all the schools within the convention bounds, showing all to be healthy and progressive—well supplied with papers and lesson helps, and with one exception open the whole year.

The proceedings of the convention were enlivened by the beautiful singing of Miss Long, of Toronto, and Chemong Indian choir. Hearty votes of thanks were tendered to the good people around Lakehurst for their bountiful hospitality, to the trustees for the use of the church, to the singers, and all who had contributed to the success of the convention. The collections amounted to $2.53. Thus a very interesting and live convention was brought to a close about 9 30 p.m.

Sec.-treas.

Always the Favourite.

It is well to remember that dyspepsia, indigestion, weak stomach and irregularity of the bowels are soon corrected when Paine's Celery Compound is used. When once tried it immediately becomes the favourite remedy.

Coming Events.

Coming Consumption is foreshadowed by a hacking cough, night sweats, pains in the chest, etc. Arrest its progress at once by taking Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which never fails to cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, hoarseness etc., and even in confirmed consumption affords great relief. dw

Bernard Delisle, Gladstonian candidate for Parliament in the Wirral district of Cheshire, descended into one of the large collieries there last night, and, after shaking hands with all the miners, spoke to them half an hour on the labor question and was heartily cheered.

Arrangements have been made by the Unionist Alliance to contest at least ten Irish seats at the forthcoming general election, among the selected constituencies being North County Dublin, North Mayo, West Mayo and West Kerry.

The strong man, "Samson," has sailed hurriedly for America by the Majestic after borrowing $1600 from Mrs. Bernstein a young married woman who fell in love with him. Meanwhile her husband has brought suit for divorce. There are several co-respondents named, but "Samson" is the strongest among them.

Boutquin, the Belgian executioner, died yesterday of influenza. Owing to the refusal of the present King ever to sanction capital punishment Boutiquin never chopped off anybody's head. His sole official duty consisted in planting a pole in front of the Town Hall from time to time, placing on it a placard announcing that the capital sentence had been pronounced against some criminal, but which was never carried out. For this sinecure Boutquin received 3000 francs annually. He lived in peace, cultivating cabbages.

Conference of the Commissioners at Washington—The Arbitrators Decided Upon.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The Secretary of State has arranged with the British Minister for a conference at Washington between the commissioners representing Great Britain and the United States who visited Alaska last summer for the purpose of obtaining definite information in regard to the seal fisheries. This conference is understood to be merely preliminary to the formal submission of the Behring Sea question to arbitration.

The basis of arbitration and the personnel of the arbitrators have been practically settled, but no official announcement on the subject will be made for some time yet. It is generally understood that Hon. E. J. Phelps of Vermont will be one of the arbitrators.

Archbishop Langevin Dead.

FATHER POINT, Que., Jan. 27.—Archbishop Langevin, brother of Sir Hector Langevin, died last night after an illness of only 12 hours' duration. The deceased prelate was aged 71. He was the first bishop of the Rimouski diocese and his life work was here enacted. Two years ago he resigned his See and was thereupon appointed Archbishop of Leontopolis in partibus infidelium. The remains will be interred in the cathedral at Rimouski.

Foul Play Suspected.

CHATHAM, Jan. 27.—An inquest was held by Dr. Bray on the body of Mrs. John Weeks, wife of a colored laborer, North Chatham. The deceased came to her death very suddenly early on Saturday morning. The post mortem disclosed the fact that death was the result of enlargement of the heart.

Escaped from Toronto Asylum.

DETROIT, Jan. 27.—Albert Long, about 40 years old, escaped from Toronto Insane Asylum several days ago. He drifted to Detroit and appeared at the house of John Madison, Sixteenth-street, last night. His appearance was so uncanny that Mr. Madison's young daughter was frightened into spasms. Mr. Madison got Long out of the house and turned him over to an officer. He will probably be sent to the Wayne Asylum.

Joked on Eternity's Threshold.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 27.—At Pleasantville Miss Lucy Logan, a young school teacher, slept with a friend and then joked and laughed a greater part of the night. In the morning, in assisting her from the bed, she suddenly expired in the arms of her friend. Death was caused by heart failure.

Run Down By a Locomotive.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 27.—Daniel Durham of Cainsville was crossing the B. & L.H. track near Brantford, when his democrat was struck by a train. One of the horses was killed, but Durham escaped with a fractured arm and severe cuts on the head.

From Stage to Pulpit.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—A sensation has been created in theatrical circles here by the announcement that George Hanlon of the Hanlon Brothers, producers of spectacular pantomime, has deserted the theatrical profession for the pulpit. William Hanlon, now here, has received a letter from George saying that he has determined to devote the remainder of his life and his means to religious works.

Dropped Dead on the Bench.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 27.—Judge Manning F. Knapp of the New Jersey Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Hudson county Circuit Court dropped dead Tuesday afternoon while delivering a charge to the grand jury at the Court House. The judge was referring to the violation of the law by the Hoboken theatre proprietors in giving Sunday performances when he suddenly expired.

A Faithless Lover.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 27.—Unless a compromise is arranged in the course of the next few days, an interesting breach of promise of marriage suit will come before the court at the spring assizes. A good-looking young lady, daughter of a well-known farmer, recently deceased, sues a young farmer, living with his father in the neighborhood of Mount Vernon, for $2000 for breach of promise of marriage.

Three Lawyers May Not Save Him.

ALBANY, Jan. 27.—William Woods of Toronto, Canada, indicted for importing women into the state for immoral purposes, was placed on trial. Woods was defended by three lawyers and the District Attorney and his assistant looked after the people's interests. No witnesses were sworn yesterday.

The Count Opens Out on His Enemies in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Jan. 27.—Hon. Mr. Mercier spoke in St. Peter's Hall last night before a crowded house.

"Politics nowadays are getting somewhat irksome," said Mr. Mercier. "You have seen lately the constitution for which many of our countrymen shed their blood assailed most audaciously by a man whose name has always been honored until now. Political blindness is the worst of all from a high representative."

Speaking of the Royal Commission he said he appeared before his judges, of whom two were his executioners. "You remember when the commissioners went to Spencerwood on the memorable afternoon. It was there that my downfall was plotted. You remember also, when the commissioners came down from Montreal, Mr. DeBoucherville, my successor, accompanied them as far as St. Anne. Very well then, a few hours after I received from His Honor my dismissal a telephone message was transmitted to me from St. Anne to the effect that Mr. DeBoucherville had been apprised of my dismissal and of his nomination to the head of the present government. Now, gentlemen, this is how the plot was concocted against all laws of decency.

"But God, in whom I trust, will soon avenge me." [Cries of yes.]

Mr. Mercier continued: "However, not satisfied with having executed me the conspirators said: 'Let us find some more scandals about Mercier, let us kill him over again.' [Laughter.] They then ransacked all the departments, but they found nothing worth noticing."

Mr. Mercier then spoke of his voyage to France, the country of his ancestors and the founders of Canada. "Wherever I went, gentlemen, in that ravishing country of our forefathers, I was proud of speaking of the Province of Quebec. I was happy when acclaimed by the French people, for I knew that it was the Province of Quebec which was thus greeted. I came back and I was assailed with the bitterest accusations from my enemies; even some of our followers thought that the time had come to give us the last kick, but never fear, we are not dead yet! [Cheers.] By and by we will crush the tyrants, great and small, and the national standard will again re-enter the sanctum of Parliament from where it was unconstitutionally taken down. [Cheers.]

"As for our future politics I cannot give you now the least glimpse, but you may rest assured that we will not vary from the progressive policy which we inaugurated in 1885." [Cheers.]

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—Politics here took a lull until to-day when the near approach of the sitting of the royal commission in Montreal has again started tongues wagging. It is understood that the session here will be a short one, and on its conclusion the commissioners will present a supplementary report.

The aspect of affairs is changing directly against Mercier. The cures of St. Rose, Boucherville and Lougueuil, all old friends of the ex-Premier, have declared against him, and are advising their congregations to defeat him at the polls. There is every indication that the bishops next Sunday will launch their thunderbolts against the Mercierites all over the province.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau and Mrs. Chapleau are at the St. Lawrence Hall, and will leave for the south this morning. He was sworn in as Minister of Customs last night at the residence of Sir Joseph Hickson, Mr. McGee, clerk of Executive Council, acting as the Governor-General's deputy for the occasion. The Grand Trunk has placed a special car at Mr. Chapleau's disposal.

It will be remembered that the Montreal and Sorel Railway received a large subsidy from the Provincial Government some years ago. Among the many unique accounts sent into the railway company was the following, which speaks for itself:

LONGUEUIL, July 1, 1887.

Montreal & Sorel Railway Company, Dr., to Rouillard & Co., Printe s and Proprietors of L'Impartial:

Seven trips to Quebec	$ 700
Three trips from Longueuil to Sorel	150
Three trips to St. Joseph and speech to obtain municipal subsidies	100
Five trips from Sorel to Montreal	125
Printing the rules of the several municipalities and publishing notices	300
127 columns in L'Impartial, L'Hochelaga and LaPatriote	6350
10,000 copies of the above papers,	200
Telegraphing stamps, etc.	71
Total	$7996

Among the items which have increased most wonderfully under the Mercier regime is the cost of running the provincial police. In 1882 to 1887, the cost was $22,992.55; 1887 to 1891, $37,156 47. The total disbursements in this department from 1882 to 1887 was $37,362,02, and from 1887 to 1891 it was $80,487.61, or an increase of almost threefold.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have it in disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I need of them was $6 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200 00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

DENNIS DOWNING, Waterbury, Vt.

A WOMAN'S SACRIFICE.

A Canadian Girl Will Marry a Convict to Save Him from Punishment

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—On the night of Jan. 10 Detectives Rall and Ryan caught two thieves breaking into a show case at Washington and Myrtle-avenues. The men scampered off, but were captured. One was Laurence O'Toole, 25, of No. 53 Johnson-street.

When the case was called to-day two friends of the prisoner told the judge that O'Toole wanted to reform and give up his wayward career and marry a young woman who was in love with him. The young woman was Julia Dempsey, the daughter of a well-to-do grocer of St. John's, Newfoundland. She had become acquainted with him while on a visit to Brooklyn and was captivated by him. Hearing of his last trouble she had determined to come to Brooklyn and marry him if his release could be secured.

Judge Walsh questioned the young woman closely and her answers seemed satisfactory. She said she had just come from St. John's and desired to marry O'Toole. She believed he was a good man at heart and would reform if he got a chance. Addressing the prisoner, His Honor asked him if he appreciated "the sacrifice this girl is ready to make for you?"

"I appreciate it thoroughly," said the prisoner.

His Honor then paroled the prisoner, but said it was on condition that he marry the girl and get out of Brooklyn.

O'Toole said he would carry out the agreement and leave Brooklyn, and the party left the court happy. O'Toole is about 25. He is an ex-convict, having served five years for highway robbery. He has been out of the penitentiary four months. Some time ago he stabbed a man in a fight. When arrested for his last offence he was living with a woman in Johnson-street.

EACH CAR ITS OWN MOTOR.

Railroad Trains Will Be Run by Electricity.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 28.—A commission of nine railroad experts has been investigating here the subject of electrical transportation as applied to railroads. The commission represented the Northern Pacific, Wisconsin Central and other roads. The members visited the Edison works, the Thompson-Houston works at Lynn, Mass., and then spent two days at the Westinghouse works here. The result of their labors, which have been concluded, and the intentions of the railroads they represent were partially revealed by Chief Engineer Machesy of the Northern Pacific. He said: "I believe that the motive power will be applied directly to the axles of each car, thus making each car its own motor. Experiments are to be proceeded with at once. They will take place at the various works, and much of the cost will be borne by the railroads. I do not see why electricity should not displace locomotives, especially over steep grades. The question which will be most difficult of disposal will be the transmission of the current and the obtaining of equal conductivity in the wires."

Cleveland's Minstrels Disband.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 28.—After three weary weeks of poor houses, light receipts and steadily increasing liabilities the W. S. Cleveland Minstrel Combination disbanded yesterday at Fremont and the sheriff took charge of its property. The company has been in hard luck for several months, and the Nebraska circuit proved a "Jonah." A portion of the troupe is in this city almost penniless.

Dresden's Destructive Fire.

DRESDEN, Ont., Jan. 28.—The losses by last night's fire are estimated as follows: Mrs. Hazlett $1600, insurance $1200; Mrs. Mooney, building $1500, insurance $1000, household contents $400, insurance $400; Smith Bros., gents' furnishings, $5000, insurance $3000; E. Miller & Co., druggists, $7000, insurance $6000.

Truant Officer Dead.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—Louis Tasse, truant officer of separate schools, after returning from a meeting of the school board last evening, suddenly dropped dead. He was aged 73.

Von Moltke's Favorite Sister Dead.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Von Moltke's sister, Frau Broeker, has just died at the age of 84. The late Field Marshal was wont to refer to her in his letters as his favorite sister. Empress William sent a wreath to be laid on her coffin.

Dr. Carpenter Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Dr. Alfred Carpenter, the well-known English physician, died yesterday.

The Dowager Duchess Maximilian, mother of Duke Charles Theodore of Whittlesback, died at Munich.

Sir Oscar Moors Passey Clayton, extra surgeon in ordinary to the Prince of Wales, died to-day, aged 76 years.

The Duchess Ludivica of Bavaria, mother of Empress Isabel of Austria, who for some days past has been prostrated with pneumonia, died at Vienna to-day.

THE REPLY FROM CHILI.

IT SEEMS TO BE EVERY WAY SATISFACTORY.

Much Activity But No Mystery At Washington—Important Santiago Despatches—No Objections to the Southern Republic's Latest Proposition.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 28.—The Chilian situation has vastly improved. The situation is now bright and what prospect there was for war it is understood is now dispelled. The first cable message received by the President from Minister Egan was not in all respects satisfactory. It was lacking in fulness and there were many things in it requiring additional elucidation. Another and later despatch has now been received, and its contents are such as to leave nothing for Congress to do with regard to the President's message. It not only confirms all that has been said in the Associated Press despatches, but goes further and is couched in the most friendly terms. The charge of a hostile feeling on the part of Chili towards the United States is utterly denied. In effect, the dispatch received says "that the charge that Chilians entertain a feeling of enmity toward the United States, and to its flag and uniform, is utterly false. We well remember," it says, "the time when that flag and that uniform were in Chilian ports protecting us and aiding in our struggle for our independence," referring to the time, 25 years ago or more, when the Chilians were engaged in a war for independence.

The despatch then says that in order to show the friendly feeling entertained by the Chilians for the United States, and as an evidence of their desire to do all that is possible, they are willing to leave the affair to the United States Supreme Court.

The despatch was received yesterday afternoon, but as it is very long it may be that its translation was not completed until to-day. It comes from Senor Pereira, the Chilian Minister of Foreign Affairs. It is said to be clear and unequivocal. Nothing whatever is left of the Matta affair. For the Baltimore affair the most sincere regret is expressed, and the offer to refer it to the Supreme Court is said to be more than a proposition for a settlement. It is made as an illustration of the friendly feeling of the Chilians towards the United States by showing their willingness to leave the matter to our courts for settlement. The expressions of cordiality towards this country are profuse. It is said that the whole tone of the document is apparently so sincere, friendly and manly and leaves the matter in such shape that it is hardly possible to fail to bring the two countries closer together and result in an amicable adjustment of the whole difficulty.

The Trouble At An End.

"The Chilian trouble is at an end," said Mr. Blount, the chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, to an Associated Press correspondent. "The bottom has dropped out of the whole thing. Mr. Blaine is elated over the termination of the trouble in so satisfactory a manner."

The manner of Mr. Blount showed the pleasure he felt at the news communicated to him by Secretary Blaine with authority to him (Blount) to repeat it to such persons as he saw fit to make it known to.

The Source of Its Scoops.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—During the time of the cruiser Baltimore lying in the harbor of Valparaiso the chief executive officer of the cruiser was in the habit of sending daily press despatches to a New York newspaper.

Commander Schley was made acquainted with the fact and suspended the officer for 10 days and ordered him to his quarters. Commander Schley has been summoned from San Francisco to appear before the Secretary of the Navy in relation to the matter.

The Duty on Barley.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Representative Lockwood had an interview yesterday with some of the members of the Ways and Means Committee in relation to his bill to reduce the duty on barley to 10 cents per buahel. He was informed that the committee intends to have no formal hearing, but that it will pay due attention to the suggestions which may be submitted from parties most interested.

To Buy the House Where Grant Died.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Senator Hiscock introduced yesterday a bill of a good deal of local as well as of general interest, authorizing the purchase by the Government of the house at Mount McGregor, near Saratoga, in which General Grant died. The property is to be used as a National Soldiers' home.

Agriculture and the McKinley Act.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The Committee on Agriculture yesterday authorized a favorable report on Representative McKinley's resolution authorizing it to investigate the effect upon the prices of agricultural products of the McKinley Tariff Act.

Whitelaw Reid Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The report that Whitelaw Reid has resigned as Minister to France was confirmed by the State Department yesterday, business reasons being assigned as the cause.

A Canadian's Sudden Death.

OSWEGO, N.Y., Jan. 28.—Hugh McGinn, aged 49, who came here from Kingston, Ont., and has been engaged at various times in sailing on the lake and working about the docks, dropped dead yesterday from apoplexy.

A St. Catharines Hotel Man Dead.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 28.—E. Russell Warner, one of the oldest hotel proprietors of the country, died suddenly at the Crawford House of pneumonia yesterday morning, aged 59 years. He came to Windsor New Year's Day. Mr. Warner was paymaster of the B. & O. Railroad before the war, and after serving in the Confederate army took the management of the Hygeia House at Fortress Monroe, after which he purchased the Stanton House at Chattanooga and subsequently ran the McLure House at Wheeling, W. Va., the Arlington at Toronto and for the past few years has been proprietor of the Stephenson, a summer hotel at St. Catharines.

A Brave Belgian Dies.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 28.—News has just reached here of the pathetic and simultaneous death at Pau of General Baron Chazal at the age of 84 and of his wife at the age of 81. General Chazal was one of Belgium's heroes. He headed in 1830 the Belgians who conquered the independence of their country from the Dutch. Of late years he and his wife have spent every winter at Pau.

PRESTON AND HAGGART MEET AT KINGSTON.

The Quebec Royal Comission to Re-Open at Montreal To-Day—Liberal Conservatives of Monck Nominate a Candidate—General Political News.

MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—The Royal Commission commences its Montreal session in the court house this morning at 10 o'clock. The Appeal Court room, as the largest, has been chosen, as it is expected the attendance will be large.

There are rumors of more scandals from Quebec, but they must be tremendous in character to attract any particular attention.

After the Premier had signified his willingness to meet his predecessor in debate if he were allowed the company of his friends, the other Ministers, Mercier replied as follows:

QUEBEC, Jan. 25, 1892.

Hon. Charles DeBoucherville, Prime Minister, Quebec:

SIR,—I regret that you seek pretexts to avoid accepting my invitation to assist at the two meetings at Ste. Sauveur to-morrow and St. Claire on Thursday. These pretexts are unworthy of a First Minister who has accepted the responsibility of the dismissal from office of his predecessor and has himself fixed the date of the general elections. When one does such things one should be ready to fight, even when one is a senator and a legislative councillor. You decline the contest this time and leave to others the dangers. That is your business, but let me tell you that you do not show much courage. You challenge me for the 2nd of February next at Ste. Anne de la Perade. As I am neither grand seigneur nor senator, nor legislative councillor, I accept. But as there is not at Ste. Anne a public hall large enough for such a meeting, and as the season of the year is not favorable for an open air debate, would you be kind enough to limit the discussion to our two selves so as not to keep hearers and speakers too long waiting. I am, then, at your disposal for the second of February at Ste. Anne de la Perade. The affair will be between you and me. I am pleased to learn that Grand Seigneur though you are, you will condescend to discussion with the child of the people.

I am, etc., HONORE MERCIER.

Varsity Boys Sing Choruses.

KINGSTON, Jan. 28.—A lively election meeting was held last night, when Mr. Preston stated in the presence of Hon. Mr. Haggart charges that had been made against him in the House of Commons, that he had had complicity in fraudulent transactions in connection with section "B" of the C.P.R.

Hon. Mr. Haggart denied the charges and said that if any paper formulated and published them he would enter an action for libel against that journal.

Lively speeches were made by Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, J. J. Curran, Q.C., and J. H. Metcalfe. The students of Queen's College occupied the room aisles and made the proceedings lively with rollicking choruses.

Mr. Boyle Nominated in Monck.

WELLANDPORT, Ont., Jan. 28.—The Liberal-Conservatives of the county of Monck held a large and enthusiastic meeting in Wellandport yesterday. The outcome of the meeting was that Arthur Boyle, ex-M.P. of Dunnville, was the choice of the convention to contest the county at the coming bye-election.

Political Gossip.

Hon. John Carling is ill with bronchitis.

Speaker White is at Ottawa making arrangements for the meeting of Parliament.

Lincoln, Kingston and Halton bye-elections take place to-day.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau and Mrs. Chapleau left Montreal for the south last evening.

Hon. J. C. Patterson is to be banqueted at Windsor to celebrate his elevation to Cabinet rank.

All the Ministers are absent from the capital except the Premier, Sir A. P. Caron, Mr. Foster and Mr. Costigan. The Minister of Marine left this afternoon on a return trip to Nova Scotia and Mr. Dewdney has gone west. Sir John Thompson will return from the east to-day and immediately go to Western Ontario.

Crushed Under a Box of Coal.

LETHBRIDGE, Alberta, Jan. 28.—Bob Boskie, a miner who works in the drift, was found yesterday afternoon in his compartment lying under a full box of coal. It appears that he had filled his box and was about to let it down to where the horse is hitched on when he must have fallen in front of it. He will die.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney's Brother Shoots Himself.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 28.—Walter Dewdney, Provincial Government Agent and brother of Hon. E Dewdney, accidentally shot himself at Vernon, B.C., last night. He died instantly.

Prize for an Inaugural Poem or Song.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 28.—The Canfield Rubber Company in this city have offered a prize of $5000 for the best poem or song to be read or sung at the opening of the Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The contest is open to the world, and the prize is to be awarded by a committee selected by the World's Fair organization.

Grand Trunk Double Tracking.

HAMILTON, Jan. 28.—In reference to the report that the Grand Trunk Railway between Hamilton and Suspension Bridge would soon be double-tracked, Mr. Wallace of Superintendent Stiff's office said yesterday that no contracts had been let so far, but there was no doubt that another track would be laid down next summer between the two points. The double-tracking between Waterdown station and Toronto would also be completed by summer, Mr. Wallace said.

The Herchmer Commission.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28.—At the session of the Herchmer Commission yesterday, in order to shorten proceedings the judge said at the opening that he was satisfied that the telegram from the commissioner and memo. to Jarvis re the election influenced the men, but expressed no opinion as to whether the influence was improper or not.

Mr. Davin then declared that he would dispense with some witnesses.

Crushed to Death.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 28.—Frank Gilman, lumber operator of Bangor, Me., fell from a Canadian Pacific Railway train yesterday at Stone Ridge, between Gibson's and Woodstock, and was crushed to death by the cars. He was en route to Cardigan, York county, New Brunswick, where he had large operations in the woods.

South Dummer.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Please give me space to answer your Dummer correspondent of the 21st inst. This person thinks that the writer concerning the Xmas entertainment held in Zion church only told one side. Well, I think it is not so one-sided as the request that Miss P. Singleton may be brought out and her work shown forth. He gives your readers the impression that Miss Singleton was put in a corner, and others, who had not right to the position, were brought to the front. Now this is not true, as I gave Miss Singleton the preference as to the part she would take in the entertainment, and I think that was not putting her in a corner. Then also "True Church Member" asks who gave Mr. and Mrs. Batten charge of the singing. In reply to this inquiry, I would make another, namely, who has the privilege of appointing the organist and singers for the church and Sabbath school? If "True Church Member" wants the position, and as he or she seem anxious for glory of some kind or another, we will get our church trustees to award them this one. Until the position is given to them, I would request them to let me mind my own business unless I ask their worthy and honoured help in doing so. When this occurs I will give them due notice so as to be ready for their impertinent interference in my affairs. I think that every true Christian feels thankful to Mr. and Mrs. Batten, for the manner in which they conducted their part of the entertainment. But of course we do not expect ambitious writers who have to drive past the church on Sunday to see their publications in print to feel as if they had acted in this matter with a singleness of eye and a purity of heart. Now it seems to me just like the blind leading the blind, for one to find fault about something they could not do themselves. I do not think there is as much harm in the playing a trio or a duet in the church as there is in reading an insulting composition before an audience of intelligent people aiming at the most helpful members and adherents we have in our Zion community. Now I think it is the duty of church members to try to bring sinners to the fold, and not to drive members from the church by our hasty and unkind talk. I hope that your correspondent will feel satisfied in knowing that he or she had the appointing of our new organist. Believe me to be

Yours respectfully,
J. J. CROWE.

Women suffering from the ailments peculiar to their sex, and pale and sallow girls, may be speedily cured and be restored to a fresh blooming complexion by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. W. J. A Half Century's Success.

Marvellously rich in illustrations and text is the fiftieth anniversary number of the American Agriculturist for January. It contains no less than 143 illustrations engraved especially for it. Most of the leading authorities in American and foreign agriculture are among its contributors, including J. R. Dodge, the government statistician; President Berckmans of the American Pomological Society; T. V. Munson, the grape expert; Dr. Jenkins of the Connecticut Experimental Station; Geo. A. Martin, the authority on horses and cattle; A. B. Allen, the founder of the magazine; Henry Stewart, L. S. Hardin, Mildy Morgan, William Falconer, C. L. Allen, Prof. L. R. Taft, Prof. J. L. Babb, P. H. Jacobs, Dr. B. D. Halsted, Dr. H. W. Whey, Joseph Harris, George Ellwanger, Dr. C. V. Riley, Clarissa Potter, Jessie Benton Fremont and many others. It gives a remarkable statistical epitome of the present situation of American agriculture and the figures to show its apparently brilliant future. A comprehensive statistical review of the cotton trade and crop for fifty years and of our live stock and principal cereal crops is also given. The list is given of all the live stock breeders' associations of the world that preserve a registry for recording pedigrees, which is as complete for Europe as for the United States, and is alone worth many times the fifteen cents charged for a single copy, or $1.50 per year.

Mr. Premier Abbott's Methods.

A singular commentary upon Mr. Abbott's administrative methods is the fact that the two cabinet ministers against whom serious charges have been made, Messrs Haggart and Chapleau, have been promoted, while Mr. Bowell almost the only member in the cabinet whose personal integrity is generally acknowledged, has been degraded from the customs to the militia department.

Don't experiment with your health. You may be sure of the quality of your medicine, even if you have to take much of your food upon trust. Ask your druggist for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and no other. It is the standard blood-purifier, the most effective and economical.

Good Deeds Done.

The good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever-increasing esteem by the public would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying. dw

Pale, Weak Women need a tonic, strength giving flesh building medicine like Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dr. Low's Sulphur Soap is a delight shampoo. It cleanses the scalp and darkens grey hair.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does, it is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it, a sample bottle free, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and a dollar. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption. dw

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—168 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shock) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DEBILITY and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular System.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not allow this fight with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The New Canadian Monthly.

Canadians everywhere will be delighted with the new magazine, the Dominion Illustrated Monthly, the first issue of which has just reached us. The publishers in their prospectus declared their intention to make this new magazine, in its literary, artistic and mechanical features, a credit to Canada; and the initial numbers is a decided proof that they intend to keep their word. The Dominion Illustrated Monthly, with an artistic cover, presents a very handsome outward appearance; and the contents of this number, both in literary excellence and artistic illustration, will command the admiration of every reader. "The Raid from Beauséjour," by Chas. G. D. Roberts, begun in this issue, is a powerfully written story, with illustrations by Patterson, of the days when Abbe Le Loutre's infamous counsel raptne and bloodshed in the newly acquired British province of Nova Scotia. Rugby foot-ball during the last year or so has become the most popular of autumn games in Canada, and therefore the bright and full description of the game written for this number by R. Tait McKenzie, with about a dozen illustrations showing the field and various stages of the game, will delight every lover of athletics. "Hamilton's Raid on Vincennes," by Douglas Brymner, is a vivid description of an episode of the Revolutionary War; and Mr. Brymner's dispassionate and unanswerable marshalling of proofs clears the character of Hamilton from the aspersions of American writers, while it shows up some of the "fathers of the revolution" in anything but an enviable light. Miss A. M. McLeod, in "Beyond the Pentland Firth," gives a fine description of Kirkwall and other points in the Orkneys, combining Pictish, Roman, Norse and Scottish legend and story with modern scenery and conditions of life in the most fascinating manner. Duncan Campbell Scott contributes a quaint and interesting character study, styled "John Scantleberry," while Rev. Arthur John Lockhart (Pastor Felix), in the familiar "Red and Blue Pencil," delights his readers with one of these semi-confidential but wholly charming letters which have won for him a distinct place in Canadian literature. A splendid portrait of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale, with a sketch of his life; a delightful children's story by Miss Marjory MacMurchy; poems by Arthur Weir, B. M. Bayly, Helen Fairbairn and J. T. Burgess; "Modern Instances," by Prof. Roberts, and Book Reviews, by the editor, complete this brilliant number. It is splendidly illustrated throughout, and its distinctively Canadian character is a strong feature and ensures a hearty welcome from the public. The number is accompanied by a beautiful coloured supplement, "The Cobbler's Shop," from the painting by Van Haanan. (A supplement is issued with every number, and will prove a most attractive feature). $1.50 per annum. The Sabiston Litho. and Pub. Co, Montreal.

What Taxes we Pay.

If consumers could only be made to realize the extent to which they are plundered of their honest earnings by the paternal government, they would vote for the party whose policy it is to cheapen the necessaries of life as well as the innocent luxuries. Mr. Charles Schmidt, of Hamilton, the other day imported some mustard which cost him $5. The packages cost him 75 cents. The duty and entry cost $6.80—or 118 per cent. on the cost of the goods and the package. Mustard is not the only commodity doubled in price in order that there shall be plenty of funds at Ottawa for the Connollys and the McGreevys.

Have Given Strong Testimony!

Amongst the many prominent people of Canada who have testified in favour of Harvard Bronchial Syrup are well known ministers of the various denominations. Public speakers and members of parliament have gladly added their testimony, as well as elocutionists and singers. Harvard Bronchial Syrup has, through grand work and prompt and honest results, gained the estimation of all classes who have suffered from sore throat, coughs, tickling sensations in the bronchial tubes, and enlargement of the tonsils. Professional speakers, readers and singers do not consider themselves fully protected and equipped in their vocations unless they are provided with a supply of the Harvard Bronchial Syrup.

Most of us are aware that the use of ale causes many ailings in society. Paine's Celery Compound, in all communities, will banish sickness and suffering, and bring to all homes joy, peace and true happiness.

Mr. Abbott May go West.

At the close of last session Mr. Abbott, Premier, promised some of his Ontario supporters that he would go west and "show himself." His arduous labors as cabinet-maker have prevented him from keeping that promise, but now that that great work is completed, it is announced that the premier will visit Toronto early in February and deliver an address to the faithful of that city. This will be his first public appearance since his selection as leader of the government.

To purify
Your blood
Use Hood's Sarsaparilla.

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of dandruff, and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Ayer's Hair Vigor, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Small Sugar-coated Burdock Pills do no gripe or sicken. They are mild and effectual.

In the town of Sokoloff a number of starving Russian peasants, who supposed that a certain priest was carrying some funds, planned to waylay him and take away the money. The conspirators carried their plans into execution, and after securing the booty they dragged the victim to the River Oka and flung him in. The priest was drowned.

All the hospitals of Paris are so crowded with patients, as a result of the epidemic of influenza, that there is no room for new sufferers, and the municipal authorities have been compelled to ask the government to permit the use of vacant barracks as temporary hospitals for the large number of affected persons seeking relief.

Virus taken from hares is being experimented with in France, and thus far it has been found to work equally well for the purpose of vaccination as virus taken from calves.

The effect which living at high altitudes has on the blood of animals has been recently investigated, and the results show that the proportion of oxygen in the blood of men and animals acclimatised there was the same as that of dwellers at lower levels.

The highest atmospheric pressure on record seems to be 31.73 inches, which occurred at Semipalatinski, on Dec. 16, 1877; and the lowest at any land station is quoted at 27.12 inches, which was recorded on the coast of Oriana, on Sept. 29, 1866. The difference of 4.6 in the two readings is probably the maximum range of the barometer ever observed on the earth's surface.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Licenses Question.

A meeting of the joint committee from the I.O.G.T., R. T. of T., and W. C. T. The work of obtaining signatures was reported to be progressing very favourably, and a large number of signatures have already been secured.

A Noted Lecturer.

Arrangements have been made in connection with the Charlotte street Methodist church and the Carswell Lodge, I. O. G. T., for a return visit from Mr. John B. Clarke, known as the "Boot Black Orator." Still Booming Business.

Although the holiday season is past and the majority of merchants are now quietly waiting for spring—gentle spring—every one of our readers will notice that J. J. Sheehy is still on the move. Mr. Sheehy has just closed the purchase of an exceedingly large shipment of white and grey cottons. The latter goods are already to be seen on his counters and are selling rapidly. On Saturday last Mr. Sheehy circulated on the market a rather novel advertisement. On a piece of grey cotton about 5 inches square were printed the following words. "19 yards of of this factory cotton for $1, at J. J. Sheehy's." The result was that over 800 yards left the store on that day. Now is the time to buy your factory cottons.

Died in British Columbia.

A telegram has been received announcing the death in New Westminster, British Columbia, of Mr. R. J. Armstrong, eldest brother of Mrs. J. Stratton, town, and a former well-known resident of Millbrook, where he carried on business for many years. About eight years ago the deceased gentleman, having two brothers in New Westminster, paid them a visit and liking the country well as a place of residence and field for business, settled there, removing his family a couple of years afterwards. There he has since remained doing a good business. His death which was somewhat sudden, was due to an attack of the prevailing epidemic. He was about 65 years of age, and when his nephew from Peterborough visited him last summer he seemed to be in robust health, and he expected to spend the greater part of the present winter in this Province. He leaves behind him a wife, three daughters and two sons, besides his two brothers, Sheriff Armstrong and Mr. Joseph Armstrong, of New Westminster.

Police Court.

Inspector Cochrane vs. Cavanagh.

TUESDAY, Jan. 26th.

This morning Mr. T. Cavanagh was charged with having sold liquor during prohibited hours, on Saturday, the 23rd inst. The information also stated that this was third offence against the License Act. Mr. A. P. Poussette appeared for the defendant, and Mr. R. E. Wood for the prosecution.

Constable McGinty gave evidence as to the serving of the subpœnas.

Before evidence was heard Mr. Poussette drew attention to the statement made in the information respecting this being the third offence. He contended that this was not the third offence in the meaning of the act. The previous two offences were alleged to have been committed on the 26th of May and 31st August, 1889, respectively. These were, therefore, not to be considered in this case, as they had been committed previous to the 1st May, 1891, when the present license year began. Each license year, he contended, should be considered separately, and to secure a forfeiture of any license three convictions must be made against a holder in one license year. The Act in no way recognized any previous license; each should stand alone. It was now over two years since defendant had been convicted for any offence against it. The true meaning of the Act was that three convictions must be committed in any license year to secure forfeiture.

Mr. WOOD said that if the Act had been intended to refer to any particular year it would have been very easy to have so framed it, and if it was intended to mean, as Mr. Poussette contended, it would have so stipulated. He compared it to the Larceny Act, under which any infraction of the law committed in previous years, no matter how far back, would be taken into consideration against an accused person. Under Mr. Poussette's interpretation of the Act, a man would be at liberty to offend every year just as far as the law would allow without losing his license. He saw no ground for changing the information.

The Magistrate quoted the law bearing on this point, which said that a third offence ipso facto forfeited the license. He could see nothing in the Act that said the three offences must be in any particular year, but they must be in the one municipality. He thought a man who would allow himself to be convicted twice without heeding the warning of each conviction, was unworthy to hold a license. He noted the objection, however.

Mr. POUSSETTE then asked for an enlargement of the case until Monday. This the magistrate did not allow, and said he would proceed at once with the case, the necessary witnesses being present.

FRANK LABONE was the first witness examined and he deposed that he was in Cavanagh's on the Saturday night mentioned in the charge. He admitted having helped to serve people in Cavanagh's wine cellar with drink, after 11 o'clock on the Saturday night. He had not served any beer, James Cavanagh had done that. He had only served what he called "Grape Wine," Could not say what particular kind of grape wine it was. He got it from the bar. He recognized nearly all the witnesses who were present in court as having been in the wine cellar after eleven o'clock on the Saturday night.

WALTER ROBERTSON said that he had spent the whole of the Saturday afternoon in Cavanagh's. He went home for tea about 5 30 p.m. and returned about 6.15 p.m. to the hotel. James Cavanagh had asked him to look after the outside door between the furnace room and the liquor cellar. He was only to let one gang in at a time. This was the only entrance to the said cellar, where the drinking was going on with the exception of the street door, which was kept fastened. He was asked to go in and take a drink. He went and saw a table with glasses on it, and took a drink of beer. He saw men going in for liquor, but could not see inside the cellar from where he was placed.

JAMES CAVANAGH said he went into the cellar about 8 o'clock on the night referred to, and stayed there serving drink to various people until about or after 11 o'clock. Both beer and whiskey were supplied and were paid for. He mentioned several who had been served with liquor, but could not remember who paid for it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Poussette—When he was asked for the drink he knew it was contrary to law to serve it after 7 o'clock. He had not been warned by his father about giving liquor after hours.

Mr. COCHRANE gave evidence as to the accused being a license holder. As Mr. Archie Moore has been charged with supplying the information, he wished to say that he was not the person who gave him the information upon which he had acted.

This closed the case for the prosecution.

Mr. POUSSETTE here said that the license should be produced in court, otherwise Mr. Cochrane's evidence was inadmissible, and no offence had been disclosed.

Mr. WOOD said this was a point that had not before been raised here. He was only proving facts, and quoted a statute to the effect that a certificate from the license inspector, and his evidence under oath, were all that was necessary.

Mr. POUSSETTE withdrew his objection after a certificate had been drawn up and signed by Mr. Cochrane, certifying to the accused being a license holder.

The MAGISTRATE, in giving judgment, repeated his former opinion that there was nothing in the Act that limited the three offences to any particular year. However, he would reserve judgment on this point until Monday, the 1st February. He also found the accused guilty of the present offence.

The "Boundary" Bridges.

A Deputation Appointed to Watch Legislation.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., waited upon the Road and Bridge Committee of the County Council yesterday and called their special attention to the legislation applied for by the County of Victoria in connection with a bill of whose introduction at the approaching session notice has been given. The object of the proposed bill is to transfer back to Peterborough county that portion of Harvey taken away from Peterborough by Victoria, and thrust upon Peterborough the responsibility of assisting to maintain bridges now wholly in the county of Victoria. He also called particular attention to the application from the township of Seymour, for legislation to make the Trent Narrows bridge a boundary bridge and thus put Peterborough county in for the cost of maintaining another bridge in another county. Mr. Stratton urged upon the committee the advisably of appointing a deputation of the council to act in conjunction with the representatives of the East and West Ridings in preventing the consummation of what may be justly regarded as an injustice to this county. Accordingly a committee, consisting of the Warden and Messrs. John Burnham, M.P., Sanderson, McAuley, Anderson, Moore, Moloney, Casement, the County Engineer and County Clerk, was appointed to act as a deputation in consonance with Mr. Stratton's suggestion.

Peterborough Goal.

Inspector's Report—A County Poor House or an Addition to the Goal Required.

The following report from the Inspector of Prisons, was submitted by Sheriff Hall to the county council this morning:—

PETERBOROUGH, 14th January, 1892.—I inspected the Peterborough goal on the 14th of January and found 27 prisoners in charge. No less than 17 of them had been committed as vagrants being destitute poor who had committed no crime and were only fit subjects for the care of an Industrial home or poor house.

One of two things will have to be done in providing for such cases, viz, a poor house will have to be provided by the county, in which case the government will contribute to the extent of one-fourth of the first cost of same; or a wing to the goal will require to be erected, the expense of which would have to be borne wholly by the county.

I cannot allow the corridors and cells of the goal to be occupied by the above named class of inmates, the whole of the accommodation being required for the proper classification and care of prisoners.

The sheriff is requested to call the attention of the county council to this matter at the earliest opportunity.

I found the goal building, corridors and cells in good order, clean and well kept.

The books were properly written up, and the general management of the goal good.

J. F. CHAMBERLAIN, Inspector.

A New Guide to Japan and China.

"Westward to the Far East" is the name of a neatly and tastefully fashioned little guide book, published by the general passenger department of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the convenience of those who are making, or who intend to make, the new and fashionable trip across the American continent, and on to Japan and China. The dress of the book is pretty and distinctly Japanese, and the matter within is written by one who evidently is familiar with the places mentioned, and the customs and observances described, and who writes with a kindly appreciation of the people and pleasures of Japan, as well as with an artist's love for the beautiful in nature. The book contains all that information concerning the daily wants of a traveller which tourists find so useful, as well as a vocabulary in English and Japanese of the principal words and phrases in use when shopping, sightseeing, &c. The guide can be procured gratuitously on application to any of the agents of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A Cabinet of Lawyers.

There are now eight lawyers in the Dominion cabinet, Mr. J. C. Patterson being the last member of the legal fraternity to secure a seat within the charmed circle. But possibly the new secretary of state may plead—as did a Chicago light to whose candidacy for office objection was taken by a farmer on account of his profession—that he is "not much of a lawyer."

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting factitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BRIGGS, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MORRER, 20 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

Visitor's Day at Prof. Macdonald's.

Yesterday afternoon a large number of parents and friends of the pupils attending Prof. Macdonald's dancing classes were present in the Queen's hall assembly rooms to witness the progress made during the past month. The children, whose ages range from three to sixteen years of age, showed wonderful proficiency; their walking drill, time and marching was perfect, and the professor was highly complimented on the success he had attained with his pupils. Some fancy dancing was given by the pupils, an addition which was much admired. It was a pretty sight to see so many children going through their exercises with so much skill and speaks volumes for the efficiency of Prof. Macdonald as a teacher of dancing. —Montreal Herald. Our County Council.

Deputation of Agricultural Directors Heard.

Wednesday afternoon a special session of the council was held to receive a deputation of the directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society, consisting of Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, president, Mr. Robert Vance, director, and Mr. Wm. Collins, secretary.

Mr. ELLIOTT referred to the grant made by the county council last June, which was conditional upon the town council of Peterborough granting the sum of $300. This the town had not done, but it had given $100, and citizens had contributed enough to make the total amount given by Peterborough about $400. But the county treasurer had not felt warranted in issuing a cheque for the county grant to the society, although, as Mr. Elliott showed twelve members had signed a document to the effect that the understanding was that the county grant was to be given if the town of Peterborough (not the corporation) gave $300. He went on to point out that a strong new directorate had been elected and that the opening of the street railway to the grounds would add to the accessibility of the grounds and increase the attendance, and the coming exhibition would be well worthy the liberal assistance which he (Mr. Elliott) hoped the council would give.

Mr. COLLINS further explained that the town declined to give $300 to the society, but subsequently gave $100. He suggested that as the county council gave nothing last year that a larger grant should be made this year. He further suggested that the grants to the riding societies should be made on the basis of the amount paid out in prizes. Last year West Peterborough Society paid out in prizes $1 273.75, while East Peterborough paid out $579.30 less, or $694 45. He also pointed out that the riding boundary, the river, did represent the proper boundary for exhibition purposes. He hoped the council would make a liberal grant.

Mr. ROBERT VANCE said that the request presented by the Messrs Elliott and Collins, was not without precedent. Other municipalities had liberally assisted societies in their bounds. A few days ago the council of the Township of Cavan had made a grant of $1,000 to the East Durham Agricultural Society.

Mr. FINLAY referring to a motion to send the request of the deputation to the Finance Committee, said that he thought it was a motion the whole council should vote on.

Mr. ELLIOTT added that the use the directors wished to make of the grant was to build a horse ring in the society's grounds instead of using the driving park ring.

Mr. ELMHIRST spoke briefly of the benefits the local exhibitions were to farmers living in the back country and he would therefore cheerfully support a reasonable grant. He had visited the local exhibitions and there were as good shows as any he ever saw. Such exhibitions were a great source of information to scores of farmers who could not attend the great exhibitions.

The application of the deputation was referred to the Finance Committee.

THURSDAY, Jan. 18th, 1892.

THE EAST RIDING'S CLAIMS PRESENTED.

This morning Mr. Frank Birdsall, president of the East Riding Agricultural Society, on his return from Toronto where he and Mr. Charles O'Reilly had formed part of a deputation to wait upon the Ontario government to solicit the granting of increased aid to agricultural societies, called at the county council chambers and was heard by the members of the council in reference to granting aid to the East Riding Society.

Mr. BIRDSALL said that on behalf of the society of which he was president, he had waited on the council to see if it were possible to secure his society's share of the conditional grant made to the East and West Riding societies, ($150). The society had not taken action in the matter before because they were arranging for additional grounds. They had now arranged for adding two acres to their present grounds, and they were desirous of getting the grant in order to assist in properly fitting them up. He referred to the fact that the riding societies apparently got a government grant of $700, but the fact was that after the share of minor societies was deducted, the actual amount received was reduced to $280. This was a small grant to a large exhibition, and was a very insufficient assistance to enable the directors to cope with the difficulties that they had to contend with in running a show—heavy expenses, some debt, etc., and he was sure the council would deal liberally with the society's appeal for assistance.

In answer to a question Mr. Birdsall said the present membership was 80, and that it had been 200 last year. He referred also to the fact that the West Riding Society took a large membership in the townships of Otonabee, Dnuro and part of Dummer from the district of the East Riding Society. The county was equally interested in the success of both exhibitions. The membership and importance of the East Riding Society was increasing; they needed more ground and sheds, and consequently more money to supply them. Besides, the society was largely dependent on good weather. A bad exhibition day would mean a loss of $1,000, which the directors would have to provide.

Mr. FORSTER, the warden, pointed out that the resolution of the council last year was hardly fair to the town, by asking them to make a grant equivalent to that made to the two societies, east and west.

Mr. CASEMENT said that if the exhibition were taken to Lakefield that that village would grant $300. This sum was too small—it should at least be $500. He was in favor of assisting the societies.

Mr. Birdsall closed his appeal by saying that both societies were doing good work, and if they hoped to be kept up they must be assisted by the county council.

Grand Foresters' Re-union.

An Extensive "At Home" in Preparation —In Honour of the Right Worthy High Chief Ranger.

Mr. H. Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R. of the Canadian Order of Foresters, has received an intimation that Mr. Edward Towe, R. W. H. C. R. of the order will pay an official visit to the three different courts of the order in Peterborough about the 24th of February. Accordingly, in order to arrange a fitting form of reception to this high officer, a meeting of joint committees of the three local courts was held in the rooms of Court Peterborough last night. It was decided that the reception to the High Chief Ranger should take the form of an "At Home," to be held in the Opera House, the court rooms being too small to entertain the large number of guests it expected the occasion would bring together. In the town of Peterborough alone there are about 400 Foresters in good standing, and these, with their wives and friends, not to speak of members from the surrounding courts in the vicinity—Norwood, Zion, Warsaw, Bridgenorth, Lakefield, Ballisboro, Springville, Mount Pleasant and Bethany—will result in a family gathering which will require a building like the opera house to accommodate. The duty of making fitting preparation for the event is in the hands of energetic committees, who will spare no efforts to make the coming visit of the High Chief officer of Forestry a red-letter day in the annals of the order here. They have entered energetically upon the work and the details of the coming event will be given to the members of the order and the public as they mature, and it can safely be predicted that the Foresters of Peterborough will bring off the event they have undertaken in a manner worthy of the reputation they have gained of making a success of whatever they undertake.

Evangelistic Services.

There was a large attendance at the service in St. Paul's church last evening. Mr. Meikle's address was directed especially to church members. He referred to Achan, whose sin in the accursed thing led to the defeat of the children of Israel, and he stated that inconsistent church members might keep spiritual blessings from a church and community. He mentioned some of the sins church members, and which must be put away in order to secure a blessing, such as evil speaking, hard feelings towards others, pride, neglect of prayer and of reading the Bible. The address made a deep impression upon those present, and a number of anxious enquirers remained at the close of the service.

The meeting will be in St. Paul's church this evening at 7.45 o'clock.

What Ails the Ediconians?

Complaints have been made by members of the local hocky club about the apparent unwillingness of the Ellison hocky club to play them a friendly match. A fixture was arranged for last Saturday, but the local club says the Ediconians backed out on Saturday morning. Another attempt was made to arrange a match for to-night. This also proved futile, and the Peterborough boys are asking the reason. They suggest it may be because the Ediconites have a powerful remembrance of the first match that was played, in which they were beaten. They therefore think possibly that "discretion is the better part of valour" in this case. Surely after the practice they have had, they no longer fear defeat at the hands of the local boys.

THE ARMY DISCIPLINE.

HOW RANK AND FILE OF BRITISH TROOPS ARE PUNISHED.

Flogging When Necessary—Though the "Cat" Has Been Abolished, it can Still be Called into Requisition—Powers of Courts Martial.

Built like every other mortal, Tommy Atkins has his failings, and, as a natural consequence, he has now and then to answer to the powers that be for some infringement of rules. When a soldier is brought before his superior officer—the captain of his company, or the commanding officer, according to the gravity of his offense—it nearly always happens that some punishment is meted out to him; and as military punishment is a feature of service which is not paraded before the general public, a few facts regarding it may be of interest. There are three distinct varieties of military tribunal, viz.: the company officer, the commanding officer and a court martial. Courts martial are of three degrees of importance, and the maximum sentence which a court martial may impose varies according as the court is a regimental, district or a general one.

To begin with what is known as "minor" offenses, i.e., those which the captain of a company has power to dispose of summarily, we will suppose that No. 1716, Private Thomas Atkins, has been guilty of remaining out of barracks for ten minutes after "last post," 10 P.M., the previous evening, without being possessed of a "pass" enabling him to do so. Some time during the following day the orderly sergeant of his company brings him up—"wheels him up," as it is called—before his captain, states his offense and produces his "defaulter sheets," or record of his past misdemeanors. Should the sheets be clear, or nearly so, considering the length of the man's service, the captain will probably admonish him; but should the unlucky wight have been in any scrape lately, or should he be an old offender, he will be sentenced to be confined to barracks for any number of days up to seven, that being the limit of power to punish of a company officer.

TOMMY'S EXTRA DRILL.

Let us suppose that our friend has been sentenced to three days' confinement to the barracks. One might imagine this to be no great punishment. Before jumping to conclusions, however, let us see what "C.B." actually means. Besides being forbidden to leave barracks, the culprit must turn out in full marching order, with pack, helmet, and full equipment on, at least four times a day, and oftener in many corps, and each time he undergoes an hour's "defaulter's drill," which consists of a monotonous march up and down the barrack square under the eye of a non-commissioned officer, usually the sergeant of the regimental police.

Of course, this drill has to be performed over and above the usual day's drill of the regiment; nor is this all, for the victim has to keep his ear open when off drill to answer when the bugle sounds for "defaulters," as it does with extreme frequency, the unhappy transgressors against military law being always held eligible for whatever fatigue duty may be going.

"The unkindest cut of all," however to the average private is the stern decree that defaulters may not go into the canteen during their days of durance; so that after the day's drill, etc., have been got through, there is no solacing beer allowed.

Then, indeed, doth Tommy vow never to offend again; but sad to say, on the completion of his time and the regaining of his freedom, he is apt to indulge in a small spree which lands him in durance vile once more.

To come to the next grade of military punishment, let us suppose that Thomas has just got a drop too much, and finds himself high and dry in the guardroom, from which he is marched next morning, under an armed escort, into the dread presence of the "chief" himself.

HEAVY MARCHING ORDER.

Should this be his first, second, or even third appearance on such a charge, he will receive no further penalty than a fresh—and longer—term of days "C. B." Should he, however, have been up three times previously for indulging, he will be sentenced to a fine in addition to being confined to barracks. Fines range from two shillings and sixpence (sixty-two cents) to ten shillings (two dollars and a half) according to the length of time that has elapsed since his last appearance, and they are kept off his pay, a system which has been found most effectual in lessening drunkenness in the service.

WHEN SENT TO PRISON.

For a graver offense, such as impertinence to a superior, or refusing or neglecting to obey an order, a soldier is usually sentenced by his commanding officer to undergo a number—from twenty-four up to 168—of hours imprisonment with hard labor. A man so sentenced is conveyed to the regimental cells, where he exchanges his uniform for a grey suit of unbecoming cut, and undergoes an operation at the hands of the prison barber, which is a disfigurement for weeks after he is liberated, viz.: his hair is cropped as close as it can be all over his head.

This is done even if the man's sentence was twenty-four hours in cells, and is looked upon as the worst part of the punishment. While in cells a man has to pick oakum, which is a tarry abomination ruinous to the fingers, and to perform a certain number of hours of "shot drill." This is a monotonous process, consisting of taking up a fourteen or twenty pound shot in the two hands, walking with it for a few paces, laying it down and picking up another and carrying it a few yards, only to lay it down and exchange it for a third, and so on in a circle. This process sounds simple; let any one try it for an hour and then pronounce as to its enjoyable simplicity!

The food given to a prisoner in cells is neither over palatable nor ever plentiful; it consists chiefly of a sort of oatmeal gruel, known as "skilly," and not much of that. Such work, combined with such fare, makes a few days "with hard work" by no means a treat; in fact, many old hands would far sooner undergo a month in the regular military prison than a week in the cells. Terms of confinement in a military prison can only be ordered by a court martial, and the several courts martial before mentioned have different limits of power, viz.: A regiment court martial, which is composed of officers of one regiment; for the trial of a member of that regiment cannot order more than forty-two days imprisonment, while a district court martial, consisting of different corps for the trial of any soldier, may sentence up to eighty-four days.

GENERAL COURTS MARTIAL.

Greater still is the power of the highest military tribunal in times of peace, the general court martial, which has for its president a general officer, hence its name. This court may order a man to be imprisoned for any term up to five years, which is the longest term given in time of peace. Should a soldier commit—at home—a very serious crime, say murder, he is handed over to the civil authorities to be dealt with.

The usual sentence of a general court martial is "imprisonment with hard labor for five years, thereafter to be discharged from her Majesty's service as an incorrigible and worthless character." Flogging, which used to be a common form of punishment, is now abolished, at least it is never employed save on rare occasions of disobedience or insubordination in the military prisons. In such cases the governor of the prison may order the delinquent to receive a number of lashes, not more than thirty-six, except that the governor has power to deal at his own discretion with lazy or insubordinate prisoners.

This he generally does by ordering them to solitary confinement, which is a terrible form of punishment, the prisoner being kept in a cell with absolutely nothing to do and no one to see for a certain number of hours; moreover, twice in twenty-four hours a small piece of bread and a basin of water—his sole food while in solitary confinement—make their appearance at a small trap door in the wall of his cell; he does not even see the warden who feeds him.

A few hours of this generally suffices to bring a man to his senses: on active service of course punishments are more severe, as discipline has to be much more strongly enforced than at home, and if necessary a summary court martial, known as a "drum head" one, may sentence a man to be shot. This extreme course is only employed, however, in a case of desertion from the field, desertion during times of peace being visited—whether the deserter returns voluntarily, as nine out of ten do, or he is captured—by a longer or shorter term of imprisonment. Life in a military prison is almost identical with that of a civil one. Should he be proof against this treatment and remain insubordinate, the "cat" may be ordered, and it has never been known to fail in convincing a man of the error of resisting the authorities.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy for ladies in clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1 dw

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,255.98
Increase over previous year	3,421,372.54
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599 15
Increase over 1889	2,266,888.60
Cash Income for year ending 31st December, 1890	580 078 97
Increase over 1889	225 936 25
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473 514.19
Increase over 1889	667.691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109 222.65
Increase over 1889	567 732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232.175.69
Increase over 1889	75.649.95
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

" " " 1886,	32,452 07

"German Syrup"

J. C. Davis, Rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Eufaula, Ala.: "My son has been badly afflicted with a fearful and threatening cough for several months, and after trying several prescriptions from physicians which failed to relieve him, he has been perfectly restored by the use of two bottles of Boschee's German Syrup. I can recommend it without hesitation." Chronic severe, deep-seated coughs like this are as severe tests as a remedy can be subjected to. It is for these long-standing cases that Boschee's German Syrup is made a specialty. Many others afflicted as this lad was, will do well to make a note of this.

An Episcopal Rector.

J. F. Arnold, Montevideo, Minn., writes: I always use German Syrup for a Cold on the Lungs. I have never found an equal to it—far less a superior.

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER

By Edgar Fawcett.

He sank back once more. He was very happy. And yet he realised that his veins had begun to burn with an increase of the dread distemper which had never yet been driven from them—half malarial, as the doctors declared, and half cerebral. His lips now moved, and he heard his own voice as though it were the voice of some one else, addressing him in disjointed fragments: "She has really forgotten. She thinks she has not—no brain fever. You should never have gone to Florida, of all places. Those devilish doctors kept you there because they thought only of their fees. You'll get well and you'll marry her. She'll never know, never dream. In time she'll love you; in time, in time." And then his murmurs ended.

Meanwhile Helena had not left him. The physician whom she had met just before entering Tallmadge's room had requested her not to remain there long. She now waited in the adjoining room and instructed her cousin's valet, who also waited there, not to breathe a word of her having thus remained.

It was then nearly 6 o'clock in the evening. The valet, at her request, brought her some sort of repast in lieu of dining, and she seated herself afterwards with a book taken from one of the shelves. Her mind could not fix itself, however, upon the printed page. It was always wandering to him whom she had left within the adjacent chamber. She recalled her dead father's wish that she should become his wife. Her heart began to beat excitedly as she thought: "Why should I not consent, once and for all, if it would bring him back to health? Justin surely would forgive me if his spirit were watching us now!"

The valet suddenly startled her by gliding to her side and whispering: "He's got out of his bed, Mrs. Worcester, and he's writing, ma'am."

"Very well," she whispered back, "let him do as he pleases. But you must wrap something warm about him, John. It's even colder than it was."

"No need of that, ma'am; he's put on his woollen wrapper and his slippers."

"Ah! And how does he seem, John? Like himself?"

"He, ma'am. He's queer as possible."

"Queer?"

"Yes, ma'am. His eyes are flamin' like, and he don't appear as if he were in his own right senses."

A portiere hung between the two rooms. Helena stole to it and parted its folds a little. She had a clear view of the sick man as he sat before his desk, though only his profile was visible to her. That served to decide her, however. She went back to John and spoke thus:

"Go at once for Dr. Meredith. I think Mr. Van Dyke is out of his mind. I think so because his face is twitching strangely and he holds the pen in such an odd way. Besides, he is muttering to himself all the while. Go at once. I will wait here."

John promptly obeyed. Perhaps five minutes later Helena went again to the portiere. Still clad in the woollen wrapper, Tallmadge had flung himself on the bed. His eyes were closed, and his breathing was so heavy that she could hear it from where she stood. And yet she somehow doubted if he was asleep.

After a brief delay of irresolution she passed into his chamber. Her step was very light; it did not rouse him. She paused before the desk. A sheet of paper lay there, with writing upon it. As her eye swept the page she felt a dreadful pang of recognition. The characters were those of the fatal anonymous letter which had killed Justin. They had bitten themselves into her memory long ago!

With trembling hand she lifted the page. It was all the precise counterpart of what she knew so terribly well. Not a word was different. This letter was addressed to her dead husband, just as that other letter had been. Even the date was the same. And yet it was unfolded! it was convincingly a duplicate.

The truth flashed through her mind. For an instant she turned sick and giddy. Then she stood quite still, with her face deathly white and her eyes fixed on the form of the prostrate man. Everything was plain to her. He had done that dastardly thing months ago, and now in his delirium, or semi-delirium, he had automatically repeated the act.

A great rage possessed her. She advanced toward Tallmadge and shook him roughly by the shoulder.

He awoke (if at all he had been asleep) and stared at her, half raising himself. In one hand she held the accusing paper. With the other she now clutched his arm.

"It was you who wrote to Justin!" she cried. "Here is the proof!"

While she thus addressed him he was mentally dazed and unmanned by the fierce recent encroachments of his disease. But a gleam of despairing intelligence lighted his flushed face as he heard her and looked at her.

"Yes, yes, Helena! I wrote the letter!" he gasped. "I wrote it—God forgive me!"

"God may," she answered, while her grasp on his arm relaxed. "God may, Tallmadge Van Dyke, but I cannot."

Then she passed from the room, and soon afterwards from the house. In a few days more they brought her news of his death.

This is the history of Helena Worcester's strangely unhappy life. There were times, amid the retirement which followed for her, there in that old Waverley place house where she spent so many secluded years, when she bitterly reproached herself for having caused her cousin's death by not going to him and giving him her pardon.

But there are certain spirits in this world that are made all the more miserable by their own gentleness and nobility. On these an added sorrow is always coldly entailed, and the very existence of their power to forgive injuries would seem to increase by a new factor of mystery the whole sad problem of human suffering.

COHEN TRIES TO ESCAPE.

Bored a Hole In His Cell to Get Out, But Carscallen Finds It Out.

BERLIN, Ont., Jan. 28.—It will be remembered that last summer Walter J. Cohen, of the firm of Cohen, Solomon & Co. of New York, was arrested at Preston, Ont., while he was spending a short term at the mineral baths there, on a capias issued at the instance of his creditors and was imprisoned in jail here. Yesterday Lawyers Carscallen, Cahill & Co. of Hamilton, who have been looking after the interests of Cohen's creditors, got word through private sources that Cohen was planning to escape. Mr. Carscallen at once came to Berlin and communicated his information to Sheriff Springer and Jailer Cook.

A visit to the jail showed that Cohen had nearly completed a hole through the wall of his cell. Two knives, a hatchet and another instrument were found in the hole. As Cohen had everything taken from him when incarcerated, it is suspected that he had an accomplice.

NEARLY MURDERED THE JEW.

Wounded in the Head While Strapped in His Chair.

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—One of the coolest and most villainous assaults of recent days was perpetrated in this city last evening. A Pole, Morris Bloom by name, who has a tailor shop at 13 Victoria-street, was injured in such a manner as to jeopardize his life.

Shortly before 6 o'clock two men entered his shop, and one of them dealt him a heavy blow on the head just behind the left ear. He fell back on his bed, and while one held a pillow over his head to prevent any sounds escaping, the other bandaged his hands and feet with a trunk strap. His pockets were then rifled and $10 stolen. Two rings were also secured. The thieves then withdrew and made good their escape.

The injured man lay for some time in a semi-conscious condition, until a neighbor, happening to pass the door, was attracted by his moans. He was immediately sent to the hospital and is expected to recover.

Canada's Space at the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Professor William Saunders, the Canadian commissioner, completed his work at headquarters yesterday and left for Ottawa.

During his stay he has interviewed the chiefs of the several departments and discussed with them the character and extent of the exhibits which Canada expects to make and the space which will be required for the display. An interview was subsequently had with Director-General Davis, who has promised to do all in his power to meet the wishes of the Canadian people. The commissioner has asked for space for Canada in nearly all the buildings, the total area needed being about 100,000 square feet, divided as nearly as possible like this:

Agricultural hall	23,000 feet.
Forestry building	5,000 "
Horticultural	10,000 "
Mines and mining	10,000 "
Machinery	8,000 "
Transportation	15,000 "
Manufactures and liberal arts	26,000 "

Space is also asked for in the fine arts and fisheries buildings.

An Irish Village at the World's Fair.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Ernest Hart, who has conceived the idea of presenting a typical Irish village at the Chicago Fair, announces that his project is now assured of success. The village will exhibit not only the buildings and street sights characteristic of the villages of the Green Isle, but also the industries carried on.

Love Stronger Than Grief.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 28.—Martha Morton, 16 years old, daughter of the postmaster at Sandy Mills, De Kalb County, passed through here yesterday on the way to join her lover, Andrew Bynum, in Cooksville, Tex. She ran away from home, going first to the home of her brother-in-law, Bill Sloan, a noted moonshiner.

The father gave chase and, reaching Sloan's home, demanded to know the whereabouts of his daughter, who had been hidden. A quarrel ensued, and Sloan shot Morton, killing him.

The girl then mounted a horse and rode 15 miles to Fort Wayne, where to-day she took a train for Texas.

Seed Grain for Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28.—A meeting of the council of the Grain Exchange was held yesterday, when it was decided to ask the various railways in Manitoba to carry seed grain next spring free of charge.

Smuggled Chinese Captured.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 28.—Customs officers have captured 28 Chinese, 10 miles from this city, who had been smuggled across the border. A number of others escaped.

Killed on the C. P. R.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., Jan. 28.—Thomas Tomlinson, ar., while at work in the C.P.R. yard, slipped and fell on the track, the wheels of a tender passing over him, inflicting injuries from which he died.

Stools for the Queen's Compositors.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—A deputation of the Trades and Labor Council had an interview with the Queen's Printer yesterday afternoon. Their remarks in support of the claims for stools for the bureau printers were attentively listened to and prompt consideration promised.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

STRIKING MINERS SEIZE A DYNAMITE DEPOT.

Grave State of Affairs at Bilbao, Spain—Mrs. Parnell's Bank Account and the Famous Wood Will Case—A Bride for Prince George of Wales.

MADRID, Jan. 28.—Labor troubles have broken out at Bilbao among the men employed in the copper mines in that vicinity. The men went on strike against a reduction in wages.

Work in all the mines is suspended and the situation grows hourly worse. It is feared that the strikers may attempt to destroy property at the mines, and consequently a strong force of gendarmes has been placed on guard.

The strikers have seized a dynamite depot.

The Burning of the Arenberg Palace.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Once more has the Belgian unlucky month been signalized by a disaster which might have been irreparable. As it is, the historic Arenberg Palace lost by fire on Saturday morning the wing associated with memories of Queen Christina of Sweden, Louis XV., Jean Baptiste Rousseau and Marshal Gerard, who all inhabited it in turn, and what is more precious still, the rooms of the Comte d'Egmont, preserved for more than three centuries exactly in the same state as they were when the owner left them to go to the scaffold. Nothing remains of this venerable building but unsightly heaps of debris, and the Prince and Princess de Croy may be congratulated on saving their own lives and the lives of their children. If the flames had extended beyond the Quartier d'Egmont, the consequences would have been terrible, for the central portion of the palace contains a priceless library and the left wing one of the most remarkable picture galleries of the world. The treasure par excellence of the Hotel d'Arenberg, however, is the famous Laocoon head, said to be the most perfect specimen of Greek art. So valuable is it considered that its hiding place was always kept a profound secret, and the Duke of Arenberg, whose property was confiscated during the Reign of Terror, always carried it about with him and endured the greatest privations rather than part with it. It was never shown except behind an iron grating. The whole of the Princess de Croy's jewels were buried beneath the ruins, but hopes are entertained of their recovery.

Mrs. Parnell's Bank Account.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Charles Stewart Parnell, in the Wood will case proceedings, produced in court her bank book with the debit pages sealed. She then made an affidavit to the effect that the sealed pages were irrelevant. In the Court of Appeals to-day an application for an order to compel the bank in which Mrs. Parnell deposited her money to bring its ledgers into court so as to show how Mrs. Parnell's bank account stood was refused. It is expected that the case will come up for trial in all probability at the beginning of March.

Royal Labor Commission.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—A meeting of Section B of the Royal Labor Commission was held for the first time since Christmas at Westminster Hall yesterday, Lord Derby in the chair.

Samuel Plimsoll, the originator of Plimsoll's loadline and a member of the Commission, spoke at length in regard to the loss of life in the British mercantile marine, which, he said, was four times greater than that of any other country. This terrible discrepancy, he added, could be averted without the slightest hardship to the shipping interest.

A Seven-Foot Wreath.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The largest wreath sent to Windsor on the occasion of the Duke of Clarence's funeral was that prepared by the order of Lady Du Cane for the British Legation and colony in Brussels. It consisted entirely of orchids and measured nearly seven feet across. This enormous trophy was brought to the chapel from London by two special messengers.

Shot for Refusing to Salute.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 28.—An officer of an artillery regiment stationed at Vilna, enraged because the men of one of the regiments of that place refused to salute him, drew his revolver and deliberately shot two of the non-commissioned officers of the insubordinate regiment. He was about to fire at a third when the men complied with the regulations and saluted.

Steam Trawler Missing.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The steam trawler Albion, belonging to Grimsby, is a fortnight overdue at her home port, and it is believed that she has foundered. She had on board nine hands, and it is feared they, too, have been lost.

A Bride for Prince George.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Edmund Yates cables: It is certain that a strong effort will be made in high quarters to arrange for the Prince's betrothal to Princess Margaret of Prussia, youngest daughter of the Empress Frederick.

Wales' New Equerry.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Count Gleichen of the Grenadier Guards, who has just joined the Prince of Wales' household as equerry, has well earned this recognition of his professional zeal, apart from all family claims, on the record of what excellent work he did with the camel corps in the Soudan.

Successful Skin-Grafting.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Gen. John B. Hamilton, surgeon of the U. S. Marine Hospital Service, has successfully accomplished a skin-grafting operation on a woman patient, aged 40, at the Presbyterian Hospital. She was horribly burned with kerosene. Dr. Hamilton decided that a skin-grafting operation could be made a success. He called for volunteers among the lady's relatives, and her daughter and husband and several friends of the woman offered to surrender what skin was needed. The transfer of cuticle was successful, the burned surface being well covered with the transferred skin. Yesterday the woman's condition was favorable, the indications being that the operation would be a complete success.

Sir Edwin Arnold Unable to Read.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—It was announced yesterday that the condition of Sir Edwin Arnold's health had not improved, and that it would be impossible for him to read to-day, or probably at all. His physician, Dr. James J. Garmany, said that he must have a long rest, and all his engagements to read or lecture must be cancelled absolutely. Sir Edwin will at once return to Europe.

May Have Been Poisoned by Grapes.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 28.—The 13-months-old daughter of George Souter, Bay street, died after only a few hours' illness. The child had been eating grapes, and a report became current that death was due to some poisonous matter on or among the fruit. This had the more appearance of truth as other members of the family were ill after eating the grapes. The physician in attendance, however, thinks no foreign matter was eaten.

The Commons Restaurant.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—F. B. Coleman, who was selected to take charge of the restaurant of the Commons, arrived from Fredericton, where he runs the Barker House, today. He says there will be little change in the mode of running the restaurant.

A Victory for Newspapers.

ALBANY, Jan. 28.—The Assembly at 1.45 p.m. passed Mr. Stein's bill allowing representatives of newspapers to witness electric executions. The vote was unanimous.

The Printers' Home.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan. 2 .—The Childs-Drexel Union Printers' Home in this city will be dedicated May 12, Mr. Childs' birthday. Amos J. Cummings of New York will deliver the address.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE BROUGHT OUT YESTERDAY.

Mr. Mercier's Son-in-Law, a Well-Known Montreal Lawyer, Now Alleged to Have Been Implicated in the Boodling.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29.—Yesterday the Royal Commission opened at 10.45 a.m. in the Court House. The Government was represented by G. S. Stuart, Q.C., T. N. Belleau, Q.C., and Bisaillon, Q.C.

The witness subpœnaed were Napoleon Breton, Ubald Garand, J. O. Dupuis, George Davelny, Adalard L. De Martigny, M. J. A. Prendergast, James Brunet, George Balfour, James Bousquet and Eusebe Senecal.

The first item taken up by the commission was the payment of $14,940 of the $51,500 subsidy granted to the Montreal and Ottawa railway. The date of payment was Feb. 14, 1891.

Mr. Machin, assistant provincial treasurer, was first called to produce correspondence on the subject. The first was a document in which A. Chalebois, contractor of Quebec, authorized Mr. Brunet of the Banque Nationale to draw from the Government in his name $5000 out of the $51,000. Attached to this is a request from the bank cashier to the Provincial Treasurer to pay over the required sum. Under date of Feb. 16 Mr. Machin tells the bank that so far he has not been authorized by the Montreal and Ottawa Company to pay the subsidy to Mr. Charlebois.

Mr. Mercier sends the following letter to Mr. Geoffrion on Feb. 10, showing his interest in the matter:

BUREAU DU GOUVERNEMENT, PROVINCE DE QUEBEC,
MONTREAL, Feb. 10.

DEAR SIR,—At your request the transfer made by Alphonse Charlebois, Esq., of his claim mentioned in the order-in-council sanctioned on the 7th inst., and hereto annexed, has been noted in the department by the Treasurer, and the check that will be issued in a few days by the treasurer for the account mentioned in said order-in-council will be made payable to your order or to the order of any other party you mention. Yours truly,

(Signed), HONORE MERCIER.

C. A. Geoffrion, Esq., Montreal, P.Q.

The same day he writes Mr. Shehyn as follows:

GOVERNMENT OFFICE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC,
Montreal, Feb. 10, 1891.

My Dear Colleague,—Enclosed you will find copy of a letter which I have given to Mr. Geoffrion, which explains itself. You will be kind enough to take note of it so that the check when issued is in the name of Mr. Geoffrion, or to any other person whom he may designate between now and that time. I have the honor to be Yours truly,

(Signed) HONORE MERCIER.

Another Letter.

Mr. Geoffrion, however, was getting impatient and writes Mr. Shehyn thus:

MONTREAL, Feb. 10, 1891.

Hon. Mr. Shehyn, Treasurer of the Province of Quebec:

SIR,—You must have received copy of a letter given me this day by Hon. Mr. Mercier. I negotiated with the Molson's Bank a loan based upon the Order-in-Council of the 7th inst. and the bank before remitting to me the necessary funds requires a letter from you admitting that I requested you to issue the check in payment of the said order-in-council to the order of the Molsons Bank. As I have a pressing need of this money I pray you to address without fail a letter to the manager of the Molsons Bank in the following terms: "F. Wolferstan Thomas, Esq., general manager Molsons Bank, Montreal. Sir, I have been advised by C. A. Geoffrion, Q.C., that the amount of $14,908.50, payable to him in virtue of an order-in-council sanctioned on the 7th of Feb. inst., and transferred to him by Charlebois, is to be made payable by a check to the order of the Molson's Bank. In conformity to this order of Mr. C. A. Geoffrion the above-mentioned amount now stands at your credit in the department, and I beg to inform you that the check to your order for the above amount shall be issued as soon as the department is ready to pay the amount referred to in the above order in council.

Yours Truly,

Treasurer of the Province of Quebec.

On sending this letter without fail to the address of Mr. Thomas, Manager of the Molsons Bank, please wire me that this has been done so that I may act in consequence during the day because there is not a moment to lose and a day's delay might be fraught with disastrous consequences.

(Sd'gd.) C. A. GEOFFRION.

On Feb. 13 Mr. Geoffrion telegraphs from Montreal:

To Hon. Shehyn, Provincial Treasurer, Quebec: Did you write to the Molsons Bank, if not don't fail to do it.

(signed) C.A. GEOFFRION.

The Elections Were at Hand.

It will be remembered that the Dominion elections were getting near about this time. As there was no record of the transfer of the railroad subsidy to the accommodating Charlebois the scheme could not go through until Mr. Mercier secured the sum from the provincial treasurer by means of a special warrant giving the department the following receipt.

Received this 14th day of February, 1891, from the honorable, the treasurer, the above mentioned sums.

(Signed) HONORE MERCIER.

Mr. Machin stated that the warrant was acquitted by Mr. Mercier, and by order the check was made payable to him. Further correspondence produced by Mr. Machin between Hon. Garneau and ex-Attorney-General Robidoux. The latter confesses that Mr. Charlebois had transferred to him $5000. After considerable letter writing in Nov. 1891, the Montreal and Ottawa finally made the transfer of the $51,000 subsidy to Mr. Charlebois.

Next witness was Mr. E. Webb, cashier of the Union Bank. He swore that Earnest Pacaud had presented the $14,903.50 check to be cashed at his bank. He was told it could not be paid until countersigned by Montreal & Ottawa Railroad. He then offered a note signed by himself and endorsed by Mr. Mercier, which would be retired as soon as the proper endorsement could be secured for the check. This was agreed to and the money paid, the check being afterwards properly endorsed. Of the amount $7000 was sent to Mr. Geoffrion, but there was no trace as to what became of the balance.

The Bank Cashier Speaks.

L. J. A. Pfendergast told how as cashier of the Hochelaga Bank he had cashed a letter of credit in favor of Mr. Breton and signed by Hon. Charles Langelier for $4000 for the collection of coins, $1000 for 2000 copies of his book, "Le Collectionneur Canadien." He also spoke of the Cadieux and Derome letter of credit for $3000 on another book deal.

George Davelny, Government insurance inspector, was placed on the stand. He said he acted as agent for Mr. Breton with the Mercier Government and got a commission of $500, although $2000 had been the figure agreed on. Mr. Breton told witness that there were so many after a share that he could only give me $500 and I accepted. He further said that unless those demands were acceeded to the letter of credit would be sent back to Quebec. Mr. Brunet mentioned the name of Mr. Geoffrion as one of the parties.

Mr. Breton's examination was a confirmation of Davelny's testimony of the $5000 he had contribute $1500 to the election fund. He also gave $10 to Mr. Lessard of Lemonde.

Mr. Derome of Cadieux testified that he paid Davelny 40 per cent. out of $3000 letter of credit for books sold the Government. Mr. Davely was re-examined and he said he had in turn to divide this. Forty per cent. went to Lomer Gouin, Mercier's son-in-law, for influence used. Mr. Gouin wanted further commission on another deal, but this was refused. In all he got $4000.

Mr. Senecal, bookseller, had also some experience with Mr. Gouin. Mr. Senecal had published a "code municipal" which he hoped to sell to the Government, when he was told that Mr. Gomer Gouin had prepared a similar work, and for fear that Mr. Gouin's pull with the Government would be greater than his, he went to see the gentleman, who, after much talk agreed to withdraw his own work and use his influence for the sale of Mr. Senecal's publication on receipt of 45 3-4 per cent. of the gross receipts from its sale. In all he had paid Mr. Gouin some $4500 in commissions. At this point the commissioners adjourned.

The Son-in-Law's Denial.

At the afternoon session Mr. Gouin addressed the commission, denying the truth of Davelny's statement and demanded an opportunity to defend himself. He will be given that opportunity to-morrow morning.

J. P. Whelan is sick, so in the afternoon the commissioners drove to his house and there examined him. Whelan reaffirmed his former statement regarding the methods which had been used to bleed him.

A Sample Package Arrives for the Agricultural Department.

HALIFAX, Jan. 29.—On Tuesday Immigrant Agent Clay received a telegram from Hon. John Carling, Minister of Agriculture, telling him to look out for a box of butter which was on the steamer addressed to the minister. The butter arrived yesterday and was forwarded to Hon. Mr. Carling. It came from Australia, having been ordered by the Agricultural Department at Ottawa with a view of showing the Canadian farmers the kind of article they have to compete against in the English market and mode of packing. The butter arrived in excellent condition. It was packed in a box and weighed 56 pounds.

Why Talmage Cut Off His Whiskers.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Jan. 29.—The mystery as to why Rev. Dr. Talmage cleared off his side-whiskers has been cleared by himself. In a newspaper article he says he was very thin when a young man and grew whiskers to help him make a shadow. He removed them because he thinks he will look better without them. He shaves himself every morning except Sunday, and on Saturday night.

The Peculiarity of Waterloo's Council.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—One peculiarity with the present County Council is that out of the 31 members no two have the same name. For a good many years past the Hallmans were there in doubles, and some years previous to that the Sniders used to run from two to four. Now there is only one of that prolific and honored name.

A Western Railroad Strike.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 29.—The Chicago & Erie road is tied up by a strike and not a freight train is moving. Twenty-five yard switchmen went out last night and are holding the fort. They demand the Chicago wage schedule and a change in yardmasters.

$150 For a Murderer.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 29.—Government Detective Rogers is in the city looking into the Lonsdale affair, in which James McGinnis, jr., is charged with the murder of Mortimer Ford. He offers a reward of $150 for any information that will lead to his arrest.

Each Leaves a Widow and One Child.

ST. CLAIR, Pa., Jan. 29.—The boiler of a locomotive exploded at Newcastle yesterday. Five men were instantly killed—engineer, fireman, conductor and two brakemen. All were married men and each leaves a widow and one child.

Three Grandmothers At His Birth.

QUEBEC, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Euclide Herbert of Trois Pistoles, county of Rimouski, gave birth to a son some days ago. The little stranger represented the fifth living generation. Three grandmothers were present at his birth.

THREE BYE-ELECTIONS.

RESULTS IN LINCOLN, KINGSTON AND HALTON.

Gibson Carries Lincoln by an Increased Majority — Henderson Defeats the Patron of Industry Nominee in Halton —Metcalfe's Majority in Kingston About One Hundred.

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 29.—After a keen fight in Lincoln county yesterday the Reform candidate, Mr. William Gibson, was elected by about 224 majority. The majorities:

	Gibson.	Nesbitt.
St. Catharines city	27	..
Bridgeport	4	..
Jordan village	28	..
Beamsville village	54	..
Clinton township	131	..
Merritton	..	64
Niagara township	73	..
Louth township	63	..
Grantham township	..	32
Port Dalhousie	..	11
Niagara town	..	33
	324	110
Majority for Gibson	224

The majority for Mr. Gibson at the general election was 48. The result was a great surprise to both parties, as no such majority was dreamed of.

Henderson Sweeps Halton.

HALTON, Jan. 29.—The election yesterday in Halton between David Henderson (Conservative) and J. McGregor (Patron) resulted in the return of Mr. Henderson by a majority of 424. The majorities:

	Henderson.	McGregor.
Acton	91	..
Burlington	44	..
Georgetown	9	..
Milton	14	..
Oakville	150	..
Esquesing	71	..
Nassagaweya	..	46
Trafalgar	1	..
Nelson	97	..
Total	470	46

Majority for Henderson 424. Mr. Henderson's majority over John Waldie (Liberal) at the general election was 104.

Metcalfe in Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jan 29.—Mr. James Metcalfe (Conservative) was elected yesterday, defeating Mr. Gunn by a majority of 96. The total vote polled was Metcalfe 1830, Gunn 1734.

Sir John Macdonald's majority at the general election was 483.

The North Renfrew Vacancy.

PEMBROKE, Jan. 29.—A large meeting of the Liberal party was held here yesterday to nominate a candidate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of A. Dunlop, M.L.A. Henry Barr, farmer, was selected.

Prince Edward Nominations.

PICTON, Jan. 29.—The nominations for Prince Edward took place in the Court House here yesterday, J. N. Carter, mayor of Picton, returning officer. Mr. N. C. Miller and Dr. Platt were the only candidates nominated.

Wilson and Allison in Lennox.

NAPANEE, Jan. 29.—M. Wilson was nominated by the Conservatives and D. W. Allison by the Reformers yesterday.

The Banquet to Hon. Mr. Patterson.

WINDSOR, Jan. 29.—A largely-attended meeting of influential citizens of Windsor of all parties met at Laing's Hall last evening and passed resolutions congratulating the Hon. J. C. Patterson on his appointment to the office of Secretary of State, and formed a committee to make arrangements for a grand reception to the new minister on his return home to Windsor.

Back From the Grave.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 29.—Rufe Moore, colored, was hanged at Trenton, Ga., in May last for murder. The negro's neck was not broken, but he was pronounced dead by the physicians. He was cut down, coffined and placed in a wagon to be taken over the mountains to his old home for burial.

It is now pretty certain that Moore was not dead, and the shaking up he received in the ride in his coffin over rough roads revived him, and that he recovered his original strength.

Several reliable witnesses testify to having seen Moore walking on the streets of his native village just as if he had never been hanged. The affair is creating great excitement throughout North Alabama and Georgia.

Lover's Arm Gave Out.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Courting has assumed a serious aspect in this vicinity. George Carlisle, a young farmer, of Amwell township called on his betrothed, Miss Nellie Adams, last night. He became so affectionate and his embraces were so fond that he ruptured an artery in his arm and a doctor was sent for. Nellie's ribs are still intact.

Blood Oozes from His Skin.

WABASH, Ind., Jan. 29.—Alexander Freeman, one of the best known farmers in Wabash county, is afflicted with a peculiar malady. For over a week blood has been slowly oozing from all parts of his body. The blood accumulates under the skin until the skin is as purple as a plum and then it oozes out like sweat from a harvest hand. This has kept up constantly until Mr. Freeman is now completely prostrated. A number of physicians have been called, but they are powerless to stop the flow of blood and in all probability the man will die.

Stripped Every Rag From His Body.

TILBURY, Jan. 29.—Mr. William Hobbs, an employe in Kidd's grist mill, was oiling the machinery when his jacket caught on a revolving shaft and he was quickly drawn against the great iron rod. Being a very strong man he braced himself against the bottom of the machinery and instantly grasping at a beam overhead his strength saved his life, for every stitch of clothing was in a moment torn from his body, his shoes and hat being the only articles that were not twisted around the shaft.

Tore His Arm Off.

GALT, Jan. 29.—The 11-year-old son of Mr. Christopher Cressman of New Dundee, while driving the horses on the horse power for threshing, walked around with the teams in order to keep himself warm, and as he was about to step over the tumbling-rod he slipped and fell and the rod caught his left arm and wound it several times around, breaking it in several places and severing it completely from the body near the shoulder.

Bill Sykes and His Nancy.

Grip says: We haven't been able to detect any symptoms of a revolt on the part of Ontario Conservatives against the leadership of Mr. John Haggart. The Globe has virtuously protested, but the Globe is not generally accepted as the mouthpiece of the party in question. The fact seems to be that Mr. Haggart fills the bill as well as any other man would, and nothing in the way of a general bolt of the "respectable" is likely to happen. It is on record in one of Dickens' stories that Nancy fully appreciated the short comings of Bill Sykes—knew he was a bad man, perhaps the worst of the whole gang—and yet she refused to leave him. Strange as it may seem, she even loved him. But after all, it wasn't really strange, because she had sunk several degrees below the plane of decent womanhood, and found Sykes congenial to her. Perhaps some similar political lowering of tone will account for the Ontario Conservatives' complacency at the leadership of the Hon. John.

Abbott's Unpopular Move.

Toronto Telegram: Premier Abbott, by his promotion of John Haggart, has confessed himself a blunderer, has outraged the feelings of Ontario and flouted the truest Conservatives in the party. It is not too much to say that never since Sir John died has the new premier been rated so cheaply as he is now by the staunch Conservatives of Ontario. Their dissatisfaction does not talk in public. The disgust they feel is smothered by the thought that its free expression might aid the Grits. Their dissatisfaction is not the less deep because it does not ruffle the surface in angry speech

The Grange Hall Matter.

In a paragraph in the EXAMINER of last week relating to the North Monaghan Grange hall matter, it was stated that a resolution was passed, to "take legal steps to decide ownership of the property." This was not correct. The resolution, unanimously adopted, called for the prosecution of the charge against J. J. Bresly for threatening to use firearms on members of the Grange, and the second clause called for the pushing of the suit against J. J. Bresly to recover the property of the Grange he has in his possession, namely, the Grange charter and seal of Eathon Grange.

Women suffering from the ailments peculiar to their sex, and pale and sallow girls, may be speedily cured and be restored to a fresh blooming complexion by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. W. J. Witter, Franklin, Mass., writes:—"My sister had been ill for seven or eight years and looked as though she were going to the grave. Your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills completely restored her." Sold by all druggists. Beware of imitations. dw

Canadian Flour Men Sued.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—A. W. Ogilvie & Co., the Canadian flour men, were sued yesterday for $200,000 by Tracy D. Hull of this city. Last year Ogilvie is said to have wished to sell out his 32 elevators and numerous large milling plants throughout the British provinces, and commissioned Hull to arrange a deal with an English syndicate. Hull says he secured an option on the property, and found responsible English capitalists who were willing to pay $1,750,000 for the business. But, he declares, the defendant, giving no good reason, refused finally to sell. The suit is for commissions and damages.

Good Deeds Done.

The good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever-increasing esteem by the public would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—186 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has no independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, [illegible] SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and moth with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them in part. If you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

The Tory Press on the Shuffle.

The announcement of the shuffle in the Cabinet is received with anything but enthusiasm. The Empire devotes a large amount of space to Mr. Bowell's military career, which, from the tone of pleased surprise which pervades the article, it appears to have only recently discovered. The people are assured that Mr. Bowell's presence in the Militia Department will fill a long felt want. That there has been something wrong with the department for several years, few will deny. But why is Sir Adolphe Caron, who is responsible for this state of things, entrusted with the Postoffice Department? And if Mr. Bowell's appointment was the one thing needful to place the militia of Canada on a proper footing, why was that appointment delayed until Mr. Bowell was well-stricken in years, worn out with his work in the Customs Department and desirous of rest? The Hamilton Spectator, a staunch Conservative journal, is outspoken in its expression of discontent. "If," it says, "the Cabinet changes announced yesterday were announced as a finality, they would be received by the country with more than a little dissatisfaction." As to the transfer of Mr. Bowell to the Militia Department, it says:—"Possibly he has sacrificed himself in order that an important portfolio might go to Quebec. The Spectator is moved to no enthusiasm by the appointment of Mr. Patterson, in whom the Empire has discovered great talents hitherto hidden from the public view:—"We are unable to see that the accession of Mr. Patterson, of Essex, will strengthen the Government. That gentleman entered Parliament in 1878 and served with fair ability but without making any great impression upon the country until he was defeated last year. He is now without a constituency." Finally, the Spectator calls for the appointment of Meredith and Angers and suggests that Mr. Carling and Sir Adolphe might be got rid of by appointing them Lieutenant-Governors. This article probably expresses pretty well the opinions of the great mass of Conservatives in Ontario. The Toronto News, a journal with strong Conservative leanings, says that "Premier Abbott has not, in the reconstruction of his Cabinet, strengthened his position to the same extent that he might have done. The promotion of Hon. John Haggart, against whom charges of the gravest nature have been made and allowed to go unexplained, was a most unwise thing to do. Even more injudicious, if possible, was the appointment of Hon. J. A. Chapleau to the position of Minister of Customs. A man who allowed the hungry Senegal to grow fat by levying upon those doing business with a department where the patronage is so limited as in in that of the Secretary of State, is utterly unfit to be trusted as head of the Customs Department, where the possibilities of blackmail by underlings are so great. The only redeeming feature in the shuffle is the bringing in of Mr. J. C. Patterson, of Essex." The Telegram (Ind.) believes that "Ontario's influence is decreased rather than increased by Premier Abbott's apparent adjustment of portfolios," and "the shuffle must be disappointing to Ontario, inasmuch as it did not bring in the expected strong man from this Province. Because the change does not promise to be good for the country, its ultimate effects cannot be otherwise than bad for the party."

Two-Rowed Barley.

It is reported on the very best authority that the two-rowed barley, which is raised in this country and shipped to England, will not answer for the British brewers, and those who have tried it decline to buy a second lot. The difficulty seems to be that our summers are only about three months, while the barley crop in England has nearly twice as long to mature. Two-rowed barley will only bring feed prices in our market, now. What do the Tory papers say about this? They are as mum as mice. There was a special shipment made from the Whitby district last fall, grown by Mr. Smith, ex-M.P. for South Ontario, from English seed, on his own farm and shipped to England by W. P. Howland & Co., Toronto, but it gave no better satisfaction than other shipments made later on. To-day this class of barley, for malting purposes, is unsaleable in the Old Country.

The Head Surgeon

Of the Luben Medical Company is now at Toronto, Canada, and may be consulted either in person or by letter on all chronic diseases peculiar to men. Men, young, old or middle-aged, who find themselves nervous, weak and exhausted, who are broken down from excess or overwork, resulting in many of the following symptoms: Mental depression, premature old age, loss of memory, bad dreams, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, emissions, lack of energy, pain in the kidneys, headache, pimples on the face or body, itching or peculiar sensations about the scrotum, wasting of the organs, dimness, specks before the eyes, twitching of the muscles, eyelids and elsewhere, bashfulness, deposits in the urine, loss of will power, tenderness of the scalp and spine, weak and flabby muscles, desire to sleep, failure to be rested by sleep, constipation, dullness of hearing, loss of voice, desire for solitude, excitability of temper, sunken eyes surrounded with leaden circle, oily looking skin, etc., are all symptoms of nervous debility that lead to insanity and death unless cured. The spring or vital force having lost its tension, every function wanes in consequence. Those who through abuse committed in ignorance may be permanently cured. Send your address for book on all diseases peculiar to man. Books sent free sealed. Heart disease, the symptoms of which are faint spells, purple lips, numbness, palpitation, skip beats, hot flashes, rush of blood to the head, dull pain in the heart with beats strong, rapid and irregular, the second heart beat quicker than the first, pain about the breast bone, etc., can positively be cured. No cure, no pay. Send for book. Address M. V. LUBON, 24 Macdonell ave., Toronto, Canada.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy for ladies in clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1 dw

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of dandruff, and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Ayer's Hair Vigor, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Yours truly, W. T. ROBINSON, Can. Pac. R'y's Telegraph Co., Montreal, P.Q.

Small Sugar-coated Burdock Pills do no gripe or sicken. They are mild and effectual.

The Postmaster's Hunt for a Seat.

The Hon. J. C. Patterson is likely to have some difficulty in finding a seat. The Tories have not many to spare in the western peninsula of Ontario. They hold East Lambton, and a vacancy might be made there by heisting Mr. Mosscrift into the Senate. Then it has been suggested that he should run in London; but it is extremely unlikely that the constituency which rejected John Carling would elect a comparative stranger. Two Ontario Ministers, Mr. Carling and Mr. Smith, are in the Senate, and Mr. Patterson may be sent to keep them company. It will be a humiliating confession of the weakness of the Government in Ontario if it cannot find constituencies there for three of the Ministers.

Civil Service Reform.

The civil servants ask that the Commission should raise their salaries and legalise the giving of extra work to permanent clerks. The Montreal Star says that there are about the only two things that the country would not want the Commission to do. The provision forbidding permanent clerks to draw extra pay for extra work is of paramount wisdom. Were our service manned from the angelic hosts, it might work; but it is feared that human beings would be tempted to do extra work most of the time, and the developments of last session showed the service to be reasonably human. Their suggestion of always employing the same extra clerks is a good one, though their prejudice against boy copyists is badly founded. On the whole, there is a distinct trades union smack about their petition.

Can You Rely

Upon Hood's Sarsaparilla as a positive remedy for every form of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples and all other diseases caused by impure blood. It eradicates every impurity and at the same time tones and vitalizes the whole system.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Other committees to meet to-night are the Finance, Printing, and Court of Revision.

Royal Templars' Outing.

Last night the members of the local council R. T. of T. had a most enjoyable drive to North Monaghan. They were received by the council there and proceeded to Grange Hall. An united meeting was held, Miss Sanderson of Peterborough acting as select councillor. They had eight initiations, and after the transaction of other routine, the following programme was rendered. Miss Owens, song, "There are lonely hearts to cherish"; Miss Middleton, recitation, "Just sixteen"; Mr. Lillico, "A speech."

Benefit Concert at Ashburnham.

A large number of persons attended the benefit lecture last night in Ashburnham, which was given in aid of Willie Mitchell, the blind boy. The Rev. S. T. Bartlett, of Lakefield, gave his entertaining and instructive lecture on "Horses" in his usual happy and interesting manner and was most attentively listened to by the large audience that was present. The entertainment proved a great success both financially and otherwise, and the poor boy in whose aid it was given, will be much benefitted by it.

—Prof. McDonald's dancing class met last evening in the opera house.

—Cobourg is making an effort to secure the consolidation of its debenture debt.

—An effort is being made to induce the Ontario Government to lease or purchase the college buildings at Cobourg for the use of some public or provincial institution.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The adjourned meeting of active members will be held in the Association hall to-night at 8 o'clock. Business election of directors and officers. Full attendance is requested.

Evangelistic Services.

Mr. Meikle's address last evening in St. Paul's church, was upon the words "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper, but who confesseth and forsaketh them, shall have mercy." He showed some of the ways in which men cover their sins. There are those who cover them, like Adam—trying to cast the blame of their sins upon others. There are those who cover them by making themselves out as good as their neighbours or by making much of their own good deeds. Such persons shall not prosper. By confession of sins, however, and by forsaking them, mercy shall be obtained.

The last meeting of the week will be held in St. Paul's church this evening at 7.45 o'clock.

Nogeys' Creek.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The concert at Nogeys' Creek last week is reported as being a treat. Prof. Lavery, of Janetville, and his quartette were a wonderful combination and capable of giving a first-class entertainment themselves. Rev. Mr. Snowdon acted as chairman. The concert was given instead of the usual tea meeting. Many of those who were in the habit of contributing baskets of cakes gave a money contribution instead. It cost them no more, and they saved a lot of trouble. A most enjoyable evening was spent, and the financial result was $57.85. The professor stayed with his father, and the rest of the visitors from Janetville were hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Cairncross.

Ontario Bye-Elections.

The death of Mr. Dunlop, of North Renfrew, and the resignation of Mr. Metcalfe, elected yesterday member of the House of Commons, create two vacancies in the Ontario Legislature. The Conservative majority in Renfrew was 88, and in Kingston only 29, so that the chances of the Liberals capturing both constituencies are good.

John White's Ambition.

The Conservatives of East Hastings meet on the 3rd prox. to choose a candidate to contest the riding in the election necessitated by Mr. Bardett's death. Mr. John White, ex-M.P., is desirous of getting the nomination, but the party is not united, and he may be given the go-by.

To Make it Hot for Haggart.

Hon. David Mills, speaking to a reporter in Toronto, intimated that during the coming session the Opposition would press to an issue the matter of the Section B contract, and would ascertain if the Governor-General would do his duty, or that there should be established one law for Quebec and another for Ottawa.

Society Notes.

Good Templars Elect Officers.

Carswell Lodge I.O.G.T. held their usual weekly meeting last night. Four candidates were initiated and several others proposed for membership. It was decided to hold an open meeting on Thursday, 11th February, and a committee was appointed to provide refreshments and arrange a programme. The lodge completed arrangements for the drive to Mother's Corners, which takes place to-night, members leaving Early's photograph gallery, 374½ George Street at a quarter to seven sharp. Those intending to go are requested to be there on time. The election of officers for the ensuing term then took place and resulted as follows:—

It was decided to have a joint public installation of officers with the Ashburnia lodge in their lodge room Ashburnham, on Tuesday, 9th February.

Court Langton C.O.F. met last evening in their lodge room.

Peterborough Lodge I.O.O.F., held their weekly meeting in their hall last night. There was a large attendance of members and visitors and three degrees were conferred. The new paraphernalia which had been ordered, and which was expected for last night, did not arrive. The members were disappointed, but a very pleasant meeting was held.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

Capt. Dion's elegant new hotel in this village is becoming quite a resort for sleighing parties this winter. On Wednesday night two sleigh loads of young people from Peterborough, numbering about thirty-two in all, arrived in our village on pleasure intent, making the air resound with their choruses. They came to a halt at Mr. Dion's hotel, and he kindly placed the parlors at their disposal, where a pleasant evening was spent in social amusement, after which an elegant supper was partaken of in the dining room, the tables being loaded down with toothsome edibles and all the delicacies of the season were noticeable on the tables. The genial proprietor did his utmost to give the young people a pleasant time, and it is safe to say that his kindness was appreciated by them, as they gave him three rousing cheers before departing for home. The Captain runs a first class hotel, and being of a genial disposition, providing excellent accommodation for visitors and having first class tables, will no doubt receive liberal patronage in the future.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1888 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEER, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

Representative for the District.

The results of the voting in the several agricultural societies of this district are to make Mr. W. J. Mr. Vance, who had held the position for six years and has made an excellent representative, had the unanimous support of West Peterborough, South Victoria and East Durham.

A Carnivorous Catamount.

Mr. J. W. McConnell, of Emily, brought to town to-day a wild cat he killed in his farm yard. It is supposed the animal came in search of fowl or something in the way of food. The cat made a desperate fight for life and liberty, but after an hour and a half's fight Mac. managed to knock the nine lives out of it. The brute is a monster and measures three feet in length, and those who have seen it at the C.P.R. hotel, where Mr. McConnel brought it, consider it a very awkward customer to handle when he had all his lives and wits about him.

Port Hope Ice Races.

There was a good attendance at the Port Hope ice races the first day, Tuesday, and the races passed off very successfully. The three minute money was taken by the following horses in the order named:—Dick Smith (Collins, Toronto), Mamie S. (Simpson, Lindsay), and Lady Eyskyk (Scott, Newcastle). In the 2.30 race the winners were: F.O.P. (Yeomans, Colborne), Mayflower (Dixon, Toronto), and Volunteer, (Collins, Toronto). Peterborough got in its work in the named race, two town horses getting a slice of the stakes. The winners were Johnny Newhall's "Gladstone," Jones' (Cobourg) "Alvie," and W. Croft's "Hazel Mac." The second day's races were equally successful. There were no local horses entered for the several events. The Port Hope Times says the following Peterborough gentlemen attended the races:—Messrs. Fred Jones, E. Brown, W. Morris, W. Croft, Jos Daly (Lindsay).

The Late Rev. G. H. Davis.

Dr. Douglas Pays an Eloquent Tribute to His Character and Memory.

The following eloquent tribute to the memory of the late Rev. George Henry Davis is found in the last number of the Christian Guardian, and is from the pen of Rev. Dr. Douglas, of Montreal:

The translation of the beloved George Henry Davis from the ministries and sorrows of earth to the rest, vision and reward of the heavenly state, demands a more than passing notice. A friendship familiar, and indeed sacred, for more than forty years, enables the writer to affirm that the departed was in many respects one of the most remarkable men whom the great Head of the Church has given to the ministry of Methodism in Canada. The mystic depth and spirituality of his inner life, shaded by his habitual reticence and instinctive modesty, veiled much of his nobler manhood from casual observers through the entire of his career. Born in the vicinity of London, England, in 1819, he was the son of an Anglican clergyman. The advantage of his early social conditions led to that easy eloquence and refinement of manner and address which gave him the impress of superiority on to the very close of life. His conversion was clear, definite and influential; it led him into communion with the Methodist church, when by that act he became alienated forever from his family. For five years he was engaged in mercantile pursuits, but the voice of the spirit responded to the call of the Church without, and he straightway became one of the ecclesia or called out, to the responsibilities of the ministry in British Methodism. It was to his life-lasting advantage that for three years he enjoyed the privileges of the Richmond Theological Institution, and never failed to express his thankfulness for the training which he there received, giving as it did to him, the resources of theological learning to the enrichment of his pulpit services and the widening of his ministerial power. In 1844 he was appointed to the Canada Eastern District, at that period in connection with the British Conference, and was stationed in the city of Montreal, then one circuit. Never, perhaps, did a young minister come to that city with greater prestige, and never was one called to fill a more difficult position. Graceful in person, gentle in manner and devout in spirit, the Methodism of that generation took him to its heart. On the other hand, he had to compete with men of rare distinction. Dr. Richey, precious in the ministry of his day for stately and enthralling eloquence; Charles Churchill, gifted with marked felicity of language and affluence of thought, were men difficult to follow, yet this gifted junior minister, unequal by reason of his youth to either the one or the other in the plenitude of their mental resources, carried with him a pathos and spiritual power, that mystic something we call unction, which gave him not only an equality of status, but an emphatic recognition. His early ministry was everywhere welcomed for its incisive and potent spirituality. A ministry began under auspices so full of promise, was continued with acceptance and power till admonished by the inevitable approach of physical decay, he, with honour, retired after some forty six years of faithful service. In Toronto, Brantford, Peterborough, Cobourg, Brockville and Quebec, with minor appointments, he exercised his ministry with signal fidelity, and in some cases with phenomenal success. In not a few circuits there are to be found seals of his apostleship in almost every leading family, which authenticate the power which he wielded as a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth to convict the judgment, to smite the conscience, and thus lead to the redemption of many. Manifold are the qualities in the character of this eminent minister which are worthy of our imitation. That ministry opened with a singular elevation in Christian character. His habits of devotion were maintained with ascetic regularity. With him the Scriptures were ever regnant, and he lived in the atmosphere of the most spiritual writings. The biographies of early Methodism, the rare spiritual introspective life of Madame Guyon, the matchless idyl of the ages; the "Imitation of Christ," by Kempis, and Jeremy Taylor's "Holy Living and Dying," were to him an abiding delight. He was eminently a minister of the Spirit. He lived under the restful indwelling comfort of the Holy Ghost, and carried the Divine afflatus with him, especially in his public ministrations. It was this consecration of his manhood which gave a certain nobility to his character. He knew nothing of the adroit diplomacy, which is ever on the alert for lucrative appointments or offices of distinction in the Church. Self-seeking had no place in his entire career. If he held official positions they came without his solicitation. He had the soul of honor; the characters of his brethren he held as a sacred trust. Secret detractors he spurned. He maintained a charity which thinketh no evil rejoicing not in iniquity, but in the truth. No man ever carried into the pulpit a higher ideal of grandeur of the preacher's mission. The enthusiasm of his soul was kindled as he stood before the people and delivered his spiritual discourses, the fruit of patient and prayerful elaboration. He spurned the artifices by which a cheap popularity is now secured. He scorned the effected liberalism of those who array themselves in the worn-out vestments of a latter-day Beecherism and assume a contempt for conservative theology by rash and inaccurate statements, designed to pander to a popular and pernicious taste. He shrank from that irreverance which is fatal to the sanctity of worship and which is an insult and degradation in the estimate of intelligent and devout hearers, an irreverance which seeks, with a pitiful ambition, to spice the discoveries with stale witticisms, with melancholy jokes, and with those sensational hits that wake a merriment over which, methinks, angels drop their tears, since experience attests that the residuum of such service is but the memory of the teacher's buffoonery. With the departed there was a tremulous and spiritual apprehension in every service that the immortal destiny of some soul might be influenced for a weal or woe that the eternities would declare, and hence all was tender, solemn, and soul-subduing, while commingled with the uplifting gladness that came from the full presence of God. The finest elements of his character came out in his pastoral relations. He truly wept with those that weep, and never were the cadences of his voice more attuned to comfort than when he stood by the couch of suffering and dissolution. His sympathies were broad, and his pen was ever enlisted on the side of right and justice. The citizen was never lost in the minister, and he was a factor influential in every community in which he dwelt by the appointment of the church.

In furnishing this inadequate sketch, it is not proposed to sculpture a Phydian statue so perfect that it is more than human. Our honored friend had infirmities, because he was a man of like passions with ourselves; but the elevation of his mind, the sanctity of his heart, his absolute consecration to the supreme ends of the ministry, his tenderness in all domestic relations, his faithfulness as a friend, will always abide as a blissful memory to all who knew him. Softly as the day declines along the hills, he declined into the valley of years. Exempted from disabling afflictions, his last conscious hour on earth was spent in preparation for service on a Sabbath evening. Suddenly the Master said, "It is enough." Behold the tabernacle of God was revealed. His ear heard the glad acclaim, "Well done," and from the bosom of watching weepers the faithful servant ascended and entered into the joy of his Lord, welcomed by many who will be the crown of his rejoicing in the day of the Lord Jesus. Head of the Church, whose Spirit fills and flows through faithful souls, give to our beloved Methodism a long succession of ministers like unto our beloved friend translated to the heavens.

GEORGE DOUGLAS.

FORT GARRY'S GATEWAY.

The Sole Relic of an Historic Structure of the Great Northwest.

At the upper end of the main street of Winnipeg is an interesting relic of the early days of the Canadian Northwest. It is the gateway of old Fort Garry, known far and wide before St. Paul and Minneapolis were ever heard of. Through that gate for many years hundreds of Indians passed to sell their loads of furs or skins to the agents of the Hudson Bay Company. It is said that once a year there was a grand carousal around the old gate. Christmas was the brightest day in the calendar for the poor red man, because it was the only occasion on which his white brethren in the fort would fill him up with whiskey. It was a long time between drinks, and on the red-letter day the untutored native indulged in one grand, glorious, royal drunk.

Through that old gate in 1869 Riel marched his Scotch and English prisoners when he incited the French half breeds to rebel and ordered the Governer, whom Canada had appointed over her new territory, to betake himself back to Ontario. Those were the most exciting days that Fort Garry ever saw, and it was a lucky thing for the few thousand English-speaking pioneers of the Northwest that the reign of terror ushered in by this irresponsible, half-crazy leader did not endure long. Near the old gate Riel placed Scott, the martyr of the first rebellion, against the wall of the fort and shot him. The wall has vanished. The place where Scott fell is marked by no memorial. But to every stranger who visits the old gate is shewn the spot where Scott stood.

THE OLD GATEWAY AT FORT GARRY.
Photographed from the interior.

The illustration gives an interior view of the entrance to Fort Garry as it appeared last summer. Not a foundation stone of the rest of the wall remains. The city extend beyond the fort, and the value of the land has led to the destruction of the interesting relic of early days in the Red River country. Twenty years ago the walls of Fort Garry enclosed several acres. Now the old gate is tumbling into complete ruin.

Through the old gate have rumbled thousands of specimens of that peculiar inventions, the Red River cart, some of which may still be seen in Winnipeg. Hundreds of them carried from St. Paul stores and supplies to Fort Garry. The carts were of home manufacture and were constructed entirely without iron, because the transporting of such heavy material to Fort Garry was too expensive for the use of it. The harness of the oxen that drew the carts was made of the raw hide of the buffalo dressed for the purpose.

Where the bustling city of 40,000 inhabitants now stands the prairie almost as level as a floor, was the grazing ground of great herds of buffaloes, which formed the staple article of food for the Indians. Their skins were brought by thousands into Fort Garry. Thirty-five years ago the territory was known on our side of the border as the Red River country. Fort Garry was famousas the chief post of the Hudson Bay Company. It derived its importance from the fact that it was at the junction of the Assiniboine and the Red rivers and was right on the border between the hundreds of miles of scrub between Ottawa and the fort and the great prairies and plains which extend to the Rocky Mountains. Soon after the close of the Riel rebellion Canada took more effective control of the region, and Fort Garry began to develop into an important city, with the crumbling gateway as its most interesting historical monument.—New York Sun.

A POSSIBLE CASE.

By Frank Stockton.

IN the fall of 1886 the steamship Sunda, from Southampton, was running along the southern coast of Long Island, not many hours from port, when she was passed by one of the great British liners outward bound. The tide was high, and the course of both vessels was nearer the coast than is usual—that of the Sunda being inside of the other.

As the two steamers passed each other there was a great waving of hats and handkerchiefs. Suddenly there was a scream from the Sunda. It came from Signora Rochita, the prima donna of an opera troupe which was coming to America in that ship.

"I have lost my bracelet," she cried in Italian, and then turning to the passengers she repeated the cry in very good English.

The situation was instantly comprehended by every one. It was late in the afternoon; the captain had given a grand dinner to the passengers, at which the prima donna had appeared in all her glories of ornamentation, and the greatest of these glories, a magnificent diamond bracelet was gone from the arm with which she had been enthusiastically waving her lace handkerchief.

The second officer, who was standing near, dashed into the captain's office and quickly reappeared with chart and instruments and made rapid calculation of the position of the vessel at the time of the accident, making an allowance for the few minutes that had passed since the first cry of the signora. After consultation with the captain and recalculations of the distance from land and some other points, he announced to the weeping signora that her bracelet lay under a little black spot he made on the chart, and that if she chose to send a diver for it she might get it, for the depth of water at that place was not great.

By profession I am a diver, and the next day I was engaged to search for the diamond bracelet of Signora Rochita. I had a copy of the chart, and having hired a small schooner, with several men who had been my assistants before, and taking with me all the necessary accoutrements and appliances I set out for the spot indicated, and by afternoon we were anchored, we believed, at it or very near it. I lost no time in descending. I wore of course, the usual diver's suit, but I took with me no tools nor any of the implements used by divers when examining wrecks, but carried in my right hand a brilliant electric lamp, connected with a powerful battery on the schooner. I held this by an insulated handle, in which there were two little knobs, by which I could light or extinguish it.

The bottom was hard and smooth, and lighting my lamp I began to look about me. If I approached the bracelet I ought to be able to see its sparkle, but after wandering over considerable space, I saw no sparkles nor anything like a bracelet. Suddenly, however, I saw something which greatly interested me. It was a hole in the bottom of the ocean, almost circular and at least ten feet in diameter. I was surprised that I had not noticed it before, for it lay not far from the stern of our vessel.

Standing near the rocky edge of the aperture, I held out my lamp and looked down. Not far below I saw the glimmering of what seemed to be the bottom of this subterranean well. I was seized with a desire to explore this great hole running down under the ordinary bottom of the sea. I signalled to be lowered, and, although my comrades were much surprised at such an order, they obeyed. and down I went to the well. The sides of this seemed rocky and almost perpendicular, but after descending about fifteen feet they receded on every side, and I found myself going down into a wide cavern, the floor of which I touched in a very short time.

Holding up my lamp and looking about me, I found myself in a sea cave of some thirty feet in diameter, with a dome-like roof, in which, a little to one side of the centre, was the lower opening of the well. I became very much excited; this was just the sort of place into which a bracelet or anything else of value might be expected to have the bad luck to drop. I walked about and gazed everywhere, but I found nothing but rocks and water.

I was about to signal to be drawn up when above me I saw what appeared to be a flash of darkness coming down through the well. With a rush and a whirl it entered the cavern and in a moment I recognised the fact that a great fish was swooping around and about me. Its movements were so rapid and irregular, now circling along the outer edge of the floor of the cavern, then mounting above me until its back seemed to scrape the roof that I could not form a correct idea of the size of the creature. It seemed to me to be at least twenty feet long. I stood almost stupified, keeping my eyes as far as possible fixed upon the swiftly moving monster.

Sometimes he came quite near me, when I shuddered in every fibre, and then he shot away, but ever gliding with powerful undulations of his body and tail, around, about and above me. I did not dare to signal to be drawn up, for fear that the terrible creature would enter the well hole with me. Then he would probably touch me, perhaps crush me against the wall, but my mind was capable of forming no plans. I only hoped the fish would descend and disappear by the way he came.

My mind was not in its strongest condition, being much upset by a great trouble, and I was so frightened that I really did not know what I ought to do, but I had sense enough left to feel sure that the fish had been attracted into the cavern by my lamp. Obviously, the right thing to do was to extinguish it, but the very thought of this nearly drove me into a frenzy. I could not endure to be left alone with the shark in darkness and water. It was an insane idea, but I felt that whatever happened I must keep my eyes upon him.

Now the great fish began to swoop nearer and nearer to me, and then, suddenly changing its tactics, it receded to the most distant wall of the cavern, where, with its head towards me, it remained for the first time motionless. But this did not continue long. Gently turning over on its side, it opened its great mouth, and in an instant, with a rush, it came directly at me. My light shone full into its vast mouth, glistening with teeth, and there was a violent jerk which nearly threw me from my feet, and all was blackness. The shark had swallowed my lamp. By rare good fortune he did not take my hand also.

Now I frantically tugged at my signal rope. Without my lamp, I had no thought but a desire to be pulled out of the water, no matter what happened. In a few minutes I sat dressed of my diving suit and almost insensible upon the deck of the schooner. As soon as I was able to talk I told my astonished comrades what had happened, and while we were discussing this strange occurrence one of them, looking over the side, saw, slowly rising to the surface, the body of a dead shark.

"By George," he cried, "here is the beast. He has been killed by the current from the battery."

We all crowded to the rail and looked down upon the monster. He was about ten feet long and it was plain that he had died for making himself the connection between the poles of the battery.

"Well," said the Captain presently. "I suppose you are not going down again?"

"Not I," I replied, "I give up this job."

Then suddenly I cried:

"Come boys, all of you. Make fast to that shark and get him on board. I want him."

Some of the men laughed, but my manner was so earnest that in a moment they all set about to help me. A small boat was lowered, lines were made fast to the dead fish with block and tackle, and we hauled him on deck. I then got a butcher's knife from the cabin and began to cut him open.

"Look here, Tom," exclaimed the Captain, "that's nonsense. Your lamp's all smashed to pieces, and if you get it out it will never be any good to you."

"I don't care for the lamp," I answered, working away energetically; "but an idea has struck me. It's plain that this creature has a fancy for shining things. If he swallowed a lamp there is no reason why he should not have swallowed anything else that glittered."

"Oho!" cried the Captain, "you think he swallowed the bracelet, do you?"

And instantly everybody crowded more closely about me.

I got out the lamp. Its wires were severed as smoothly as if they had been cut by shears. Then I worked on. Suddenly there was a cry from every man. Something glimmered in the dark interior of the fish. I grasped it and drew it out. It was not a bracelet, but a pint bottle, which glimmered like a glowworm. With the bottle in my hand I sat upon the deck and gazed at it. I shook it. It shone brighter. A bit of oiled silk was tied tightly over the cork, and it was plain to see that it was partly filled with a light colored oil, into which a bit of phosphorus had been dropped, which, on being agitated, filled the bottle with a dim light.

But there was something more in the bottle than phosporous and oil. I could see a tin tube, corked at each end, the exposed parts of the corks spreading enough to prevent the tin from striking the glass. We all knew that this was one of those bottles containing a communication of some sort, and float about until they are picked up. The addition of the oil and the phosphorus was intended to make it visible by night as well as by day, and this was plainly the reason why it had been swallowed by a light-loving shark.

I poured out the oil and extracted the tube. Wiping it carefully, I drew out the corks, and then from the little tin cylinder I pulled a half sheet of note paper rolled up tightly. I unrolled it and read these words:

"Before I jump overboard I want to let people know that I killed John Polhemus. So I have fixed up this bottle. I hope it may be picked up in time to keep Jim Barker from being hung. I did think of leaving it on the steamer, but I might change my mind about jumping overboard, and I guess this is the best way. The clothes I wore and the hatchet I did it with are under the woodshed back of Polhemus's house.

"HENRY RAMSEY."

I sprang to my feet with a yell. Jim Barker was my brother, now lying in prison, under the sentence of death for the murder of Polhemus, all the circumstantial evidence, and there was no other, had been against him. The note was dated eight months back. Oh, cruel fool of a murderer!

The shark was thrown overboard, and we made best speed to port, and before the end of the afternoon I had put Ramsey's note into the hands of the lawyer who had charge of my brother's case.

Fortunately he was able to identify the handwriting and signature of Ramsey, a man who had been suspected of the crime, but against whom no evidence could be found. The lawyer was almost as excited as I was by the contents of this note, and early the next morning we started together for the house of the Polhemus family. There, under the woodshed, we found carefully buried a blood-stained shirt and vest and the hatchet.

My impulse was to fly to my brother, but this my lawyer forbade.

Returning to the city, I thought I might as well make my report to Signora Rochita. The lady was at home and saw me. When I had finished my story she looked at me steadily for a moment, and then said:

"I have something to tell you, but I hardly know how to say it. I never lost my bracelet. I intended to wear it at the Captain's dinner, but when I went to put it on I found the clasp was broken, and as I was late I hurried to the table without the bracelet, and thought of it no more until, when we were all waving and cheering, I glanced at my wrist and found it was not there. Then, utterly forgetting that I had not put it on I thought it had gone into the sea. It was only this morning that opening what I supposed to be the empty box I saw it. Here it is."

I never saw such gorgeous jewels.

"Madam," said I, "I am glad you thought you lost it, for I have gained something better than them."

"You are a good man," said she, and then she paid me liberally for my services. When this business had been finished, she asked:

"Are you married?" I answered that I was not.

"Is there any one you intend to marry?"

"Yes," said I.

"What is her name?" she asked.

"Sarah Jane McElroy."

"Wait a minute," said she, and she retired into another room. Presently she returned and handed me a little box.

"Give this to your lady love," said she, "when she looks at it, she will never forget that you are a brave man."

When Sarah Jane opened the box, there was a little pin with a diamond head, and she gave a scream of delight.

"I don't need anything," she said, "to remind me that you are a brave man. I am going to buy furniture with it."

I laughed and remarked that "every little helps."

When I sit with my wife by my side before the fire in our comfortable home and consider that the parlor carpet and the furniture and pictures and the hall and stair carpet and all the dining-room furniture, with the china and the glass and the linen, and all the kitchen utensils, and two bedroom suits on the second story, both hardwood, and all the furniture and fittings of a very pleasant room for a single man, the third-story front, were bought with the pin that the Signora gave to Sarah Jane, I am filled with profound respect for things that glitter. And when I look on the other side of the fire and see Jim smoking his pipe just as happy as anybody, then I say to myself that if there are people who think that this story is too much out of the common I wish they would step in here and talk to Jim about it. There is a fire in his eye when he tells you how glad he is that it was the shark instead of him, that is very convincing.

PRYOR'S BLACK BOOK.

By Elmer Dane.

HEN Robert Pryor, accompanied by his fair young bride, established himself in the town of Wichville to practice law, he did so with the idea firmly rooted in his mind that to attain power and success he must thoroughly acquaint himself with the lives and characters of his fellow-citizens, as well as become thoroughly versed in the lore of his profession.

In addition, then, to the Index Rerum, which was to contain notes of decisions, citations to authorities, and different legal points as he should chance upon them and deem them valuable, he determined to procure a book which should be unique after its kind, and serve the other purpose of containing notes upon men.

Accordingly he had the book-binder make, after his instructions, a large, thick volume, the pages of which were divided into separate blank spaces, each to be devoted to the record of one individual. Inasmuch as the accumulations of facts contained would be likely to make the book valuable, the cover was made of sheet iron, encased in black leather, and the edges were protected by iron plates; this to preserve it in case of fire. It was secured by a combination lock, and having a desk built for it in one corner of his private office, the lawyer had chained it to the wall; thus none but he could read it, and it would have been difficult for anyone to steal it.

Business progressed fairly with him from the start. He tried to keep up with his profession, read and studied persistently the first few years, and his legal notebook, the Index Rerum, showed signs of his researches. But gradually the other book engrossed his time and thoughts. He found the occupation of sifting the lives of men and discovering their secrets so fascinating that he finally became devoted to it. He would open the Black Book when alone and gloat over the pages that contained so many dark records.

How many men were there whose lives and reputations he held in his grasp! How many women, now presiding over proud and happy homes, whom he could confound and blast forever by flashing the light from his book upon some sin of their past!

There was hardly a family in the community whose skeleton in the closet he had not unearthed. There was scarcely one business man, scarcely one professional man—not even among ministers of the gospel—in whose lives had not taken place some transactions, which he knew, and which could not bear the light of day.

The lawyer did his work thoroughly. He did not content himself with rumors, reports, hearsay evidence; he was satisfied only with absolute proof. And no gossip had a keener scent for scandal, no detective had greater skill to ferret out a clue, no artificer had more patience in building up his structure, no priest more success in inducing the penitent to lay bare his soul in the confessional than did Lawyer Pryor. When he noted down a fact, he gave the particulars in detail, and made a memorandum as to how and by whom each circumstance could be proved. He allowed no chance for mistake. His records were terrible but true.

What object had he in view? He did not know himself; the occupation had simply become a mania with him.

Yet it did give him power, the power born of fear. There was not a man in the community more dreaded than he. When he spoke no one was listened to with greater respect or less enthusiasm. The people collectively did not know the cause of his power, the reason for their fears; but each individual inwardly felt that this man's favor it would be well to court.

If there ever arose anything that he wished them to do, he would privately drop them a hint which made them tremblingly obey. He sometimes used his power to feed his appetite; he would use the secret of one man's life to wrest from him the knowledge he had of another's.

He could have held any office in the gift of that public, had he so desired. He preferred to be the deus ex cathedra, the power behind the throne. Once only did he accept office. For one term he was prosecuting attorney.

His cross-questioning was so feared that the terrified criminals preferred to plead guilty and throw themselves on the mercy of the court than to be excoriated by him. He declined re-election because he disliked publicity. But if any candidate wished to be sure of success, all he had to do was to secure the support of Lawyer Pryor, which, however, the latter was rather chary of giving.

If a close observer would have kept watch of the suits in which Pryor was engaged, he would have noted that very few of them came to trial; they were settled or compromised out of court. He never exacted money for his silence; he never blackmailed anyone. No people could be exactly sure as to what he did know concerning them, but he would make them understand that he knew enough, and the uncertainty, the very mystery of it would make them fear to cross him.

He used his power far from maliciously. A great many acts of reparation and restitution were brought about by his quiet but meaning suggestions.

He eventually ceased to read law altogether. The dust of years settled on the tomes of his library, and the spiders spun their webs from shelf to shelf. His one clerk did all the draughting of legal papers.

More and more the lawyer became absorbed in his dissection of lives. Page after page of his Black Book was filled with black lines chronicling black facts—black, black, black!

His form became bent so as to suggest an animated interrogation point. When he encountered men in the course of business his mental attitude was always that of inquiry; "What secret have you?" He would, as it were, tap his finger on every breast and, looking into the eyes as if to pierce the very soul, mentally ask: "What have you here! What have you hid away in your heart that you think no eye shall see?"

Strange as it may seem, he led another life in connection with this. His domestic life ran along in a smooth and tranquil stream side by side with the murky waters of his professional existence. He had separated one entirely from the other.

When he entered the door of his home, he became a different man. In the bosom of his family, by the side of his family, by the side of his wife still young and still beautiful, whom he loved with the undiminished fervor of his youth, whom he called an angel and still believed to be so; surrounded by his children, healthy, happy, and bright, he reverted to his natural kindlier self. His wife was a thoroughly domestic woman. She knew nothing, she cared nothing about his business. She enjoyed all the comforts and luxury that moderate wealth could procure, and, crowned with the love of husband and children, her heart was content. Home and its joys supplied the needs of friendship to Pryor. He had no friends. His position in the professional and business world did not invite friendship; fear does not inspire it. So there was no one to warn him of danger.

The good in men faded out of his knowledge; the evil in mankind assumed undue proportions in his mind. The one fault in the best men's lives became to him the symbol of their character. This morbid view of humanity never tempted him to do any of the sins he saw committed by others. He was always objective, he never focused the lenses through which he gazed upon himself. He was always the cynical, sneering spectator. He was the surgeon who with unerring hand drove the probe to the canker-spot.

Five Missionaries and Seven Converts Meet a Terrible Fate—All the Mission Buildings, Schools and Granaries Burned.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Royal Gazette last evening published the following in relation to the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale:

"OSBORNE, Jan. 26.

"I must again give expression of my deep sense of the loyalty and affectionate sympathy evinced by my subjects in every part of my empire on an occasion so sad and tragical than any, but one, which has befallen me and mine, as well as the nation, in the overwhelming misfortune of the death of my dearly beloved grandson, suddenly cut off in the flower of his age, full of promise for the future.

"That he was so amiable and gentle, and endearing himself to all, renders it hard for the sorely stricken parents, his dear young bride and fond grandmother to bow with submission to the inscrutable decrees of Providence.

"The sympathy of millions, touching and visibly expressed, is deeply gratifying, and I wish, in our own name and that of our children, to express from our heart warm gratitude for all these testimonials of sympathy with us in appreciation of our dear grandson, whom I loved as a son, and whose devotion to me was as great as that of a son could be in help and consolation to me and mine.

"My bereavements of the last 30 years of my reign have been indeed heavy and though the labors, anxieties and responsibilities inseparable from my position have also been great, yet it is my earnest prayer that God will continue to give me health and strength to work for the good and happiness of my dear country and empire while life lasts. VICTORIA."

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 29.—Frightful accounts come from Siberia of the condition of the peasants who have emigrated from Russia under the pressure of starvation.

Fourteen thousand of these peasants are destitute, nearly frozen with the cold, and many of them dying of typhus fever and other diseases in sheds that are only an apology for covering.

It is claimed that the Russian priests in Siberia refuse to give the last sacraments to the dying emigrants because the latter have no money to pay with.

PAUL LOANDO, Africa, Jan. 29.—Advices from Boma, in the Congo Free State, bring news that the American Mission established on the Congo River, in the neighborhood of Pallaballa station, has been made the scene of a terrible tragedy, in which five American missionaries, three men and two women, seven native converts and servants lost their lives at the hands of murderers. All of the buildings, schools, residences and granaries were burned and the cultivated fields laid waste. No evidence has been discovered which would conclusively show who the perpetrators were, but suspicion points to a number of half-civilized Portuguese natives.

MADRID, Jan. 29.—The proclamation of a state of siege at Bilbao has been the means of cowing the riotous work of the copper miners in the vicinity of that city. Their courage oozed away when Gen. Loma took charge of affairs. He gave the strikers to understand that should the occasion arise he would shoot all the rioters down without mercy. Everything is quiet yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 29.—The powers of several governors of Russian provinces have been increased to the extent of allowing them to declare martial law. This is to meet the dangerous machinations of the Nihilists, who are taking advantage of the suffering of the peasants from the famine to incite them to revolt.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Clement Lempriere, cashier of the Provincial Insurance Company, has committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a train on the Underground Railway. He was cut to pieces.

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—Baron Louis von Haber, the founder of many banks and one of the best known financiers in Austria, is dead, aged 80 years.

VIENNA, Jan. 29.—At the Schneider murder trial yesterday Mrs. Schneider broke down and acknowledged her complicity in the killing of the eight servant girl.

DRESDEN, Jan. 29 —The Queen of Saxony is ill with influenza.

Broke Three of His Ribs.

GUELPH, Jan. 29.—At Goldie's Mills this morning a moving coal truck jumped the track and crushed Harry Brabson between the wall and truck, breaking three ribs and otherwise bruising him.

Dropped Dead in the Library.

GODERICH, Jan. 29.—Thomas Troy, aged 56, a well-known resident of the town, dropped dead in the Mechanics' Institute library room yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. He was formerly a farmer in Wawanosh, but some years ago disposed of his farm, and came to Goderich to live.

Probably an Elopement.

ORILLIA, Jan. 29 —John Hughes and Katie Chisamore of the Barrie-road are away from home and everything points to an elopement.

The Ottawa Citizen Sold.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—It is stated that Mr. R. W. Shannon of Kingston, has purchased The Citizen, and will arrive here on Saturday to take possession of it. The purchase price is said to have been $30,000.

RECIPROCITY.

Mr. Hale Reviews the History of the Movement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—In House yesterday Mr. Hale related at great length the history of the reciprocity movement, the helping hand it had received, the delays and hindrance which he claimed had been put in its pathway and the results to the present time. Mr. Hale went on to say that the people of the United States had given a generous welcome to the reciprocity scheme from the moment that it appeared in Congress, and that no measure of the present administration had received more hearty public support than it. He did not hesitate in stating here and now as the result of his observation that that section of the McKinley Act which contained the reciprocity feature was the part of the measure which had floated the whole act, and was that part of the bill which kept it from being swamped by the storm which, with or without reason, broke upon it from the day of its passage. The great merits of other parts of the McKinley bill would have sunk under a sea of obloquy and would never have been seen or appreciated if the reciprocity clause had not kept the whole structure from going down. Mr. Hale then discussed the effects of the reciprocity arrangements made with Brazil, Cuba and Porto Rico, the Dominican Republic, Germany, the Hawaiian Islands and the British West Indian colonies. The added trade gained with Cuba as to flour under the reciprocity arrangement, he said, would prove the wisdom of the reciprocity feature of the Tariff Act of 1890.

In reply to questions from Mr Vest, Mr Hale explained that the new treaty with Spain would not take full effect till July, 1892, but that in meantime there was a transitory arrangement in force. The reciprocity arrangement concluded with Germany, Mr. Hale said, was important both in a commercial and a political view. A reduction of duty on a very important list of American agricultural produce had been obtained. One immediate effect of the reciprocity provision of the Tariff Act so far as Germany was concerned in the power given to the President to levy duty on German sugar was to bring about an agreement removing the prohibition on American pork into German ports in September last, and this had been followed by Sweden and Norway, Denmark, France, Italy and Austria. It was here as in Cuba and in Brazil that the tremendous leverage of the power of the President to reimburse the duty on sugar had worked and brought about these concessions to American trade.

Mr. Hale then referred to the reciprocity arrangements made with the British Government in regard to its colonies in the West Indies, and said that the British Government showed no inclination whatever to enter into negotiations under the reciprocity provision of the Tariff Act touching their colonies until after the Brazilian, Spanish, Dominican and German reciprocity arrangements had shown that the provision of Congress on the subject was to be a complete success.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The President yesterday sent to Congress the additional correspondence in the Chilian matter. First was Chili's answer to the ultimatum of the 21st, dated Jan. 25. It was full and complete and on the lines already published.

There was a general feeling of satisfaction prevalent in the House that the Chilian question was to be amicably settled by diplomatic methods.

On motion of Mr. Blount the message and correspondence were referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Great applause followed the reading.

Almost immediately after the reading of the journal in the Senate the President's message and correspondence on Chilian question was received. It was read and was listened to attentively. Mr. Sherman, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, said: "I desire to say that I, and every member of the Senate, I believe, will heartily concur in the congratulations over the hopeful and honorable settlement to both parties of this unfriendly difficulty and unpleasant incident."

OLD CRIME RECALLED.

Recalled By the Attempted Suicide of a Canadian Woman.

GALT, Jan. 29.—A despatch from Chicago recently stated that a young woman by the name of Hannah Boyd, who has been living in that city for some time, becoming discouraged in her attachment for a young man in that city, has become deranged and has been placed in confinement. The young women referred to is the same who was arrested at St. Catharines as an accomplice in the celebrated poisoning case in Galt, brought here and kept in Berlin jail for some time in the hope that some confession might be obtained from her which would afford a clue to the guilty party or parties.

Uncle Sam is Mad.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—There is much indignation at the Treasury Department over the arrest of two of the United States officers at Montreal upon a charge of conspiracy preferred by a tailor of that city. Strong intimations are said to have been given that unless the Canadian authorities can protect the United States customs officials, who are stationed there for the convenience of Canadian railways, from persecutions of this sort those officials will be withdrawn and the examination of baggage and other services now rendered by them will be performed at the frontier, requiring delays of trains for that purpose.

A Batoche Rebel Wants $18,000 Damages From the Government.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Emanuel Champagne of Batoche, to whom a fiat was granted in September last, has entered a suit in the Exchequer Court against the Government claiming $18,000 damages for live stock, store goods, etc., including $5500 worth of furs alleged to have been looted by the troops under General Middleton after the taking of Batoche in the rebellion of 1885. Chrysler & Lewis, Champagne's counsel, claim that General Middleton's famous grey charger was Champagne's property, and was improperly confiscated and sold by the crown. W.D. Hogg, Q.C., for the crown claims that Champagne was in arms as a rebel, and his property was damaged during the taking of Batoche.

A Stallion Kills Two Persons.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 28.—A vicious stallion in the barn of Frank Brown of Boston yesterday kicked Brown and his wife so that they died. The latter went to the barn, when, without warning, the animal kicked her on the head, fracturing her skull. Her husband went to her rescue. While he was raising his wife from the ground the stallion kicked him on the temple, also fracturing his skull.

Struck Down By a Train.

RICHWOOD, Ont., Jan. 28.—William Rupert was standing on the track in a cutting when a train dashed round the curve and struck him down, mutilating the body very much and dragging it along the road some distance. Deceased, who was 26 years of age, leaves a young widow and an infant child.

35 Shot In His Ankle.

BERTON, Ont., Jan. 29.—A gun which was resting against the wall in the house of Thomas Waran of Adjola, fell down and was discharged, the contents lodging in the ankle of Waran's son. Doctors Wright and Dunning extracted 35 shot from the wounded limb, and the patient will recover.

Cars to Run 100 Miles an Hour.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 29 —A charter has been granted to an electric railway company that proposes to build an electric road from here to Chicago. The track will be a bee-line and trains will run 100 miles an hour, making the trip in 2½ hours instead of eight, as at present.

ELLEN M'CLAREY DEAD.

THE TERRIBLE KEPPEL TRAGEDY RECALLED.

She First Confessed to the Murder and Then Denied Her Story—Arrested but Efforts to Secure a Conviction Were Futile.

WIARTON, Ont., Jan. 30.—The once celebrated Ellen McClarey, who was supposed to be implicated in the Keppel tragedy, the killing of James Bailey and his hired man about five years ago, is dead. About the time above mentioned James Bailey, who resided on lot 4, con. 20, Keppel, came to Wiarton with a load of wood, returning early in the evening. He was seen at his home, and shortly afterwards flames were seen issuing from the roof of his house. All efforts to enter the building by those who first arrived proved fruitless. After the building was down the remains of Bailey and his hired man was taken therefrom. Both bodies showed unmistakable evidence that the men were murdered, as the skulls were broken in and deep gashes were shown in the flesh. A post mortem was held and the verdict was that the deceased had come to their death by foul play.

Detectives were at once put on the track, and Ellen McClarey, who had been intimate with Bailey some time previous to this, was spotted out as likely to have had a hand in the matter. A detective in the shape of a peddler visited the home of the McClarey's and persuaded Ellen to accompany him, which she did, and while in company together one night she confessed that she, with one King, a young man who still resides in this section, had planned and executed the murder of Bailey and his hired man. Immediately the two were placed in jail.

At the trial they both denied the charge, and there being no further evidence in connection with it they were released The young girl did not amount to much after this. She married a shiftless fellow by the name of Small, who was quite as small as his name. He did not do much for her, and she returned to her parents' home, where she died, only a few rods from where the murder was committed. She made no confession and to all appearances dying as she had lived. Whether the facts of the dark deed will now ever come to light or not is doubtful, and the two murdered men will, like the other Keppel murders, be unavenged.

MINERS KILLED.

Frightful Dynamite Explosion in the East Templeton Phosphate Mines.

EGANVILLE, Ont., Jan. 30.—Still another dynamite explosion has taken place with terrible results at the Netherland Phosphate Company's mines in the 10th range of East Templeton. Three men were killed, while others were severely injured The dead men's names are given as Prudhomme, Seave and Martin. The former was a foreman. Among those injured were David Power and Murchy of Buckingham.

Queer Way to "Help" a Man.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Walter J. Kempton, 26 years old, good looking and well educated, left a widowed mother in Montreal, Canada, some months ago and came to New York. He got to drinking. One night he went into the Madison-square Mission. Colonel Henry K. Glidden, one of its patrons, became interested in him and said he would help him. Through Glidden he was employed as bookkeeper in Turner's book store. He did well for a time. A few days ago he started on a spree. Colonel Glidden had said to him, "Walter, the next time you feel tempted to drink send for me and I will help you."

Kempton did send for him. Glidden's method of aiding him was to have him arrested and yesterday he was sentenced to the City Prison for six months.

"That's a peculiar way to help a man," said Kempton as he was led out of court.

She Wanted to Marry the Girl.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 30.—Alice Mitchell, who murdered her former bosom friend, Frederica Ward, on Monday afternoon, almost beheading her with a razor, is thought to be insane.

The only reason given so far by Miss Mitchell for the killing is that she loved Freda so she preferred to see her dead rather than be deprived of her love. The girls were schoolmates at the higher school, a fashionable girls' school in this city, and had been friends many years.

Alice Mitchell had tried to persuade Freda to run away with her, saying she wanted to marry her.

Carried the Secret 25 Years.

JUNO, Tenn., Jan. 30.—Henry Armstrong died from the grip night before last, and when the neighbors began to prepare the body for the grave it was discovered that the dead man was a woman, who had worked for 25 years as a farm hand in this community, and during all this time had not disclosed her sex. Physicians examined the corpse of Henry and found a well-developed female, about 42 years of age, who had borne children early in life. The mystery of her life will probably never be known.

Fast New York-Chicago Mail.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Second Assistant Postmaster-General Bell, speaking of the New York Central's offer to put on a fast mail train to leave New York at 4.30 p.m. and arrive in Chicago at 10 a.m. the next day, said that the Government was anxious to enter into any fair arrangement with the road, but he thought the train ought not to leave New York before 6 p.m., in order to meet the needs of New York business men.

The train proposed by the New York Central for the mail service would cover the distance between New York and Chicago in 17½ hours. The Chicago limited, the fastest train now run beyond Buffalo, covers the distance in a little less than 24 hours.

Stormy Weather on the Atlantic.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Three steamers came into port yesterday from European ports. They looked like icebergs. All were from British harbors. The White Star steamship Majestic took 6 days 20 hours and 40 minutes to make the journey, which she usually does in six days. Purser Richard Perry said this trip of the Majestic was the roughest he had experienced, although he had crossed the ocean hundreds of times.

CARLING NOMINATED

BY THE LONDON CONSERVATIVES LAST EVENING.

The Minister of Agriculture to Oppose Mr. Hyman—Barr to be Unopposed by South Renfrew Conservatives—Robert McGreevy's "Moment of Weakness."

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Hon. John Carling, Minister of Agriculture, again received the nomination of the Liberal-Conservative convention here to-night, as their candidate in the coming bye-election.

NO OPPOSITION.

Henry Barr Will Succeed Mr. Dunlop in North Renfrew.

PEMBROKE, Jan. 30.—The Reformers having selected Henry Barr, farmer, as a candidate for the vacancy in North Renfrew caused by the death of Mr. A. Dunlop, the Conservatives held a convention to-day and decided not to offer any opposition. Mr. Barr will therefore be elected by acclamation.

Robert's "Moment of Weakness."

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Robert H. McGreevy, the exiled alleged boodler, writes from New York stating that the real conspirators were not Murphy and himself, but his brother, Hon. Thomas McGreevy, and the Connolly brothers. In conclusion, he announces his intention of returning to Canada, and adds: "I admit that in a moment of weakness and folly I took action to recover on a note of $400,000 made by Michael Connolly in favor of O. E. Murphy and which I bought from the latter, but we did not conspire and I had no intention to defraud him or even meant to do it. All I expected to recover was what Murphy had given Connolly when the latter was sick and in need, attending him, etc., the $3000, and when I discovered that the facts of date and place of note could not be proven I withdrew the action and paid all costs."

Dr. Montagu's New Overcoat.

DUNNVILLE, Ont., Jan. 30.—Last night Dr. Montague, M.P., was the guest of the Belleville Conservative Club in Oneida, and was presented with a magnificent fur overcoat and a present for Mrs. Montague.

THE BUDGET FROM QUEBEC.

An Ex-Premier Scores a Point Against Pelletier.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—The Courrier du Canada yesterday gave Mercier a dressing down in true French style. "Never before," says the Langevin organ, "has such a revolting crime been committed against Canada as the Langlais scandal with which Mercier is so deeply connected. Instead of parading himself on the hustings, Mercier, with the rest of his accomplices, ought to be in jail."

The Courrier proves conclusively from the pages of L'Electeur itself that the Langlais $25,000 boodle job was fixed up by Mercier. It shows that on Feb. 19 he was in Montreal when he received a telegram from Pacaud to come down to Quebec. He obeyed and on the following Monday morning, the 21st, the job was fixed up in Quebec and that afternoon Mercier left for Sorel.

The article is one of the strongest denunciations of the boodle brigade which has yet appeared.

Arrests Promised.

The Witness this afternoon states that it is understood on account of the revelations of yesterday that the Mercier gang are to be arrested. So far as I can find out there is no confirmation of this statement and it is generally discredited.

The illness of Judge Mathieu has practically adjourned the commission sine die. The two other commissioners held a short session this morning, but did not do any business.

Whelan is very ill, the exertion of giving evidence having caused a relapse.

Son-in-law Gosin is doing a great deal of talk, but the introduction of his personality into the case is the subject of considerable rejoicing on the part of his Conservative friends.

Jimmy McShane, in a lengthy article in The Star to-day, denies the truth of Whelan's charges as regards himself. He never got a cent from the contractor, he says, and is ready to swear to it.

Mr. Laurier Improving.

Mr. Laurier is improved in health greatly within the past day or two and may go up to Ontario next week.

The Mercier charges against Pelletier are causing considerable talk just now, although Pelletier has denied the truth of them categorically. The Mercierites are trying their hardest to make some of the mud stick In point of fact this particular instance is looked upon as the best point Mercier has so far made in the campaign.

The Baie des Chaleurs Report.

QUEBEC, Jan. 30.—According to an evening paper Judge Jette has written to a friend here that he is now engaged with his colleagues, Judges Baby and Davidson, completing the final report of the Baie des Chaleurs Commission, which will be presented to the Lieutenant-Governor within the next 15 days.

Drop in Sealskins.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 30.—Private telegraphic advices from London state that the sealskin market is flat. Prices at the last sale ruled from 39 to 41 shillings, an average of 40 shillings having been the price obtained.

This means that after commissions, freight, insurance and exchange is paid, about $6 is the average price which will accrue to the seller. It is stated that one sealing firm has lost over $25,000 by the drop.

The losses are even greater on account of the high prices paid to seal hunters. Some firms who were anxious to freeze out others offered as high as $4 for each skin to hunters, and several have signed articles at that rate. If prices in London do not advance there will be big losses all around next season.

The cause of the decline in prices is unknown. One theory is that the exceptionally mild winter has had something to do with the demand for furs. Another reason is that the quietness in commercial circles is making itself felt.

JOHN MURPHY.

A Prominent Montreal Dry Goods Merchant's Escape from Danger!

How Serious Trouble Was Averted.

The vast army of newspaper readers in Montreal, and thousands throughout the Dominion, will, without hesitation, quickly recognize the above cut, reproduced from a photo by Notman.

Mr. John Murphy, of the well-known and popular firm of John Murphy & Co., retail dry goods merchants, of Montreal, is a gentleman who is widely known and highly respected in social and commercial life. Mr. Murphy commenced business in one of the stores he now occupies just a quarter of a century ago; and during that long period has seen many changes, not only in the dry goods business, but in the growth and prosperity of the commercial metropolis as well.

The writer well remembers Mr. Murphy's debut—his first appearance in the dry goods trade on his own account, and has watched with pleasure and unbounded satisfaction Mr. Murphy's continued years of success. His premises have been greatly enlarged from time to time; and to-day Mr. Murphy stands at the head of one of the finest equipped retail dry goods stores in Montreal.

Mr. Murphy's motto in life has ever been "upward and onward," and through years of commercial depression and business adversity, Mr. Murphy has always maintained his secure business standing, and has steadily gone forward to greater honor and success.

Mr. Murphy's business career has been an eminently honorable one, and the young men of our country, who aspire to become merchants, can find no more noble example or a guide to business success than John Murphy.

To obtain the confidence of the public—especially of the ladies—and to maintain this binding link unbroken for so many years is, both from a commercial and a moral point of view a grand and noble victory, of which any man mean may well feel proud.

Mr. Murphy in his life time has been blessed with a good vigorous constitution; but like thousands of other men who at times confine themselves too closely to the many calls and details of an extensive business had thoughtlessly neglected necessary exercise and rest; he overworked mind and body too much, and ere he was fully aware of the danger, or, Mr. Murphy found himself a subject of nervousness, indigestion and dyspepsia at various intervals. These are serious, annoying and terrible ailments for a business man to contend against. They wrest from the sufferer his vim, energy, snap and true strength, and often are forerunners of alarming and fatal diseases.

Last October Mr. Murphy had a severe attack of nervousness and indigestion, which became so serious that prompt measures were necessary in order to get rid of the troubles. Upon former occasions, when these troubles came upon Mr. Murphy, he found but a small measure of relief from physicians. During the attack referred to, in October, a friend urged Mr. Murphy to use that wonderful and popular remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. The medicine was procured upon his friend's recommendation; and now Mr. Murphy's letter to the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound will give the reader a true idea of its great worth and usefulness, and must prove conclusively its power over suffering and disease.

Mr. Murphy says:—"Indigestion and nervousness have been my troubles for years; and, having had a somewhat severe attack in October last, I bought a bottle of your Paine's Celery Compound, taking it in a little water as directed, and before retiring at night. I derived almost immediate benefit from its use, and am now at the fourth bottle. I can testify, therefore, from my experience, in all honesty, that it is a first-rate tonic, and am glad, from my improved health, that I gave it a trial."

It is well known that Mr. Murphy is no advocate or admirer of patent medicines; he has never used them or countenanced them in any way; and here let it be understood that, had it not been for his friend's recommendation, Mr. Murphy, doubtless, would now be under the impression that Paine's Celery Compound was but an ordinary patent, made simply to sell and draw in the dollars of the ignorant, uneducated and unwary of our people.

To day Mr. Murphy classes Paine's Celery Compound with the most valuable agents known to the medical profession, and would not be without it if it cost ten times its present price. His improved health, his steady nerves, his vigorous appetite, sound sleep and freedom from pain, are to him sufficient evidences of its great worth and usefulness. In addition to all this, Mr. Murphy knows of many of his friends who have been brought to perfect health and strength through the use of this wonderful compound, and he has assured the writer that it will always give him great pleasure to recommend the medicine when he has the opportunity.

To the weary, sick and suffering in Canada, Mr. Murphy's letter will act as an agent of comfort and hope, and will cause many who now suffer to seek the only cure that can with certainty bring new life, new strength, new vitality and new joys.

Good Deeds Done.

The good deeds done by that unequalled family liniment, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, during the thirty years it has been held in ever-increasing esteem by the public would fill volumes. We cannot here enumerate all its good qualities, but that it can be relied on as a cure for croup, sore throat and all pains, goes without saying. dw

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does, it is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it, a sample bottle free, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and a dollar. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption. dw

Self Application of Electricity

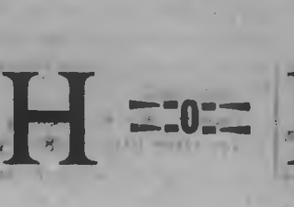
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an indestructible Battery, which furnishes a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND Belt is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by Electro-medical experts, and is as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combination of Belts and medicines with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy same; but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt (if you find that will be benefit and a blessing) send for

"Dear Little Cobourg."

The "Independents" Fraternal and Patronizing Lecture to that Town.

By the town of Cobourg this journal entertains a very friendly feeling, and there was a time, not so many years ago, when there existed a feeble expectation in many noble Cobourg bosoms that Cobourg might be brought into happy domestic alliance with this great centre of human intelligence through the bonds of mutual interest and affection. Those expectations were not realized, owing entirely to the melancholy mental affliction under which Cobourg has for so long a period laboured. Poor little Cobourg's brain is diseased. She is a monomaniac. Upon all subjects, except one, she is not only sane, but intelligent, lively and sensible. Her mania is railways. You may talk a long summer's day to Cobourg, and find her conversation most delightful,—provided you never allude to railways. Once broach that subject and she is off. You couldn't have a more delightful companion than little Cobourg, nor one more gentle, engaging and attractive, and as to Cobourg's prettiness, that is admitted by everyone who has seen her, but, Jerusalem, if you only mention railways, or utter the word engine, or speak of a track, or allude to locomotion, she instantly flies off the handle, commits the most extravagant actions, indulges in the most ridiculous caperings and generally goes on dreadful. The story of her railway peculiarities would fill a book. In one of her mad caprices she built a railway that the following spring floated down the river and disappeared. She gave money to every railway schemer who came along and flirted with her. She taxed herself for bonuses until the law stepped in and forbid her to tax herself any more, and only last year she voted an immense sum to a railway company with no corporate existence, which proposed to build a railway from Cobourg to somewhere, but the somewhere was never distinctly or definitely stated! Poor little Cobourg! This journal is so sorry for her. She is a dear little thing, and her location is so charming, that if we only had free trade with the States all the American continent would come over and court her. But just at present she is in a bad way. In one of her deliriums she fought and kicked the Grand Trunk, and called it naughty names, and made a desperate effort to get the Canadian Pacific to build it a branch. The effort of course failed, and the G. T. couldn't forget the unpleasantness and has kept out of her way on all and every occasion. When the G. T. built a line to Harwood, to the lumber mill there, it took the lumber for shipment to Port Hope, and now, whilst reconstructing its main line, it proposes to remove the refreshment room from Cobourg to Port Hope, and to take away everything that can possibly be removed from so violent a little creature. This of course is hard on Cobourg, but it is only what she might have reasonably expected. She is now in one of her most violent tantrums about the removal of the refreshment rooms, and is furiously raging that she will, at any cost, get a branch from the C.P.R. The experience of all experts in lunacy is that the best course is to soothe the patient. Out of regard for dear little Cobourg, this journal will try the soothing system. Well, then, sweety, you have a nice thing in the future—a very nice thing—something that will fill your harbour with ships, your hotels with visitors, your stores with customers, and which will double and treble the value of your houses and gardens. Don't have anything to do with these nasty railways. They are ugly things at the best and can do you no possible good. Look across your lake. That where you should direct your attention. There is no possible antagonism, or opposition, or legislation which can for more than a few years prevent the people on the other side of the lake trading freely with the people on this side the lake and as soon as the trade is free, then Cobourg, and all the lake ports, will be as busy as honey bees on a sunshiny day in the height of summer. Free trade with the Yankees is what Cobourg needs. Get that and you need not bother about those dirty railways. And it will assuredly come. Wait patiently, pretty one, and you shall have all that you can desire. There is a good time coming, and our little Cobourg shall grow into a big fine city, and have steamers, and street cars, and great merchants, and summer visitors, and balls and concerts, and masquerades, and all manner of gaieties, and she will become rich, and everybody will admire her, and she will have a good time. It's all right Cobourg, dear,—tell the nasty railways to go to Hong Kong, and go in for free trade across the lake. Keep a good heart, ducky, and it will all come right.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Scaffolds of Death!

Will the Subjects Drop?—The Great Molassing Agent!

A learned judge, of facetious memory, is reported to have said, in an argument in the arrest of the judgment of death, "I think we had better let the subject drop."

In Canada to-day we have thousands of men and women who are standing on scaffolds of death, many of them almost ready to drop into the cold grave. Shall we allow these subjects to "drop?" By the help of heaven we shall not! They have not been condemned by our courts as criminals. They may have erred, but not against the laws of the land. They have broken nature's laws, and nature's resources alone can loose them from detention and bondage. To those who wish release from the bonds and scourges which are imposed by nature's laws (the severest penalty of which is death), there is an agency which grants full release with all the promises of a new and better life. This agency removes the chains of nervousness, insomnia, morbidness, dyspepsia, neuralgia and rheumatism, which crush and weigh down so heavily and so long. This agency that gives a free and joyous life is Paine's Celery Compound. Its work is grand and noble, and its results are sure and unfailing. It takes the poor and enchained sufferer from his prison and scaffold of disease and death and sets his feet on the solid rock of liberty and health. Paine's Celery Compound is in truth the great rescuer from death and the grave, and thousands in our land have had reason to thank God for its great powers.

Every Lady Uses It.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for her chapped hands or lips, as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. d20

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of dandruff, and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of dandruff, and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Of Course it Was Untrue.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Mr. W. L. Scott, secretary of the Catholic Truth Society of Ottawa, has received the following letter from Lord Salisbury's secretary, in reply to an enquiry as to whether there was any truth in the cabled story that the majordomo of Hatfield House had been recognized as a priest from the Vatican: The story is announced by Lord Salisbury to be a pure invention.

Lived on an Apple and a Cracker.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 29.—A peculiar case of fasting was unearthed here yesterday in a small house in Huntington-street. George Robinson of Seattle, Wash., was discovered in a bare room and scarcely bed clothes enough to cover him in a frightfully emaciated condition. He admitted that he had lived on an apple and a cracker since Dec. 2, a period of 54 days.

Ten Deaths in a Small Village.

CALEDONIA, Ont., Jan. 29.—This village is terribly afflicted with grip-pneumonia. There are at present about 30 cases, and 10 deaths have occurred, chiefly among old people. Three days following, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, there were three double funerals, in two of the cases the father and mother being buried together.

Muldoon Sent Up.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 29.—United States Judge Coxe sentenced yesterday James Muldoon of Toronto to one year in the county jail and fined him $25 for smuggling Chinamen into the United States.

Does Protection Protect?

Certainly, in one instance, it does. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great protection against the dangers of impure blood, and it will cure or prevent all diseases of this class. It has well won its name of the best blood purifier by its remarkable cures.

☞ The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy yet efficient action. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents per box.

A Prompt Result.

DEAR SIRS.—Two years ago I was very ill with jaundice and tried many medicines which did me no good until I was advised to try B.B.B., when, after using half a bottle, I was effectually cured.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. Le Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Peterborough Markets.

The market this morning was largely attended. There was a good show of beef and vegetables. The poultry market was only moderately supplied. Good business was however done in all the farm products that were on hand. Prices ruled, potatoes 60c per bag, apples 80c to $1.00 per bag and $2 per barrel, beef in quarters ranged from 5c to 6½c per lb. In the produce market eggs realized 20c per dozen, butter 23c per lb, turkeys, of which only a few were offered, from 80c to $1.25. The bee-keeping industry appears to be flourishing, as there was a large quantity of honey offered.

The Doubters are Now Satisfied.

There are doubters and skeptics in all communities, and there ever will be. It is, however, pleasing to state that within the past year, hundreds of these individuals have been brought to a knowledge of the truth, and are now numbered amongst the strongest advocates of Harvard Bronchial Syrup. This scientific remedy, emanating from Harvard University, is producing wonderful results in obstinate cases of coughs, colds, croup, hoarseness and affections of the throat. While the ordinary remedies have often failed, Harvard Bronchial Syrup has won the approbation of all, and is now the acknowledged cure for all troubles of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, and is the best voice strengthener in the world to-day. One trial is sufficient to convince.

County Police Court.

A Dog Shooting Case.

SATURDAY, Jan. 30th.

This morning at the Court House before County Police Magistrate Elmhirst, an action to recover damages for the alleged unlawful shooting of a dog was heard. Mr. W. F. Johnston, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. W. A. Stratton for the defendant. The action was brought by Mr. George Davidson, of Otonabee, against Mr. James Moore, of the same place. The prosecutor gave evidence as to the shooting of the animal, which was valuable to him as a cattle dog, and which was, as a rule, very quiet and harmless. An objection was then raised by Mr. W. A. Stratton against Mrs. Davidson, wife of the prosecutor, being allowed to give evidence on behalf of her husband, being one of the parties interested. The magistrate, however, over-ruled the objection, making a note of it.

Mrs. Davidson then corroborated her husband's evidence, and was followed by another witness, who valued the dog as being worth two good cows, or about $50 to $60.

The defendant in his evidence said he had spoken to Mr. Davidson before killing the dog and had told him if he did not keep it at home he would shoot it. He was annoyed by the animal coming to his place so often and enticing his dogs away. He had shot it, that being the only way he could get rid of it.

The point raised here by the counsel was, whether or not the shooting could be termed malicious, within the meaning of the act, the prosecutor having returned no answer when Mr. Moore had threatened to shoot the dog. This might be construed into a tacit consent on his part.

Judgment was reserved until next Saturday, February 6th.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Young men's meeting to-night from 8 to 9. Rev. Mr. Meikle will (D. V.) address the meeting. A hearty welcome to all. Singing led by orchestra.

Bible study and consecration service Sabbath morning led by Mr. R. M. Rennell. Topic—"The Suffering Saviour," Isa lv, 1-12.

Plain talk for MEN ONLY in Opera House at 4 p.m., by Rev. Mr. Meikle, on the "Moral Man, the Sport, the Hard Case." Y.M.C.A. band will lead the singing.

Miss Camilla Sanderson will give the address at the Gospel and song service Sabbath evening at 8.30, at close of church service. Public invited.

We thank very sincerely Mrs. Tassie for thirteen choice volumes for the library.

At the adjourned meeting of the Y. M. C. A. active members held last evening the following were elected as officers and Board of Directors for the ensuing year:

PRESIDENT.—G. J. Early (re-elected).

FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT.—J. W. Bennet (re-elected).

SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT.—J. C. Turnbull (re-elected).

TREASURER.—G. S. Bean.

RECORDING SECRETARY.—H. Fife.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.—Thos. McFaddes, Isaac Richardson, Albert Hamilton, G. M. Roger, A. J. Johnston, Valentine Bert, W. Anderson, John Hart, John Miller, J. L. Hughes, Sheriff Hall, A. Parker, W. J. Green, Louis Croley.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. J. H. Roger and F. Brownscombe.

Personal.

Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Napanee, was in town this morning, and returned home on the 11.45 train.

Mr. John Mercer, of Victoria, B.C., is in town, being called home through the death of his mother.

We have been requested to state that the report of the death of Mr. James Miller, of Keene, is not correct. He has been across the line visiting friends and has been very ill, but a telegram states that he is improving and is now out of danger.

A Correction.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 30th, 1892.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—You say in yesterday's issue that "Rev. J. H. Locke, * * is teaching in the Collegiate Institute," etc.

I write to say you have been misinformed. It is my son—George H. Locke, of Cobourg, (Victoria University) who is teaching for the present in Mr. Hemp's place, and at the request of the school board. George has taken first class honours in classics in every examination so far. I am sure you will gladly correct the reference.

Yours sincerely,
JOS. H. LOCKE.

Evangelistic Services.

The evangelistic services will be continued each night during the week in Charlotte Street Methodist Church. The Rev. Mr. Meikle will also preach to-morrow afternoon in the opera house, to men only, at 4 p.m. At 7 p.m. in Charlotte Street Church. A collection at the close of the meetings to defray expenses. Being union meetings, all are expected.

Complimentary Concert.

A grand complimentary concert will be tendered to Mr. L. Seward, organist of the George Street Methodist Church, on Thursday evening, February 4th. Owing to Mr. Seward's continued ill-health he is desirous to try the effects of a short sojourn in a warmer climate. It is pretty certain that Mr. Seward's many warm friends in Peterborough will practically sympathize with this desire, and a large audience will assemble in Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening next, Feb. 4th. A fine programme will be presented on this occasion. Mr. Seward deserves more than well at the hands of the people of this town. He is one of the largest minded, as he is one of the most capable musicians, that has ever lived in town. He is also most obliging; wherever and whenever his conspicuous musical ability could promote any good cause his services have been freely and acceptably given. Mrs. Seward has also been most liberal and obliging, and the musical services of both have been given without regard to creed or denominational distinctions. Therefore, Mr. Seward has exceedingly strong claims upon the people of Peterborough and it is to be hoped that the coming concert will be universally regarded as a fitting and timely opportunity for the recognition of these claims. Tickets of admission to the opera house on Feb. 4th, 25 and 50 cents. Further particulars as to the programme, etc., will be given on Monday. Reserve Feb. 4th as a date sacred to the complimentary concert to Mr. Seward.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 168 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Sarsaparilla had wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

Visiting the Collegiate Institute.

On Friday the members of the county council paid a visit to the Collegiate Institute and admired the new rooms, the equipment and apparatus. They also visited the gymnasium. At the time of the visit, the first form of boys happened to be at their drill. The boys went through the usual routine exercise (there was no attempt at any particular display.) They performed company drill with full staff of officers—who were Captain Mahoney, Lieutenants Guy, Rogers and Roland Irwin and Sergeants Lieut Kind and —— Pratley. The boys went through their work with faultless precision, and the county fathers were greatly delighted at the sample of the every-day work of Sergt.-Major Rundle. A specimen of the modern physical drill was given, and the boys were loudly applauded. Great credit was given, as great is due, Major Rundle for the efficiency of his work.

Peterborough Brewing and Malting Company (Limited).

The provisional directors of the above company met in the solicitors office on Friday evening when satisfactory reports were presented. The stock has been subscribed sufficient to guarantee the successful carrying out of the enterprise. The charter has been obtained and arrangements for the extension and re-stocking of the present premises fully discussed. Some minor matters were left in the hands of a sub-committee to deal with and report at the meeting of shareholder's, which will be held at an early date. In view of the fact that already sixty-five per cent. of the limited $100,000 stock has been subscribed voluntarily, it is safe to say that when this fact becomes known parties desiring a remunerative investment can inspect the stock-book and obtain full particulars at the office of Messrs. Hatton & Wood, the company's solicitors.

A NEW SEA TELEGRAPH.

ELECTRIC SIGNALS FROM SHIP TO SHIP WHILE ON THE OCEAN.

The Wizard Edison's Latest Idea An Invention That Promises to Lessen the Dangers of the Sea—A Scheme Warmly Approved by Scientists.

Among the recent patents, says last week's Scientific American, is one by Thomas A. Edison, of Menlo Park, N. J.—means for transmitting signals electrically, without the interposition of connecting wires. In his specification, he says:

"I have discovered that if sufficient elevation be obtained to overcome the curvature of the earth's surface and to reduce to the minimum the earth's absorption, electric telegraphing or signaling between distant points can be carried on by induction without the use of wires connecting such distant points. This discovery is especially applicable to telegraphing across bodies of water, thus avoiding the use of submarine cables, or for communicating between vessels at sea or between vessels at sea and points on land; but it is also applicable to electric communication between distant points on land.

"At sea, from an elevation of 100 feet," continues Mr. Edison, "I can communicate electrically a great distance, and since this elevation or one sufficiently high, can be had by utilizing the masts of ships, signals can be sent and received between ships separated a considerable distance, and by repeating the signals from ship to ship communication can be established between points any distance apart or across the largest seas, and even oceans. The collision of ships in fogs can be prevented by this character of signaling, by the use of which, also, the safety of a ship in approaching a dangerous coast in foggy weather can be assured."

HOW THE THING WORKS.

In the accompanying cut two vessels are shown with condensing surfaces affixed between the masts. In heavy weather these surfaces can be flown from one mast in the form of a streamer. They may be made of canvas, covered with flexible sheet metal or metallic foil, carefully secured. From the condensing surface on each vessel a wire extends to the hull and through an induction coil and revolving circuit breaker and key to a metal plate on the bottom of the ship, by which connection is had with the ground through the water. The diagram in the middle of the cut shows the course of the circuit from the key, through a primary battery to the induction coil and thence to the condenser. Electrostatic impulses are produced in the condenser which pass by induction through the air to the condenser on the other ship, which is located at a similar elevation. They pass thence to an electromotograph telephone receiver placed in the circuit between the condenser and the ground plate. The Morse characters are produced by slight vibrations of the diaphram, and are made audible by the electromotograph. The air is full of molecules, which act as insulators. It is the passage of the current through these molecules which produces the induction, which means the transmission, quicker than thought, of the current from one particle to another. The body of the air forms the dielectric or insulation between the condensers on the vessels, the circuit being completed by the passage of the current through the water or earth.

THE USE OF BALLOONS.

By sending up captive balloons from ships the distance through which signals can be sent can be vastly increased, the object being to overcome the curvature of the surface of the earth.

The balloon in the diagram is fitted with a condenser on top; from which a wire passes through the cable confining the balloon to the earth. The uprights shown in the cut are on opposite sides of a wide body of water. The condensers are on top of the poles, with wires running down to offices at their base, where connection is had with the ground.

If a balloon in New York should be sent up to a great height, equipped with a condenser, and held to the earth by a rope cable in which there was a strand of wire, and another similar equipped should be sent up from Loudon, a circuit would be formed through earth and air, without the aid of wires for transmission, through which messages could be flashed at greater speed than has ever been attained by any other system. All that is necessary to do is to locate the condensers at a sufficient height to overcome the curvature of the earth's surface. This is similar in many respects to the train telegraph system invented by Mr. Edison and now in use on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, by which messages are transmitted between moving trains and stations, and from one train to another. The new invention has boundless possibilities.

If It Takes the Regular Course.

Mrs. Billus—"Don't you think this overcoat is a little too new to give away John?"

Mr. Billus—"It's the agent of the Prompt Amelioration and Relief Society that's at the door, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Then let the coat go. It will be old enough when it gets to the fellow that needs it."

Center of the Land Hemisphere.

The city of London is put down by geographers as the center of the land hemisphere. In other words, a radius of about 6000 miles on the curved surface of the earth, with London as a center, would describe a circumference inclosing more land than any 6000 mile circle that could be drawn from any other city in the world.

No Quarter for Anarchists.

MADRID, Jan. 30.—The Minister of Public Works declared in the Senate yesterday that the Government would accept the Anarchist May-day challenge. Hitherto, he said, the Government had been content with simply dispersing the Anarchists on that day, but they had resolved henceforth to decimate them. He hotly repudiated the suggestion that the troops fraternized with the Anarchists.

Succi, the Faster, Succumbs.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Succi, the faster, today abandoned his attempt to go without food for 52 days. At noon it was announced that he would not be able to complete his task. At that time he had fasted to within a few hours of 44 days. Succi presented a most shocking appearance. He has lost 47 pounds.

Fatal Election Riot.

BUDA-PESTH, Jan. 30.—A fatal election riot occurred at Stein-am-Anger yesterday. A crowd of Opposition supporters stormed and demolished a polling booth and destroyed the voting records, necessitating another election. Then the mob made an attack upon the gendarmes, and the latter fired, killing three of the rioters and injuring a number of others.

Webster's Discrepancies.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—It is stated that the Stock exchange differences of Hume Webster, the horse breeder, who committed suicide a few days ago, amount to nearly £80,000. It is a mystery how he managed to have such heavy accounts.

A Devon Fatality.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—A public hall at Ilfracombe, County of Devon, on which a number of men were at work, collapsed today. Two men were killed and many seriously injured.

Escaped Once More.

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 30.—Thomas Geary, the escaped burglar, was in Trenton yesterday. Two policemen located him in a house and guarded the doors, but he broke out and distanced the officers in a run. They fired two shots from a revolver at him, but without effect.

Another Postoffice Robbed.

DELHI, Jan. 30.—The postoffice here was burglarized last night and between $50 and $60 taken therefrom; no clue.

Fatally Lacerated by a Bloodhound.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Minnie Dunn of California-avenue, a handsome young married woman, had a terrible encounter with a bloodhound yesterday. The brute sprang upon her unawares, while she was on her way home, and lacerated her face, breast, arms and hands. One arm was literally torn to shreds. Boys finally clubbed the dog to death. The woman will die.

Swallowed Some Glass.

WIARTON, Ont., Jan. 30.—Miss Jessie McEwan, daughter of Mr. Duncan McEwan, near Tiverton, happened with a peculiar but serious accident. While eating some preserves a splinter of glass, which had in some way got into the fruit, stuck in her throat, and was removed with difficulty by the two doctors who were called in.

Governor McKinley Seriously Ill.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 30.—Governor McKinley of Ohio was unable to be at his office to-day, and it is announced he is seriously ill with bowel trouble.

Mather's Corners.

Good Templars Pay a Fraternal Visit.

Last evening the members of Carnwell and about sixty, drove out to Mather's Corners Ashburnie Lodge I.O.G.T., to the number of to pay a fraternal visit to the sister lodge there. A number of members from the Keene Lodge were also in attendance.

An open session was held, and a great many non members took advantage of this, and the lodge room was crowded to excess. A very enjoyable evening was spent, the visiting friends being cordially received and welcomed by the brethren at Mather's Corners.

The programme was a lengthy and varied one, and consisted of songs, recitations, readings, dialogues and instrumental pieces, the whole being closed by a quartette.

The visit was an enjoyable one, and will long be remembered by all who took part.

Springville.

A Big Thing on Ice.

A grand fancy dress carnival will be given at the Springville skating rink on Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th. Prizes will be given for the best dressed lady and gentleman in fancy costume, for the same in comic costume, and for the best dressed boy and girl in comic costume. The prizes are on exhibition at Mr. Jos. Tully's store. The Millbrook band will be in attendance, refreshments will be served in the hall adjoining the rink, and everything will be done to make the occasion a brilliant success and the biggest thing on ice ever produced in this district outside Peterborough.

All tobaccos except the finest Virginia have a pungent effect upon the tongue and will smart it if the smoking is long continued. Some of them even will blister it, or at least destroy it outer skin at the point where the smoke impinges upon it. The "Myrtle Navy" is entirely free from this defect, which, together with its fine full flavor makes it a great favorite with smokers.

OUR COUNTY COUNCIL.

A Deputation From the Town

To Re-build the Smith Street Bridge—Speeches by the Deputation—The County Poor House Matter Brought Under Discussion.

FRIDAY, Jan. 29th.

The council having spent most of the day in committee, late in the afternoon held a special session to receive a deputation of the town council, the joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Cahill, Dennistoun, Meldrum, Bradburn and Young.

Mr. CAHILL spoke in reference to Smith street bridge—a wooden structure—built some fifteen years ago and now condemned as unsafe. He thought a new bridge would cost $8,000, and if the town had to build it he doubted if the people would warrant the issuing of such debentures, no matter how much the town council might desire to rebuild the bridge. He pointed out that the bridge was principally used by the residents of the county; and also that the county, jointly with the town, already contributed to the erection and maintenance of the locks and Ashburnham bridges, and the town asked that the county bear half of the expense of building a new bridge. He asked as a matter of justice and hoped the council would give the matter its most favorable consideration.

Mr. DENNISTOUN said the town engineer who was also the county engineer, had condemned the bridge, and if it were not rebuilt it would have to be closed. He did not expect the council at once to vote a sum of say $4,000 to rebuild the bridge, but he hoped the council would take the matter into their serious consideration. It would be a misfortune to have the bridge closed.

Mr. MELDRUM said that if the town had to build a new bridge, that in deference to the wishes of the Auburn people, it would be built at Auburn wholly within the limits of the corporation.

Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Young endorsed the remarks that had been made, and thanked the council for the courteous hearing the deputation had received.

THE HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. YOUNG, speaking for himself, brought up the subject of establishment of a poor house—a subject that deserved the most serious consideration. He pointed out the inhumanity of sending persons, whose only crime was poverty, to gaol for refuge. He suggested the appointment of a joint committee to consider the matter.

Mr. CAPEMENT said that the county council had moved in the matter about a year ago, but the town council had not responded to the overtures made.

Mr. SANDERSON asserted that the county had concluded to meet the town half way and assume its part of the responsibility of a poor house, and share alike according to the attendance of inmates from town and county respectively.

Mr. MOLONEY reminded the council that the town had failed to entertain a proposition to meet the expense on the per capita basis, but the town had favored the assessed value of property as the basis of the respective shares of the expense to be borne.

Mr. CAHILL said Mr. Moloney was not exactly correct. The matter had not advanced far enough on the part of the town to involve any such direct proposition. The matter had been talked over, but the joint committee had not received any authority from the town council to act, and for some reason or other the matter had dropped. He felt sure the town would be willing to assume its share of responsibility.

Mr DENNISTOUN said the joint committee of the town council, which was received by the council this afternoon, was appointed for the purpose of conferring with the county council on matters of mutual interest, and this was a subject that could be very properly discussed by the joint committees of the town and county.

Mr. SANDERSON said the expense of the administration of justice was borne by the town and county on the per capita principle, and that was suitable for the house of refuge scheme.

Mr. MELDRUM referred to the inhumanity of caring for the poor in gaol, and he advocated the building of a poor house. They had such an institution in the town he came from—Berlin—and he could speak from personal observation of the great benefit of it—it being to a large extent self-supporting.

This closed the conference, and the council resumed business.

SCOTT ACT FINES FUND.

Mr. Moloney moved, seconded by Mr. Allen:—Whereas a sum exceeding $900 remains in the hands of the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario, to the credit of Peterborough, the same having been received on account of fines levied in the same county under the Canada Temperance Act and having been retained to meet any claims which might arise under the said Act.

And whereas the treasurer of the Province of Ontario, has offered to pay the said sum to the corporation of the county of Peterborough, if the said county will assume the liability for any claims which may arise under the said act and payable out of the said money. Be it therefore resolved that the corporation of the County of Peterborough in pursuance of the premises, hereby agree that if the provincial treasurer pays to the treasurer of the county of Peterborough, the said sum, to assume the liability for any claims which may arise under the said act provided that the total amount of such claims does not exceed the sum so paid over.

The resolution was adopted.

CONFIRMATORY RESOLUTION.

Mr. MCAULEY introduced a motion to confirm a bylaw of the township of Belmont, authorizing the opening up of a road less than 66 feet wide. The motion was adopted, and the corporation seal attached to give the resolution the force of a bylaw.

COUNTY PROPERTY.

Mr. SANDERSON, chairman, presented the report of the committee as follows:

The Committee on County Property beg leave to report as follows:

1 That the Reeve of Smith be chairman of this Committee.

2 That the Warden and the Reeves of Smith, Douro, and Ashburnham be a committee with power to have such necessary repairs to the county buildings made as they deem desirable.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. SANDERSON, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 29th, 1892.

The report was adopted.

SCHOOLS.

Mr. McAuley presented the following report of the Committee on Schools.

The committee on schools beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That the reeve of the united Townships of Belmont and Methuen be chairman of this committee.

2 That with reference to the communication of the clerk of the county of Grey asking this council to memorialize the Ontario Government to abolish the union of Public and High School Boards, your committee recommend that this matter be referred to a committee comprised of Messrs. Cavanagh, Burnham, Maloney and Hawthorne and the county school inspector with directions to report to the June session of this council and to confer in the meantime with the Board of Education of the town of Peterborough.

3. That the County School Inspector, Mr. John DAVIDSON, B.A., Norwood, and Mr. J. A. FIFE, B.A., be the county Board of Examiners to examine teachers and give certificates in accordance with the statute in that behalf.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. MCCAULEY, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 29th, 1892.

The report was adopted.

APPOINTMENTS TO OFFICE.

Mr. ANDERSON, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on Schools:—

COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS TO OFFICE.

The Committee on Appointments for the year 1892 beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That the reeve of Otonabee be chairman of this committee.

2. That Mr. J. Brackenridge be re-appointed trustee of Norwood High School.

3. That Messrs. Sanderson and John Carnegie be members of the board of audit of accounts in connection with the administration of justice.

4. That John E. Belcher be appointed county engineer.

5. That Dr. Yelland be appointed gaol surgeon.

6. That Henderson Nesbitt be appointed caretaker of the court house and grounds.

7. That W. R. Kelly be appointed caretaker of the Mud Lake bridge and swing.

8. That the matter of the caretaking and operation of the Gannon's Narrows ferry be left in the hands of the Reeve of Harvey with power to engage a fit person for the work at an annual cost of not more than $125. In case of failure on the part of the Reeve of Harvey to arrange same, that the whole matter be left in the hands of the Warden to act.

9. That Messrs. Stratton & Hall be appointed County Solicitors.

10. That John Flood be re-appointed overseer of the Pigeon Creek Bridge.

Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, January 29th 1892.

The report was adopted and the council adjourned.

"German Syrup"

Croup. We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

ED. L. WILLITS, of Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preparation act like it. It is simply miraculous.

Mrs. JAS. W. KIRK, Daughters' College, Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon it in attacks of Croup with my little daughter, and find it an invaluable remedy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs. ●

A POSSIBLE CASE.

BY FRANK STOCKTON.

The clerk had a curiosity about the Black Book. Once Pryor forgot to lock it, as he stepped out of his office. He was gone but a moment, but it gave the clerk time to take a peep and see enough to enable him to rightly conjecture its use. The clerk had a friend, and his friend had other friends; and it was not long until the entire town had heard of it. And when men would tease each other about their misdeeds, they would jokingly cite quotations from Lawyer Pryor's Black Book.

It was at this time that the conclusion to this tale was brought about.

It was near the close of day. Lawyer Pryor locked the door of his private office and started for home. As he walked along, bending over in his inquisitorial way he encountered several strangers, new residents. The old, query reverted to him, and started a train of musings which so absorbed him that he was before his own door ere he knew it. At the threshold stood his wife smiling a loving welcome. Before he could realize it that question with its full power of damnation had sprung to his lips, and he was laying his finger on her heart and asking, "What secret have you?"

Had she a secret from him, this woman, who for 20 years had reigned in his home and ruled his heart? Could it be that there was something in her life that she concealed from him? This rush of intolerable thoughts staggered him, he reeled forward and almost fell into her arms. His kiss was cold, though his breath almost scorched her cheek.

"What is the matter, Robert? Are you ill?" she inquired with fond anxiety.

"Nothing. No, I'm not ill," he muttered, and pushed past her. She followed him wondering. He entered the sitting room where his children were. His eldest daughter sat by the window sewing, she sprang up to greet him and then returned to her work. He looked at her fiercely, so young and so tender, becoming more like her mother every day—should he allow her to become exposed to the world, perhaps to be stained by its sin, or should he rather slay her on the spot, like that Roman Father of old? His boys! they had seemed so steady and honest hitherto, would they deceive him as they grew older, and mock his care with wrong-doing and crime? This little one, his baby, who clasped her arms around his neck, and wanted her "Dada to play wis her"—would her arms always be innocently circled around some one worthy of her? "Faugh!" he put the child down, despite her cries. The harpies had got his door. The fumes of Hell possessed his soul. He would eat no supper, and paced around the room like a caged animal. His children were frightened; his wife put her arms up to him and again asked him if he was sick.

"Leave me alone, can't you," was his gruff reply.

"Oh! Robert" she cried, and hurt beyond measure, retired within herself. It was the first time in all their marital experience that he had harshly used her, and she knew not what to make of it. Her silence now aggravated his suspicions, and made his unreason worse than ever. He left the house and wandered about the streets until late at night. When he returned he could not sleep because of the torment. He went to his office in the morning without exchanging the customary farewells with his wife. All that day there kept ringing through his head. "What secret has she? What secret has she?" Darkness was slowly setting over his soul. His clerk afterwards testified that he behaved like a madman. In the afternoon he could stand it no longer. "I will not be balked in this. Others have yielded up their secrets to me, and I will see if I cannot wrest hers from her."

Full of this purpose, he rushed home. Wild-eyed and frenzied, he asked the frightened children where their mother was.

"In her room," they said. She was lying on her bed, her eyes swollen with weeping.

"You must tell me!" he screamed. "What is that you have concealed from me, what secret have you been carrying in your heart?" He seized her hand and violently made her stand.

"Oh, Robert!" she exclaimed, trembling and terrified, "what do you mean?"

"Answer me, answer me. Don't prevaricate. You can't hide it from me. Tell me what is the secret you have concealed from me?"

"Robert, oh, Robert! Nothing have I kept from you. What does it all mean? Robert, my husband!" she implored, sinking to her knees.

"Once again, will you tell me?" he demanded, and stood threateningly above her.

"As God is my judge, I have nothing to tell!" she reiterated, and began to weep bitterly.

"You lie, woman," he hissed through his teeth. "You shall never see me again!"

"Robert!" she fairly shrieked, "you shall not go."

She had sprang upon him and wound her arms about his neck. He struggled to shake her off, and bruised her tender flesh in more than one spot, but she clung to him with all the desperation of a loving woman, constantly crying and begging him to listen. "Robert, Robert, you must tell me. What horror is this? My husband, what fiend has accused me? What can it mean? Oh, Heaven help me! Robert, Robert, in the name of our children, hear me!"

She finally was successful. His strength suddenly forsook him, and he fell sobbing at her feet. She knelt by him, and supporting his head on her breast, caressed and comforted him as if he were a child.

When he had quieted down sufficiently, she said: "Now, my darling, you must tell me what it is all about."

And, overcome by shame and remorse, he told her all.

"Oh, Robert," she cried, when he had concluded, "and all these years that serpent has been circling closer and closer, drawing its folds about our love and home, until now it has almost crushed us!"

"Yes, my angel," he said, "still my guardian angel! and if you had not clung to me like a true wife as you did, it would have done so!"

"And now Rob," she said, "do you know what you must do? You must destroy that Black Book, and efface all knowledge of its contents from your mind."

"What, the labor of my life! Yes, yes, you are right, always right. I will destroy the Black Book, remove my office, destroy all old associations, and try to restore that faith in humanity without which I now realize, every happiness is some time or other, bound to fail."

He carried out his resolutions thoroughly and cheerfully. Husband and wife that evening went to the office together, arm in arm. He kindled a roaring fire in the grate. As he tore out the leaves from the Black Book one by one, she fed them to the flames. She breathed a prayer over each somber page, asking that as the record of sin vanished in smoke so might the guilt be purged from the heart of the sinner. And as the weight of the book grew less, the heart of her husband grew lighter.

When all was done, she stood up and looked at him inquiringly.

"Not one regret, my love. Not one regret," he answered. "I stand before you a rescued soul."

"Oh! how glad I am," she said, and they went home together as happy and gay as the youngest of young lovers.

"Whew!" the clerk gave a long whistle. On the floor lay the empty shell of the Black Book, in the grate was a heap of ashes. His astonishment was increased when his employer came in, walking erect and looking as cheery as a beam of sunshine.

"Dust off the books, open the windows, and brighten things up as much as you can for to-day. In the meantime I will hunt up a new location for our office."

The townspeople shared the clerk's amazement, and never ceased to wonder at the change that had come over Lawyer Pryor. He set about making friends. The destruction of his Black Book was published through the same channels that its existence became known. The whole town seemed to heave a sigh of relief after hearing this, and men were eager to become friends of him whom they had once secretly feared. Pryor seemed to have become suddenly rejuvenated. Nothing ever disturbed his home again. To his wife he gave the credit of its preservation. The kindly faith in humanity which he acquired and practiced caused him to lose nothing. In the community in which he lived, he found that he still retained his power and influence, but the scepter of fear in his hand had been succeeded by the scepter of love.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

THE VIENNA FIENDS SENTENCED TO DEATH.

They Receive the Announcement With Indifference—Spurgeon At the Point of Death—The Spanish Copper Mine Strike.

VIENNA, Jan. 30.—Frank Schneider and his wife Rosalie, who were charged with having decoyed eight young women from their homes on the pretext of employing them and then murdering them for the sake of their money and effects, have been sentenced to death.

Throughout the terrible arraignment of the prisoners by the public prosecutor Schneider sat with his head clasped in his hands and showed no emotion whatever. His wife, though she listened quietly to the scathing words applied to her, remained perfectly cool and unmoved.

When the death sentence was passed upon them they showed no fear, but listened to the fateful words with an air amounting almost to indifference.

Education in Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—The Sectarian education bill is under discussion in the Lower House of the Prussian Diet and masterly arguments for and against the measure are expected. The bill is a pet scheme of the Emperor, but is certain to meet with determined opposition.

Chancellor Von Caprivi to-day made a powerful speech in favor of the bill and took occasion to denounce the attitude of the National Liberals on the question. He said that if the members of that party continued in their opposition to the measure the Government would give further proofs of its ability to swim against the stream. The Chancellor added that it was not the Liberals but the National Liberals who had commenced the conflict by protests in which they adverted to the contention that the bill would bring the schools under the influence of the Jesuits.

The Chancellor declared in answer to this contention that the Government would steadfastly oppose the readmission of the Jesuits into Germany. The present campaign of the Government, he said, was directed against Atheism.

Chancellor Von Caprivi concluded his speech by warning the opponents of the bill not to start an agitation in the country, as such a course would be doubly dangerous in the present difficult times.

Constantine's Remains Interred.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 30.—The remains of Grand Duke Constantine, uncle of the Czar, were to-day removed to the fortress SS. Pere and St. Paul, where they were deposited in the Cathedral.

The Czar, Prince Oscar, Crown Prince of Sweden and all the Grand Dukes in St. Petersburg followed the bier on foot, walking all the way from the palace to the fortress.

The Czarina, who has recovered from the shock of the Grand Duke's death, and the Grand Duchess followed in carriages.

The fortress and citadel is on a small island in the River Neva.

Death of a Venerable Chorister.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Mr. John Mitchell, chorister for about three-quarters of a century at St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, was buried at Windsor on Saturday. Commencing with the funeral of King George III. and terminating with the marriage of Prince and Princess Aribert of Anhalt the veteran chorister had taken part in most of the royal christenings, marriages and funerals at Windsor during the above-mentioned period. The funeral service was choral, the choirs of St. George's and Eton College being present.

Steamships Run Amuck

ANTWERP, Jan. 30.—The British steamer Gladiolus, at this port for New York, while being taken out of her dock yesterday came into collision with the German steamer Cremen from Boston, which was moored at an adjacent wharf. The Cremen broke adrift and crashed into the French steamer Paris from New Orleans, which was lying in the vicinity. The Cremen sustained extensive damages in her encounter with the other two vessels, while they only received slight damage.

The Striking Copper Miners.

MADRID, Jan. 30.—The continuance of the strike at Bilbao is chiefly due to women inciting the strikers not to yield. A band of 400 women headed by working girls waving knives and shouting "Hurrah for the strike," marched through the streets of the village of Ardoneda to-day threatening the property of the mine owners as they went along. The gendarmes guarding the mines and iron works were openly threatened with death.

The mine owners refuse to make concessions, being confident that they will win.

Cardinal Manning's Successor.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Westminster chapter will support the nomination of Mgr. Gilbert as archbishop in succession to the late Cardinal Manning.

It is a Daughter.

VIENNA, Jan. 30.—Archduchess Maria Valaria, youngest daughter of Emperor Francis Joseph, and wife of Archduke Francis Salvator of Austria-Tuscany, has been delivered of a daughter.

Dr. Mackenzie Ill.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Sir Morrell Mackenzie, the noted physician, is seriously ill with bronchitis.

INCREASED 50 PER CENT

Cheering Report of the Mining Prospects in British Columbia.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 30.—In his opening address to the Legislature yesterday, Lieut.-Governor Nelson referred to the fact that the coal output during the past year had exceeded 1,000,000 tons, 50 per cent. over last year, while the mining enterprises in Cariboo promised a revival of the mining activity of the old days in that gold field.

Depew's Silver Jubilee.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—In celebration of the 25th year of his connection with the Vanderbilt railway system, Dr. Chauncey M. Depew extended a dinner to 33 friends to-night in his residence.

A tiny volume entitled "A Retrospect—1866—1891," lay beside the plate of each guest. It contained a brief review of Mr. Depew's career in the service of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, beginning with his abandonment of politics by his retirement from the office of Secretary of State and his resignation of the post of Minister to Japan, his appointment to which had been confirmed by the Senate, and detailing the important events of his career in the field of railroading to the close of its 25th year.

Defaulters Enjoy Themselves at Tahiti.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—Bloom and Douglass, the Australian adventurers who embezzled £30,000 and fled from Sydney, New South Wales, in the yacht Beagle, are now enjoying themselves at Tahiti. It seems that Bloom and Douglass cut a wide social swath at Papeete, giving a dinner to the British Consul and entertaining many foreign residents on their yacht. They spent $8000, and gave the Tihitian colony the impression that they were wealthy Englishmen making a tour of the world for pleasure. So long as they keep in the South Sea Islands they cannot be seized as defaulters, but if they venture on shore in South America they will be captured and returned to Sydney.

On Trial for Killing Ninety-nine Men.

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., Jan. 30.—The trial of Salton Hall, who is said to have killed 99 men, commenced at Gladeville, Va., Tuesday. The crime for which Hall is now being tried is the murder of Policeman Hylton of Norton, Va., who had under arrest Miles Bates, Hall's accomplice. Hall has the reputation of having killed more people than any other living man. He has killed, it is said, his stepfather, three cousins, two brothers-in-law, his second wife's first husband and any number of others.

The First on the Continent.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Jan. 30.—The German manufacturer who will establish here next spring the first white enamel factory in the United States has forwarded plans for the building. White enamel is now used instead of tin in the households of Germany. It is expected that it will take the place of graniteware.

The Montreal Herald Changes Hands.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—The Herald estate has been sold to Mr. R. D. McGibbon for $18,000. Mr. McGibbon purchased it for a client whose name is not known. The present idea is to make the paper independent in politics.

Died from Chewing a Poisoned Cork.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 30.—The 3-year-old son of Robert Miller, foreman at Price's glove factory, chewed the cork of an empty strychnine bottle yesterday and died shortly after in great agony.

Killed in a Peculiar Way.

LISTOWEL, Ont., Jan. 30.—About a week ago while standing at his doorstep knocking snow off the heel of his boot Philip Hemmiller had a bad fall and fractured his thigh in two places near the hip. Yesterday he died from the effects of the accident.

Death of a Poet's Widow.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Paul Hamilton Haynes, widow of the south's famous poet, died yesterday. Mrs. Haynes was a Miss Michel of South Carolina. Her father was a surgeon in Napoleon's army.

A Dead Body in a Bed.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 30.—The dead body of an infant was discovered on a bed in the Oriental Hotel yesterday morning. It is a clear case of infanticide and the police are investigating.

The Slasher Acquitted.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The jury in the case of Henry G. Dowd, better known as "Jack the Slasher," after one hour and 40 minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity at the time of the commission of the crime.

To Japan on Horseback.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Major Yasuasa Kukushima will leave this city shortly on horseback for Japan. The Major will first ride to St. Petersburg, from thence to Moscow, to Mosk, Irkutauth, to Corea.

A Hotelkeeper's Probably Fatal Fall.

LISTOWEL, Ont., Jan. 30.—While Pierce Collins was going up stairs hurriedly in his hotel on Wednesday, he lost his balance near the head of the stairs and fell backward to the foot of the steps, striking his head very severely. He was removed to a room in an unconscious state and the doctors say that he has received a very severe concussion of the brain and his recovery is doubtful.

Strychnine in the Teapot.

EGANVILLE, Ont., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Blackwell of the township of Bromley put strychnine in the teapot and, drinking a cupful of it, died from the effects of the poison, expiring about 20 minutes before medical assistance could reach her. The rest of the family detected the strange taste of the tea and refrained from drinking it. She had been suffering in both mind and body for some time previous.

A Stranger's Death.

WESTMINSTER, B.C., Jan. 30.—Donald Stewart died at the hospital a day or two ago, a stranger in a strange land and without a cent. Deceased came to this city some months ago from Montreal, and was engaged in selling royalties on paint mixing. He said he had also been at one time in the employ of C. B. Shuttleworth, a well-known chemist of Toronto. He is supposed to have a wife and daughter in the east somewhere.

No Hope for Spurgeon.

MENTONE, Jan. 30.—Mr. Spurgeon passed a restless day. His general condition is growing worse.

The special night services held in the London tabernacle in behalf of Mr. Spurgeon are largely attended. Private telegrams from Mentone received to-night refer to a "prayerful, but despairing group" beside the dying pastor.

Alleged American Crook Captured.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—John Watson was arrested yesterday on suspicion of being a man wanted for burglary at Alton, Maine. He was remanded.

No Agreement Perfected.

HAMILTON, Jan. 29.—R. H. Metcalfe of Toronto, who has been endeavoring to secure a settlement between the Moulders Union and the six stove manufacturing firms, has been unsuccessful in effecting an understanding.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease With Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have it in disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 3, page 47) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

DENNIS DOWNING, Waterbury, Vt.

A LOVER'S CRIME.

Tragic Death of a Young Wife of an English Naval Officer.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A tragic affair is reported from Lucerne, Switzerland. A young Frenchwoman, whose beauty and good qualities attracted many suitors, accepted as husband an English naval officer. The husband, after a brief honeymoon, was summoned abroad and joined his vessel on a voyage to the East. He left his bride at Lucerne, promising a speedy return. Not long ago the young wife received a telegram telling her that her husband had died of cholera in India. The blow caused her brain to reel, and she poisoned herself with cyanide. She died and was buried at Lucerne.

The wife had been dead but a few days when her husband, hearty and well as when he left her, made his appearance and was told of his wife's death. He asserted that it was a former lover of his wife who sent the telegram, and threatened revenge.

Floods in Scotland.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Severe floods prevail in the Scottish highlands owing to the thaw which has melted enormous quantities of snow and ice in the mountains. A part of the city of Perth, which lies on the right bank of the River Tay, is inundated, and in many portions of the country the railways have been flooded.

The Duke of Teck's Luck.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A report was published Saturday that Lord Tolemache, who died recently, bequeathed to the Duke and Duchess of Teck, the parents of Princess Victoria Mary of Teck, the fiancee of the late Duke of Clarence, the greater part of his fortune, amounting to nearly £70,000 a year.

The Proposed Statue to Newman.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Oxford has held a large public meeting to protest against the erection of a statue to Newman. Both city and university were largely represented. Strong speeches were made and strong resolutions carried.

Associates of the Royal Academy.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Stanhope Forbes, painter; Harry Bates, sculptor, and Graham Jackson, architect, have been elected associates of the Royal Academy.

Shot by An Idle Crank.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A dangerous crank attempted to assassinate a Broad-street merchant yesterday afternoon, and believing that he had killed his victim, took his own life by firing two bullets into his brain. The merchant was Julius Somborn of the wine importing firm of L. Somborn & Co., at No. 67 Broad-street, and the man who did the shooting was a distant relative, who had frequently obtained assistance from the merchant. A shiftless fellow named Jacob Somborn.

The assassin entered the merchants office and demanded money. His demand was refused and the man drew a big revolver and fired, the bullet lodging in Somborn's right hip. The assassin then deliberately placed the muzzle of the revolver to his mouth and fired two bullets into his brain. His body fell on the floor, with his head near the front door, and he must have died instantly.

Electricity the Coming Power.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—General Manager Ainslee of the Wisconsin Central said today:

"I think we will run trains on the Wisconsin Central by electrical power before the Columbian Exposition is over. The discoveries of the uses to which electricity can be put and its adaptability to moving trains are far ahead of what is generally supposed, and I think you will find that some one of the three great electrical companies, the Edison, the Westinghouse or the Thomson-Houston, will make public some surprising developments at an early day."

Narrow Escape from a Serious Collision.

BUFFALO, Feb. 1.—What came near being a serious accident occurred yesterday on the New York Central near the south end of the canal bridge at the junction of the single and double track. The 9.17 o'clock passenger train from the Falls was just entering the double track, when a freight train coming from the opposite direction struck the last two coaches on the side, tipping them over. The passenger train was crowded with people, who were badly shaken up, but only one person, an Italian laborer, was injured, his shoulder being dislocated.

Smuggling Horses From Canada.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Special Treasury Agent Soehngen has for some days been watching the sales of horses at the horse market at the stock yards in the expectation of capturing some smuggled animals from Canada. The duty on horses is $30 for a $150 horse and $30 for every $100 of added valuation. The high rates have led to a great deal of smuggling of horses from Canada, and reports have reached the treasury agents that fine animals in large numbers have been brought into the States from across the border without the formality of consulting the custom house.

MR. SPURGEON IS DEAD.

THE GREAT PREACHER PASSES AWAY AT MENTONE.

Tennyson's Ode to the Late Duke of Clarence—William O'Brien Meets With Rough Treatment—A Rejected Lover's Crime and Its Terrible Consequences.

MENTONE, Feb. 1.—Mr. Spurgeon died shortly after 11 o'clock last night. He had been unconscious since the morning and had not recognized his wife and daughter. He refused all food and, although milk was forced down his throat, it was not retained.

At 10 p.m. Mr. Spurgeon was seen to be sinking fast and all hope after that hour was abandoned.

Mr. Spurgeon's end was painless. He remained unconscious to the last. His wife, Dr. Fitzhenry and Miss Thorne were present when he died.

The morning papers contain long memories and obituary articles on Mr. Spurgeon.

The Chronicle appears with a mourning border. It compares the dead pastor to Martin Luther.

The Telegraph characterizes him as a "great, fearless and faithful minister." It adds. "Albeit of homely genius and eloquence, all agree that he leaves a void that will be filled with difficulty."

Charles Haddon Spurgeon was born at Kelvedon, Essex, June 19, 1834. His father and grandfathers were preachers in the Independent denomination. At the age of 16 he became an usher at Newmarket and subsequently at Cambridge. Not long after going to Cambridge he connected himself with a lay preachers' association there, and before he was 18 became pastor of a small Baptist congregation at Waterbeach. In 1853 he was called to the New Park-street Baptist Chapel in Southwark, London, to which his preaching attracted such crowds that the congregation removed first to Exeter Hall and then to Surrey Music Hall. In 1861 a new chapel capable of seating between 5000 and 6000 was completed for his congregation in Newington Butts. Mr. Spurgeon has received more than 48,000 persons into his church, and has erected 47 chapels in London, supplied with ministers trained in a college of his own founding. He has published numerous works.

TENNYSON'S LATEST.

Seventeen Lines Long and Anything But a Success.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The poem of Baron Tennyson, the Poet Laureate, upon the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale is subjected to the fire of public criticism. The poem is only 17 lines long. The poet speaks of the late Prince as being "tender, truthful, reverent and pure."

LONDON, Jan. 31.—G. W. Smalley cables: There is but one opinion here of Lord Tennyson's lines on the death of the Duke of Clarence, which appear in The Nineteenth Century" for February. They are not worthy of that poet's fame.

To Restore Serfdom.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—According to advices from St. Petersburg the Czar intends to initiate measures for the restoration of serfdom among the peasants. It is proposed to allocate to the peasants vast tracts of land under conditions similar to those of serf tenure. One-third of harvest is to be stored in the communal magazines for the support of the peasants; one-third is to be sold by the Government for the payment of local debts to state, and one-third is to be retained for payment of Government taxes. The peasants will not be allowed to move from their communes, but will be bound to the soil and will be obliged to fulfil their contracts with the state. The system will be first applied in the provinces of Samara and Saratoff, and if successful will be extended all over the empire.

Rain, Rain, Beautiful Rain.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 1.—The town of Chimay has been visited by a terrible conflagration which destroyed fully one-fourth of the entire number of its buildings. The fire originated in a church tower and spread with great rapidity. The firemen aided by a downpour of rain succeeded in saving the threatened residence of the Prince of Chimay.

The New Prefect of the Propaganda.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—G. W. Smalley cables: The Pope's health has become a standing topic. He has been ill, but is better—well enough at any rate to startle the Catholic world by the appointment of Cardinal Lechodowski as Prefect of the Propaganda. The Italian Cardinals, who believe that the keys of heaven and of earth ought to be in Italian hands, are as angry as such holy men ever allow themselves to be. The close personal friendship between the Pope and Cardinal Lechodowski is probably sufficient to explain this promotion, which for various reasons is disliked in every European capital except London, where nobody cares.

A Baby Killed By a Train

BUFFALO, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Thomas Ballard, carrying a baby in her arms, was struck by an Erie train at the Delavan-avenue crossing last night. The woman escaped serious injury, but the baby was killed.

An Ice Locomotive.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 1.—An ice locomotive has just been completed at the Fishkill Landing Machine Works, and will be tested on Monday. The inventor is Thomas Mulrey of New York. It is attracting considerable attention.

TRADE WITH CANADA.

GOLDWIN SMITH BEFORE THE WASHINGTON COMMITTEE.

A Despatch From the U. S. Capital States that Nothing is Likely to Be Accomplished Until After the Presidential Election, While a London Dispatch Speaks Differently.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It is stated here that negotiations for a restricted reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States are to be resumed in about a fortnight's time.

Newfoundland is urging upon the Colonial Office that it is very necessary that its treaty with the States should pass the United States Senate before March 4, but the Colonial Office still objects to divide the traditional unity of policy regarding the Atlantic fisheries. Some officials here still hope for a way out of the difficulty by a general reciprocity treaty between the United States and all British North America.

High Canadian authorities here, however, do not disguise their belief that the negotiations, if resumed now, are hardly likely to succeed. Meanwhile, such English journals as refer to Canada's trouble with Newfoundland say it is best for both to work together on a cordial basis

TRADE WITH CANADA.

Views of Goldwin Smith on Commercial Union and Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—At the informal conference between Prof. Goldwin Smith, Erastus Wiman and Mr. Springer and other members of the Committee on Ways and Means, enquiry was made of Prof. Smith as to his opinion of the theory which is entertained in this country by some public men that political union between the United States and the Dominion might ultimately result, if the United States should pursue an aggressive course toward Canada and decline to make favorable commercial relations, withdraw the bonding privileges and the like.

Prof. Goldwin Smith replied that, as a Canadian citizen, he had nothing to say as to the probable effect of such a policy, so far as any political relations with the United States were concerned. But as a practical commercial matter he did suggest that if the United States should attempt such a policy, whatever might be the motives of this Government, the result would most probably be that the people of Canada would turn their eyes in an entirely different direction and that the party which now seeks to establish an imperial zollverein would be greatly strengthened and encouraged. As to the possibility that the United States could ever adopt such a policy as was suggested, with ultimate political union in view, Professor Goldwin Smith had a very decided opinion—that was that the United States would never adopt such a policy. Directly any such plan was contemplated, Professor Smith expressed the belief that the conflicting local interests in the United States would put a veto on it. These conflicting interests would always, in the opinion of Professor Smith, be actively at work in this country to prevent a complete execution of the policy of exclusion which had been suggested. It would not be possible for the United States under any circumstances ever likely to occur to completely carry out a policy of exclusion. For that reason the inquiry as to what the effect would be on a political union between the two countries is an idle and impracticable one.

It is evident to those who have closely studied the situation here that there is no prospect of any legislation or action on the part of the Government with respect to freer relations in Canada until after the issues of the next Presidential election shall have been determined. Just now each party is afraid of the other. Whenever a proposition which might even remotely affect the domestic tariff is under consideration in the House they fear to bring forward such a relation as was considered by Professor Smith and Erastus Wiman yesterday, because it might be made the text of a general tariff debate, and there are elements at work in the Democratic party which do not desire to have a tariff debate. The politicians on both sides are fully occupied with the various plans which are under consideration relating to the presidential contest, and not until after this great contest shall have been concluded and the people of the United States shall have selected the administration by which they will be governed during the period commencing with March 4, 1893, will it be possible to determine what the attitude of the United States is to be toward the commercial relations with Canada.

It is estimated that the shareholders and depositors of the banks which failed at Zurich and Basle last December have lost 28,000,000 francs.

Charles Perry, who was stopped in his car by four masked men near New Grove, Ireland, on Jan. 18, and who was shot through the thigh, is dead. John Davis, a farmer, and Patrick Shinners, a laborer, have been arrested on suspicion of having been concerned in the outrage.

Discount was firmer in London during the week, although there was no demand. The withdrawal of gold for Russia amounting to £1,000,000, part in sovereigns and part in Russian Imperials, changed the aspect of the money market. On the Stock Exchange during the week business was extremely slack. Prices were irregular. The closing of the speculative accounts of Hume Webster, the suicide, led to some sharp movements in prices.

His Leg Dropped Off.

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 30.—A French-Canadian named Nelson Saulsville sustained an injury to his foot a short time ago, took cold in it and gangrene followed.

The family were unwilling to bear the expense of a physician and the sufferer had no attendance. Yesterday Saulsville's leg dropped off at the knee, having been eaten through the bone by gangrene, and he will doubtless die of blood poisoning.

OUR COUNTY COUNCIL.

Concluding Sitting of the First Session.

Reports of Committees Presented — Future Wardens to be Elected by Ballot — Scott Act Moneys Dealt With.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY.

The council went into session at 9 30 o'clock, all the members present. The warden occupied the chair, and after routine Mr. Moore chairman presented the following report of the committee on

PRINTING.

The Committee on Printing beg leave to report as follows:

1. That the Reeve of Asphodel be chairman of the committee.

2. That the County Clerk be instructed to grant to the Norwood Register and Lakefield Chronicle alternately the printing of the list of convictions required by law to be published at the same price as last year, provided the Warden and County Treasurer are satisfied with the terms proposed to be charged by them.

3. That all other county printing be divided by the clerk between the EXAMINER, Review, and Times in as equal a manner as possible and that the division of such printing as arranged between the interested parties and the County Clerk be confirmed.

4 That the County Clerk be instructed to pay $1.70 per quire for the assessment rolls.

5. That the advertisement of the sale for taxes be hereafter printed in brevier type.

6. That the clerk be instructed to find if the publication of the list of convictions from March to June 1891 was necessary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. MOORE, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 30th, 1892.

The report was adopted.

Mr. CASEMENT introduced a bylaw to authorize the warden and treasurer to borrow a sum of $25,000 to meet current expenditures till the taxes fall due, which was duly passed.

Mr. CASEMENT also introduced a bylaw to regulate the proceedings of the election of warden—the bylaw required that the election take place by ballot, without nominations, the balloting to continue till some candidate has the majority, the reeve or deputy reeve entitled by law to do so, to give the casting vote in case of a tie.

Mr. CASEMENT, chairman, presented the following report of the FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committe beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That the reeve of Lakefield be chairman of this committee.

2. That they have examined the following accounts and recommend payment of the same:—

Self Application of Electricity

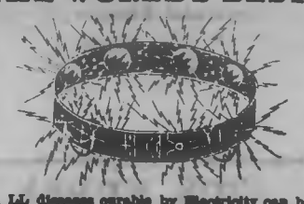
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCY, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular System.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. 2nd w

OUR COUNTY COUNCIL.

12. That no action be taken upon the application of Mr. A. R. Kidd for payment of the expenses to which he was put owing to the charges brought against him by Mr. Richard Crowe and the investigation thereof.

13. That no action be taken with reference to the suit of Mr. P. W. Stephenson against the county.

14. That George Cochrane be employed as inspector of licenses for peddlers, auctioneers, etc., with instructions to enforce all by-laws with respect to the same.

15. That the clerk be instructed to direct proceedings to be taken to quash the conviction under which the Storms family were committed to the county gaol.

16. That in reference to the report of the Inspector of Prisons, presented by the sheriff as to the want of jail accommodation owing to the number of vagrants confined, this council beg to inform the government that the large portion of vagrants in the jail are sent from the town of Peterborough, as the returns from time to time will show and that therefore it appears to the council that such legislative action should be taken by the government as would compel towns separated from counties to pay their share of supporting vagrants according to commitments in a house of refuge if the counties are to be compelled to erect such institutions, and that a copy of this paragraph of this report be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature.

The report was adopted and a bylaw duly passed to confirm it.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Casement that in accordance with the request of the deputation of the council of the town of Peterborough, made yesterday. Messrs. Burnham, Sanderson, Moloney, Finlay, Casement and the Warden be a committee to visit the council of the said town of Peterborough, in a committee thereof to consider the question of a house of refuge.—Carried.

Mr. MOLONEY chairman presented the report of the committee on

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That the reeve of Dour be chairman of this committee.

2. That the reeve of Lakefield be authorized to sell the timber belonging to this county and left over from the repairs of the Lakefield bridge, at such rate as he shall consider fair.

3. That the papers in connection with the suit of P. W. Stephenson be referred to Mr. R. E. Wood for consideration.

4. Your committee recommend that the council grant $100 towards the road commencing at McAdam's corners to Oak Lake in the township of Belmont, provided the united townships of Belmont and Methuen grant the sum of $50 and the Ontario Government the sum of $400 for the same purpose.

5. Your committee recommend that the account of Mr. M. J. Healey, amounting to $9.25, be paid.

6. Your committee recommend that this council grant $25 towards the Stony Lake road east of the fourth concession of Dummer, upon condition that this council grant $25 and the Ontario Government grant $50 towards the same purpose.

7. Your committee recommend that this council grant $50 towards the repairs of the Sandy Lake road running from Buckhorn to Lakehurst P.O., Harvey, upon condition that the council of Harvey grant $50 and the Ontario Government $100 for a like purpose.

8. Your committee recommend that this council make a special grant of $100 towards the Reid road in the township of Galway, provided the township of Galway grant the sum of $50 and the Ontario Government the sum of $200 for the same purpose.

9. Your committee recommend that this council make a special grant of $50.00 towards the Gannon's Narrows road (south) upon condition that the Township of Enniskmore grant $50 00 and the Ontario Government $100.00 for the same purpose.

10. Your committee recommend that the Warden and Messrs. Casement, McAuley, Sanderson, Anderson, the County Clerk and County Engineer, Burnham, Moloney, Moore and Shaw, be a special committee on legislation with full power to act for this council as circumstances may arise in their best discretion.

11. Your committee recommend that this council grant $75.00 towards the South Buckhorn and North Burleigh road upon condition that the Township of Smith grant $75.00 and the Ontario Government $150.00 for the same purpose.

12. Your committee recommend that no action be taken with reference to the communication from the Clerk of the county of Oxford asking this council to memorialize the Ontario Legislature to repeal Section 30 Chapter 50 Statutes Ontario 1890, relating to the construction and maintenance of the bridges over 100 feet in length.

13. Your committee recommend that the report of the County Engineer be received.

14. Your committee recommend that the matter of the repairs to the Mud Lake and Warminster and Fife Bridges mentioned in the Engineer's report be referred to the Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges.

15. Your committee recommend that the matter of the repair or re-erection of the Burnt Mill Bridge in the Township of Belmont be referred to the Special Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges and that that committee personally visit the ground and consider the possibility and advisability of closing up one the three bridges now in that locality and the immediate vicinity of one another.

16. That the matter of the repairs to Preston's Bridge in the Township of Belmont be left in the hands of the Reeve of Belmont and the County Engineer with power to act in the premises.

17. That the Reeve of Harvey act in conjunction with the County Engineer with regard to the clearing of the Gannon Narrows Channel.

18 That the matter of repairs to the Indian River Bridge on the boundary between Douro and Otonabee be left in the hands of the County Engineer with power to act.

19. That Messrs. Sanderson, Moloney, Burnham and Anderson be a Special Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges. That the Reeve of Enniskmore be a member thereof in all matters in connection with the Mud Lake Bridge, and that the Reeve of Belmont be a member thereof in all matters in connection with the bridges in the united Townships of Belmont and Methuen.

20. That the sum of $50.00 be granted to each of the municipalities of Harvey, Galway, Burleigh and Belmont for the expenditure on roads and bridges therein and that the respective reeves of such municipalities be the commissioners for expenditure of same, each to furnish to this council a certified statement in detail of the manner in which moneys were expended.

21. Your committee recommend that, with reference to the application to the town of Peterborough for the Smith street bridge, this council calls the attention of the town of Peterborough to the fact that on September 10th, 1875, this council gave to the town of Peterborough the remnant of the old iron bridge upon the condition that the town should undertake the construction of the bridge and keep the same up in perpetuity, and that later in June, when the town of Peterborough applied for a grant towards the approaches to the bridge, this council reminded the town of Peterborough of the agreement and conditions above mentioned.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN MOLONEY,
Chairman.

Peterborough, January 30th, 1892.

The report was adopted and a confirmatory bylaw passed.

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Casement, that the Hunter street bridge be repaired.

STANDING RULES.

Mr. Casement introduced a bylaw which was duly passed to amend the standing rules of the council. The amendment provided that the June session of the county council be held on the second Tuesday in June at 2 o'clock p.m.

Mr. ROBB, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on

PETITIONS.

The Committee on Petitions beg leave to report as follows:—

1 That the reeve of Dummer be chairman of this committee.

2. That your committee are favourably disposed towards the principle of the Torrens system of land transfer and recommend that Messrs. Robb, Moloney, Moore and Burnham be a committee to fully consider the benefits to be derived from the introduction of the system and the probable cost thereof, and to report at the June session of this council; and that Mr. Burnham be chairman of the committee.

3. That with reference to the communication from the county of Elgin, with reference to the shipping of live stock, your committee recommend that no action be taken.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. ROBB,
Chairman.

Peterborough, January 30, 1892.

The report was adopted.

By-laws confirming the reports of the several committees were duly passed.

The council adjourned.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "Ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

BUTCHER SHOP.

In the South Ward.

J. JAMIESON

HAS opened out a New Butcher Shop in Van Every's new building, No. 208, corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie Streets, where housekeepers will always find a first-class supply of prime Beef, Pork, Mutton, Sausages, &c., cheap for cash. Orders delivered promptly. A call solicited.

WM. FITZGERALD,

for Buildings, etc., has a large number of Houses and Lots for sale in town and Ashburnham Special attention is called to the western locality—Homewood Avenue and Erie Property, which are unexcelled for beauty of situation. Lots are selling very rapidly. The west, we believe, is the most desirable place to invest in. It advances very rapidly in value.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

OUR COUNTY COUNCIL.

12. That no action be taken upon the application of Mr. A. R. Kidd for payment of the expenses to which he was put owing to the charges brought against him by Mr. Richard Crowe and the investigation thereof.

13. That no action be taken with reference to the suit of Mr. P. W. Stephenson against the county.

14. That George Cochrane be employed as inspector of licenses for peddlars, auctioneers, etc., with instructions to enforce all by-laws with respect to the same.

15. That the clerk be instructed to direct proceedings to be taken to quash the conviction under which the Storms family were committed to the county gaol.

16. That in refe ence to the report of the Inspector of Prisons, presented by the sheriff as to the want of jail accommodation owing to the number of vagrants confined, this council beg to inform the government that the large portion of vagrants in the jail are sent from the town of Peterborough, as the returns from time to time will show and that therefore it appears to the council that such legislative action should be taken by the government as would compel towns separated from counties to pa, their share of supporting vagrants according to commitments in a house of refuge if the counties are to be compelled to erect such institutions, and that a copy of this paragraph of this report be forwarded to the Ontario Legislature.

The report was adopted and a bylaw duly passed to confirm it.

HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Casement that in accordance with the request of the deputation of the council of the town of Peterborough, made yesterday, Messrs. Burnham, Sanderson, Moloney, Finlay, Casement and the Warden be a committee to visit the council of the said town of Peterborough, in a committee thereof to consider the question of a house of refuge.—Carried.

Mr. MOLONEY chairman presented the report of the committee on

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges beg leave to report as follows :—

1. That the reeve of Douro be chairman of this committee.

2. That the reeve of Lakefield be authorized to sell the timber belonging to this county and left over from the repairs of the Lakefield bridge, at such rate as he shall consider fair.

3. That the papers in connection with the suit of P. W. Stephenson be referred to Mr. R. E. Wood for consideration.

4. Your committee recommend that the council grant $100 towards the road commencing at McAdam's corners to Oak Lake in the township of Belmont, provided the united townships of Belmont and Methuen grant the sum of $50 and the Ontario Government the sum of $400 for the same purpose.

5. Your committee recommend that the account of Mr. M. J. Healey, amounting to $9.25, be paid.

6. Your committee recommend that this council grant $25 towards the Stony Lake road east of the fourth concession of Dummer, upon condition that this council grant $25 and the Ontario Government grant $50 towards the same purpose.

7. Your committee recommend that this council grant $50 towards the repairs of the Sandy Lake road running from Buckhorn to Lakehurst P.O., Harvey, upon condition that the council of Harvey grant $50 and the Ontario Government $100 for a like purpose.

8. Your committee recommend that this council make a special grant of $100 towards the Reid road in the township of Galway, provided the township of Galway grant the sum of $50 and the Ontario Government the sum of $200 for the same purpose.

9. Your committee recommend that this council make a special grant of $50.00 towards the Gannon's Narrows road (south) upon condition that the Township of Eanismore grant $50 00 and the Ontario Government $100.00 for the same purpose.

10. Your committee recommend that the Warden and Messrs. Casement, McAuley, Sanderson, Anderson, the County Clerk and County Engineer, Burnham, Moloney, Moore and Shaw, be a special committee on legislation with full power to act for this council as circumstances may arise in their best discretion.

11. Your committee recommend that this council grant $75.00 towards the South Buckhorn and North Burleigh road upon condition that the Township of Smith grant $75.00 and the Ontario Government $150.00 for the same purpose.

12. Your committee recommend that no action be taken with reference to the communication from the Clerk of the county of Oxford asking this council to memorialize the Ontario Legislature to repeal Section 30 Chapter 50 Statutes Ontario 1890, relating to the construction and maintenance of the bridges over 100 feet in length.

13. Your committee recommend that the report of the County Engineer be received.

14. Your committee recommend that the matter of the repairs to the Mud Lake and Warminster and Fife Bridges mentioned in the Engineer's report be referred to the Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges.

15. Your committee recommend that the matter of the repair or re-erection of the Burnt Mill Bridge in the Township of Belmont be referred to the Special Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges and that that committee personally visit the ground and consider the possibility and advisability of closing up one the three bridges now in that locality and the immediate vicinity of one another.

16. That the matter of the repairs to Preston's Bridge in the Township of Belmont be left in the hands of the Reeve of Belmont and the County Engineer with power to act in the premises.

17. That the Reeve of Harvey act in conjunction with the County Engineer with regard to the clearing of the Gannon Narrows Channel.

18 That the matter of repairs to the Indian River Bridge on the boundary between Douro and Otonabee be left in the hands of the County Engineer with power to act.

19. That Messrs. Sanderson, Moloney, Burnham and Anderson be a Special Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges. That the Reeve of Eanismore be a member thereof in all matters in connection with the Mud Lake Bridge, and that the Reeve of Belmont be a member thereof in all matters in connection with the bridges in the united Townships of Belmont and Methuen.

20. That the sum of $50.00 be granted to each of the municipalities of Harvey, Galvey, Burleigh and Belmont for the expenditure on roads and bridges therein and that the respective reeves of such municipalities be the commissioners for expenditure of same, each to furnish to this council a certified statement in detail of the manner in which moneys were expended.

21. Your committee recommend that, with reference to the application to the town of Peterborough for the Smith street bridge, this council calls the attention of the town of Peterborough to the fact that on September 10th, 1875, this council gave to the town of Peterborough the remnant of the old iron bridge upon the condition that the town should undertake the construction of the bridge and keep the same up in perpetuity, and that later in June, when the town of Peterborough applied for a grant towards the approaches to the bridge, this council reminded the town of Peterborough of the agreement and conditions above mentioned.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN MOLONEY, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 30th, 1892.

The report was adopted and a confirmatory bylaw passed.

Mr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Casement, that the Hunter street bridge be repaired.

STANDING RULES.

Mr. Casement introduced a bylaw which was duly passed to amend the standing rules of the council. The amendment provided that the June session of the county council be held on the second Tuesday in June at 2 o'clock p.m.

Mr. ROBB, chairman, presented the report of the Committee on PETITIONS.

The Committee on Petitions beg leave to report as follows :—

1 That the reeve of Dummer be chairman of this committee.

2. That your committee are favourably disposed towards the principle of the Torrens system of land transfer and recommend that Messrs. Robb, Moloney, Moore and Burnham be a committee to fully consider the benefits to be derived from the introduction of the system and the probable cost thereof, and to report at the June session of this council; and that Mr. Burnham be chairman of the committee.

3. That with reference to the communication from the county of Elgin, with reference to the shipping of live stock, your committee recommend that no action be taken.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. ROBB, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 30, 1892.

The report was adopted.

By-laws confirming the reports of the several committees were duly passed.

The council adjourned.

Attacked by an Enemy.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B. and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Society Finances.

The finance committee of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows No. 111, have prepared and printed for distribution among the members a financial report for the term ending Dec. 31st, 1891. This statement shows that the receipts during the term (six months) amounted to $1,078.92, and that the disbursements were $956 32. The total sum of the assets of the lodge is $7,184 66, of which $5,572.82 is cash in hand, the balance being represented by furniture, regalia, dues not yet paid, etc. This is an excellent financial standing for this lodge, especially when the large sums paid out for sick and other benefits is taken into consideration. Many are the homes brightened and hearts lightened by these timely benefactions. This lodge has introduced a very commendable precedent in placing in the hands of the members a statement of the exact standing of the lodge, and of the manner in which the funds are disposed.

Police Court.

MONDAY, 1st Feb., 1892.

There was a crowded house at the police court this morning. On the bench were Police Magistrate Dumble and Mr. A. V. R. Young.

Orlando Mowry and George Thompson were charged with being drunk and disorderly. They each pleaded guilty and were fined $2 or 10 days.

INSPECTOR COCHRANE VS. CAVANAGH.

On taking up this case Mr. Poussette for the defence further argued the point brought up by him at the trial "that three convictions must be made in one license year to secure a forfeiture of the license."

The MAGISTRATE said he did not see the soundness of the position taken by Mr. Poussette, and he over-ruled his objection and held that the third conviction under the Act necessarily forfeited the license.

Mr. POUSSETTE—Then you consider my argument all wrong.

The MAGISTRATE—No, not all wrong.

Mr. POUSSETTE—Then if you have any doubt on the point the defendant should have the benefit of it.

The MAGISTRATE—Certainly, if I had any doubt, but I have not.

The defendant was then fined $100 and $7 75 costs, to be paid in ten days, or in default of payment fifty days in jail.

The being the third conviction according to the magistrate's ruling, the license is by statute ipso facto cancelled.

Mr. Poussette said to a reporter of the EXAMINER that the case would be appealed.

The Chief of Police next proceeded against about twelve persons, whom he charged with having obtained drink during prohibition hours. These charges arose out of the Cavanagh case, and the whole of the persons charged pleaded guilty and were each fined $2.00 and $1.95 costs.

The Ethan Grange Hall case was the next on the list. Mr. Stone on behalf of Mr. J. J. Brealey said that a medical examination had taken place on behalf of the defence, on Saturday, and the doctor had reported that Brealey would not be able to appear this morning. He had not got with him a medical certicate, but could call evidence to prove his inability to attend.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS for one of the complainants, thought that it would have been an easy matter to have procured a medical certificate. He did not think the injuries were so severe as had been stated. He thought the defendant ought to be given to understand that he must attend the court so that in default of his appearing a warrant could be applied for.

The magistrate enlarged the case for one week.

The attention of the court was next directed to an alleged larceny case, in which a young man was charged with attempting to steal a watch. The evidence showed that it was merely a drunken freak, the accused and two friends being under the influence of liquor at the time.

Judgment was reserved until to-morrow morning.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's rally on Saturday night was largely attended and all present listened with great interest to evangelist Meikle, who gave an earnest Gospel address on "The Life of Joseph." An after meeting was held, and many young men resolved by God's help to lead a new life and to take Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour. The singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. band.

The Sabbath morning Bible class and consecration meeting was held as usual in the Association parlour and was conducted by Mr. Robert Russell. Topic, "The Suffering Saviour," Isaiah 53rd chapter.

Sabbath afternoon at 4 p.m. Bradburn's opera house was filled by a large audience, of "men only," to listen to Evangelist Meikle give another of his plain talks, the subject being "The moral man, the sport, and the hard case." The speaker was listened to with great interest as he went on to show the difference between the moral man, the sport, and the hard case, and that all were the same in the sight of God. The singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. band.

The usual Gospel and song service was held last evening, the Association hall being filled by a large audience. Miss Camilla Sanderson gave an interesting address, the subject being "The two paths."

Church Chimes.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN.

Owing to the pastor being still unable to resume his duties, the pulpit in the above church was supplied by Rev. Mr. Meikle, the evangelist, at the morning service, and by Rev. G. Edwards, of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, in the evening. Eloquent sermons were preached, and good congregations attended.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

The pastor, Rev. J. H. Locke, occupied the pulpit yesterday. He took as his text in the morning Second Corinthians, 6th chapter and 17th verse: "Come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord," &c. In a very impressive and earnest sermon the reverend gentleman touched upon the duties of professing Christians, in relation to the world, having particular reference to worldly amusements. In the evening the text was St. Matthew's Gospel 5th chapter and 20th verse—"For I say unto you that except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven." There were good congregations at both services, and anthems were well rendered at each, by the choir.

CHARLOTTE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

At the above place of worship yesterday, the pastor Rev. G. Edwards preached at the morning service. At 7 p.m. Rev. Mr. Meikle the Evangelist commenced a series of special services. He preached a most eloquent and interesting sermon, and concluded with an earnest appeal to all present to accept Christ as their Saviour. There were good congregations present at each service, and the choir rendered useful assistance. The evangelistic meetings will be continued all through the week at the same church, beginning each evening at 7.45. The choir will be in attendance.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

In the evening the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, preached the sermon. He dealt in a very full and practical manner with the duty imposed upon Christians of helping one another — a subject of very timely importance at a season when so many need a helping hand.

As a cure for cold in the head and catarrh Nasal Balm is endorsed by prominent men everywhere. Dr. Derbyshire, president of the Ontario Creamery Association, says:—"Nasal Balm beats the world for catarrh and cold in the head. In my own case it effected relief from the first application." Sold by dealers or sent by mail on receipt of price—50 cts. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

News Nuggets.

—There was a large crowd at the rink on Saturday night.

—The curlers are keeping very quiet just now. Perhaps they are preparing for their match with Lindsay.

—The January thaw has arrived and looks like staying part of February.

—The temperance petitions are being widely signed.

—Driving was the order of the day yesterday, owing doubtless to the mild weather.

—The Board of Health meets this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

About two hundred and fifty blocks of ice have been taken from the lake by our genial hotel keeper, Mr. McFarlane, for next summer's use. The ice is in splendid condidition this winter. Mac is evidently bound to keep his summer boarders from dissolving with the heat.

Mr. C. Young has started a lumber camp on Stony lake, and is now employing men to take out timber from that vicinity.

Mr. Ball, who is in the employ of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt's Lumber Firm, is now recovering from his illness.

Messrs. Rudkins and O'Reilly, of the Lock Works, taking advantage of the pleasant weather, paid a short visit to the Point on Friday.

Mr. "Grippe" has not yet made his visit to any of the people in this vicinity, while elsewhere he is doing considerable damage. So much for this locality as a health resort.

Complimentary Concert.

The public attention is again directed to the complimentary concert to be given to Mr. L. Seward, the popular organist, in Bradburn's opera house, on Thursday evening next, February 4th. Apart from the exceedingly commendable object of the concert, an excellent programme will be contributed by the following ladies and gentlemen: The Peterborough Amateur Orchestra, Miss Vair, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. C. Green, contralto; Mrs. Seward, soprano; Miss Louise Yokome, violin; Mr. Johnson Bane, guitar; Mr. J. Caurchill Arlidge, flute; Mr. Hoover, piano; and Mr. T. Dunn, baritone, in solo and in duo with Miss Vair. Mr. J. H. Long, M.A., will also contribute a few remarks between the two parts of the programme. Tickets 25 and 50 cents. Reserved seat plan at Greatrex's drug store. Secure seats at once. Plan now open.

The Toboggan Slide.

The recent thaw has not had any deteriorating effect on the toboggan slide. On the contrary, the bed of the chutes, is now covered with ice and packed snow making the descent more easy. Where the snow had become worn off, ice has now formed and there is no danger of being checked suddenly when on the way down, owing to contact with the foundation of the chutes. On Saturday night, the slide was only moderately well patronized probably owing to the numerous counter-attractions Saturday night in town offers. Those, however, who had the good fortune to be at the slide, had a thorough evening's enjoyment. It is impossible to give an adequate description on paper of the sensations experienced on the way down. One must take two or three slides to fully realize all that is meant by tobogganing. Those who have not already tried this delightful and exhilarating sport, should not fail to do so while the weather continues so favourable as at present.

A Small Fire.

This morning about seven o'clock a boy in the employ of Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., was going up stairs from the store about his work. When passing the dressmaker's room, he saw a light inside. On investigating, it was found that a box of scraps of material had caught fire, and threatened to communicate with the remainder of the store. The fire brigade was summoned, and the blaze was extinguished with one of the chemical engines. The damage done was only slight, but had it not been discovered in time, the consequences must have been serious. The cause of the fire is unknown.

It Mildo Her Headache.

Empress Eugenie suffered a great deal from one of the most magnificent adjuncts to her official splendors of attire. This was the classic-shaped diadem in diamonds, with the regent set like a star on its summit in front, which, whenever she wore it always caused her a violent headache by its weight. The day that she sat enthroned on the lofty dias erected for the imperial party on the Place Vendome, to pass in review the victorious French army on its return from Italy, the most dazzling vision of that triumphant day was assuredly the lovely Empress. Clad in floating clouds of white tulle with the famous diadem blazing above her brow, she was the cynosure of all eyes and the admired of all observers. But when she returned to the Tuileries after the long agitations of those exciting hours, her weighty crown was no sooner lifted from her head than she swooned away.—Paris Letter in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Begging by Sample.

Under the main entrance to one of our churches a poor woman, shivering with cold and holding a baby in her arms, appealed to the charity of passers-by.

"Why, your infant is of pasteboard," said a gentleman, as he tapped its nose, which sounded hard and resonant.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, Monsieur. It was so cold I left the real one at home."—Le Progress de Chillac.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

SALLY.

By Albert Fleming.

IT was a hot day in August, one of those reeking hot days that begin to be hot early in the morning and go on getting hotter and hotter till nearly midnight.

In the year 1870 Cow court and its unwholesome cluster of neighbors still clung to the skirts of Holborn and festered round St. Alban's church, stretching from Gray's inn road to Leather lane. The fine shops and warehouses that now adorn Gray's inn road then only existed in the brain of some city architect. Of all these alleys Cow court carried off the palm for squalor, dirt and general decay. You had to turn out of Leather lane to get there; the turning was flanked on either side by a tavern, and these taverns, with their plate glass and gilding, were the only things that were bright and cheerful in this region. If you explored farther you saw an archway on the right, made by sweeping away the ground floor of one of the crazy tenements. This was the postern gate to Cow court. If any one ever got so far in as this and retained his watch and chain, he always lost them on approaching this archway.

On this August evening a young man was passing through Leather lane in search of Cow court. He was dressed in the latest West End fashion; but even the hideous chimney pot hat, pointed shoes and rigid collar could not disguise his comeliness. At a guess he was three-and-twenty. Being of a trusting nature, he allowed his gold chain to disport itself across his waistcoat, and his jeweled pin remained in his scarf.

Kenneth Gordon was down from Oxford, and had been calling on one of the clergymen at St. Alban's, who had asked him to take a letter to a dying girl in Cow court. He strode through the dingy street, sometimes asking his way of one of the residental ladies of Leather lane, and always winning a civil answer by the force of his genial smile. When he reached Cow court a pleasant thrill of excitement pervaded that locality; the watch and chain had survived Leather lane, and now flashed gayly in the evening light; his pin held its accustomed place; his handkerchief gleamed white against his coat. Inquiring of a boy, he learned that Polly Turner lived at No. 7, and was escorted there by a crowd of loafers. The girl was dying; the stuffy room was crowded with friends, nearly dark and unspeakably miserable. Kenneth gave her the letter, but had to take it back and read it to her. In the presence of that deathly white face he felt usual forms of speech to be useless. He held her hand for a minute, tried to say a few kind words, and then felt that he had failed; but the gentle touch and words went straight to the girl's heart, and there rested until it ceased to beat. When Kenneth left No. 7, a child was lying in a doorway just opposite. Dirt, famine, and ill-usage had effectually obscured the bloom of youth in her. Her face was so dirty that he could only see two large eyes flashing from a tangled mass of hair. This was "Sally." As she never owned a surname, it is impossible to introduce her more formally; if her friends wished to identify her with precision, they called her "Tim's Sally." Tim was her father, and his surname was also hidden in obscurity. Sally had heard that a young swell had come into Cow court, and was waiting to have a look at him. On that she reckoned without her father, for Tim, coming down the passage behind her, enforced parental discipline by a vigorous kick on her shins. When you have kicked a body for 10 years you acquire precision in the art, and Tim planted his kick with such exactness that the girl fell down on the doorstep and there she lay too listless to cry out. Now, nothing is tamer or more monotonous than to waste good kicks on an irresponsible person; so Tim was aggrieved, and followed up his first kick by others, accompanying them with a volley of inspiriting oaths. The last kick must have caught Sally in a sensitive place, for she gave a sharp scream of agony.

"What's that?" cried a woman from an inner room.

"Oh," said another, "it's only Tim awaking up his gell."

As Kenneth left No. 7 he saw this kick and heard Sally's scream. He instantly strode across the court. Tim was girding himself up for more kicks. For the first time in his life he found this simple pastime of his interfered with.

Kenneth faced him sternly.

"Leave the girl alone, you blackguard. How dare you kick a woman?"

Not kick a woman! Cow court was convulsed. Why, women were kicked every day; they expected it—accepted it as a law of nature. Tim and the bystanders paused for a moment to grasp the full absurdity of the idea; but only for a moment. Then Tim turned on him like a wild beast, the veins in his great bull's neck swelling like cords.

"Who the——are you? Can't a man kick his own gell? Get out of this, or I'll kick you, too!" Then, in mere bravado, he lifted his foot to give the girl another refresher.

"Touch her at your peril!" cried Kenneth, flushing to the roots of his hair. In another moment he heard the thud of Tim's foot as it drove lustily into the girl, and, at the self-same moment, Kenneth's fist crashed into Tim's face, catching him on the jaw, and sending him reeling backward down the passage. Then Cow court perceived that their was a joyful prospect of a Homeric combat. In a few moments a ring was formed, and old Biddy was whisked aloft in her chair in the arms of two stalwart supporters. Kenneth's blood was up; he flung his coat and waistcoat to one bystander and his hat to another. Cow court accepted them with alacrity. Tim divested himself of some superfluous rags, bared his stalwart arms, and prepared to "smash the swell." Biddy surveyed both combatants with a critical eye; she knew the points of a man.

"Blood'll tell," she said oracularly, as she saw Kenneth straighten himself for the fight; he had boxed at Oxford, and was in fair condition, sound in wind, above all temperate and cool. The first round revealed to him that Tim fought in a very effective but utterly unscientific manner. He came at his enemy with a furious rush and planted terrific chance blows; but he left himself unprotected, and wasted a lot of strength to no purpose. Kenneth quietly bided his time, parried Tim's blows and let him exhaust himself. Tim drew first blood, beating down Kenneth's parry, and lauding on his temple with considerable force; still Kenneth kept his temper, and the cobbler he was the more savage grew Tim; the ring cheered him on, exhorting him to go in and do for the swell. Kenneth now began to act on the offensive, letting drive, he caught Tim full on the mouth with all the strength of his sturdy left hand. His knuckles cut deeply into Tim's lips, and sent him crashing to the ground. Biddy rapped approval with her crutch; she loved to see a straight blow well planted. Tim was set on his feet, rather giddy and dazed—he was not a pretty sight; his lips were like raw liver, and his face distorted with passion; what little steadiness he had he then threw to the winds, and Kenneth's next blow caught him full in the eye. After this he summoned his strength for a more furious onslaught. His blow was partially parried, but landed on Kenneth's shoulder; in reply, Kenneth caught him full in the forehead, felling him to the ground as a butcher does an ox. After this Tim did not come up to time; he was dragged off into some back region, and left Kenneth undisputed master of the field. Old Biddy took a pull at her pipe, expectorated, and said simply:

"Ah, blood has told!"

When Kenneth pulled down his shirt sleeves and turned to the crowd to demand his coat and waistcoat they were not forthcoming—they had vanished. Then Kenneth flashed out, called them curs, sneaks and thieves. Cow court being accustomed to language of far greater pungency, preserved an unbroken calm. Then Biddy rose in her wrath, and, steadying herself on her crutch, vowed, with many bloodcurdling oaths, that the missing garments should be forthcoming, and that quickly—condemning on peasant, the eyes and limbs of the thieves to infernal torments. The clothes appeared and it was an ennobling sight to see the old crone stand up and order him to search his pockets while she asked categorically: "Purse? Wipe? Cigar case? Watch? Chain?" etc. Each had been honestly replaced. Kenneth then took Biddy by the hand and gave her a sovereign to distribute among her subjects.

Just then he felt something at his feet. He had almost forgotten the girl he had fought for. She had crawled to his feet and kissed them; there was a pathetic and dog-like fidelity in her look and gesture.

"Don't leave me here," she said. "He'll do for me worse now than ever when you're gone."

Kenneth paused. It was easier to fight than to know what to do with the damsel he had rescued, but he acted on impulse and threw his card to Biddy.

"There, mother, is my card. I'll take the girl and get a good home for her. That's my address; come and see her when she has pulled round."

"You have fought for her and won her," said Biddy. "I'll bet you're honest, and will do well by her—so take her."

Keep the Works in good order.

NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,

"August Flower"

For two years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble, and was for all that time under treatment by a physician. He finally, after trying everything, said stomach was about worn out, and that I would have to cease eating solid food for a time at least. I was so weak that I could not work. Finally on the recommendation of a friend who had used your preparations with beneficial results, I procured a bottle of August Flower, and commenced using it. It seemed to do me good at once. I gained in strength and flesh rapidly; my appetite became good, and I suffered no bad effects from what I ate. I feel now like a new man, and consider that August Flower has entirely cured me of Dyspepsia in its worst form. JAMES E. DEDERICK, Sangerties, New York.

A RELIEF EXPEDITION

TO BE SENT TO THE ARCTIC REGIONS FOR PEARY AND WIFE.

Where They and Their Associates are Now Located—How the Winter is to be Spent—Character of the Relief Expedition to be Sent Out.

F SOME astral shape could visit or some psychic telegraph penetrate the darkness and distance that lies between this comfortable latitude of 40° north and 77° 43' north, where Lieutenant Peary, his wife and their five companions are passing the Winter in a 20x12 wooden hut, it would relieve the minds of many of the members of the Academy of Natural Sciences. It was on July 27 when the West Greenland Expedition, as the Academy's party of scientists under Prof. Heilprin was called, bade adieu to the brave seven of the North Greenland Expedition. The place where Lieutenant Peary was left is the south shore of McCormick's Bay, at the very head of the bay, about 700 miles from the North Pole. McCormick's Bay is on the west shore of Greenland, about 500 miles north of Upernavik, which is the nearest settlement to which the term civilized can be applied. On the rocky shore, looking westward, just at the foot of the hills that slope toward the highland of the interior of Greenland, the foundation for the Winter quarters was laid on July 25 and the work was finished July 27, and then the Lieutenant was carried out of the Kite on a litter, owing to the condition of his broken leg, and placed on shore with his companions.

When the Kite steamed away and the gray shores of McCormick's Bay faded out of sight, it became the settled conviction of the Heilprin party that, as one of them wrote in his dairy of July 30, "unless a relief expedition be sent to Lieutenant Peary next summer he and his party will never be seen again alive." When the Heilprin party reached Philadelphia on September 4, they still felt that a relief expedition was a necessity and it is in pursuance of this that the Academy has now decided to send a relief expedition. On Tuesday night the character of the proposed expedition, whether it shall be a simple relief expedition or a scientific one as well, and its personnel will be discussed by the Academy savants and finally passed upon. The expedition whatever its character, will, however, not start until some time in June, so that it can traverse the 2,000 and more miles between these hospitable shores and reach the upper part of Baffin's Bay in Midsummer, in time to rescue the Lieutenant before he starts on his journey to Upernavik.

PEARY'S WINTER HOUSE AND SUPPLIES.

GOOD-BYE TO THE SUN.

On October 24 the sun's rim dipped and the black and white Winter of the Arctic regions set in. The seven explorers will not see its yellow face again until February 22. All during this period it was the intention of the Lieutenant to get ready for the early Spring journey, but while the rest of the party may have taken and be taking their daily exercise and practice on the skis, wooden skates, the Lieutenant, it is probable, is still nursing his broken leg. If, however, he has recovered he is very likely with the rest making the garments and accoutrements necessary for the run across ice caps into Greenland's interior, and the return to the hut. Lieutenant Peary's expedition is not a hunt for the North Pole so much as it is a plan of exploration that comprises the penetration of North Greenland for 300 miles or so, the placing of caches of provisions along the route taken into the interior, and one at the farthest point reached, from which it is believed it would be easy as it were, to make a sortie and actually reach the Pole.

In spending the winter as best they can the first journey of Springtime, if all goes well, will be made in April. Three of the men will start out on a reconnoissance. They will carry a supply of food to the edge of the Humboldt glacier, which covers the plateau about 1700 which slopes to the shores of the bay. The glacier is the edge of the great sea of inland ice which forms the Greenland ice cap. It is about 2200 feet high. A cache will be made at the edge of the glacier. Later on, in April or May, the six men and Mrs. Peary will start for the ice cap with the sledges, each containing 200 pounds of food, sleeping bags, stoves, etc., and strike the first cache on the way. This supply will then be carried about 200 miles over the ice field to the North, where another supply station will be established. Here the three extra men, and very likely Mrs. Peary, will return to the hut, while the Lieutenant and his two most trustworthy companions, Mr. Gibson and Mr. Verhoeift, will push 400 miles or more into the interior and make what discoveries they can. At the end of their journey they will establish a cache. By the time he gets back to the hut the Lieutenant expects to find the Summer near over.

THE CRUISE TO UPERNAVIK.

If all has gone well up to this time his troubles will have but begun and to make his safety a matter of no questioning is the reason the Academy will send out its expedition. If, however, no relief came, it was the Lieutenant's intention to leave his Winter quarters on McCormick's Bay between the first and fifteenth of next August, and start in his whaleboats down Baffin's Bay on a 500-mile journey to Upernavik. This cruise in a small boat, through a polar sea is a most dangerous undertaking. It took old Captain Pike, the commander of the vessel that took Peary to his retreat, a month to make the same journey and several times he despaired of ever completing it. Under the circumstances then, it is believed that the Lieutenant will conserve the forces and strength of his party and only use one of the whaleboats. By the time they reach Upernavik, if no untoward accident occurs, it is feared they will be too late for the Danish trading ships and hence will be forced to pass the autumn of '92 and the winter of '92-'93 at this wretched Esquimaux village, reaching civilization in the summer of '93.

The possibility that all may not go well with the party, that they will not be able to make the cruise from McCormick's Bay to Upernavik, or that attempting it they are forced to seek the inhospitable shore, lying between the two points, are some of the reasons that have led the Academy party to advocate the relief expedition. For, were the party forced to remain at McCormick's Bay over the summer of '92, and pass another Winter there, it is not likely that any would be left to tell the tale, since there were only provisions to last sixteen months, which would carry them only through to Dec., '92, with over six months ahead of them before a relief expedition could reach them in the Summer of '93. As it is now, it is probable that, allowing for the ordinary discomforts of an Arctic Winter, Lieutenant Peary's party of seven are not suffering from either cold or hunger. The 20x12 cabin, while not palatial, will no doubt afford them a sure retreat. It is seven feet in height with a pent roof, and a stockade around it to keep off the snow and afford a covered alley-way all around the hut. In this alley-way the members of the party will exercise themselves, when it is impossible to go out in the snow.

WHO THE SEVEN EXPLORERS ARE.

The personnel of the Peary party is not just what those who understand the hardships it will have to undergo would like to see. The only Philadelphian is the colored man, Matt Henson, who was most anxious to return with the Heilprin party, regarding a Winter in the North with terror. Lieutenant Perry is a Maine man, courageous and inspired by an invincible spirit. His wife is a healthy, well built woman, especially fitted for such an expedition. Of the four other white companions the Lieutenant puts the most confidence in Langdon Gibson, of Long Island. He is the hunter and ornithologist, and has had some experience in roughing it, having been one of an exploring party that went through the canyon of the Colorado. Another man whom the Lieutenant expects much of is J. M. Verhoeift, of Louisville. He is a plucky little fellow and has lots of grit. He is the mineralogist of the expedition. Bringing up the rear are Dr. F. A. Cook, of Brooklyn, the physician; Astruf, a Norwegian, very young but strong, and Henson. All the members of the party are remarkably young, their ages, with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Peary, ranging from 20 to 25 years.

Whether they will be found hale and hearty, ready to board the Academy's relief boat, or whether accident and disease will have entered their midst and brought disaster and desolation, are the problems the Academy's expedition of next Summer will solve.—Philadelphia Press.

Shakespeare will please excuse us if we modify him thus: Thrice is he armed who hath his system strengthened with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and he but naked, though arrayed in furs, whose blood is poor or with disease corrupted. An incomparable medicine!

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

ACCIDENT AT LONDON.

The Mother of Prominent Newspaper Men Injured in a Runaway.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Mitchell, aged 75, was struck by a runaway horse in Dundas-street, and frightfully injured. When picked up it was found she had received an ugly wound in the forehead, caused by the shaft or the horse's hoof striking her, from which the blood poured profusely. Her scalp was also torn and had to be stitched up, while one of her hands was somewhat injured. Mrs. Mitchell is a resident of Goderich and is the mother of James Mitchell, proprietor of The Goderich Star. She is also the mother of Charles Mitchell, proprietor of The Ottawa Free Press. Mrs. Mitchell was on her way from Goderich to Windsor, where she had been called to the deathbed of her son-in-law, John Edwards.

The New Glencoe Line.

SARNIA, Feb. 1.— Work on the Glencoe line of the G.T.R. will be shoved with the opening of spring, and the road will be pushed to completion. It will prove a valuable addition to the G.T.R. systems. As is well known the line will leave the Sarnia branch at Kingscourt and go through the Alvinston district.

Fog Whistle at Nine Mile Point.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.— The Minister of Marine has, it is stated, agreed to grant the application of the Canadian Marine Association for a steam fog whistle on Nine Mile Point, Lake Ontario, and Parliament will be asked to vote an appropriation for that purpose.

Will Be Given a Farewell.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Ald. J. K. Stewart will resign his seat for Victoria Ward at the next meeting of the council. He will leave for Toronto the week after next to assume his new duties as Provincial License Inspector, and the temperance people of the city propose tendering him farewell.

C.P.R. to Buy the Northern.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—A rumor is afloat here, which cannot be verified, that the Canadian Pacific will shortly purchase all Northern Pacific lines in Manitoba.

While Talking To Her Husband.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Mather, wife of James Mather, architect, dropped dead this morning whilst talking to her husband in their home. The cause was heart disease.

Dropped Dead While Filling a Flour Bag.

WOODSTOCK, Feb. 1.—Henry Suitter, aged 17, dropped dead at the Woodburn mills at noon to-day while engaged filling a bag of flour.

Presbyterian Church Burned.

PRESCOTT, Ont., Feb. 1.—This morning the Presbyterian Church was destroyed by fire, together with the manse. Loss $18,000, insured for $8000 in the North British and Western.

Fire at Chatsworth.

CHATSWORTH, Ont., Feb. 1.—Fire this morning destroyed R. Green's hardware store; loss $2000, no insurance; J. Dowd's butcher shop and residence, loss $2300, insurance $100; Methodist Church $500, insured; W. Taylor's empty house $300, no insurance.

Sarnia Hotel Burned.

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 1.—The Alexander House, of which David Fitzgibbons was landlord, and Andrew Alexander, sr., owner, was burned early Saturday morning. The building was insured for $1500 and the furniture for $2000. Origin of fire unknown.

A Boot and Shoe Manufacturer.

QUEBEC, Feb 1.— Hon G. Bresse of Quebec, legislative councillor for Laurentides divison, died last night in New York. Deceased was proprietor of one of the largest boot and shoe factories in Canada.

A Former Seaforth Resident.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.— John B. Mather, one of Winnipeg's most prominent citizens and business men, died this morning. He was formerly of Seaforth, Ont.

A. D. Emory.

HAMILTON, Feb. 1.— A. D. Emory, aged 84, father of Dr. W. J. Emory of Toronto, died at Burlington yesterday.

A Former English M.P.

LONDON, Feb. 1.— Jacob Henry Tillett, formerly M.P. for Norwich City, is dead from influenza.

Principal Philp of Forest.

FOREST, Feb. 1.— James H. Philp, B.A., principal of Forest High School, died at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Tramps Seize a Train.

CELINA, O., Feb. 1.—An extra freight train on Lake Erie and Western Road was boarded by a gang of tramps near Fort Recovery. The tramps seized every one of the brakemen and, took possession of the train, one relieving the engineer at the throttle.

As the train dashed past Fort Recovery the conductor managed to throw out an envelope with a cry for help written thereon. A posse was formed and at Mackinaw Junction, when the train pulled up, the train was surrounded and six of the gang captured.

Perished in Alaska.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Feb. 1.— The steamer from Alaska, which arrived last night, reports that Messrs. Orton and S. O. Wheelock of Juneau and eight other miners, who left Juneau on the schooner Charley for Lituya Bay, taking eight months' provisions, are supposed to have perished from exposure.

CUT HIS HEAD ALMOST OFF.

Thomas Bell, Late Manager of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency at Montreal, Commits Suicide.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Thomas H. Bell, late manager of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, committed suicide last night by cutting his throat with a razor, nearly severing his head from his body. Death was instantaneous.

Deceased was alone in a room when he committed the shocking deed, for which no other reason than temporary insanity can be assigned.

He was well-known and highly respected by all classes of citizens. He leaves a wife and children.

What the Government Expects.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Hon. John Haggart said to-day: I am sure that we will carry Prince Edward county, Lennox and East Hastings. The latter place the late W. Burdett carried on his own personal popularity, politics having little to do with it. Dr. Platt is a strong man as a Liberal, but Mr. Millon will, I am pretty sure, defeat him in Prince Edward. I feel confident that we will win more than three seats in Ontario, and as Sir John Thompson said three in the Maritime Provinces. All that we expect to do in Quebec is to hold our own.

Hon. John Thompson to Come West.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—The Minister of Justice received a telegram Saturday asking him to go west to take a hand in the political campaign. He will probably speak in Picton, Prince Edward, and in London, but as yet no arrangements have been perfected.

Mr. Patterson's Private Secretary.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—Mr. E. F. Jarvis of the Postoffice Department has been appointed private secretary to the new Secretary of State, Hon. J. C. Patterson.

His Majority 900.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 1.—Dickey (Conservative) elected in Cumberland by over 900 majority, with three places to hear from.

Loss of a British Ship With Nearly all Her Crew.

ASTORIA, Ogn., Feb. 1—The British ship Ferndale, coal-laden, went ashore Friday morning five miles north of the entrance to Grays harbor; 20 of the crew including Capt. Blair were drowned. Three of the crew were saved by being washed ashore upon pieces of wreckage. The dead body of the mate encased in a life-preserver has been found on the beach, but none of the other bodies are yet recovered. The vessel was coal laden and sailed from Newcastle, N.S.W., Nov. 6, for Portland, Oregon. Where the Ferndale went ashore is 70 miles north of the mouth of the Columbia River. The wreck occurred at daylight.

A Chatham Society Woman Arrested.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 1.—Miss Maggie Taylor, a handsome young woman from Chatham, Ontario, was arrested at a prominent drygoods store yesterday on a charge of shoplifting. Various articles, including silk scarfs, handkerchiefs, souvenir spoons, books and fancy goods were found in her possession and she confessed having stolen them from various retail houses in the city.

The woman said she was glad she had been arrested, as otherwise she would have gone on until she would have become a hopeless thief. There was no necessity for her stealing, but she had done so once or twice before and could not resist nor explain the desire that overcame her.

She was accompanied by her cousin, the wife of a highly respected physician of Chatham. The latter woman knew nothing of the thefts until the arrest was made.

Went With the Old Year.

PANAMA, Feb. 1.—Esteban Gonzales, a conductor on the Venezuela Central Railway, blew his brains out in church, where he had gone to attend a watch meeting, on the night of Dec. 31, leaving a note which said he simply wanted to go with the old year.

Drowned Herself in Molasses.

PANAMA, Feb. 1.—An Augol, Peruvian woman, convinced of her husband's infidelity, poisoned him, their six children and then drowned herself in a barrel of molasses.

A Canadian Killed.

GLADSTONE, Mich., Feb. 1.—Jacob Utland, employed on the construction of new docks here, was instantly killed Saturday by being struck by a quantity of falling coal. Deceased was from Meaford, Ont.

Escorted to Canada.

BUFFALO, Feb. 1.— Jew Ah Ling and Jew Ah Len where formally deported yesterday. These are the two Chinamen who were found to be in the country unlawfully at the Albany term of the United States Court last week. Marshal Colt escorted the two as far as the Canadian border on board a Toronto train and then left them.

Fine Present to Minister Egan.

SANTIAGO, Feb. 1.— Just before the departure of the refugees from the American legation they presented Minister Egan with a beautiful token of their gratitude in the form of a gold table, upon which in delicate relief figures appears the American Republic welcoming to her arms a wounded soldier. In the centre of the table is a valuable diamond.

Smalley on British Politics.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—G. W. Smalley cables: The whips issued by Mr. Balfour and Mr. Gladstone for the meeting of Parliament are both unusually urgent. Mr. Balfour tells his supporters that they will at once be invited to proceed to consideration of a matter of highest importance. Mr. Gladstone observes ominously that he hopes to learn at the opening of the session whether and in what manner the present majority of the House of Commons intends to grant local government to Ireland. It is a laudable curiosity; hardly less laudable than the curiosity of others to learn in what manner Mr. Gladstone himself intends to frame his next Home Rule bill, should the opportunity occur.

Negotiations continue, though languidly, for reunion of the two wings of the Irish Nationalists. English Home Rulers are doing what they can to promote concord, but with no great success. Mr. O'Brien avows mournfully that he sees little possibility of a real reconciliation.

Killed While Stealing a Ride.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1.—An inquest was held Saturday night on the bodies of the two boys killed in the Papineauville railway collision on the C.P.R. The jury returned a verdict of "accidentally killed while attempting to steal a ride on a freight car."

He Grinned When the Flogging Was Done.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 1.— William J. Gibbons, convicted of firing one of the Dupont barns, was pilloried for one hour and whipped with 40 lashes at Newcastle jail yesterday afternoon. Gibbons bore the punishment without wincing, chewed tobacco and left the post with a grin on his face.

MANY JACK TAR HEROES

THRILLING SCENES OFF NEWFOUNDLAND COAST.

Fifty Vessels Driven Ashore and the Lives of the Crews Saved Only by Great Daring.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 2.—During the terrific northerly gale at Black River, N.F., on Monday night, over 50 vessels at that place were driven on shore, and all more or less damaged. A number of the vessels were American.

While the gale was at its worst the schooner S. M. Lake was capsized and the crew thrown into the sea. The captain's little son, who was in the forecastle at the time, was unable to make his escape. His father, after reaching the shore, and finding that his son was still on board the upturned schooner, dashed into the water again, and, after several attempts managed to rescue the little fellow, who was more dead than alive.

The crew owe their lives to the prompt and heroic action of the American fishermen in port.

Advices from St. John's, N. F., state that the schooner Avenger, from Boston, which was wrecked at Petty Harbor on the 21st, struck at 6.30 a.m., during a terrific gale and snow storm. Previously she had had her sails all blown away, decks swept and her only boat smashed.

The vessel became unmanageable, and the captain and crew never expected to reach the shore alive, and were only saved by the heroic conduct of one of the men, who put a line about himself, jumped into the sea and swam at the risk of his life through the surf to a high rock, where he made the line fast, and by this means all managed to reach land, but saved nothing.

So far 259 casks of oil have been recovered at the scene of the wreck.

BEHRING SEA.

The Arbitrators Meet at Washington and Discuss the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, called at the State Department in company with the British Behring Sea Commissioners, Sir Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson, who have just arrived in Washington from Canada. They had a conference with Mr. Blaine and arranged preliminaries of the joint commission to be held between the United States and British commissioners who visited Behring Sea last summer for the special purpose of investigating the seal industry. The United States commissioners are Prof. Mendenhall of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and Prof. Merriam of the Agricultural Department. Each commissioner has arrived at certain conclusions, and the object of the conference between them is to bring these results together in a joint report, consisting of the findings of the facts to be submitted to the arbitration. The report will probably form the basis for the enquiry to be conducted by the arbitrators and from each side will advance its case.

The commissioners dealt with the present and future issues involved, such as the jurisdiction over the Behring Sea, which of course is the question to be determined. The facts furnished by the commission as to the numbers and habits of the seals, the extent of the industry and the probability of the extermination of the species by indiscriminate sealing will, however, form an especial basis. It being practictically conceded that the arbitration cannot be concluded to be effective during the coming season, steps will be taken at once to secure the renewal of the modus vivendi of last year, which compact will expire May 1 next.

Prompt action on this question is necessary in order that sealing fleets may be advised in advance of preparing for their usual spring cruise to the seal waters.

According to the terms of the agreement reached between Lord Salisbury and Secretary Blaine the tribunal is to be composed of seven arbitrators, three of whom shall be citizens of a neutral country, two from the United States, and two representing the British interests, one being a Canadian and the other an Englishman. None of these have yet been appointed.

TERROR IN LONDON.

STRANGLERS AND BODY-SNATCHERS REAPING HARVESTS.

Manning's Body Watched—Forty People Mysteriously Disappear—Is Burkism Revived?—Cemeteries Robbed—Scotland Yard Puzzled.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Mysterious disappearances are alarming Londoners just now. They have made a scare almost equal to that of Jack the Ripper.

About forty people now missing. Police are mystified. Men of means who have gone upon visits have vanished as completely as though, like Elijah, they were carried up into the clouds. Women who went shopping have not returned to their homes.

Strange to say all the people sought after lived in neighborhoods tapped by underground railroads.

Scotland Yard has a theory. It always has. Its theory is horrifying. In substance it is this:

A series of murders by imitators of the notorious Scotch body-snatchers—or rather stranglers—Messrs. Burke and Hare, whose little ugly figures in wax formerly adorned the Thousand Chamber of Horrors.

The murderers attack and kill their victims in dark passages and lonely streets and sell their bodies to dissectors. Or, the police say further, the assassins may boil the bodies in oil to obtain perfect skeletons to satisfy the doctors who are anxious to discover the bacillus of influenza.

There was a similar condition of affairs when Burke and Hare began their awful work in Edinburgh. Their plan was to watch for pedestrians in lonely places, leap on them from behind, strangle them to death and put their bodies into sacks. They were then taken to a sort of central agency for medical colleges and sold at the rate of about $15 per cadaver.

In this way the precious pair of scamps secured and sold upwards of 70 "subjects." Their work was very rapid, too, and they knew that as soon as a "hue and cry" were raised their occupation would be gone.

While the police of Edinburgh were at their "wits' end" a woman gave them a clue. She was preceding a neighbor in a by-path northwest of the city one Saturday afternoon. Suddenly she heard a scream and then saw to thick-set men hurrying into a thicket with what appeared to be a big bag.

She proceeded to the neighbor's house and gave her friends an account of the incident. The neighbor never returned. One afternoon subsequently the woman who had seen the men in the thicket met them on a public street. She notified the authorities, who finally arrested and convicted the villainous pair — one being hanged and the other dying before the day of execution arrived. Their nefarious operations gave rise to the word "burking."

London is then, according to the detectives, about to awaken to a condition of things such as Edinburgh experienced. Of course medical men deny there is any necessity for murders in order to secure subjects. They claim that the workhouses and the morgues furnish an ample and legitimate supply. The police, however, are convinced that the stranglers are abroad, and they will doubtless soon make arrests based on their convictions.

A SON'S DISCOVERY.

His Father and Mother Both Die of the Grip.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2.—Victor Belanger, a young man of Gatineau Point, came down from the woods to see his aged father and mother on Friday. He found the home locked up and after waiting some time concluded that the parents were in and forced an entrance. He found his mother dead in bed and his father lying unconscious on the sofa. Securing assistance he set to work to restore his father to consciousness and learned that both the old folks had been seized with la grippe and unable to get assistance. The mother died on Thursday and the old man only lived a few hours after telling the story.

Bond Head Devastated.

BRADFORD, Ont., Feb. 2.—The best part of the business portion of Bond Head was destroyed by fire this morning about 3 o'clock. The fire started in a vacant building formerly used as a hotel, and extended to Z. A. St. Clair's general store, T. Carter's general store, containing postoffice, G.N.W. Telegraph offices and telephone offices, G. Robinson's boot and shoe store, and other vacant buildings and sheds. It is supposed that the old hotel was set on fire. Loss heavy.

The estimated loss is: E. J. Carter & Co., $7000, insured for $2500; N. A. St. Clair, about $4000, insured; G. R. Robinson, $2000; James Goodfellow, $1000; total loss about $17,000.

THEIR FUTURE RULER.

THE QUESTION OF THE SUCCESSION TO THE THRONE.

Fife is Unpopular, but Only With the Aristocracy, Who Dislike the Idea of a Subject Being so Near the Crown Personally or by Issue—The People Love the Queen.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The profound sensation which was created by the death of the Duke of Clarence is, of course, subsiding, but the possible results of that event on the succession to the Crown still afford much food for reflection to those who look a little ahead.

Undoubtedly one of the immediate effects of the Duke's death has been to strengthen the hold of the Crown upon the country. Once more the domestic instincts of the people have been forcibly attracted to it. The Queen's letter has been read with sympathy in every home.

The Queen's Influence.

She understands the English people and how to stir their emotions. Her regard for family ties gives her more real power over the nation than any considerations of state. The same thing made George III. popular. To the last, in spite of all the mistakes he made, he never shocked the domestic proprieties. The public liked to hear of his sitting with the Queen reading to her while she worked or played on the harpsichord or mixed freely with visitors on the terrace at Windsor Castle. There he was, plain old "Farmer George," living chiefly on vegetables, and sometimes dining with the children in the middle of the day, and almost or quite losing his reason when any of them died or acted badly.

In the same way people now like the Queen, because in all domestic matters she is one of themselves. She may be said to have re-established the dynasty, which was severely shaken by George IV., and not strengthened by his successor.

The Prince of Wales.

The Prince of Wales, too, has a firmer hold upon the country than ever before. People feel for him in his great sorrow, and have marked his devotion to his wife and children. If there were any harsh feelings before on account of the unfortunate baccarat case and other incidents, all is forgotten now. They were at worst but venial faults compared with those of George IV. The Prince of Wales' affliction has softened all hard thoughts and he stands second to his mother only in the respect and affection of the nation.

Prince George's Future.

No doubt this seems a very inappropriate moment to talk of the marriage of the remaining son and heir presumptive to the Crown, but the circumstances are such as to make the subject one of great importance to the country. To speak frankly, the prospect of the succession of one of the children of the Duke of Fife gives anything but satisfaction.

To the people it may not be of much moment but the aristocracy is horrified at the thought of a comparatively new man being placed over them all as Prince Consort, or, failing that, of his children becoming kings and queens of England.

His Pedigree.

Of course the peerage books, with pedigrees made to order, trace the Duke of Fife to Macduff, but he comes of a junior stock altogether, and Macduff has little to do with the descent, as the Duke of Fife on his mother's side comes from one of the daughters of the famous actress, Mrs. Jordon, by William IV.

Perhaps some old-fashioned prejudice may still be felt on that score, but the general idea is that it is not good for a subject to be so near the succession to the throne and that some very awkward complications and difficulties might arise out of it.

These contingencies were never seriously regarded until the death of the Prince of Wales' elder son. Now they are, and the conviction spreads that it will not do to allow matters to remain too long in the present state. That is the reason for the popular wish that Prince George should marry as soon as possible after the period of mourning is over. Where the throne is concerned it is necessary to look to all the probabilities of the future.

The Queen's Excellent Health.

The Queen is in excellent health and will only be 73 next May. She has a fine constitution and lives under the healthiest of conditions. Hard work and a great deal of outdoor exercise suit her perfectly. She takes long drives every day in an open carriage.

Mr. Gladstone is an equally firm believer in the virtues of fresh air and constant occupation, and here he is junketing around at 82.

George III. reigned 60 years, and lived till he was 82. There is no physical reason why the Queen should not equal the record, though under much happier circumstances.

The Prince of Wales also is strong and hearty, though he has been terribly shaken by his recent bereavement. And then there is Prince George, upon whom all the rest turns. To see him fortunately married is now the desire of the nation.

EH! ABOLISH FOOTLIGHTS!

Mr. Herkomer's Suggestion to Do Away With the Dearest Tradition of the Theatre

LONDON, Feb. 2.—On Thursday afternoon Mr. Hubert Herkomer, the well known artist, delivered a lecture at the Avenue Theatre to a professional audience. Many well-known members of the dramatic profession were present, including Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Charles Wyndham, manager of the Criterion Theatre; Mr. Beerbohm Tree, manager of the Haymarket Theatre, and Mrs. Langtry. The subject of Mr. Herkomer's lecture was "Scenic Anomalies of the Modern Stage." He referred in a humorous manner to square cornered firmaments, perpendicularly rising moons and wobbling canvas waves.

He advocated the abolishment of footlights in favor of groups of lights on a level with the faces of the actors. These lights, he said, should be placed on each side of the auditorium, about 10 feet from the proscenium. He maintained that a contracting and expanding proscenium, worked by one man, could easily be fitted in all theatres, so that hovels of the magnitude of a palace would no longer offend the eye. The conductor of the orchestra and the orchestra itself should be below the line of sight, as was the case in Wagner's Theatre at Bayreuth, which, Mr. Herkomer declared, was his ideal of what a playhouse should be. Mr. Henry Irving, he said, deserved the thanks of the community for the matchless staging of his productions.

A Farmer's Views.

Mr. Allen Pringle points out in a lengthy letter to the Napanee Express printed in Lennox, that the farmers of Ontario have temporarily escaped the worst effects of the McKinley tariff by the unusually good wheat crop in Canada and the bad crops in Europe. This combination of circumstances cannot be looked for again. But even as it is the farmer is a great loser by the tariffs. "Our horses," says Mr. Pringle, "still go to the American market, not to the English. And on every horse we sell for that market we now lose $30 at least, and more as the value of the horse increases. Just think of that! The American buyers are over to Napanee from time to time, and the farmers of Lennox supply them with a large number of their best horses; and on every horse the farmer loses $30, though the horse be worth only $75. The buyer tells the farmer plainly that he could give him only for the duty to that amount, which he has to pay to get the horse over there instead of paying it to the farmer." The Canadian farmer, as has been often pointed out, loses heavily by the taxes on both sides of the line. Mr. Pringle makes an effort to estimate the loss. "We will suppose," he says, "a good farmer with a large farm who would have in the season for disposal, say a span of young horses, four or five head of horned stock, 25 lambs, 500 bushels of barley, hay, potatoes, beans, eggs, etc., and would have to purchase the usual necessaries of a large family, groceries, clothes, etc., and the requisite implements, vehicles, harness, etc., needed outside. On the horses he would lose at least $30 each, making $60; on the horned stock, if cows for the American market, $10 each, $50 on the lambs, 75c. each, $18; on the barley, 30c. per bushel, $150; on, say 25 tons of hay, $4 per ton, $100; on the potatoes, beans, eggs and he would lose at a low calculation $50; then on his purchases of groceries, clothes, vehicles implements, harness, etc., which are highly taxed, he would lose not less than $100—making a total of $528 of tariff taxes in one year, which, under free trade, would remain in his pocket." The restrictionists will, no doubt, profess to be much grieved by Mr. Pringle's plain appeal to the pocket. A St. Catharines paper told the people of Lincoln not to vote for Mr. Gibson or they would get no more railway subsidies or public improvements. The difference between this kind of appeal and Mr. Pringle's is very clear. Mr. Pringle is advising the farmers to vote for a policy which will enable them to keep the fruits of their own industry instead of paying them out in taxes. The St. Catharines paper told its readers that if they voted in a certain way they could organize a successful raid on the public treasury, or else it told them that if they voted in another way they would not get public improvements to which they were rightfully entitled. It was

$30 MORE FOR HIS HORSE

OTHER ARTICLES HE MIGHT SELL

EITHER A BRIBE OR A THREAT,

there is no escape from that dilemma. Mr. Pringle well describes the situation when he says that the farmers should vote against the Government candidate because they are in debt and cannot pay; because they are mortgaged both in land and chattels; because they are robbed according to law by tariffs and monopolies of nearly half of their hard earnings; because there lands are rapidly depreciating in price and value; because the population of their country is decreasing instead of increasing; because their sons—the brightest and best of them—are driven away from their homes and their country to better their condition in a foreign land; and, finally, because under our oppressive and corrupt Government, the enormous expense of running it and our national debt are increasing so rapidly that if there is not a halt there must soon come national as well as individual bankruptcy.

Frazerville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the residence of Mr. John Hutchings, Frazerville, (formerly of Port Hope), on Monday, 11th ult. The friends of their daughter, Miss Rose—about forty in number—gathered to express their good will, and to present her with a purse of $50 in recognition of her services as organist of the church. After all were assembled, the pastor, Rev. J. Kilgour, requested Miss Hutchings to come forward when he read the following

ADDRESS:

DEAR MISS HUTCHINGS,—We, the members of the congregation of the Methodist church, Frazerville, desire to express to you our high appreciation of your services during the past years as organist of our church. We are deeply sensible of the obliging spirit in which those services have been rendered; your untiring energy in always being at your post, often at a good deal of sacrifice on your part and personal inconvenience. Your uncomplaining patience and Christian deportment, and the cheerfulness with which you have fulfilled your duties, enhancing thereby the valuable aid you have given in leading Divine worship, have won for you our affection and esteem. We wish therefore, as a congregation, to cordially express our thanks for the services you have so amiably rendered and also request that you would kindly accept this purse as a small token of our sincere regard, and wishing you a good and happy new year.

Signed on behalf of the congregation,

REV. J. KILGOUR, Pastor.
DAVID WILSON,
SAMUEL MIGHT,
DAVID WOOD.

Miss Hutchings though taken completely by surprise made a very graceful reply, saying that what help she could give was done freely, without any expectation of return; but she accepted the gift with pleasure as an expression of their esteem.

The refreshments with which the friends had come amply laden were then served, after which a delightful evening was spent in social intercourse in which all parties present participated.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me great relief in bronchitis. Within a month I have sent some of this preparation to a friend suffering from bronchitis and asthma. It has done him so much good that he writes for more."—Charles F. Dumperville, Plymouth, England.

In my endorsement of Ant-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

Self Application of Electricity

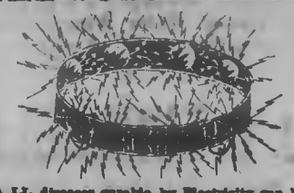
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliances. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, [illegible], NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DISORDERS and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular System.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not clean this Belt with the numberless combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be found; get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and medical [illegible] pages. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. 608y

Your committee have taken the opinion of the town counsel in reference to the claim of Mr. Blodgett for illegal seizure for taxes and are advised that the town is not liable for any damages in the matter.

In reference to the payment of auditors in the years 1890 and 1891, in excess of the amounts called for in the bylaws of those years, your committee are of opinion, that there was no intention on the part of the council to reduce the salary below the amounts paid in 1888 and 1889, and have come to the conclusion that no further action should be taken in the matter.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) R. MAX DENNISTOUN, Chairman.

Peterborough, Ont., January 29th, 1892. —Adopted.

THE COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS reported as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report, and recommend that the following persons be appointed assessors of the town of Peterborough for the year 1892, at the same salary as last year, namely:

For Wards Nos. 1 and 2—Wm. Aldridge and Thos. B. McGrath.

For Wards Nos. 3 and 4—John J. Hartley and Thomas McKee.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. KELLY, Chairman.

Peterborough, January 29th, 1892. —Received.

The bylaw to appoint assessors for 1892 was read a first time.

The council then went into committee and resolved that the blanks be filled in according to the report presented.

On resuming,

A RATEPAYER SPEAKS.

Mr. J. L. HUGHES was allowed to speak. He drew attention to an alleged irregularity in the appointment of assessors. He said that the gentlemen who had been appointed by the committee had not made application publicly to the council. The committee had taken other names and appointed gentlemen other than those whose applications were referred to the Committee. He did not think it right that they should appoint anyone who had not made a public application for the position.

Mr. KELLY said he did not know anything of this matter. They had only acted on names given to them.

Mr. MELDRUM thought that certainly Mr. Hughes was right in making this complaint. If one made a public application, all should. (Applause).

Mr. MULHERN said he thought the names had been before the council.

Mr. CAHILL asked how many of those who had been appointed, had applied in the regular way. He asked if any had not so applied who they were.

The TOWN CLERK said that only Mr. McGrath's application had been before the council. The others had given their names to him and he had given them to the committee.

Mr. DENNISTOUN also briefly referred to this and thought that all seeking these positions should apply in the regular way.

The bylaw was then read a third time and passed.

Prevention is Better

Than cure, and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is used by thousands with great success. It is the best blood purifier.

Constipation is caused by loss of the peristaltic action of the bowels. Hood's Pills restore this action and invigorate the liver.

A Great Surprise

is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free. It never fails to cure acute or chronic coughs. All druggists sell Kemp's Balsam. Large bottles 50 cents and $1. dw

Really Genuine.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains. dw

For any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in market. dw

Five To One.

DEAR SIRS,—Last winter I had five large boils on my neck and was advised to use B.B.B. Before I had finished the first bottle I was completely well and think B.B.B. cannot be excelled as a blood purifier. dw JOHN WOOD, Round Plains, Ont.

Worms cause serious sickness. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup destroys and expels all kinds of worms quickly and surely.

Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents package. dw

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Hockey.

The Peterborough boys will have an opportunity this evening of showing how much they have benefitted by their recent practices. Lindsay will oppose them on the Charlotte street rink, commencing at nine o'clock.

Tourists

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 75c. bottles by all leading druggists.

Michelis Hospital Report for January, 1892.

Number of patients remaining in hospital January 31st, 17; admitted during the month, 13; treated, 31; pay, 11; free, 20; from Peterborough, 24; from other places, 7; cured, 6; improved, 4; died, 3; Dr. King attending physician for January.

The Voyage of Life.

Bishop Heber has beautifully described the voyage of life. This voyage to thousands is a dangerous and a dreary one, full of rocks and shoals, in the form of nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles. Paine's Celery Compound is the lifeboat to which diseased fly when threatened by such dangers.

A Blood Mare Killed.

Mr. Harry Winch had the misfortune to have a blood mare killed on the C.P.R. track on Sunday night or Monday. She was wintering at Mr. Wm. Foster's, North Monaghan. On Sunday she strayed from the premises, and by some means got on to the track and was killed. The mare, which is a sister to "Sleepy Dan," was worth a large sum, and her death is a serious loss, both absolutely and prospectively.

Society Notes.

Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.B.B.S., held their fortnightly meeting last night. A large number attended.

There was a good attendance at the session of Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F. last evening.

Ashburnia Lodge, I.O.G.T., meets to night for election of officers, etc. A number of visitors may be expected to be present.

Peterborough Lodge, I.O.O.F., will meet to-morrow night. The new paraphernalia is expected to be in use.

Curzwell Lodge, I.O.G.T., meet on Thursday evening. They are making preparations for the open session to be held on February 11th.

Personal.

The many friends of Rev. Father Radkins will regret to learn that he is seriously ill.

Mr. W. L. Hamilton, District Inspector of Inland Revenue, Kingston, is in town on official business.

Mrs. W. T. Robertson, of Buffalo, N. Y., is in town, and is the guest of Mrs. M. Wright, Sherbrooke street.

Mr. A. O. Pearse, Assistant Passenger Agent, of the Grand Trunk Railway, Montreal, is in town to-day on business.

Mr. G. A. Schofield returned home last evening from Morrisburg, where he had been to attend the funeral of his grandfather.

The EXAMINER had the pleasure of a call to-day from A. G. Gilbert, Esq., superintendent of the Poultry Department of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. He is on his way to the capital from Guelph, where he has been addressing the recent meeting of members of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union. While in town Mr. Gilbert is the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Sheriff Hall.

Lord Lorne's Sinecure.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—There is no end of scandal because the Marquis of Lorne has received a practical token of the Queen's interest, she giving him the post of Governor of Windsor Castle, where he has absolutely nothing to do except to sign the receipt for his annual salary of over $7000.

Lorne has had more kicks than kisses from his royal relatives by marriage. Rumor ascribed the Queen's coldness to him to the fact of his wife, the Princess Louise, being the only one of Her Majesty's children who has not supplied her with grandchildren.

Count Gleichen, just deceased, was the last Governor of Windsor Castle.

Wales' Old Doctor Dead.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—By the death of Sir Oscar Clayton, the eminent surgeon, the Prince of Wales has lost one of his oldest friends. Clayton was the first of the doctors summoned when the Prince was taken ill in 1871, to diagnose the case of typohid fever, and he has always had the credit of saving the Prince's life. Sir Oscar was a rich bachelor and nearly 76 years old when he died, but he never cared to be reminded that he had grown old. He always dyed his hair and enjoyed life immensely.

At Rest From Toil.

MENTONE, Feb. 2.—The remains of the Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon are lying on the bed on which he died. The bed around the body is almost hidden from sight by the number of floral wreaths that have been sent by relatives, friends and admirers of the deceased. The features of the dead minister show not the slightest evidence of death agony. He looks as though he had simply fallen asleep, and his face bears the placid expression of one at rest from toil. The body will be removed to-morrow to the mortuary chapel in the cemetery.

All Quiet in Samoa.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Feb. 2.—Advices have been received from Samoa to the effect that Mataafa's followers have abandoned their cause and the danger of civil war is now over. Baron Pilsach has withdrawn his resignation of the presidency of the Apia council.

The Post Office.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I went into the post office this morning and, wishing to write a postal card, went to the public desk and found neither pen, ink nor blotting paper. This is not in the public interest, in which the post office is supposed to be conducted. And this leads me to point out that the public portions of the post office are not, by any means, kept as they should be kept. The floors are by no means clean and the windows are in keeping with the floors. I understand that it is not the duty of the caretaker to look after these things. I hope that attention need only to be called to these defects to have them remedied.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

February 1st, 1892.

Purity of blood is important to health. The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Meeting of the New Board of Health.

Chairman Elected—Need for an Ambulance—Better Facilities Should be Provided for the Admission of Patients to the Hospital.

The first meeting of the newly appointed Board of Health was held yesterday in the council chamber. There were present Messrs. B. Shortly, H. Dense, Dr. Brennan, Wm. Loch, J. L. Hughes, the secretary, and health inspector.

ELECTION OF CHAIRMAN.

The election of a chairman was the first business. The retiring chairman, Mr. Loch, was again nominated, but declined owing to other engagements. Mr. Edgecombe Pearse was then duly elected to fill that position.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

AMBULANCE AND HOSPITAL.

Dr. BRENNAN drew attention to the great necessity for an ambulance, which had been more forcibly impressed upon all since the last meeting of the board. There was also a great need for better facilities for getting patients in hospital. This was forcibly shown in the case of Johnston the man who had committed suicide. Mr. Hall was seen and of course gave orders for his admission. Sometimes there was no time to go through these formalities. He would advise some quicker means if they could be devised. He would suggest some arrangement being made whereby full power could be given to the town physician and the Chief of Police to send patients who were in need of prompt attention to the hospital at once. Arrangements might be made with one of the hospitals. At present they had no authority to send patients, no matter how serious their case might be.

Mr. LECH agreed with Dr. Brennan on this subject. There should, he thought, be some different method introduced of sending patients to the hospitals.

Mr. SHORTLY—Can no patient be admitted without an order?

Dr. BRENNAN—I am not sure about that in the Nicholls' Hospital. In St. Joseph's Hospital an order must be received from the physician in charge.

WALTER KERR'S CASE.

He then referred to the case of Walter Kerr, who, he said, should not have been taken to the police station at all, but direct to the hospital. Had the man died, he could not have sworn that he had received the best possible treatment, because he had not. In the first place, being taken to the police station, afterwards on a stretcher to the Cardwell House, his life was endangered. Had he been removed at once to the hospital his chance of life would have been doubled. Mr. Hall had power to order anyone to be removed to the hospital, but he was not always accessible. He might be away on business or something else might intervene. He did not know of any one else having power to order patients to be removed to the Hospital.

Mr. HUGHES said that the Hospital board would have to be seen before any action could be taken.

Mr. DENNE and Mr. SHORTLY also spoke briefly on the subject.

It was finally decided to leave the matter over until the next meeting of the board. In the meantime the newspapers would call attention to the matter in their report.

The Board then adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

Ashburnham Council.

A Quiet Session Held Last Evening—Petitions Presented.

The ordinary meeting of the Ashburnham council was held last evening. There were present the Reeve Mr. Burnham, and Messrs. Throop, Craig, Adams, Wand, the village clerk and treasurer.

PETITIONS.

After routine a petition was presented to the council, signed by several residents as as follows:

ELIZABETH STREET.

We the undersigned request the Ashburnham council to pass a bylaw preventing the boys from sleighriding down this hill, both on the road and sidewalks.

The petition was not acted upon.

Another petition was presented asking that an electric lamp be placed at the Ashburnham end of Smith street.—Granted.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Throop, seconded by Mr. Adams, that the auditors' report be referred back to them for detailed statement of pay sheets, the same as in previous years.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Adams, seconded by Mr. Wand, that the communication of W. H. Robertson re village printing, be referred to the Finance Committee to consider it.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Adams, seconded by J. T. Craig, that the Street and Bridge Committee consist of the whole council with Mr. Throop as chairman, and that the chairman keep a daily record of work, from information to be furnished by the overseer.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Throop, seconded by Mr. Adams, that the clerk notify the Peterborough Light and Power Co. that they are prepared to enter into a five year contract for five lamps additional to those at present in position, the same to be placed as follows:—One corner Lake and James streets, one corner Stewart and Sophia streets, one corner Stewart and Dickson streets, one Concession and McFarlane streets, and one at east end Smith street bridge.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. F. Adams, seconded by Mr. Wand,—That the following be a Board of Health for this municipality for the year 1892:—Messrs. J. Burnham, reeve; Jno Wood, clerk; Stewart Wright, R. Tivey, F. Adams.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Craig, seconded by Mr. Adams,—That the Ontario Telephone Company be instructed to remove the poles from the vicinity of Mr. D. McGregor's, on south side of Douro street, forthwith, and that Messrs. Wand and Throop be a committee to investigate the grievance of Mr. D. McGregor with reference to the action of the Ontario Telephone Company, with power to take such action as they deem necessary to abate said grievance.—Carried.

Police Court.

TUESDAY, Feb. 2nd.

This morning four little children ranging from seven to ten years of age, were arraigned for coasting down Elm street, contrary to bylaw No. 513. The children were allowed to go after being cautioned.

The case that was tried yesterday morning in which a young man was charged with attempting to steal a watch, was this morning disposed of. The charge was dismissed on accused paying all expenses of trial and of repairing the watch.

"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees. The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expells them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well.

SALLY.

By Albert Fleming.

II.

Kenneth lived in an old-fashioned house in Kensington, fenced from the outer world by well grown trees. His father and mother had lived there before him, and had died there. Kenneth then asked his two aunts to live with him. Aunt Hannah was tall, bony and vigorous; Aunt Matty fat and gentle. Hannah Gordon was well known in the philanthropic world; she was an active member of the charity organization—in fact, organization was her forte. Her special season began about November, when the first touch of winter woke up the poor. Then, take up what paper you like, and ten to one that in some corner of it you would find Aunt Hannah enlightening the world as to what they should do or not do. Exeter hall knew her not, nor did she subscribe to African missions or soup kitchens. What she gloried in were boards. School boards, poor boards, parochial boards—all kinds of boards. Nothing she enjoyed more than ferreting out abuses and getting them remedied. Her abomination was promiscuous charity. It was beautiful to put her on the track of some philanthropic imposter and observe with what holy zeal she would hunt him down to the death! It was she that opened people's eyes to the iniquities of that arch imposter, the archdeacon of Saratoga; before that he was the darling of West End drawing rooms. When she took him in hand he exchanged Belgravia boudoirs for Holloway jail and wasted much persuasive penitence on the chaplain. How many sham mendicants did she not expose!—pouncing upon them in the highways and byways, and giving them in charge with joyful alacrity. It was Aunt Hannah who plunged into a crowd in Piccadilly when a poor man, seized with an epileptic fit, was surrounded by a ring of sympathetic bystanders. Elbowing her way through them, she speedily seized him by the collar.

"Epileptic fit is it? I'll soon cure you!"

"Leave the poor man alone!" cried a tender hearted bystander. "Don't you see he's foaming at the mouth?"

"Soap!" cried Hannah contemptuously; and lo and behold the man did come out of his very artistic fit, spat out a lump of soap, and said:

"Let me go, can't yer! You're either the devil or old Hannah!"

"You're right!" she said, triumphantly. "I am old Hannah, and, what's more, if ever I catch you having a fit again, I'll run you in."

Aunt Mattie was the very reverse of this. Aunt Hannah always alluded to her in her milder moments as "Poor, dear Mattie," and in her more vigorous ones as "that fool Matilda." Matilda had never been on a board in her life; but if you looked down the subscription list of any missionary society you would be sure to find her modest initials.

"I never put my full name," she said, meekly. "Hannah makes such a fuss."

It was to this household that Kenneth brought Sally. Kenneth placed her on the seat; but Sally preferred lying on the floor of the cab, and coiled herself up at his feet like a dog.

When they got home Kenneth carried the tired girl in, and seeing that she was not fit for the drawing room, placed her on the mat in the hall, where she lay—a little heap of rags, dirt and towzled hair. As he entered the drawing room he heard Aunt Hannah reading in her very emphatic voice the summary of a paper she intended to deliver at a charity organization conference next day. It was entitled, "Sixteen reasons against the present system of out-door parochial relief." She had got as far as the tenth. Kenneth's entrance was hailed with joy by the long suffering Mattie.

"Oh, here you are!" she cried. "Ten o'clock, and you were to be here by five."

"I've brought home a girl."

Aunt Hannah dropped the 16 reasons, and ejaculated, "What!" Mattie started. Those five words might mean so much. With the calm that precedes a storm, Aunt Hannah took off her glasses, rubbed them slowly, and waited; but further explanation was interrupted by a scream from Aunt Mattie:

"Why, Kenneth, you've got a great cut on your temple, and there is blood on your collar!"

"It's nothing. I've had a fight. A brute was kicking a girl and I licked him and brought the girl home. She's only a child."

Aunt Hannah put her glasses into their case with a snap and recovered her voice. "Brought her home! Is this house a casual ward or night refuge! Why, Heaven bless us, the boy's gone stark, staring mad!"

Mattie had forgotten the girl and was giving her mind to sticking plaster.

"I've left her on the mat outside," added Kenneth, apologetically. "She isn't as clean as she might be." Hannah strode to the door. The hall was pretty with fresh flowers, ferns and bright tiles—its prettiness emphasized the incongruity of Sally's appearance. She was lying where Kenneth had left her, her one shoe was tied on with a bit of string, her frock was ragged but the rents did not show, for her skin was as black as her frock. One frightfully bony arm fell across her knee and the other hid her face.

Mattie peeped from behind Hannah. Hannah said, authoritatively:

"Get up and be off with you!" Sally immediately gave vent to such a torrent of bad language that the two ladies rushed away and shut themselves in the drawing-room. Mattie began to cry, but Hannah seated herself rigidly in the arm-chair.

"This is too much, Kenneth."

"It's getting awfully late," said Kenneth. "Suppose we don't talk of this till to-morrow. I'll get Bridget to wash Sally and make her up a bed somewhere."

"Keep that thing in the house and be murdered in our beds and have the house ransacked from top to bottom!"

"You can't turn her into the street at 10 o'clock at night. Bridget can surely give Sally some supper and a blanket, and we will lock her in the back kitchen."

The aunts protested, but yielded. Sally followed Kenneth down stairs like a lamb, but fresh difficulties arose with Bridget—they increased when Sally announced that she would tear anybody limb from limb who touched her. But when Kenneth told her he wished her to be clean and neat, the child changed, and she informed Bridget that "she might boil her alive if the boss wished it done."

III.

Next morning Kenneth surveyed the position. Of course he could send Sally to a workhouse school, or to a refuge, but he did not want to let the girl he had won by his bow and spear drift away from him.

His old nurse was now living on a pension, and he resolved to send Sally to her. This seemed easy while he was dressing, but much less easy when he saw his aunts. Mattie was nervous, Hannah full of repressed vigor.

"It's a comfort that we still have spoons to stir our tea with," said the latter.

"I have been thinking about Sally," he began. "I am sure, Aunt Hannah, you will help me." He was interrupted by a sound of crashing china—a scuffle, accompanied by piercing shrieks and the sound of hurrying feet. Aunt Hannah made a dash at the bell, exclaiming:

"Has the devil broken loose?" The door was flung open, and the servants dragged in Sally. She resisted violently, kicking, plunging, and swearing like a trooper. Bridget began: "And I do say, sir, its too bad to go and bring some such scum, and expect decent people to sit with her. She's half killed James!"

"Yes!" cried the housemaid, "she up with a plate and broke it over his head, and he's a mass of gore in the kitchen this minute."

"Come here, Sally!" said Kenneth, sternly. They released her, and she stood before him with flashing eyes and cheeks, flushed with the glow of combat. An old dress of the cooks had been pinned round her—it was half torn off now; her matted hair had been combed out and rolled up—it lay on her shoulders now in a shaggy mass; and, as Aunt Hannah said, she looked a little demon. But when Kenneth took her in hand and spoke kindly, the flash in her eyes turned to tears.

"Sally, what have you been doing? How dare you attack James?"

"What call 'ad he to lay 'ands on yer boots?"

"What on earth does she mean?"

"Why, sir, after breakfast James began to clean your boots as usual, and she flew at him like a tiger, tore them out of his hands, broke a plate over his head, and swore she'd kill him. And as for her language"—

"If he touches them again I'll cut his liver out!" interrupted Sally.

"Now, look here, girl!" Aunt Hannah began.

"One moment, aunt," said Kenneth, turning Sally's tear-stained face to the light. At his touch the hunted, wild beast look passed from her eyes; then he said, "Now, Sally, listen. I want you to forget your savage ways, and be a good child. If you use bad language and frighten and hurt people, you must go back to Cow court, and I shall be sorry I tried to save you from your father. I know it will be hard for you at first; but all good things are hard. You must tell James you are sorry you hurt him, and I'll promise that every day you are good you shall clean my boots yourself."

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.
DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.
Yours faithfully,

THE COMMITTEE ON PROPERTY REPORTED as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report that they have, in compliance with the request of the clerk for a better arrangement of the fittings of the vault, in order that the town's papers, securities and records, might be more systematically and properly kept, asked for tenders for the work required. The lowest tender received was that of Martin McFadden, at the sum of $35, which the committee recommend be accepted, the work to be done in the manner required by, and to the satisfaction of, the town clerk.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed), A. V. R. YOUNG, Chairman.

Peterborough, Ont., Jan. 29th, 1892.

—Adopted.

REDUCTION OF LICENSES.

On motion, Messrs. Hilliard and Mason were received as a deputation. Mr. Hilliard then presented a petition, as follows:—

To the Municipal Council of the Town of Peterborough:

We the undersigned ratepayers and residents of the town of Peterborough, believing that the prevailing intemperance, poverty and crime in this town might be lessened, and the moral, material and social welfare of the community advanced by a more stringent division of the powers reposed in you for the regulation of the liquor traffic, humbly pray that your honorable body may be pleased to enact by-laws:—

1st. Limiting the number of tavern licenses to be issued to one for every full seven hundred of the population, and confining the issue of the same to persons having houses affording the full hotel accommodation required by the Statute.

2nd. Limiting the issue of shop licenses to one for every full three thousand of the population, and requiring the holders thereof to confine their business solely and exclusively to the keeping and selling of liquor.

3rd. Forbidding the issue of billiard, bowling alley, shooting gallery, or other game-playing licenses to any holder of a liquor license; and forbidding the playing of any such games in any tavern, inn, shop, or other premises where liquor is sold.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

The above petition was signed by about 1,000 names.

MR. HILLIARD said he strongly endorsed this. He thought if the number of tavern licenses were reduced, crime would be lessened. It would offer more inducement to license holders to keep better houses. He would also suggest that people who had continually broken the liquor law, should be refused licenses. He thanked the council for their hearing.

MR. W. J. MASON said he heartily supported the petition. This was not because he belonged to any particular society, but he thought it was for the benefit of the town, particularly amongst the young people. He thought the statements of the petition were correct. They wanted to lessen the amount of both intemperance and crime. There was no doubt that the drink question was the cause of the most of the crime prevalent. They did not wish to do injustice to anyone, but did wish that the shooting gallery licenses, etc., be limited. The council should insist on the shop licenses complying with the requirements of the Statute. At present the law was set at defiance. The council, perhaps, was not to altogether blame, yet they could take action on the matter and have the law more strictly enforced.

MR. HILLIARD did not think that this was a matter of dollars and cents, and he thought that the remedy rested in the hands of the council to a large extent.

MR. MALTHEAN moved, seconded by Mr. Meldrum, that the petitions be referred to the License Committee to report to the Council.—Carried.

THE STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

Col. FRANCIS was then on motion allowed to address the council with respect to the street railway franchise.

Before Mr. Francis spoke, Mr. D. M. Dennistoun introduced the following motion, which had been handed to him by the solicitor of the street railway syndicate:

Moved by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that whereas the agreement between the corporation of the town of Peterborough, and Samuel Insel, John Muir, John Kraual, H. M. Francis, John Langton and Marshall D. Barr, by clauses 28 and 41 declares that the failure to construct, complete and operate before the 1st day of July 1892, the portion of the railway required to be constructed and operated as in the said agreement mentioned, by that date shall work a complete and absolute forfeiture of any privileges or franchise on or over the streets of the town, and that the sum of $1,000 to be deposited with the town by the company shall by reason thereof also be absolutely forfeited. And whereas by reason of these provisions the franchise might be lost and the money forfeited, notwithstanding that the delay (if any) in completing said portion should be caused by matters entirely beyond the control of the company; it is therefore resolved and declared that the true intention of the said agreement is that if the said company after using all reasonable and proper means and without any neglect or default on their part to complete the said work as in the agreement mentioned, are prevented by the act of God, the acts of the law, by accident, by delays due to strikes, riots or the railway companies or either of them, application being made within one month and duly pressed to the Railway Committee of the Privy Council for leave to make a crossing, or crossings, of the lines of the railway companies where necessary, or, if prevented by any other matter beyond their control, they shall be allowed such further time as is consumed by such acts, delays, or accidents, for completion of the said work, and that the said agreement shall be read and construed as if a clause to this effect had been inserted therein, provided, however, that if delays as aforesaid be caused in effecting a crossing of the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway on George street, nothing herein contained shall operate to relieve the street railway company from constructing and operating their railway northward from that point according to the terms of said contract.

MR. DENNISTOUN thought the resolution was a very moderate one. The point he particularly wished to be noticed was that regarding crossings. The railway companies would probably object to allowing the street railway to cross their tracks. The resolution provided for any accidents that might occur to prevent the contract being completed in the specified time.

In answer to Mr. Best, he did not think the contract had yet been signed by the syndicate.

MR. FRANCIS said the reason was that the franchise was not liberal enough to them. There would be no money in the undertaking for some time. It would be very uphill work for two or three years, and they wished the franchise to be made as favorable to them as possible. He said that when the franchise was handed to the syndicate there were several objectionable terms.

MR. DENNISTOUN explained that he was not working in the former matter. In fact he did not altogether understand the purport of it. He was simply working on behalf of this resolution.

MR. E. H. D. HALL who was present explained that no bylaw had been submitted to the people, it was only the question of who should get the franchise. The objectionable clauses had been put in the contract afterwards by the solicitors.

MR. CAHILL explained in answer to Mr. Dennistoun the purport of the communication read at the commencement of the meeting. He thought that the contract should be printed, so that all could understand it.

MR. BRADBURN said he had a resolution prepared referring the whole matter to a special committee.

MR. DENNISTOUN referred to the importance of the communication that had been read. In view of the importance of the question, he moved, and Mr. McIlwain seconded that the matter be fully considered at a full meeting in committee of the whole council at an early date, the meeting to be called by the Mayor. Mr. Bradburn's motion was withdrawn, and Mr. Dennistoun's adopted.

TOWN TRUST COMMISSIONER.

Mr. Cahill moved, and Mr. Dennistoun seconded, that Mr. W. H. Moore be appointed Commissioner of the Town Trust in place of the late Walter Patterson

MR. CAHILL, in a few brief and well-pointed remarks, regretted the causes necessitating the moving of the above resolution.—Carried.

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF TAXES.

Mr. Cahill moved, and Mr. Best seconded, that it be an instruction to the Finance Committee to take all reasonable means to expedite the completion of the assessment roll for the current year with a view of having the taxes collected at an earlier date than has heretofore been the case, and that the committee be requested to confer with the town solicitor for the purpose of obtaining (if necessary) legislation at the approaching session of the Legislature to enable the council to carry out the above purpose.—Carried.

TIME EXTENDED.

Mr. Dennistoun moved, and Mr. McIlwain seconded, that the time for returning the collector's roll be extended until the 1st day of March, and that the collector be authorized to continue the levy of taxes in arrears.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

THROW THEM INTO THE SEA.

A Mob Fiercely Attacks a Salvation Army Corps.

LONDON, Feb. 2.--There was rioting in Eastbourne at the Salvation Army celebration of the founding of the corps.

After the usual morning service the Salvationists marched through the streets under police protection, but were only disturbed by running comments and chaff from the crowds on the sidewalks.

In the afternoon a mob rapidly collected at the Army citadel, and as the "soldiers" filed out, singing their processional hymn, they were subjected to more chaff, accompanied by the singing of a ribald parody, yelling and hooting. Several hundred well-dressed men formed a corps 20 abreast, and, surging up, followed the Army to the beach, where it was proposed to hold a meeting.

Along the whole route windows, balconies and even carriages in the street were filled with citizens and visitors watching the scene.

A huge mob awaited the Army at the seafront and with howls drowned the voices of the Army lasses. The police had great difficulty in clearing a way for the "soldiers," who had to cling tenaciously to their instruments and flags, without daring to even attempt to play a note. Directly the service began the mob swept down upon the Army shouting, "Throw them into the sea!"

The forces of the police were augmented and resisted rush after rush, although nearly overpowered by numbers.

The Salvationists were pelted with pebbles by their foes throughout the half hour they remained on the beach. When their service was seemingly ended, although not a word of it had been heard, the members of the Army commenced their return march.

They climbed to the parade with the utmost difficulty, their assailants making frequent rallies, but failing to capture the Salvationist flag. Desperate hand-to-hand encounters with policemen were continued. A few clergymen and soldiers were present, but held aloof.

When the struggling crowd had reached a point opposite the Burlington Hotel, the police having become exhausted, another rally was made and proved successful.

The flag was seized from its stalwart bearer and torn into shreds. Caps were snatched from Salvationists' heads and tossed in the air or kicked into the roadway amid execrations. Some frail-looking lasses who swooned from pain and fright were nearly trampled upon.

The scene of violence was continued till the Army retreated into the Citadel, and even then the mob was loth to disperse, and still came into collision with the police.

Several of the Salvationists were badly injured, and the uniforms of all were spoiled.

Ran on the Rocks.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The steamer Eider, New York for Bremen, went ashore on the Atterfield rocks, Isle of Wight, yesterday.

In the afternoon, however, the Eider's engines were started and an attempt was made to get her afloat with her own power. There is now no prospect of floating the Kider until the next high tide, however. It is believed there is not the slightest danger of loss of life. Every precaution has been taken to land all the passengers safely should occasion arise.

A despatch at 10 p.m. says all the passengers and the rest of the mails have been safely landed. The crew remain aboard preparing for the attempt to tow the steamer off. The attempt will be made at 1 o'clock in the morning. The last boat-load of passengers was landed amid the rejoicing of a large crowd on the beach The rescuing crews received an ovation. The specie remains aboard the ship. The captain thinks the vessel will come to no harm during the night. The weather is finer than during the day, the night being clear and starlight.

The Eider left New York Jan. 23, carrying 15 cabin, 25 second cabin and 176 steerage passengers for Bremen. She also carried a large quantity of mail matter and a valuable assorted cargo.

Hospitals At Odessa Crowded With Fever Patients Suffering From Hunger.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The C ss correspondent of The Daily News says: Hunger typhus is spreading alarmingly. In large towns in this region all the hospitals are filled and private buildings are being converted into hospitals. This is the state of affairs in Moskooskia and Viedomosti.

A correspondent writing from Riasan declares that the more fanatical and superstitious portion of the peasantry believe that Count Tolstoi is Anti-Christ and decline to accept his bounty for fear that they will thus commit their souls to perdition.

A Case Like That of the Schneiders Unearthed at Magdeburg.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—A man named Erbe and his paramour, a woman named Rautrock, have been arrested at Magdeburg on a charge of murdering a young woman named Klages, daughter of the steward of an estate near that town.

It is alleged that Erbe and his accomplice lured the girl to Hanover on the pretence that she was to accompany a family of that city on a trip to Italy. At Hanover, where the girl was a total stranger, it was comparatively easy to rob her and put her out of the way without leaving a clue to the murderers.

This is what the police expect to prove was done. They also claim to have evidence that the first victim of the couple was a woman named Kasten of Magdeburg and that these two were not the only ones robbed and murdered, all the victims being serving-women.

A Scarcity of Mutton.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Temps in an article published to-day says that a scarcity of mutton is probably due to the importation of foreign sheep into France coming under the new tariff law.

Six Thousand Engineers Strike.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Six thousand engineers employed in works on the Rivers Wear, Tyne and Tees have struck in consequence of a dispute regarding payment for overtime.

Suffocated in the Tunnel.

SARNIA, Feb. 2.—The Sarnia tunnel claimed its first victim. George Hawthorn, a well-known and popular young Londoner, was suffocated here this morning and a brakeman named Joseph Whalen of Point Edward narrowly escaped meeting the same fate.

As Tunnel Conductor George Hawthorn was taking a freight train through the tunnel from the American side, when half way through the couplings of the train broke in two places; the engine went on through with the cars which had not broken loose, Conductor Hawthorn and Brakeman Joseph Whalen jumping off to couple the cars. In a short time they felt themselves being suffocated and started to run through. Hawthorn fell down exhausted on the track, and when Whalen found he could go no farther he attempted to climb one of the side ladders so that he would not be run over when the engine returned, but fell back overcome across the track. It was about an hour and a half before the men were found and got out. Medical aid was promptly on hand and Whalen was revived, but all efforts to save the life of Hawthorn were unavailing and he died. Deceased was taken to his home in London this morning on the 9.55 train.

TWO OF A KIND.

Two Parties in Quebec Politics Are Both Tarred With the Same Stick.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—The political situation here in Quebec is about the worst which has ever struck this afflicted province. There is no concealing the fact that the honest citizen, no matter of what stripe in politics, has no faith in either of the two factions which are seeking the suffrages of the people. The mud-slinging and political filth which is being thrown so liberally and so well, and which besmirches both parties, have left the people of the province no choice between the two. As one old Liberal said to me to-day, it looks as if it was a contest of liars, with the odds on the biggest one. Never before has there been such a situation. There does not seem to be any hope. Put De Boucherville in and he carries with him Pelletier; vote for Mercier and the old wholesale robbery is endorsed. I believe from what I can see of the general feeling in the country that Mercier's greatest chance of winning will be from the very fact that people with any shred of political honesty left do not know whether it would be better to have the devil you know or the devil you don't know in power. It goes without saying that Mercier and his gang have not the confidence of the honest people of Quebec, and it looks as if his opponents are being held in the same esteem. DeBoucherville's crowd are pitted against the Mercier crowd. Both are busily engaged in blackening the characters of their opponents, and in their rage hardly take the trouble to brush off the dirt which has stuck to themselves.

Honest Liberals and honest Conservatives, to my mind, will stand aloof from the present contest and let the two crowds fight it out. It matters little which wins—the people will be bled all the same. Pelletier's counter affidavits and statements presented as an offset against the Mercier charges have fallen flat. The story has an ugly look, and the wording of some of the counter statements is such as not to inspire confidence.

As for the church, there is no doubt but that it is arrayed against Mercier. He was never a favorite with the hierarchy. He was too Jesuitical for that, and the influence of this great engine in Quebec politics was not at all friendly to him when he first jumped to power by way of Riel's scaffold. Now the hostility is more marked, and those outside the fight will look with interest on the result. Bishop Lafleche, his whilom friend, has fallen away from him, and his hand will be seen in the contest in Three Rivers. Of course Ouimet's election by acclamation has aroused great enthusiasm here, but the result was a foregone conclusion after the Police Court episode in which his opponent figured. So far as I can see, to sum up the situation in a few words, matters will have to grow worse here before they are any better, and the calibre of the men set up by the "Conservative" party in Quebec makes it a game of Blind Man's Buff for the independent voter.

SHE DIED OF FRIGHT.

The Sight of a Murder Killed Mrs. De Mora.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Feb. 2.—The sight of a murder being committed and fear that she herself was to be shot caused the death of Mrs. De Mora, a French music teacher, living at No. 221 Griffith-street. She was walking on the street Thursday, when she saw Arthur Stacker kill his wife. Mrs. De Mora ran into a store, fainted, and the shock caused a hemorrhage to-day that resulted fatally.

Alaska and British Columbia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Secretary Blaine has, through the acting secretary of the Treasury, asked Congress for an appropriation of $50,000 to complete the preliminary survey of the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. Secretary Blaine says that the most difficult and expensive part of the work has already been accomplished, and it is of great importance that it should be completed.

Left His Leg in the Spoke.

LETHBRIDGE, Feb. 2.—Ernest Kenny, aged 10, endeavored to climb on a milk wagon while it was in motion. He put his foot in the spokes of the wheel and in a twinkling the spectators were horrified to see the boy's leg, from the knee, fall to the ground on one side of the wheel while the boy fell on the other He never uttered a cry. Medical assistance was called and he may recover.

Stealing Door Handles to Procure Food.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Russian advices show that large numbers of starving peasants are daily arriving at Samara, a city of about 75,000 inhabitants. They are unable to find work or procure food and many of them are being made desperate by the pangs of hunger The robbery of shops, houses, etc., is becoming frequent. The suffering poor steal anything that they can lay their hands on that will bring them money, even brass plates are taken from the doors of houses and door handles. Many of the famine stricken wretches have been attacked by typhus fever and they are dying in large numbers.

The Late J. S. Mather.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—The body of John S. Mather was sent east by the C.P.R. to-night for interment. The funeral here was a very large one and many handsome wreaths were placed on the coffin.

NEW GOODS
CONTINUALLY ARRIVING AT TURNBULL'S.

Although early in the season, scarcely a day passes without bringing us new Spring Goods. This week we have received several patterns of Black Lace Flouncings, in three different widths. Ladies will know better how they are used than we can tell them. However, the trade demands them. We have also received a choice stock of Deep Jet Fringes for the new style of dress drapes; new patterns of Gold and Silver Gimps. New Lace Curtains, immense variety at 50c., 65c., 75c., $1.00 a pair up, (all tape borders.) Washing Cretonnes for Comforters, as pretty as a flower garden in spring. Teacle Cloths and Challies for Blouses and Norfolk Jackets, in pretty patterns. American Prints, antique patterns, warranted to wash. English Prints in all the staple patterns and new tints. English Prints in neat small patterns, suitable for children, the variety we show is astonishing. All the new patterns in Cottonades. Tweed effects are heavier and cheaper than ever. Almost everybody knows, who are not strangers in Peterborough, that we lead the trade for value in White and Grey Cottons. See what we are offering to-day at 7c. 8c. and 9c. a yard, special rates by the piece. New Tickings, new patterns; see the quality 15c. a yard will buy.

The balance of our Ladies' Hats in Fancy Felts, we are clearing out at 25c. each.

Children's Leggings which are growing out of style worth 50c. for 15c. a pair. A job line of Children's Hosiery at 10c. a pair.

DEATH'S BIG HARVEST.

GIGANTIC RECORD OF MORTALITY IN TORONTO.

Five Hundred Deaths in the Plague-Stricken City During January—The Cemetery Records Reveal What the Loyal Press Has Sedulously Ignored.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The mortality returns for January show unequivocally how severe an epidemic of sickness Toronto has passed through in the first month of this year.

There were no fewer than 427 interments in the city cemeteries, and including those who died in Toronto and who were buried elsewhere the death roll totals 500.

This is far higher than in the closing month of last year, when the Toronto deaths registered were only 300, and more than one-half of these were infants.

Including December last 722 interments have taken place in Toronto compared with 476 in the same period a twelvemonth ago. For the two months this shows the large increase of 246.

During the past eight weeks there have been a score of deaths from typhoid fever and 65 from diphtheria.

The Cemetery Records.

Subjoined are the returns from each of the cemeteries compared with January, 1891:

	Jan., '92.	Jan., '91.
Mount Pleasant	100	54
The Necropolis	67	33
St. James'	133	52
St. Michael's	80	42
Prospect	17	3

This shows more than double the number of deaths compared with the first month of last year, in fact an increase of 215 deaths.

Clydesdale Breeders Meet.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The sixth annual meeting of Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada was held in the Queen's Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The secretary's report showed that there had been a decrease in the number of horses registered last year; but the record was not thought bad considering the difficulty that had been experienced in making sales.

The list of transfers showed that 41 stallions and 11 mares had been exported to the United States; 12 stallions and 11 mares to the Northwest, and two stallions to British Columbia. This number includes only those who have been transferred in the books. An equal number has been sent out of the province without being transferred.

The meeting then proceeded to elect officers for 1892. William Smith was re-elected president and the following gentlemen from the different provinces were chosen as vice-presidents:

Ontario—Robert Davies.
Quebec—Robert Ness, Howick, Que.
Nova Scotia—A. C. Bell, New Glasgow.
New Brunswick—Hon. David McLelland, St. John.
Prince Edward Island—Hon. James Clow, Murray Harbor.
Manitoba—John E. Smith, Brandon.
Northwest Territories—D. M. Radcliffe, Cochrane.
British Columbia—H. D. Benson, Ladner's Landing.

A discussion arose as to the advisability of having more than one judge for each class of Clydesdales at the different shows. Some thought that there should be two judges and a referee, and others that there should be three judges. They argued that one judge might overlook a flaw in a horse that another one would see. The majority, however, were in favor of having only one judge, and a resolution to that effect was carried. It has been found in the past that when there are two or more judges, and an unfair decision is given, no single man can be called to account. Each man blames it on the others, and the whole three generally escape condemnation.

A motion asking for a third-class for Clydesdales bred in Canada, from imported dams, caused a good deal of discussion. Many were of the opinion that there were already enough classes, and said that there was no need for the establishment of any more. When it came to a vote, however, the motion was carried.

The provincial spring stallion show which will be held in the Drill shed here on March 9 and 10, promises to eclipse all previous exhibitions. It is under the auspices of the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario, the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada and the Shire Horse Association. Premiums are offered for thoroughbreds, coach or carriage, standard bred roadsters, hackneys, Suffolk, Punch, Shire and Clydesdale entire horses.

The delegates of the Farmers' Institutes of Ontario met yesterday at Victoria Hall in annual convention.

Mr. Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., president of the Institute, spoke on matters of agriculture. The institutes of Ontario have a membership of 15,000. Numerous letters had been received lately from Manitoba and British Columbia asking for forms of constitution to enable the writers to establish institutes in those provinces.

The president of the manufacturers' convention had gone to much trouble to collect statistics to convince the farmers of Ontario that they were well off. He had mentioned the miles of railway constructed, the tons of shipping, the letters passing through the postoffice, the amount of money in the banks, and the increase in the export of cattle. This last was the only item that had any bearing on the prosperity of Ontario farmers.

He trusted that Canada would cultivate closer trade relations with England. He exhorted the farmers to unite in making the Canadian exhibit at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago the best on the continent.

The credential committee reported 133 delegates present.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mr. Nicholas Awrey, President; Mr. Lloyd Jones, vice-president; Mr. A. Hamilton Pettit, secretary-treasurer; Messrs. John Clarkson, Thomas Kills, Murray Pettit, D.E Smith, J. B. Ewing, T. J. Raynor and W. J. McNachton, executive committee; and Messrs. R. W. Gregory and Dr. Cowan auditors.

In the evening Mr. P. Whelihan of St. Mary's read a paper on the taxation of farm land lying within cities, towns and incorporated villages. Mr. Robert C. Tye, seconded by Thomas Kells, moved that the committee be requested to use their influence at the next session of the Legislature in order to secure such legislation.

Mr. Lloyd Jones followed in the discussion. Mr. Awrey said he had introduced such a bill into the Legislature and it had been defeated by five votes, because he had refused to strike out the word "cities." He considered that cities ought not to be treated differently. The evil was the same in every case.

Mr. Gifford of Seaforth said it was not fair that a merchant with a $30,000 stock should pay a tax on $1000, while a farmer was taxed for the full value of his farm.

Then Mr. Tye's motion was put and carried.

Hon. A. S. Hardy, Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Hon. Richard Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer, gave short addresses.

Mr. T. G. Raynor read a paper on the advisability of asking the Legislature to impose a tax on all male animals held by their owners for service. This led to a lengthy controversy, in which Messrs. Ollingworth, Ewing, Mowbray, McNab, Cowan, Pringle, Yule and Rogers took a prominent part. The vote showed that the convention was in favor of such a tax.

The convention continues to-day and to-morrow.

Mercier v. Whelan.

QUEBEC, Feb. 3.—The investigation into the celebrated libel suit instituted in the month of December last by Hon. Honore Mercier against Mr. J. P. Whelan, contractor, was continued this morning, Mr. Justice Murray presiding.

Mr. Whelan was not present owing to illness.

Mr. R. R. White, M.P. for Cardwell and editor of The Montreal Gazette, was the first witness examined, and in his evidence did not in any way couple Mr. Whelan's name with the information furnished The Gazette that led to the article which is the cause of the libel.

The judge reserved his decision.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—So far as Montreal and its environs are concerned it does not look as if Mercier would receive support at the forthcoming elections. It is stated that not more than three or four priests are in favor of his returning to power. They feel that if they advise their flock to support him they will lose the respect and confidence of the best of their congregations. But above all they feel that as a matter of conscience they cannot support him any longer after the scandals that have come to light against him. This practically means defeat, for though Mercier is very popular with some classes, if he does not get the support of the Catholic clergy this time, as he did last, he will not get in.

The Royal Commission have sent their first report to the Lieutenant-Governor. It simply consists of the evidence taken and the exhibits filed and abstains from expression of opinion. The commission will resume its sittings next week.

Ald. G W Stephens of this city, who has been asked to contest Huntingdon County in the Conservative interest, leaves to-morrow to confer with the leaders of the party there. The alderman, who has previously sat in the Quebec Legislature, has hitherto been a strong Liberal, but he is now strongly anti-Mercierite and declares the Mercier Government to have been the most infamous we ever had. There is little doubt but that he will accept the candidature.

Opera Managers Sued.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—Suits were entered here to-day against C. A. E. Harris and Henry Thomas, who contracted with Messrs. Abbey & Grau to give three nights of opera here. Madame Albani and Madame Scalchi were advertised to appear, and tickets were sold on this understanding. Madame Scalchi never came to Montreal. Her managers alleged indisposition, but the following night she sang in Boston. Mr. Harris throws the blame upon Messrs. Abbey & Grau, and has placed all the contracts and correspondence at the disposal of the public.

Movements of Cabinet Ministers.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The latter end of this week will see the Cabinet Ministers afield in Western Ontario. Hon. Mr. Haggart left last night for Toronto and Hon. Mr. Bowell will follow this evening. Sir John Thompson and the Minister of Railways are to speak in Walkerton on Friday evening. During the week Hon. Messrs. Bowell, Costigan and Haggart will address political gatherings in North and South Victoria. Hon. Mr. Foster will speak at Napanee on Wednesday, at Brampton on Thursday and St. Thomas on Friday.

All Were Killed.

NEWARK, N.J., Feb. 3.—By the explosion of an alcohol condenser last evening in Rummel & Co.'s hat shop Oscar Lenrick, Albert Anderson and Daniel Keefe, all plumbers, were killed. The men were repairing the condenser. The building was damaged to the extent of $10,000.

Angelina's Action.

WINDSOR, Feb. 3.—Arthur Sullivan, station agent at Staples, Tilbury township, who was arrested this morning on a charge of seduction, preferred by Mrs. Margaret Langton of that place on behalf of her daughter, Angeline Sullivan, was released on $2000 bail to appear for trial.

The Free Wool Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Springer Free Wool Bill was under consideration to-day by the Democratic majority of the Ways and Means Committee. No conclusion was reached.

GOSSIP OF THE OLD WORLD

EMPEROR OF GERMANY WITH HIS ARM IN A SLING.

The Death of the Mother of the Empress of Austria—The Grand Duke Constantine Was a Noted Man in Early Days—Trouble Over the Big Guns—A Gift for Bismarck.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Edmund Yates cables to The Tribune: The Princess of Wales will go to Paris at the end of this week accompanied by Prince George and Princesses Victoria and Maud, and after a brief stay at the Hotel Bristol will proceed south to St. Raphael where she will reside several weeks at Villa Janesson. The Princess will visit the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland at Gmundes before she returns to England, and possibly will go also to Copenhagen.

His Arm in a Sling.

Emperor William met with a rather serious accident during a recent shooting excursion which has been kept very quiet indeed. The Emperor, while engaged in a wild boar hunt, slipped and fell heavily on his right arm, which was so severely bruised and sprained that it had to be kept in a sling for two days and His Majesty was advised to rest it for a longer period. This accident might have had grave results, for the Emperor's left arm is absolutely useless.

Both Emperor and Empress of Austria were too unwell to go to the funeral of the Empress' mother who died last week at the age of 80, having survived her husband nearly four years. The Empress is now in Istria, and her medical attendants are very anxious as to the possible effects of her mother's death on her mind and health. The Princess Louise Wilhelmina was a woman of strong character and great energy; she inherited none of the peculiarities of the Bavarian Royal Family and always exercised a salutary influence on her daughter whose eccentricities she often checked at opportune moments. She spent nearly her whole life in Munich, where she was born, during all the troubles occasioned by invasions of Napoleon I. In consequence of numerous deaths in the Imperial Family of Austria it was proposed to give up this year, for the first time, the carnival festivities in Vienna. The Emperor declined to sanction the proposal on account of the injury it would do the trade of the Austrian capital, where the winter season has been the worst ever remembered.

The Empress of Russia will probably go to Algiers for a few weeks towards the end of this month, to join her second son, the Grand Duke George, who is in a most precarious state of health. The Grand Duke is passing the winter at El Biar villa, a few miles from Algiers.

The Late Duke Constantine.

The Grand Duke Constantine Nicolaivitch was one of the cleverest members of the imperial family, although he had elected of late years to hide his light under a bushel. He owed his early education, and possibly the liberality of his opinions, to his tutor, Count Lake. He was, as a young man, an ardent advocate of the abolition of serfdom, and once shut himself up for several weeks so as to thoroughly master the Polish language. Although the attempt was afterwards made to assassinate him he resolutely declined to adopt any cruel measure of repression. Alexander II. had a strong belief in the great administrative powers of his favorite brother and gave him in succession all the highest offices of trust. When Alexander II. was murdered he threw up all his appointments and retired to Castle Orianda in the Crimea, where he led the life of a private gentleman to the day of his death. His nephew frequently endeavored to induce him to return to public life, but the ex-admiral-in-chief resolutely declined to leave his peaceful home, although much attached to the Empress, who feels his death most acutely.

The Queen's Favorite.

Helena Vacaresco, the favorite lady-in-waiting of the Queen of Roumania, whose engagement to Prince Ferdinand of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, Crown Prince of Roumania, caused much commotion a few months ago, is betrothed to a wealthy member of the well-known Cartacouzene family. Now that the destiny of this young lady has been comfortably settled we may speedily expect to hear of the Crown Prince's betrothal to Princess Marie of Edinburgh, unless, indeed, the Emperor of Russia succeeds in preventing the marriage, to which he will not be the more reconciled from the fact that the German Empeaor is much in favor of it.

Gladstone's Sympathy.

Mr. Gladstone not only manifested his sympathy, by writing both to the Queen and Prince of Wales, but telegraphed to express his deep regret that it was impossible for him to return to England to attend the funeral of the Duke of Clarence, and expressed the wish that he might be permitted to send Herbert Gladstone as his representative. This proposal, however, could not be accepted, as only royal personages are represented on such occasions, and it would have created a most inconvenient precedent.

The Big Guns.

It would seem that nothing can be done with the 111 ton guns without blundering. A Malta correspondent says the other day the flag ship Victoria was taken under the 100 ton crane to have one of the big guns, which had recently been replaced, shifted around five-sixteenths of an inch. It had been known all along that the gun had been inaccurately placed in position, but the dockyard people said the ship's officers could soon get it to rights. This view of matters was not taken by the ship's officers, but they did their best without avail. Consequently a large sum of money was expended on a second operation which with ordinary foresight ought not to have been necessary.

Bismarck's Present.

Prince Bismarck has just received a valuable present from the German colony in Burmah. It consists of a centre piece of solid silver two feet long and three feet high. The pedestal is entirely covered with beautifully worked figures and at each corner are artistically wrought dragons, each of which carries a huge ivory tusk, which is hollowed out and decorated with Burmese carving. This gift, which is pronounced by experts to be the most perfect master-piece of Burmese industry which ever reached Europe, has taken 18 months to complete.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1892.

THE senior organ of the Dominion Government makes a great parade of figures intended to depreciate the American market for Canadian produce. It shows with a shout of triumph—really making a strong point—that onions bring more in the Kingston market than they do in the Ogdensburg, (U. S.) market. Does the Empire mean that Ogdensburg, a little border town, is the United States? The Empire quotes onions in Ogdensburg at 60 cents, and in Kingston at 90 cents. This is on its editorial page, but in its same issue (Feb. 2) the Empire in its commercial page quotes Canadian barley in Buffalo at 89 cents, while on the same page the same grade is quoted in Toronto at 53 cents—a difference of 39 cents in favor of our "natural market." The value of the Empire's strong point is demonstrated by the fact that our farmers have millions of bushels of onions to tell where they have one of barley.

THE Empire, the guardian angel of loyalty should put on its war paint. The Kent (Eng.) Messenger of Jan. 16th, contains a report of the Wealds board school closing entertainment. The programme not only did not contain "God save the Queen," but horresco referens, instead, "The Star-Spangled Banner," "sung by the children." What is to be done about this outrage—this deadly treason in the heart of the empire—the British empire, not Abbott's Empire? Put Col. Denison on the trail of the dastardly members of the Wealds school board? Put up an Empire flag on the Wealds school house? Have Premier Abbott send them an indignation (not an annexation) manifesto? The Empire should not let this terrible happening pass without invoking the most vicious vengeance its vocabulary of vituperation can call up. If a poor Grit in Ontario, who wants to sell an untaxed turnip to the United States, is a "dastardly traitor" what punishment should be meted out to a British school board, which permits the national air of the hated Yankee to be sung in a board school house in happy Kent, under the very shadow of Windsor Castle and the tower of London?

Life Grip Best of All Gripe.

Had such bad attack of grip could not shake off its deadly hold until I got a barrel of St. Leon Mineral Water, of which I indulged freely, and glad to say it soon freed me from the deadly grip, and soon filled me with the grip of fine, vigorous health, and I am 67 years of age; St. Leon is great; try it everybody. 'Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me great relief in bronchitis. Within a month I have sent some of this preparation to a friend suffering from bronchitis and asthma. It has done him so much good that he writes for more."—Charles F. Dumperville, Plymouth, England.

A General Overcome.

DEAR SIRS,—I suffered from general weakness and debility and my system was completely run down and I found B.B.B. the best medicine I ever tried. I would not be without it for a great deal.

MISS NELLIE ARMSTRONG, Dublane, P.O., Ont. dw

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

Self Application of Electricity

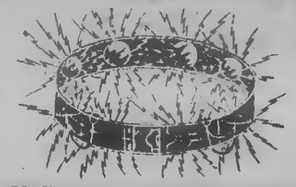
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. coll w

Death of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

A heavy loss is sustained by the Baptists in the death of Mr Spurgeon, a preacher of great gifts, of extraordinary zeal and energy, and of world-wide fame. Indeed, the view is narrow which confines the loss to that denomination; such a man belongs to the world, to mankind and to history. It would be impossible to gauge the influence exerted upon the people of England by Mr. Spurgeon in a life which, though comparatively brief in years, was long in service. For more than 40 years he has preached, written and laboured in various other fields of Christian usefulness, and for at least a quarter of a century his name has been a household word in the homes, not only of Baptists, but of evangelicals of all denominations. His "John Ploughman's Talk" occupies a place on many a scantily stocked book shelf beside the Bible and the Pilgrim's Progress, and in homeliness of diction and power of appealing to simple and untutored minds it bore a strong resemblance to Bunyan's immortal allegory. Its strong, simple, direct words brightened and warmed the home life, and were an inspiration for the faithful performance of the daily round, the common task. Upon occasion Mr. Spurgeon could take strong ground upon questions of doctrine, but his spoken and written discourses were as a rule free from manifestations of the controversial spirit. We find in them no effort to exploit peculiar notions or facts of any kind, no affectation, no effort at display either by the use of uncommon or highly ornate language, or of extravagant humor. If we compare it with the style of many other brilliant men we find a difference analogous to the difference between clear sunlight and sunlight passing through colored glass. This simplicity was the result not only of an evenly-balanced intellect but of intense earnestness. His words were those of a man who felt that he had a work to do, and only as instruments in the doing of that work and not for their own sakes were logic, eloquence, humor and power of illustration valued and used. His warmth of heart, his earnestness and his energy found vent in other channels than those of preaching and writing. His charity flowed in an abundant and unceasing stream. He acted as one may suppose the clergyman in the Deserted Village would have acted with great wealth at his disposal. In 1879 he was presented with a silver wedding testimonial of over $30,000, and in 1884 on his attaining his 50th year, he was presented with another sum of $25,000. The whole of these sums were distributed to charity, $25,000 being devoted to the endowment of the Tabernacle almshouses. An orphanage was begun by Mr. Spurgeon with £20,000 given him by a lady for his private use, but which he considered would be better appropriated in the relief of juvenile distress, about 300 orphans are fed, lodged, clothed and educated in this institution. Other institutions connected with his church are the Pastor's College from which several hundreds of young men have been sent out as ministers, a colportage association, missionary stations, Sunday schools, a mission to the blind, ladies' benevolent and maternal societies and many others. These institutions and his published writings will long serve not only to keep his memory green, but to continue the good work to which in his lifetime his great talents, zeal and energy were devoted.

Mr. Foster's "Surplus."

According to Mr. Foster's classification of ordinary and capital expenditure there was a surplus of $2,335,742 in the financial year 1890 91. But the amount expended and charged to capital was $4,449,640. Adding this sum to the ordinary payments we have a total expenditure of $40,793,207, and a total revenue of $38 589 310, leaving an actual deficit of $2,203,897. Such is the actual result of the federal government's financing in 1890 91. The payments charged to capital include subsidies to railways owned by private corporations or individuals, from which the Dominion treasury can never receive any return. Why should such outlays be classed as "capital" expenditure? And there is no prospect that any revenue will ever be derived from the Cape Tormentine wharf, the Kingston graving dock and the other works which have been constructed with money charged to capital.

18 Pounds of Blood

Is about the quantity nature allows to an adult person. It is of the utmost importance that the blood should be kept as pure as possible. By its remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its claim to be the best blood purifier.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural. dw

Dr. Low's Sulphur Soap is a delight shampoo. It cleanses the scalp and darkens grey hair.

The action of Carter's Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them. dw

Cure for A Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents package. dw

Pale, Weak Women need a tonic, strength giving flesh building medicine like Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

A Suitable Gift.

A tube of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for making the skin soft and smooth will be acceptable to any lady. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6126

The World's Fair.

Professor Saunders, the Canadian commissioner to the World's Fair, has returned from Chicago, whither he went to consult with the fair directors. He applied for a space of 90,000 square feet, exclusive of the room required for the fishery and art exhibits. Prof. Saunders will visit Toronto, Hamilton and other places in Western Ontario this week.

Ontario Bye-Elections.

Mr. Mowat has lost no time in issuing the writs for the elections to the legislature in Kingston and North Renfrew, necessitated by the resignation of Mr. Metcalfe and the death of Mr. Dunlop. In both cases nomination is fixed for the 16th inst., and polling for the 23rd. The Liberal candidate in North Renfrew will have a walk-over. In Kingston the names of Messrs. John Carson, John McKelvey and E. J. B. Pease are mentioned as possible candidates, while the Opposition will choose either Dr. E. H. Smythe, Capt. Gaskin or Mr. John McIntyre.

The Debt Drain.

On the 30th June last the gross debt of the Dominion was $389,899,229, the highest figure it has yet reached. In the twelve months ending on the date mentioned the debt was increased by $3,787,934. Of the net debt $188 040.33 is payable in London, and the interest upon this enormous sum must be sent across the Atlantic every year. The payment of such a large amount annually constitutes a heavy drain upon the Dominion's earnings.

As a cure for cold in the head and catarrh Nasal Balm is endorsed by prominent men everywhere. Dr. Derbyshire, president of the Ontario Creamery Association, says:—"Nasal Balm beats the world for catarrh and cold in the head. In my own case it effected relief from the first application." Sold by dealers or sent by mail on receipt of price—50 cts. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

In order to lessen the task of our Annual Stock-taking in February, we are now making Great Sacrifices in the prices of Men's and Boys' Ready-made Overcoats, Suits, Pants, Vests, Underclothing, Gents' Furnishings, &c.

Every line of goods in the store reduced in order to clear the decks for spring importations.

All ordered work reduced in the same proportion. Now's the time to leave your measures for Overcoats, Suits, Pants, and anything else you require.

Previous to stock-taking, there will be many bona fide Bargains in Ready-made Clothing, Cloth, and Ordered Work

—AT THE—

CITY CLOTHING STORE.

We are daily turning out of our work rooms SABLE COLLARS in the newest shapes. The latest shape is the new "Van Dyke Collar," which has met with such favor in New York. Now is the time to leave your order for Christmas Furs.

Matrimonial

This afternoon a quiet wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Wm. Bates, George street, where Rev. Mr. Torrance united Miss Emma Bates in marriage to Mr. Charles E. Swait, son of ex-Alderman Swait, Toronto, and an employee in the Toronto post office. Several friends both from town and Toronto attended the nuptial ceremonies. The many friends of the bride and family in town give their cordial congratulations.

Mr. Seward's Complimentary Concert.

Preparations are completed for this event, which will be one of unusual merit, apart from its laudable object. In addition to the contributions to the programme previously announced, Mrs. Macklin will sing, Miss Fairweather will contribute a pianoforte solo and Miss Wrighton and Mr. Clarke will appear in pianoforte duet, as well as give accompaniments. Make it a point to attend this concert. Secure your seats at Greatrex's drug store. Tickets, 25 and 50 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Seward's numerous and freely given musical assistance has laid every class of citizens in town under obligations which this concert presents a timely opportunity of recognising.

Taking Time by the Fore-lock.

In to-day's EXAMINER will be noticed another of Mr. J. J. Sheehy's "convincing" advertisements. The purchasing public have evidently realized long ere this that there is something to be learned by a perusal of Mr. Sheehy's advertisements, and when once this fact is established, an advertisement ceases to be an expense and is looked upon as a paying investment. Truly this age is a swift one, and as Mr. Sheehy says, one season has hardly had time to close before we are rushing head long into another. As usual, he is in the rush, and wants all those who are seeking for GOOD VALUE and BARGAINS (and their name is legion), first to read his advertisement and then to go straight to the Peterborough Cash Dry Goods Store.

Hockey.

The Peterborough Boys are Defeated—But not Disgraced—A Well Contested Game.

Last night the meeting which has for some time been anticipated between Lindsay and Peterborough on the hockey ginsler took place at the Charlotte street rink. There was a good number of spectators in attendance, including a select sprinkling of the fair sex, who had gathered to witness the fortunes of the various contestants.

Although the start was fixed for nine p.m. it was some time after that before the 'puck' was faced. At last, however, a start was made amid cheers from all parts of the rink. Twelve minutes after the start the first game was scored for Lindsay, and fourteen minutes later a SECOND GOAL WAS ADDED.

This roused the home team to renewed exertions, and after some brilliant play by both teams, at last the first game was scored for Peterborough; time, 10 minutes. On resuming, after seven minutes play, Peterborough equalized. This was a signal for a burst of applause from all over the rink, Peterborough having played splendidly up to this point, Mr. Hal Dumble showing some remarkably good play. The hard work was now evidently telling on the home team, whose defence was not as good as at the beginning of the game, their team play being only moderate. On the other hand, Lindsay played as one man, showing no selfishness in their work. Lindsay scored the fifth game, after thirteen minutes play, by a remarkably fine shot, which was quite beyond the power of the home goal to checkmate. Some rough play was shown here by both teams, and the game partook more of the nature of

SHINNY THAN HOCKEY.

Fouls were also frequent, the referee having to stop the game several times. One of the Peterborough players was about this time slightly injured by the end of one of the sticks of the opposing team catching him, quite accidentally, in the body. Play was suspended for a few minutes and Dr. Brennan examined the injured player, finding that no harm was done beyond "winding" him.

On resuming, after some fine play by Montgomery, the home captain, Peterborough scored again. Time, 12 minutes. This was one of the most hard fought games of the evening. Time had now almost expired the score being three games each. The remaining few minutes were occupied in contesting the decisive game of the evening. Play was now at one end, then at the other, both teams having a defensive game to play, and each apparently determined

NOT TO LET THE OTHER WIN.

At last the deciding game was scored by Knowlson of Lindsay, just before time was called, and the local boys were "out in it." Score Lindsay four games, Peterborough three games. The match was a most stubbornly contested one throughout, and although the home team were beaten, it is but fair to them to say that their play, considering the recent organization of the club, surpassed the expectations of all present, who had not thought they would show up so well against a club of the standing of Lindsay.

Lindsay it may be said played a good game throughout, Knowlson, McBarney and Keenan, in particular played well.

Give Half the Road.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In common with scores of other persons, we have a grievance to ventilate through your valuable columns. It is in reference to the action of the drivers of empty wood teams returning from town on both Lakefield roads, who refuse to give, as the law requires, half the road. Their heavy sleighs being pitted against light cutters, in many a case, as my own, driven by a lady, the wood drawers are in a position to hold the road and put the lady to the inconvenience of drawing to one side in the deep snow and standing, while a dozen or so teams file past, at the risk of the lady's horse becoming restive and beyond her control, not to mention her having to stand the not the most refined remarks passed upon her person and equipage. In the future, repetitions of such acts will be reported to County Constable Cochrane, who will not allow the law to be broken with impunity. By inserting the above you will earn the gratitude not only of one, but many

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PULCHE MOSHER, 20 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

VALEDICTORY MEETING

Of the Board of Education.

Held Last Evening—Reports Presented—Accounts Passed—Statement of the Year's Finances Presented—The Caretaker's Salary Increased.

The Board of Education held their regular monthly meeting last night. Present, Chairman Mr. W. H. Wrighton, the secretary, and Messrs Hill McKee, Dr. Boucher, Ferguson, P. Hamilton, Stevenson, Bradburn, Deane, McBain, Dumble, Dr. Burnham.

After reading of the minutes, in answer to Mr. Deane, Mr. Dumble explained that the terms were not of equal length, this accounted for $3 being charged for the first quarter, although the amount for the whole year was only $10.

Mr. Hill said that the first term was six months and the second four. This was just at the rate of $1 per month.

The occasion of this was a question from Mr. Deane asking, although a motion had been carried by the Board saying $10 should be the fee for the year, why was $3 charged for the first quarter.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received.

From John E. Belcher asking the Board to reconsider the Finance Committees report of December.—Received.

From C. Fessenden acknowledging receipt of his account.—Received.

From Mr. J. Hamilton complaining of a misunderstanding between his son and the principal of the Central School.—Supervision Committee.

From Mrs. Hartley complaining that the janitor had shovelled snow on to her premises.—Received.

THE FINANCES.

The Finance Committee then reported as follows :

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education :

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend payment of the following accounts :

Wm. Walsh	$ 4 20
J. Montgomery	16 20
Dickson Company	335 35

Fitzgerald & Stanger to be paid $3.65 in full of their account. Your committee also recommend that $10 be paid to the secretary for petty cash.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE BURNHAM, Chairman.

MR. HEAP'S ILLNESS.

Mr. DUMBLE, referring to Mr. G. Locke's temporary appointment, said he had heard that Mr. Heap would not be able to take over his work again until after Easter. He wished to receive information on the subject so that the Board would know how to proceed in order to temporarily fill the place.

This was left in the hands of the chairman of the Appointment Committee.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE reported as follows :

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee appointed to superintend the enlargement of the Central School beg to report that the work is now completed, except some painting in the old part of the building and a small portion of the tuck pointing, and that it is a most satisfactory job in every particular, as can be seen by the architect's report. The work is a credit to the architect, Mr. Blackwell, and the late Mr. Rutherford, the contractor. Your committee beg to recommend that the balance due under the contract be paid to the executors of the late contractor, on an order from the architect on completion of the work, without any deduction on account of contract not being completed in time specified.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed), T. E. BRADBURN, Chairman.

In answer to Mr. Stevenson, Mr. BRADBURN said he did not know why the plaster was taken off the walls of the room used as a girl's play-room.

Mr. STEVENSON said that it would cost considerable to replace it.

Mr. DUMBLE said it was a comfortable room, used for recess, and said that of course the plastering, &c., would have to be replaced.

Some further discussion ensued after which the architect said that it was according to his orders, he thought, that the work was done. Nothing was said about it in the contract.

Mr. DUMBLE thought that more glass ought to be put in. At present the downstairs rooms were quite dark, causing gas to be burned all the year round.

The report was then adopted.

THE YEAR'S FINANCES.

Dr. BURNHAM then submitted the statement of the finances for the year as follows :

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE then reported as follows :

To the chairman and members of the Board of Education :

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg to report that wood has been purchased during the year for each school at an increase over 1890 expenditure of $302. This extra expenditure was caused mainly by the introduction of the Smead-Dowd system of heating into the North and South Ward schools.

The amount of fuel and the prices are distributed among the various schools as follows :

	cords.
Central School	159½	at cost of	$386 71
South Ward school	103½	"	255 50
"		coal	63 60
North Ward school		coal	11 50
"	55½	wood	132 10
West Ward school	16½	wood	63 00
Total			$912 41

Your committee recommend that the treasurer be authorized to pay wood accounts on the production of a certificate from the janitor and an order from the chairman of the committee.

In reference to the application of George Tighe for an increase of salary, your committee are of the opinion that assistance should be given Mr. Tighe in the work he is called on to do and for that reason recommend the addition of $100 00 to his salary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed), JAMES STEVENSON, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

MOTIONS.

Mr. DUMBLE drew attention to the motion passed at a former meeting, fixing the fee for the entrance class be $2.50 per month In Mr. Wm. Smith's class the fee for non-resident pupils was $2 50, in Mr. James Smith's room the fee was only $1 50 per month, although the work was now the same in both rooms.

Dr. BOUCHER made a reference to this and thought both rooms should be charged the same.

Mr. Hill moved and Mr. McBain seconded that the fee be $2 50 for both rooms.—Carried.

Mr. Stevenson moved and Mr. Hamilton seconded that Mr. Belcher receive $25 for his plans.—Carried.

The Board adjourned,

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps, of the sure approach of that most terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford, for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. dw

Cared for by the Workingmen.

An old gentleman named Alex. Pebles, of St. Mary's, who has been working with Mr. Peter Hamilton, becoming ill, was sent yesterday to the hospital by the local A.O.U.W. He died there to-day. The remains have been taken in charge of by the Workman, and will be forwarded by them to relatives in St. Mary's.

An Ingenious Contrivance.

Principal Fessenden of the Collegiate Institute has fixed electric wires to the clock in the large room and laid wires in such a manner that at certain hours, a connection is made by the hands of the clock and an electric current is generated, ringing bells in the different halls of the School buildings. This gives notice to the teachers when it is time to change classes and it is a most useful, as well a ingenious contrivance.

A Treat in Store.

In another column will be found the advertisement of the Peterborough Philharmonic Society, as to their first concert to be given in the Opera House, Tuesday evening next, Feb. 9 h. We understand that under the efficient direction of Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge, the chorus and soloists have reached that degree of excellence seldom, if ever, heard in Peterborough before. The work will be given with full orchestral accompaniment, and promises to be the musical event of the season.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

SALLY.

By Albert Fleming.

"Blest if I won't try, and I'll go this moment and ax his blooming pardon." And, so saying, Sally picked up her trailing garments and rushed out of the room.

"A perfect little savage!" said Hannah. "Two years at a reformatory might do good; but I doubt it."

"I thought I saw tears in her eyes," said Mattie.

"And what handsome eyes!" said Kenneth.

"Now, just answer me this," said Hannah. "What on earth made you bring this vagrant here? You plunge into some filthy court, get your head cut open and have this creature flung on your hands. If it is sentimental rubbish, you are a bigger fool than I thought you. If you flatter yourself it's philanthropy you have begun at the wrong end."

"It is a little of both. You do your philanthropy in a scientific, wholesale way; I am beginning mine with a small retail sample. And it is sentiment, too, for I feel rather like a knight who has rescued a maiden and is forbidden by the laws of chivalry to abandon her."

"Then, by the laws of the Round Table, the knight is bound to wed the maiden, and—I wish you joy of your bargain."

"Well, aunt, let Sally have a month under your supervision and then we will hold another meeting upon her." The aunts at last reluctantly agreed to give her a trial.

IV.

The month passed and even Aunt Hannah owned that there was "good stuff" in that girl. Mattie had her baptized and called her Sarah Hope. Hope was a name of good augury. She quickly fitted herself to the ways of the house, never forgot anything, never shirked her work and only had two outbreaks—but they were bad ones, and crockery flew about so freely that Aunt Hannah tied her hands behind her back and locked her up till Kenneth returned. Never in Sally's life had she known what it was to blush, but when he saw those discreditable bonds a flood of shame and contrition dyed her young cheeks. This was the last of her outbreaks. When the month was over she was sent to Nurse Brown and the nearest boarding school. Every Sunday afternoon she went to Bedford lodge and soon Aunt Hannah owned that Sally was growing quite a decent looking girl. She was indeed rapidly changing in everything but in what was unchangeable—her fidelity to Kenneth and her love for him.

Six months after Kenneth's memorable fight there was no little commotion in Cow court one afternoon, for Biddy announced her intention of "looking up that gell." Out of a dirty receptacle she produced Kenneth's card. It had changed to a dull yellow, for whenever the famous tale was told of how the "young swell licked Tim" the card was handed round to finish off the story. The call was to be made in style. So at 3 o'clock a costermongers's barrow with a donkey harnessed to it was drawn up at the entrance to the court; in the barrow was placed an upturned fruit basket and on to this Biddy was hoisted. The crutch went, too, as sign of her temporal power in Cow court, and to be handy to belabor the donkey with. According to the tradition of the court the best female headgear was a shawl thrown over the head, and thus attired Biddy drove through the stately streets of the West End. As the day wore on she maintained her seat on the basket with increasing difficulty, for it became necessary for her to pause at sundry taverns to refresh herself, and when she reached Bedford lodge her face was aflame. Many vagrants had stood at that door, but never a more disreputable figure than old Biddy. She did not limit herself in the matter of bell pulling, and her peal rang through the house.

"Go away!" cried the maid, trying to shut the door. "It's like your impertinence to come to the front door!"

"No, you don't, my gell!" chuckled Biddy, adroitly slipping in the end of her crutch. "I've come to see Mr. Kenneth Gordon; and I don't go till I've seen him, that's more." The housemaid was so astonished that her vigilance relaxed, and Biddy established herself on the mat inside. The maid called to the cook to keep watch and ran to Aunt Hannah.

"A dreadful woman in the hall!" cried she. "I'll see to her!" And, like a hawk swooping down on its quarry, she bore down on Biddy. "Be off at once!" she cried. "How dare you enter my house!"

"Stow you jaw!" said Biddy, unmoved; and then she produced Kenneth's card, and thrust it aggressively under Aunt Hannah's nose. "That's his card, ain't it? Well, I've come to see him and Sally, and don't budge till I do."

"What have you to do with Sarah? We don't want all the riff-raff of Cow court here!"

"That's just what yer will have unless I see the gell," replied Biddy; and then she seated herself on the hall chair, took out her pipe and announced her determination to stay till Kenneth came.

To the great disgust of his aunts, Kenneth, when he returned, ushered Biddy into his study, and was closeted with her for half an hour. Biddy explained that as Tim was dead she considered herself Sally's guardian, and Cow court entirely ratified this view. Before leaving, Biddy reminded Kenneth that there was an ancient and laudable custom of drinking one's host's health. Kenneth ransomed himself from this obligation by a cash payment of half a crown.

The aunts never knew what had taken place at this interview. He merely said that Biddy had something to tell him about Sally's early life.

"Nothing creditable, I'll warrant," said Hannah, and he made no reply.

V.

Seven years had rolled by. They had passed lightly over Kenneth, only changing the youth of 23 into a man of 29. They had brought a few more gray hairs to Aunt Mattie, a few more angularities to Aunt Hannah; but they had absolutely transformed Sally. During the first two years Kenneth had stayed at home, then he had accepted an appointment at Buenos Ayres, where he had to stay for five years. When he left England Sally was a promising girl of 14, and he was easy about her future, for step by step she had won her way into the household, first gaining the hearts of the servants, then Aunt Mattie's, and then by slower degrees Aunt Hannah's. Sally as a child, girl and woman was unchanged in one thing—the little wild heathen heart had gone out to Kenneth when he fought for her, and remained his always. Her love had grown with her growth—education and refinement were as sunshine and dew to it, fostering and feeding. At first it was arranged that she was to be trained for service, but her wonderful development altered their plans. Then she was to be apprenticed to some first-rate shop; and, lastly, trained as a teacher. So she was sent to Kensington high school, and spent her holidays at Bedford lodge. She was gardening one June morning soon after Kenneth's departure, and Aunt Hannah watched the tall, lithe figure moving about among the flowers.

"Who," she exclaimed, "would ever have believed that the dirty child Kenneth brought home that memorable evening would ever look like that?"

"She might be Flora amid her own flowers," said Mattie, gently. The very sight of the girl seemed to bring gladness into the hearts of the two old spinsters. Aunt Hannah had softened wonderfully under Sally's pretty influences, and, as for Mattie, Sally was enshrined in her heart next to her own dear Kenneth.

"Sister," said Hannah abruptly leaving the window, "we ought to think seriously about Sally. We love her dearly, but"—

"But what?" asked Mattie, anxiously.

"But, of course, she comes out of the gutter. Our first duty is to Kenneth—we must let him run no risk."

"He has no thought of that; besides he won't be back for five years."

"She must go to a good boarding school and be trained as a governess. She is pretty now; what will she be when she has outgrown the awkward age?"

"But, Hannah, don't let us lose her altogether."

"Men always make fools of themselves over beauty, and always will." At this moment Sally came to the open window with two posies in her hand. Her cheeks were flush with a tender, rosy glow, her eyes sparkled with happy life.

"This is for you," she cried, pinning the posy in Aunt Mattie's dress.

"Flowers are for the young, dear, the old never want them till the end comes. Nevertheless, Mattie tucked them in prettily and glanced at the mirror. Then Sally made a rush at Aunt Hannah, but was repulsed with:

"Be off with your tomfoolery, Sally! Put your flowers in water and go and practice." But Sally coaxed till she gained her point, and the servants stared to see Aunt Hannah's uncompromising left shoulder daintily adorned.

W. H. Comstock, Brockville, Ont.
Dear Sir,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.
Yours faithfully,
H. F. Atwell.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. Horticulture and Floriculture.

Adjourned Meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Society—Election of Officers.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society was held on Tuesday afternoon in the council chamber. Owing to the decidedly unhorticultural weather there was a limited attendance, Mr. J. H. Roper, president, occupied the chair.

THE DIRECTORS' REPORT

showed that last year's membership fell slightly short of that of the preceding year, and that while the exhibition was a fairly good one, it was nothing like what should be held in a town of the size, importance, and exhibition resources of Peterborough. The directors deplore the fact of so little interest being taken in the exhibition by the people at large who possess a fondness for horticulture and pursued it with great success. Yet it seemed impossible to awaken any enthusiasm or general spirit of legitimate rivalry, and therefore the burden of carrying on the society fell upon a few of the directors, making their work to some extent, disheartening and onerous, whereas, if every person interested, bore his share of the responsibility, the work would be lighter for all and a greater degree of success would be achieved. They hoped that a change would come over the spirit of the popular dream and that there would be a general awakening to a fuller and more practical interest in the affairs of the society.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT

was submitted as follows:—

Dr. Burnham and Mr. E. C. Hill were appointed auditors, to report at a future meeting.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED for the ensuing year were:

PRESIDENT.—J. H. Roper, Esq.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—Jas. Stevenson, M.P.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—D. W. Dumble, Esq.
SECRETARY.—P. Henry.
TREASURER.—F. J. Lewis.
DIRECTORS.—Rev. V. Clementi, Messrs. J. H. Stratton, M.P.P., T. E. Bradburn, H. C. Rogers, Dr. Geo. Burnham, W. H. Hill, W. H. Manning, Adam Hall, A. L. Davis, John Burnham, M.P., and T. A. Hay.

It was decided at the coming exhibition to have two tables—one for vegetables and the other for flowers for children under fifteen years of age, who are to be awarded special prizes for the best exhibits made of articles grown by themselves, and that they be allowed to exhibit free of charge for membership fees.

A committee, composed of Messrs. Roper, Stevenson and Dumble, was appointed to wait upon the town council to solicit a grant for the maintenance of Court House Park.

The question of the trimming of the park trees, so as to admit more sunlight to the grass, was left in the hands of the president.

The question of amalgamation with the Central Exhibition, and holding the annual show at the same time, was discussed, but a consensus of opinion was averse to the proposition, the season of the Central being too late to admit of a good horticultural and agricultural exhibition.

The meeting then adjourned, the members going with the full determination to make next year's exhibition of the Society the best in the series.

The Way Mowat Goes.

The North Renfrew Conservatives feel so weak that they decided at a convention on Saturday last not to oppose the return of the Mowat candidate, Mr. Barr, in the bye election. They have thus handed over their seat in the Legislature to a supporter of Mr. Mowat. As Mr. Meredith's consent to this must have been obtained, and as North Renfrew returned a Conservative by a majority of 58 last election, it is proof that Mr. Meredith is growing tired of his job of trying to overturn the Mowat Administration. When Mr. Mowat carries Kingston he will have added four to the majority with which he opened the last session.

Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

THE EIDER IS DOOMED.

THE BIG STEAMER ALMOST ABANDONED TO HER FATE.

All the Passengers and Crew Saved—The Mails Also Landed—The Seas Are Now Fast Breaking the Vessel to Pieces.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The pumps of the Eider were kept working at their full capacity all night, but though tons of water poured through the scuppers the sea kept slowly but surely gaining on her. The forward pumps were rendered of little use when the steamer began to settle by the stern, and consequently the after pumps were not able to keep the water down. At daylight signals were shown that the steamer wanted help. A life-boat was immediately launched through the heavy surf and started for the steamer. In the meantime a portion of the crew had entered the life-boats alongside of the stranded steamer and started for shore. The sea was running very high and a tremendous surf was rolling up the beach. Much difficulty was experienced in shooting the boats through the surf, but finally everybody was landed in safety.

Abandoned to Her Fate.

The fresh breeze which sprang up this morning gradually freshened and resulted in a gale of wind, which caused heavy seas to sweep over the Eider. Experts who have examined her position express the opinion that her back is broken and that there is absolutely no hope of saving her, and it is taken for granted that the Eider and her cargo, the latter composed of about 1800 tons of general merchandise, have been cast upon the rocks never to be removed except by the wreckers. At a rough estimate the cargo is valued at about $80,000, not including the specie which will be saved. The Eider herself is valued at about $700,000. Both the steamer and her cargo are fully insured. The passengers destined for Bremen will be transferred to the German Lloyd steamer Havel, which sailed from New York Jan. 26.

All Safe.

At 7 o'clock this evening the lifeboats, after an exceedingly perilous voyage, succeeded in bringing the remainder of the crew from the ship to the shore in safety. As the tide went down the storm increased in violence. The captain of the Elder was the last person to leave the vessel. It was with evident reluctance that he was finally induced to quit the steamer and he only did so when he saw that it was useless to remain on board any longer and that each moment added to the danger of the torn and battered vessel suddenly going to pieces.

The voyage was Captain Heineck's first one on the Eider from New York.

Foundered In Queenstown Harbor.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The yacht belonging to Admiral St. George foundered at her moorings in Queenstown harbor during a gale there.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A bottle found floating near Lerwick, Scotland, to-day contained a message from Fowla, an island of the Shetland group, 18 miles west of the other islands, stating that owing to the absence of communication with the other islands caused by the exceedingly stormy weather that has prevailed for the past five weeks the inhabitants of Fowla are on the verge of starvation. They had at the time the bottle was thrown into the water only a few potatoes and a little meat left.

DUBLIN, Feb. 2.—A boat containing a number of sailors belonging to the warship Belle Isle was capsized in the harbor here about midnight and four sailors were drowned.

Must be an Italian.

ROME, Feb. 3.—The Pope has consulted the officials of the Holy See as to whether it would be advisable in the best interests of the Catholic Church that his successor should be a foreigner.

The Holy See, in turn, has consulted the Council of Barristers of the Consistory, and the latter have replied that it would be preferable that the next Pope should be an Italian. This decision has been communicated to the Papal Nuncios abroad.

Lord Salisbury Makes a Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—In a speech at Exeter Lord Salisbury criticised the Liberal program as being obscure, indefinite and full of empty promises. Ireland, he said, remained the burning question of the hour, on which would rest the issue of the next election but perhaps of others and he appealed to the country to uphold the union.

Took a Dose of Arnica.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—Mary Carter, aged 15, employed as a servant by Mrs. Somerville, Hannah-street, was taken to the hospital to-day suffering from the effects of a dose of two ounces of arnica and a bottle of camphor liniment. It is not likely that the dose will prove fatal. She did not say why she took the stuff. Her father, Henry Carter, an engineer, lives in Macauley-street.

Death of an Old Mason.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—In the death of Charles Smith at the age of 92 yesterday there has passed away one of the best authorities on Masonry in the province. He was a member of the Masonic Order for nearly half a century.

A Winnipeg Slasher.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3.—A social Jack the Slasher has inaugurated a reign of terror here. Several persons have received razor cuts, and last night a fiend attempted to cut throat of a woman named Eliza Chapman. His identity has not been discovered.

A SOLDIER'S LIFE.

Inhuman Treatment of German Soldiers by Petty Officers.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The Vorwartz article "in regard to inhuman treatment in the army mention some cases where soldiers were kept at the armor knee till they had performed the movement nearly 2000 times or till they had failed. In one instance a recruit who had become bathed in sweat in consequence of the exertion was unable to continue. A sergeant thereupon poured a jug of cold water over him and then thrashed him till the whip broke. The recruit's legs were covered with welts and as the result of the treatment received, he had to be placed in a hospital where he lay in a high fever. Sergeant Lohl fractured a man's collar bone through beating him with a rifle. He afterwards tried to commit suicide, fearing he would be found out. In addition to his other cruelties, Sergeant Pflug compelled several of his men to chew dirty socks and forced recruits who failed to stretch their knees properly at drill time to lie across two chairs in a certain position. He would then sit upon their unsupported knees till they screamed from the pain, when he would have them gagged. He would also slap their faces and other indignities reported to have been inflicted by him are too horrible to be mentioned.

A Green Goods Swindler Caught In the Act of Victimizing Him.

NEWBURG, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Deputy United States Marshal C. W. Mehrens has arrested a green goods swindler here as he was in the act of plucking his victim, a young man named Samuel Price of Toronto.

On Jan. 1 Price registerod at the Merchants' Hotel, which is kept by Deputy Marshal Mehrens, as William J. Cooper of Albany. He received a telegram addressed to William J. Cook. This, it turns out, was to make an appointment for him to meet a man known to him as F. Eaton at No. 1988 Third-avenue, New York. Price went to that address and gave the supposed Eaton $200 in good money, for which he was to receive at some future period $1000 in counterfeits.

Price returned to Toronto, but came back to Newburg so as to meet "Eaton," bringwith him $100 additional, which the latter had demanded. He again registered as Cooper, but Mr. Mehrens, having an inkling of what was going on, went up to Price's room and found there a stranger, who had registered as John Miller. Eaton and Miller are one and the same person.

Miller and Price fled and were purchasing tickets for New York at the West Shore station when arrested. Miller was committed for a hearing to-morrow and his victim has been detained as a witness.

Price says that he and his brother-in-law went into the scheme to obtain counterfeit money in partnership, and hoped by means of it to become speedily rich.

Winnipeg Board of Trade.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 3. — The annual meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade was held yesterday. The reports of the president and council were lengthy and dealt with numerous important matters. In dealing with the question of immigration reference was made to the large influx of settlers from Dakata and other states, most of whom were Canadians, who had become dissatisfied with their lot in that country. The reports also congratulatod memeber on the general drosperity of the country and a brighter outlook for the future. Election of officers for 1892 resulted as follows: President, James E. Steen; vice-president, Andrew Ttrong; Treasurer, George J. Maulson.

The Sensational New York Poisoning

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Carlyle W. Harris, the young student charged with having poisoned his wife, Helen Potts, was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury. It has been one of the most sensational cases in recent history, and has attracted a widespread interest. About two weeks ago the case came to trial and has been progressing ever since.

The jury retired about 9.30 and at 10.45 returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. The verdict was very unexpected to the accused and he broke down completely when it was announced. His mother, who has been constantly at his side during the trial, was very much affected and created a scene. She fell back in her chair shrieking madly, "It's a lie! It's a lie!"

Killed by Jamaica Ginger.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 3.—Barbara T. Probst of Sharpsburg, 32 years old and the mother of six children, died suddenly. A postmortem examination developed that death was due to the constant use of Jamaica ginger. Her stomach was literally cooked

MURDERS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Discovery of Horrid Murders and Butcheries.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 3.—A series of mysterious murders have occurred recently within 12 miles of this place. On Dec. 4 the body of a well-dressed man was found in the woods near Gallotzin with a bullet hole in his head. A week later the body of another man was found 12 miles distant with a hole through his head. The body was identified as that of George Myers, a prosperous citizen of Frugality. He was murdered for his money. Less than a week ago the decomposed body of another man was found in the woods near Bethel. The clothes were of good quality, but nothing could be discovered to establish his identity. The horrible butchery of old man Kring and his wife, and the cremation of their bodies four nights ago, is attributed to the same mysterious murderers, who are evidently hiding in the mountains ready to pounce upon any victim who is supposed to have money.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN

Covered with Scales. Awful Spectacle. Cured in Five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales being formed meanwhile were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, until I had been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I know of a great many who have taken the REMEDIES, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby's.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation to sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

BEHRING SEA.

The U. S. Cabinet Discusses the Affair—Modus Vivendi to be Extended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—At a Cabinet meeting yesterday most of the session was occupied with the Behring Sea matter. It is claimed that an arrangement to extend the modus vivendi will be made within a few days.

A change in the method of proceeding in the matter of reaching a final determination of the whole subject was discussed. According to the terms of the agreement to arbitrate the question arrived at between Secretary Blaine and Lord Salisbury there were to be seven arbitrators, three of whom shall be from a neutral country. It is now proposed, it is understood, to limit the board of arbitrators to three, who shall take the evidence furnished by their commissioners.

This change will be suggested to the proper authorities and will probably be adopted. The names of the three arbitrators are said to have been agreed upon by the parties interested.

FITZSIMMONS CAUGHT.

The Brockville Murderer Captured at New Orleans—A Cigaret Club.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—Frederick Fitzsimmons, formerly of Brockville, Ont., who shot Detective David Gilkinson and almost killed Detective Murray, sawed his way out of jail just before he was to have been tried, and for five months has eluded diligent pursuit, has been captured at a cigar stand in New Orleans. Detective Murray left last night to fetch him back.

Fitzsimmons mailed a letter to the newspapers the first thing after he broke jail, and has frequently written to counsel and others. A letter to Holmes Anderson, a fellow prisoner, led to his recapture. In it Fitzsimmons made an appointment with Anderson to meet him in New Orleans some days ago.

Detectives Finney and Lang of this city have been in the vicinity of the Crescent City for weeks, shadowing their man. They were aided by the brand of cigarets he was known to smoke, and which it was found he got at the stand. Three officers pounced on him there soon after midnight and put him in irons before he could shoot.

SHORTHORN BREEDERS.

Satisfactory Statements at the Annual Meeting Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—The seventh annual meeting of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association opened yesterday morning in Shaftesbury Hall, Mr. Richard Gibson, president, in the chair. Those present were: Hon. John Dryden, James Hunter, Alma; F. R. Shore, White Oak; D. D. Wilson, Seaforth; F. Green, Innerkip, William Liseton, Aurora; Arthur Johnston, Greenwood; F. D. Patton, St. George; James Russell, Richmond Hill; C. M. Simmons, Ivan; David Rea, Fergus; James Tolton, Walkerton; David Hill, Dublin; William Dawson, Victoria; David Crerar, Shakespeare: J. C. Hanley, Reid; William Redmond, Millbrook; R. W. Greig, Ottawa; A. W. Smith, Maple Lodge; O. Chad, Toronto; John Racey, Markham; J. Idington, Stratford, Robert Miller, Markham; John Hope, Bow Park; W. J. McNaughton, Lancaster; R. R. Sangster, Lancaster; J. Biggers, Clinton; F. Green, Innerkip; J. L. Cowan, Toronto; J. B. Bristow, Rob Roy; Richard Gibson, Delaware, and Samuel Allen, Bowmanville.

The Executive Committee presented the sixth annual report, which stated that during the year 1891 they had paid for 3162 registrations, 2889 certificates and 378 changes of ownership. Of these had been rejected 27 registrations, 16 certificates and 2 changes of ownership, returning the fee, leaving 3135 registrations, 2873 certificates and 376 transfers, against in 1890, 3166 registrations, 2889 certificates and 348 transfers, and against it in 1889, 2729 registrations, 8522 certificates and 367 transfers, showing hardly any change in numbers, which is reassuring, as the shorthorn industry has not appeared satisfactory lately. The report further stated that Volume III. of the herd books had been pleted and contained all the pedagrees up to the end of 1891. To meet the large expense of re-printing so many old pedigrees, as mentioned last year, the Agriculture and Arts Association had been again solicited and had consented to contribute another $1000 for 1892. The eight volumes which are now complete have recorded the pedigrees of 26,583 animals. The report shows that the association was formed in 1882 with a membership of 164, while there are 397 paid-up members on the roll to-day The fees from registration increased from $2688 in 1889, $3047 in 1890 to $3152 in 1891. The committee called attention to the new rule requiring all calves born after Jan. 1, 1892, to be recorded before they are 18 months old. A double fee will be charged after that date. The financial statement showed that the receipts for the past year had been $8491 and the disbursements $8331, leaving a credit balance of $160. The assets were shown to amount to $5194, while the liabilities sum up but $500.

A large amount of formal business was transacted.

MR. EGAN'S GOODNESS.

HOW HE SAVED THE LIVES OF SEVERAL PEOPLE.

Uncle Sam's Chilian Minister Gets a Good Dose of Taffy, Which Most People Will Take With Salt—Egan's House of Refuge—He Wants Investigation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A Herald special from Valparaiso says: The resolution in the House of Representatives at Washington requesting President Harrison to recall Minister Egan was read with interest in Valparaiso and Santiago. Surprise was expressed in many quarters that such a resolution should have been presented to Congress. There has been an entire change in public feeling toward Minister Egan in this country since the settlement of the diplomatic tangles that have been disturbing the relations of this country and the United States. His attitude seems now to be better understood, and his services in protecting many prominent members of the congressional party from the vengeance of the late dictator, and in granting an asylum to the refugees who sought the American Legation after the downfall of Balmaceda, are now generally recognized as having been both humane and proper. For the past 12 months Minister Egan's house has been filled with refugees. During Balmaceda's dictatorship he shielded many of the leaders of the Congressional party, and, after the fall of Valparaiso, many of those whose desire for vengeance he had thwarted sought his protection from those who had formerly asked his aid. All the time during the past year from 20 to 30 refugees, representing one or the other faction of this country, have been quartered in the American legation. They have been entertained and fed entirely at the expense of Minister Egan. He refused to accept a penny from those who sought his protection, whether they were congressionalists or Balmacedists. He has expended nearly as much as one year's salary in behalf of the refugees, whom he has kept in the legation. The public of Chili appear to be getting better acquainted with his acts, and this accounts for the general reversal of feeling in regard to Minister Egan's recall. Eduardo Matta, who is now president of the chamber of deputies, and many others whose lives were saved by Minister Egan during Balmaceda's dictatorship, favor his retention here as the American minister. Senor Pereira, minister of foreign affairs, who instructed Minister Montt at Washington to ask for Mr. Egan's recall, now appears very friendly to him and so does Senor Blanco Viel, the intendente at Valparaiso. Augustin Edwards, whose life and property were saved through Egan's influence, is the only prominent member of the old congressional party, who now seems anxious to have Egan called home. Mr. Egan was asked yesterday what he thought of the resolution introduced at Washington requesting his recall. "I court a full investigation of all my acts," said Mr. Egan. "I have no fear that anything detrimental to my reputation would be discovered. My actions throughout the difficulties have been approved by Secretary Blaine and the Administration at Washington."

SIR MORELL IS DEAD.

THE FAMOUS DR. MACKENZEIE NO MORE.

Prospects of Immigration to Canada—More Demands for Passage Rates Than for Years—Gladstone's Latest Manifesto The Socialists and the Chelsea Demonstration.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Morell Mackenzie, the eminent physician, died unexpectedly at 10 o'clock last night.

Sir Morell Mackenzie had suffered from bronchitis and asthma following his recent attack of influenza. His illness, however, it was considered, had taken a favorable course. He was attended by his brother. His death was quite sudden. Only his wife was present when it occurred.

Sir Morell Mackenzie was born in Leytonstone, Essex, in 1837, and was educated at the London Hospital Medical College and in Paris and Vienna. He was the author of numerous publications on Laryngological subjects, and in particular of a systematic treatise in two volumes on "Diseases of the Throat and Nose," which is acknowledged to be a standard work.

Dr. Mackenzie was also the author of "Monographs on Diphtheria and Hay Fever," and of an article on "Specialism in Medicine," which appeared in The Fortnightly Review in 1885, and which excited considerable attention.

Dr. Mackenzie was in attendance on Frederick III. German Emperor during the latter's last illness and was knighted in 1887. He published in 1888 "The Fatal Illness of Frederick the Noble." At the close of that year he resigned his connection with the College of Physicians. In 1889 he contributed to The Contemporary Review some essays entitled "The Voice in Singing and Speaking."

PROSPECTS OF IMMIGRATION.

More Demands For Passage Rates Than for Years.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Special enquiries show that emigration prospects this season are excellent. The tenant farmers' delegates' reports of the bountiful Northwest harvest and the generally hopeful reports from Canada caused the agents to receive more demands for passage rates and literature than for years past. The hope is expressed that the Dominion Government even now will take advantage of the promising outlook to devise a thorough scheme to encourage the emigration of the right classes by co-operation with Northwest municipalities or otherwise. The settlement of the bonus system is helpful, but a mere drop in the bucket.

Plimsoll and the Cattle Trade.

Mr. Samuel Plimsoll is giving some sensational evidence before the labor commission in connection with the cattle trade. It is arousing a strong tide of public opinion against the practice of deck loading, and in regard to the bad food alleged to be furnished to the cattlemen. In reference to inland navigation, Mr. Plimsoll related some terrible hardships suffered by the crews of Canadian wood boat schooners, which he said were on the authority of some Toronto ship owners. The feeling here is that while the Canadians must legislate for themselves, when their vessels come to Great Britian they must conform to the British laws.

Mr. Plimsoll strongly abused the quarters and the feed of the seamen on board of the secondary or "tramp" steamers. He demands more efficient inspection. Mr. Plimsoll says to-day that he hopes the agitation will result in the prohibition of the deck loading and that no timber laden vessels will be allowed to leave a port till the captain receives an official certificate that he carries no deck cargo.

Mr. Plimsoll got very excited when he was asked how he would deal with Canada's insistence on the practice of deck loading, and declared that, so far as British ports were concerned, the Canadian ships would have to observe the British law.

Sir M. Hicks-Beach and other prominent men, as well as some of the Ministers, are following the agitation carefully. It is generally agreed that, despite Mr. Plimsoll's too evident exaggerations, there is a need of legislation regarding the cases in point both here and in Canada.

CHELSEA SOCIALISTS.

Sir Charles Russell Speaks in Behalf of Free Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Charles Russell, in the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday moved that an order be granted to remove the Chelsea socialist cases from the County Court to the High Court of Justice and that they be tried before a special jury.

Sir Charles, during the course of his argument, said that for years past socialists and others have been accustomed to hold open air meetings at the World's End-square, Chelsea, and that they have not been interfered with so long as they behaved in an orderly manner. Recently the police seemed to have thought themselves bound to interfere with all such meetings and nearly every Sunday for months past have been arresting people for alleged violations of law regarding the holding of such meetings.

A great question, Sir Charles continued, was involved in these arrests and the matter must be sifted to the utmost, as there was no doubt in his mind that the rights of the community had been gravely interfered with. The order was granted.

To Run in West Huron.

GODERICH, Feb. 4.—The Conservatives of West Huron met at Smith's Hill yesterday, over 200 delegates being present. Hon. J. C. Patterson, Secretary of State, was unanimously nominated as a candidate to oppose M. C. Cameron. The executive was instructed to communicate with Mr. Patterson at once.

Dr. Montague of Haldimand was present and delivered a stirring address, in which he promised his own assistance to the end of the campaign.

North Monaghan.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

On Monday evening a number of the teachers and pupils of Elmdale Sunday school assembled at the residence of Mr. John Brown, their superintendent, who has recently entered the ranks of the benedicts. Congratulations and good wishes were showered in abundance on Mr and Mrs. Brown. When a lull was created for a time Mr. J. A. Hunter read the following address, and Miss Jennie Huston presented a beautifully bound family Bible.

MR. JOHN BROWN, Superintendent of Elmdale Sunday school :

DEAR SIR,—We the members and pupils of Elmdale Sunday school desire to take advantage of the occasion of your making a most important and momentous change in life, to offer you our most cordial congratulations, and warm wishes for a long life of happiness. We would also wish to use the occasion for giving expression of our hearty appreciation of the faithful and devoted service you have rendered as a teacher for many years, and as superintendent for the past four years. With great pleasure we recall the fidelity with which you have attended to your duties, and the efforts you have put forth, in season and out of season, for the promotion of the interests of the school; and it gives us even greater pleasure to testify to the influence for good which your consistent Christian walk and conversation have exercised upon our lives. Though we may not always have profitted to the full extent of our opportunities, by the efforts you have put forth on our behalf, yet we hold them in fond and grateful remembrance, and we esteem it a great favour to have the privilege of giving tangible token of our respect, esteem and good-will by asking your acceptance of this family Bible—the book whose truths you have made precious to us by both your instruction and by the life you have lived according to its precepts. That it may long be a lamp to your feet and a light unto your path, and that you and Mrs. Brown may be long spared to lives of usefulness and happiness is the prayer of your devoted friends,

Signed on behalf of the teachers and pupils,

JENNIE HUSTON,
DAVID BATTERS,
J. A. HUNTER.

Mr. Brown was completely taken by surprise and replied briefly and feelingly to the sentiments expressed by his numerous friends in the address and assured them that the perusal of the pages of the beautiful Bible would always recall to his memory the many pleasant and profitable Sabbaths that they had spent together in the past. Mr. Brown is a young man of sterling good qualities who has been recently united in marriage to one of North Monaghan's most estimable young ladies in the person of Miss Mary Clark, only daughter of the late Richard Clarke. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were untiring in their efforts in entertaining their friends.

The second carnival of the season will be held in the skating rink on Thursday evening next. The Millbrook Citizen's Band will furnish music. All lovers of the delightful pleasure that the skating exercise affords should not fail to be in attendance. Extensive preparations are being made in the way of fancy costumes by some of our local professional skaters.

Mr. Mulock, M. P., addressed a meeting in the interests of the Reformers here, and no doubt many of the doubtful have been convinced that it is best to vote for Free Trade and Mr. Walters, the Liberal candidate at the ensuing election, Feb. 11th.

Prospects are also favorable for the re-election of Mr. John A. Barron, North Victoria. His majority was 200 at the last election over S. Hughes.

Robert Robinson, one of the old Omemee boys, who has spent the last ten years in Deadwood, Dakota, is now visiting his old friends and relatives, who have been lifelong Tories, as well as himself. He now positively declares that there is no hope for Canada's progress unless a government is in power that will go in for more extended trade relations with the States, as it is the natural market for our products.

The funeral of Mrs. Geo. Beatty, aged 70, was very largely attended on last Wednesday.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

Were Discussed at the Annual Session of the Fruit Growers Association—Election of Officers—Executive Committee Appointed—Poultry Raising and Small Fruits Discussed—The Ontario Association Invited Here for 1893—The Session Closed With Votes of Thanks.

The annual meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association was opened Wednesday morning in the Council Chamber.

There was a fair attendance of visitors and those interested in Fruit Culture.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

After routine, the election of officers was proceeded with. Mr. Hilliard was elected President by acclamation, and Mr. E. B. Edwards, Secretary Treasurer.

Professor CRAIG, of Ottawa, was then introduced to the meeting, and delivered a very practical address on "The Work of the Horticultural Department at the

OTTAWA EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

The professor gave an outline of the work in testing different varieties of fruit. He also gave the results of investigations made to discover the best remedy for preventing injurious insects and fungus diseases on fruit plants. The work of forestry was touched upon, which was being conducted at the farm with a view to supplying Manitoba and the North-West with a variety of forest trees that would be suitable to their climate. The work of producing new varieties of fruit by seedling production, crossing and hybridising, was next spoken of.

VEGETABLES AND FERTILIZERS.

The work in the vegetable department was next touched upon, and the people present were advised how to test the large number of varieties sent out by seedsmen, in order to select the best. Their experiments in the use of different fertilizers was in conclusion dealt with in a lucid and practical manner.

A discussion followed the address, which was joined in by a number of those present, and advice was given as to the best varieties of fruit suitable for raising in this district.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION of the annual meeting of the Fruit Growers Association was held in the council chamber.

ELECTION OF EXECUTIVE.

The first business was the election of an executive committee for the ensuing year. The following were elected :—Messrs. Giles, Middleton, McKibbon and Rogers, with the president, Mr. Hilliard, and the secretary, Mr. E. B. Edwards.

Some letters were then read from members, regretting their absence from the meetings.

SMALL FRUITS.

Mr. A. M. Smith, of St. Catherines, Ont., was then called upon to give an address on "small fruits."

Mr. SMITH gave a very practical and earnest address on all the various branches of fruit culture, such as the preparation of the ground, cultivation and fertilization. All the principal small fruits were dealt with, particularly the raspberry. Apples were also dealt with at length. The varieties of apples most suitable for growing in this part of the country were enumerated and fully discussed. Questions were asked and advice given on several points in this connection.

RASPBERRY CULTURE.

Mr. SMITH said that in a few years Mr. Craig would be able to supply both red and black raspberries that would be second to none in the world. A great number of the best varieties were at present being propogated at the Experimental Farm.

In answer to a question, he said that the Industry had been recommended to him as a good variety to grow. He had tried the same variety and had found it worthless. The American varieties were the best for growing here, such as the Houghton, Downing and some crosses from Saunders.

Mr. CRAIG referred to the Pearl, which was being introduced by Mr. Smith, and was the most productive and that he knew.

In answer to Mr. E. H. D. Hall, Mr. Smith spoke of the Russian Mulberry. It was almost an unknown quantity here. The best mulberry he knew of was the Downing.

Several other fruits, pears, etc., were discussed, and Mr. Smith answered questions relative to them. Pear trees, he said, t' it made a very rapid growth, or were cultivated too much, were more subject to blight than when they were of slower growth. A very moderate amount of fertilizing with bone dust, wood ashes, barnyard manure or other good fertilizer was all that was necessary. Wood ashes, in his opinion, were the best fertilizers for fruit trees. They would, he thought, be very good for strawberries.

Mr. CRAIG in speaking of this fertilizer spoke of the potash it contained, as being one of the most important constituents that was drawn from the soil by apple trees.

Apple trees, Mr. Smith said, should be planted 30 feet apart. One gentleman present had grown carrots very successfully between the rows of apple trees.

HENS AND HEN FRUIT.

Mr. HILLIARD in a few brief and well chosen remarks called upon Mr. Gilbert, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, to give an account of poultry in connection with fruit raising.

He in introducing his subject said that "poultry and fruit would go well together if kept apart." This was an Irishism, but was true in a sense. Poultry of course should not be allowed to run over the small fruit garden but will do well in an orchard. Poultry raising and hen fruit was an industry that could be profitably followed in winter. It was a part of the general farm work that was very much neglected. Very few farmers gave the attention to this subject that it deserved. Poultry and fruit raising were as profitable if properly carried out as grain growing. Some instances were related of the very beneficial effect of hen manure upon plum and other fruit trees. Chickens and hens also destroyed grasshoppers in the fruit garden, or where they ran. The profit of poultry raising to a fruit gardener, ranged from 100 to 300 per cent, according to knowledge of management. Perseverance and energy were needed in this industry.

THE SCIENCE OF FARMING.

Mixed farming should be carried on in this part of the province, on a larger scale than it was at present. Farming was being made into a science, every farmer who would keep up with the age, must farm on scientific principles. In answer to questions he said white leghorns, were very good for eggs while the plymouth rock were best for both table and eggs. Some hints were then given as to training hens so that they would lay eggs in winter. Brahmas and Cochins were also briefly touched upon. Each hen should have about four feet run. For about fifteen hens, the pen should be eight by fourteen feet. Hens should be kept in flocks of about twenty in this district. Plenty of chickens should be hatched in preference to rearing hens for laying. These can then be fattened up for market. It would, he thought, pay better than the eggs. Inbreeding should not be resorted to. Fowls should not be kept over two years. Breeding should be done from hens two years old. Carbolic acid powder was a good preventive against lice in poultry, sprinkled on them.

ONTARIO'S OPPORTUNITIES.

Mr. CRAIG then gave some further information on "Fruit Growing," in connection with producing apples of the finest quality. The farmers of Ontario could raise good fruit, because they had done so. "The finest specimens are produced from the healthiest trees." This was quoted as being an important axiom for the farmer. The healthiest trees can be produced by selecting the best varieties that do well in the immediate neighbourhood. Small trees should be obtained—two years old gave the best results. Large ones should not be used. The ground should be carefully prepared and the trees should be well cultivated. The cultivation should not, however, be carried on after about the 15th July. They must be pruned right from the transplanting, a little every year, with a pruning or jack-knife. The saw should not be used.

HEALTHY FOLIAGE WAS VERY important. This acted as the lungs and digestive organs of the trees. There were two classes of enemies to foliage, viz., insect and fungi. Some different forms of fungi were briefly touched upon and explained. A good preventive for the black spot on apples had been found out at the Experimental Farm. It was known as the carbonate of copper solution, composed of carbonate of copper and ammonia. This should be sprayed upon the trees about three times early in the season. Mildew on European gooseberries had been spoken of. This could be prevented by spraying with a solution of 1 oz. sulphate of potassium in two gallons of water. A good preventive for leaf eating insects, etc., was a solution, for all fruit trees except plums, of 1 lb. Paris Green in 200 gallons of water. For plums, owing to the leaves being more sensitive, the solution should be 1 lb. Paris Green in 300 gallons of water. Other remedies for various kinds of insects, etc., that were injurious, were touched upon, amongst others the kerosene emulsion, which was a very good cure for green insects on the leaves.

HINTS TO FRUIT GROWERS.

Thinning of the fruit was a very important part. This when judiciously done caused the fruit to be larger than when not thinned. Another important item was the honest and careful grading and packing of the fruit. The best fruit should be placed in small and attractive packages for the market. In conclusion he urged the members to study the report of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Society.

Several questions were then asked, and answered to the satisfaction of the members by Mr. Craig, with reference to mildew on vines, etc.

AN INVITATION FOR 1893.

The secretary then brought up the question of whether or not the Ontario Association should be invited to hold the meeting of 1893 in Peterborough. The president thought it would be an excellent idea.

Mr. EDWARDS in supporting this laid before the meeting some of the advantages that would accrue to the local association of the Ontario body meeting here. He made a motion that they be invited for the fall of 1893. This was carried.

Mr. SMITH in referring to this spoke of the proposed establishment of an experimental station for testing the quality of new fruits. He thought that Ontario was so favourably situated by nature, that it would become the premier fruit raising country on the American continent.

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

Messrs. Edwards, Hilliard and Middleton were then appointed a committee to wait upon Messrs. Stratton and Blezard to urge upon them the need of having a station as suggested by Mr. Smith. After a few more general remarks from Mr. Smith, and the secretary, who laid several items of formal business before the meeting, he moved that the executive committee take up the question of shipment of apples to England and the erection of an evaporator.—Carried.

Votes of thanks were then passed to the visiting gentlemen for their presence and addresses. These being briefly responded to the meeting closed.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Salvation Army Notes.

Staff-Capt. Plant, who should have been here to assist Col. McKie, and was taken sick, has been spending a few days with the local corps. He left to join the Colonel in Montreal last night.

Staff-Capt. Cox, a lady of great elocutionary powers, and who has been deeply interested in the Rescue Work of the Army, will arrive here for a four days' mission on Saturday. A sketch of career will appear in the EXAMINER of to-morrow. Her subject on Saturday evening will be "Travels in India," commencing at 8 o'clock p.m.

He Will Leave Town.

Thos. Lowe, painter, was this morning arraigned for being drunk and disorderly. In answer to the magistrate he said he had taken a little drink, but a man had "shouldered" him, knocking him into the gutter. This "riled" him, and he was following the man when the police arrested him. The magistrate suspended sentence to give him a chance to leave town. This he promised to do as there was no chance of his obtaining work here. He told the police when he was arrested that he was going around the world trying to make it better. He has met with poor success so far.

Fruit Growers' Association.

In a letter received this morning by Mr. Edwards from Mr. Woolverton, the latter says:—"I am sorry about the dissatisfaction given by the strawberry plants last season. We will do everything we can to make up for the dissatisfaction caused thereby. I think they were not well packed. I will send the pears and apples to you by express for distribution to the others, but I trust they will be so well packed that each one will receive them in good order this year, whether by mail or express. Should I have a surplus of Russian apple trees, I will send you a lot of them for free distribution among your members for further testing." The disappointment caused last year was in part due to members being so late in sending in their subscriptions and their choice of trees. This year it is hoped they will be more prompt PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE.

Boom in Local Curling Circles.

Big Jump in Montreal Bank Stock—The Ontario Bank "in the Soup" (Oyster) A Tee-total Victory—President's and Vice-President's Match—Croft vs Snowdon.

Yesterday evening the following rinks, representing two great financial institutions, struggled for victory with the annexed result:—

Bank Montreal.	Ontario Bank.
C. H. Jellett,	G. M. Boers,
A. Crofton,	W. J. Montgomery,
A. W. Strickland,	W. D. Parker,
C.L. Benedict, skip...19	J. Crane, skip.....13

This match was for an oyster supper, to be paid for by the losers. The result as seen by the above score was a decisive victory for the Montreal financiers, and in consequence they put great confidence in their curling powers, and they express their willingness to "sweep" the ice with a rink from any other bank in town, or a rink chosen for the best curlers of the consolidated bank staff (or staves to be strictly gramatical) of the town. On the other hand the defeated are by no means subdued. They say the old grudge is for blood and they are perfectly willing to try conclusions with the temporary victors.

PETERBOROUGH FIXTURES.

The Peterborough Curling Club have at last made arrangements for the Annua President's and Vice President's match. People were beginning to ask if the time-honoured match was going to fall through. However the club members are now awaking from their apathy and the this morning the skips for this important fixture were chosen as follows:—

PRESIDENT'S SIDE.—Messrs. Dennistoun, Roy, Pentland, Ferguson, Connal and Judge Weller.

VICE-PRESIDENT'S SIDE.—Messrs. Dumble, Rutherford, McGill, Budden, Dr. Boucher T. E. Bradburn.

The matches will start to-night when the skips will choose their rinks. A large crowd is expected to be in attendance.

IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

The Lindsay curlers leave to-night for Winnipeg, where they hope to meet with better success than when they were here.

Rinks from Lakefield are expected in town to-morrow to "scop her" with the local boys.

Preparations are being made for the annual visit to Toronto, which is expected to take place next week.

A match, Croft vs. Snowdon, is being played at the rink this afternoon.

Personal.

Mr. P. Connal is very sick from "la grippe."

Mr. James English, the Fire Brigade engineer, who has been sick with the prevailing epidemic, is about again to-day.

Mr. W. J. Hamilton, Peterboroughh, is in Hamilton attending the annual gathering of the Sons of Scotland.

Mr. John McKee, druggist, is in Toronto, attending the half yearly meeting of the council (of which he is a member) of the Ontario College of Pharmacy.

Messrs. Dawson Kennedy and William Collins, and Messrs. Frank Birdsall and Robert Burgess, representing West and East Peterborough respectively, are attending the fifth annual meeting of the Central Farmers' Institute in Toronto.

Our reporter while taking his periodical rounds turned up at the C.P.R. station last night, and seeing Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Cahill in evident waiting, kept his eye open. An explanation was furnished by the arrival of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. John Costigan, who were, it appears, en route to the Victorias to help Major Sam Hughes, the great Equal Rights champion, and Mr. Charles Fairbairn, win the election. The two ministers were cordially greeted by the waiting duo and escorted to their quarters. During the evening Hon. Mr. Costigan visited Mr. Phelan's and Mr. Cavanagh's hotels where he was introduced to a number of his political friends and other prominent citizens. Sir John Thompson arrived on an early train this morning, joined the other ministers, and accompanied them and Mr. Stevenson to Lindsay.

The Collegiate Institute Entertainments.

To-morrow night the second of the series of lectures under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute Literary Society, will be given in the assembly hall. The lecture to-morrow night is to be given by Principal Fessenden and will consist of experimental illustrations of the principal facts and laws regarding the electric current which have been so far discovered. In the second lecture on February 12th, explanations will be given of the manner in which these facts and laws have been taken advantage of in the construction of the telegraph, the telephone, machinery for electric lighting, electro plating, electric railways, etc. A musical programme will be presented at each entertainment. Single admission, 20c.; full course ticket, 75c.

St. John's Mission.

The children of this Sunday school were given their annual entertainment last night. The mission building was crowded to the doors by the children and their many friends, who thoroughly enjoyed the programme which was presented:

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 2 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

Iron Moulders Hospitality.

The Local Union, No. 191, of Iron moulders had the honor of a visit on Tuesday evening from Mr. Thomas Wisdom the second vice-president of the International Union. On receiving notice of the visit preparations were at once made to receive and entertain the distinguished visitor in a manner befitting his rank in the union. A meeting of the local union was held at 8 o'clock in their hall, Mr. J. Hennessy, president being in the chair. Mr. Wisdom was introduced to the meeting and delivered a most interesting address to the moulders present. After this meeting, an elegant supper was served in the Palace Restaurant, Mr. Hennessy occupying the chair and Mr. Jos. Crowe the vice chair. After the supper had been dispensed of, a social evening was spent, songs, speeches, &c., being the order of the evening. Addresses of welcome were delivered by the chairman, vice-chairman and Mr. John Robinson, which were suitably responded to by Mr. Wisdom. Songs were sung by Mrs. and Miss Bowman, Mr. Bowman, Mr. G. O'Hearn and others. Short peeches by Messrs. J. O'Brien, Jas. Lowden, Wm. Rudkins and Thos. Tucker. Mr. Ward, one of the union's best speakers, was unable to be present on account of illness. A most enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

The Labour Petition

Presented to the Council on Monday Last.

The following is a copy of the petition that was presented to the town council, at their meeting on Monday night, and referred by them to the Street and Bridge Committee.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 30th, 1892

To His Worship the Mayor, and the Council of the Corporation of Peterborough:

We the undersigned representatives of the labour interest in the town of Peterborough, do hereby respectfully solicit your honourable body that in all contracts let by the corporation of the town of Peterborough, a clause shall be inserted to make the term of nine hours a standard day's work.

In support of which request we do also respectfully submit that for the period of four years you have already sanctioned this rule in the case of ordinary corporation labour and argue that the said rule as sanctioned, and made legal by a measure passed in the council four years ago, should be looked upon as a precedent to be followed by you in all other cases wherein you may have control.

And whereas, that in all measures which have been previously brought forward by former councils for the benefit of the town, such as the several industries which have lately been located here, we have unanimously supported them in the application for franchises, and the sanction by the people to the several bonuses to be given to these industries; we do respectfully solicit that your influence as a council be exerted to the utmost extent to induce the Edison Co. and all other employers of labour, who are in this town, or who may be in the future, to adopt this most important measure of the nine-hour day's labour.

In addition to which we would also draw your attention to the fact that a large item of expense is sustained by the ratepayers in the support of those workingmen who, with only six months' work in the year to depend upon, and during that time receiving from you wages insufficient for the support of their families, and also to make provision for a winter's subsistence. We then also in this case solicit that the minimum rate of wages for corporation labourers shall be established at not less that $1 25 per day.

In the hope that the several requests set forth in this petition, shall meet with your serious consideration.

We your obedient servants will ever pray.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY, L.O.L.

The annual meeting of the above lodge held in the Orange Hall, Peterborough, nesday night, February 2nd. There was a very large attendance considering the storm and heavy roads in the country. The meeting passed off in the most harmonious manner. Mr. John Graham Weir, of Otonabee, was elected County Master by acclamation. The following are the officers for the ensuing year:—

Bro. John Graham Weir.....C. M
" W. J. Green.....D. C. M
" C. W. Sawers.....C. Secretary
" W. H. Graham.....C. Chap
" Dr. J. A. Bargess.....C. Treas
" Wm. Harrison.....C.F.S
" Col. E Poole.....C. D. of C
" S. Campbell.....C. L
" J. A. McWilliams.....C.D.L
" W. D. Johnston.....C.D.L

At the close of the meeting supper was partaken of, provided by Bro. Watt, and which reflected great credit to his taste and ability as a caterer. The remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse.

Standing Committes were Appointed,

And the Chairman Elected, at the Inaugural Meeting of the Board of Education.

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education for 1892 was held last evening. Present: Messrs. Wrighton, Hill, Deane, Rutherford, McBain, Hartley, Law, Corkery, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher and the secretary, Mr. W. G. Morrow.

ELECTION OF CHAIRMAN.

The new members of the Board took the necessary declaration of qualification and office, after which they proceeded to the election of a chairman. This for the first time according to the new Act, was done by ballot. After several ballots had been taken, Mr. Wrighton was duly elected to that position.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Messrs. Hill, Deane, Hamilton, Rutherford, Dr. Burnham and McBain were then appointed a committee to draft standing committees for the year. Their report was received and adopted, appointing the following standing committee:—

APPOINTMENTS.—The whole Board,

FINANCE.—Dr. Burnham, Messrs. Hill, Corkery, McKee and Deane.

SUPERVISION.—Dr. Boucher, Messrs. Ferguson, Deane, Dumble and Law.

PROPERTY.—Messrs. McBain, Stevenson, Rutherford Hamilton and Hartley.

The first named of each committee to be its convener for the first meeting, each committee to then appoint its own chairman.

The board then adjourned.

Several members of the board arrived after the business was all over, having mistaken the hour of meeting.

The Collegiate Institute Building's Contract.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—It is acknowledged on every hand that our Collegiate Institute costs the ratepayers a good deal of money, but I for one have no fault to find, if we received value for the money we pay and if our money is spent to the best advantage. That the latter is not the case the last meeting of the board plainly shows. The report of the building committee was adopted, approving of the new Central School building and recommending that the balance due the contractor's estate be paid, "without any deduction on account of contract not being completed in time specified." This is not business. The board is asked to explain what advantage the ratepayers are to gain by thus doing business in an unbusinesslike way? It will be remembered that the contract was given to the late contractor at a sum of $409 higher than the lowest tenderer, Mr. Carveth. His tender was $6 471, and Mr. Rutherford's was $6 880. The contract was awarded to Mr. Carveth, but he declined to accept it saying that he could not complete it in the time specified and the contract was awarded to the next highest tender—on condition that the old portion should be completed on Sept. 1st, and the new portion by Nov. 1st, and a penalty of $20 for every day beyond the specified date of completion. In other words the contractor was paid a bonus of $409 for completing the buildings within a specified time. They were not completed in that time, but fully four months time for the old building, and fully two months time for the new building elapsed beyond the contract time before the buildings were ready for occupancy. Now I don't insist, as a ratepayer in demanding the full exaction of the penalty of $20 per day, but I submit that in justice to the ratepayers, enough money should have been kept back to cover the sum of $409, which was paid over and above the lowest tender, on the condition of the work being completed within a certain time. This was a plain business arrangement and should have been carried out, and the ratepayers saved from loss. Now I am a plain working man and though I do employ a few mechanics, I earn every dollar I get, and I want to get the full value of the school taxes I pay. I submit that the school board has a right to do business in a business-like way, and it is not business to make a contract with binding conditions, and then ignore these conditions and vote away a large sum of money that was agreed to be paid over and above what another contractor would have taken to do just as good a job. The school board has no authority or right to give away a cent, let alone over $400, of the people's money. Business is business, and an honest board member will conduct the public business as carefully as he would his own private affairs.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Ironworkers' Strike.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The employes of the Ontario Rolling Mills at Swansea, in the western suburbs of Toronto, are out on strike against a reduction of wages.

The mills have been shut down since Dec. 13, the management at that time giving as a reason for closing that they had no orders.

On Saturday last they were notified to return to work, at the same time being told that wages would be reduced in the following percentage:

Shinglers	27.22 per cent.
Rollers	15.25 per cent.
Scrap heaters	16 48 per cent.
Wash heaters	08.98 per cent.

The men asked for time to consider the offer, and came to the decision that the nature of the reduction was such as to show it had not come from necessity, but was aimed rather to cut down the earnings of skilled workmen. Hence the men decided not to accept the reduction and notified the managers to that effect, saying they are perfectly willing to return at the scale paid in the mills at Hamilton, which are owned by the same company. They claim also that the Toronto wages are 20 per cent. lower than the rate in Montreal.

Railroad Workmen Made Prisoners.

BUTTE, Mont., Feb. 3.—Twenty-five hundred union workmen yesterday attacked the railroad camp of Foley Bros. & Guthrie of St. Paul, and took prisoners 100 railroad workmen from St. Paul. The road is a branch of the Great Northern, and the contractors are only paying $2 a day, while the union wages in Butte are $3 for that kind of work. The trouble has been pending a week, but the contractors would not consent to raise wages to the union scale. By a preconcerted plan union men from all over the city moved to the railroad camp yesterday and took all the men prisoners without a blow being struck or any property being destroyed. The men were taken to the city and given rooms at a house, and were required to join the Butte Workingmen's Union. It is likely the leaders of the movement will be arrested.

SALLY.

By Albert Fleming.

After lunch Mattie tried to look stern, though tears stood in her loving old eyes.

"Sarah, my dear," she said (Sally started at the unusual "Sarah"), "you are 14 now and we have determined to send you to a good boarding school."

"What! leave you all!" cried Sally, turning pale.

"You will spend part of your holidays here, perhaps," said Aunt Hannah. "Remember, you have to earn your living. My nephew can't always keep you in idleness." Sally's dark eyes flashed, as she answered:

"He has done so much; you may trust me to do the rest. They said at school I had a fine voice. If I worked hard I might"—

"You'd have to toil for years to earn even your bread, but I'll see to it."

She did so and speedily. The very next day Aunt Hannah walked Sally off to a professor to give his opinion of her singing. Aunt Hannah sat upright, umbrella in hand.

"You will understand, professor, my opinion is there's been no real singing since Malibran died, and I'd have half your modern screeching women gagged. This girl thinks she has a voice, so let her sing to you and have done with it."

When Sally had finished one verse of a ballad, Aunt Hanna ejaculated, "Goodness, gracious, bless the girl!"

At the end of the second, the professor said: "The voice is a real contralto of great beauty, but it needs training and years of hard study."

"It shall have both," said Aunt Hannah.

* * * * * * * * *

Five years afterward, when Kenneth returned from Buenos Ayres, Sally was still at school. Almost the first thing he said was:

"What have these years done for my little Sally?"

"That style of talk won't do," said Hannah. "When Sally scrubbed floors it didn't matter; she is a pretty young lady now, and things are different."

"There was nothing pretty about Sally when I left but her eyes. I shall never forget how frightfully sharp her elbows were."

"She's the best and dearest and prettiest girl in the world," said Mattie.

"I hope she is unchanged in some things," said he.

If he could have looked into Sally's heart he would have seen one thing unchanged. It still seemed as right and natural to her to love Kenneth as to love God; both had been so good to her. Sometimes she recalled the dark vision of Cow court, but even that caught a glory from the thought that there Kenneth first found her. There was one black memory connected with those days that nothing could brighten, but that she kept hidden in the depths of her heart.

"There's a letter from Sally," cried Kenneth, one day at breakfast; and then he said, "she has had an offer of marriage. Her music master has proposed to her—of course she had refused him."

"And why of course?" asked Aunt Hannah, sharply.

"For the best of all reasons—she doesn't love him."

"Fiddlestick! The man's honest, I suppose, and can give her a good home. She sprang from the gutter, and can't expect to pick and choose."

"She had better go back to the gutter than marry without love," answered Kenneth.

Sally wrote simply and straightforwardly. The trouble of it was that there had been so much talk that Miss Addison thought she must leave at once, and had (subject to Kenneth's approval) obtained for her the post of pupil teacher in a school at Streatham. Then came a pretty little bit, in which Sally said she hoped she had acted in a way that Kenneth approved.

"She's a brick!" he said, emphatically.

"She must come here for a week before going to Streatham," said Mattie.

VI.

Sally was to come at five. Kenneth wondered what she was like. He expected to find her neat, orderly and well mannered. At five he went into the drawing room and waited. Five-fifteen and no Sally—five thirty and she came. For a moment he stared at her in silence—the years had done so much. She stood with outstretched hand—her great, soft eyes sought his. He noticed in a stupified way that she moved with exquisite grace and lightness. He would have liked to kiss her, but that was clearly out of the question, so he warmly grasped her hand in both his.

"Why, Sally dear, my little girl grown into a tall young lady!"

Deep as any "inmost heart of rose" the young blood flushed into Sally's cheeks.

"Yes," she answered, "but still the same Sally." Then Sally took sweet count of him in one quick, shy glance. Her heart told her that never had she seen anything so goodly as this bright young Englishman, as he stood before her with gay, glad eyes. Half playfully, half tenderly, he led her to a sofa, and said:

"Now, Sally, tell me everything."

"Where shall I begin?"

"From the moment I left England. When I left, you had high shoulders and wore short frocks, and called me 'sir.'"

"I must call your 'sir' still. But look at the dear old room—it isn't a bit changed. I wonder who has dusted it since I've been away!" Then she went to seek the aunts.

"To think that she came out of Cow court!" said Kenneth, watching her cross the hall, "and that weeds can grow into such sweet flowers! But I won't make a fool of myself."

"And now, Sally, sing to us," said Aunt Hannah after dinner.

This was the supreme moment Sally had looked forward to for years. She knew she had a superb voice—knew exactly what her powers were, and felt in full possession of them. When she sat down to the piano a soft flush came to her cheeks and a light to her eyes. She chose an old Scotch ballad—a simple, tender thing, that needed perfect style and expression. Kenneth started as her first notes fell on the air. Hers was one of those thrilling, deep contraltos, soft as velvet, rich and rounded, with the strange power to stir and move that the good contralto has. The spell of her voice fell upon him, tears came to his eyes; he moved forward to see her sweet, impassioned face as she sang; he saw her soul shining in the sweet, dewy eyes, and a great love and love arose in his heart. The song ended in a deep, solemn chord, like the echo of an amen.

Sally turned to Kenneth.

"Did you like it? I have labored so hard for your praise."

He did not speak at first, but when she raised her eyes to his she saw there a look so eager, so ardent and sweet, that she almost wished she had not spoken. He caught her hand in his.

"Am I pleased! Oh, my dear, surely you know it is too beautiful for praise of mine."

Sally sang no more that night, but felt she was rewarded. That song had changed the world for Kenneth. Could a man's heart be sung out of him in such fashion? Were the days of magic still with us, and had this sweet witch of 19 summers made him forget all prudence and wisdom?

Next morning he was full of content, bathed in the brightest mental sunshine; joy was in his heart, love ruled his life. Sally was in the house. Sally was his—surely all his! had he not fought and conquered for her; He sang as he dressed, breaking off to laugh at the contrast of his rough baritone with Sally's velvet tones, and it was not till he saw his aunts—the very models of family propriety—that he realised the difficulties of his position.

But little sleep had come to Sally that night. Love has divine insight, and when their eyes met after her song she knew that he loved her. But he should never marry her. Her valiant heart screwed itself up to the sticking point and settled that forever. The consciousness of his love came on her as a bitter-sweet surprise. When, finished with her song, she looked into his eyes and saw love there radiant and enthroned, her difficulties were at one stroke doubled. When her own heart was her only foe she had buckled on her armor and gone down into the fight; but now she had to face another foe, before whom she felt powerless. Flight was her only chance. At 6 she rose and packed, at 7 she went to Aunt Hannah.

"I am going away," she said. "I ought never to have come." Aunt Hannah's honest eyes searched her face in silence. "I shall never come back; it is the only way. I thought I was strong, and I was, till he was weak."

Aunt Hannah took her in her arms, kissed her, and said, "I honor and respect you, Sally. I saw it all last night. You are a good woman."

"A grateful one, I hope. After all your and his kindness, can I let him run any risk?"

"But it is terrible for you, my child."

"I can bear my own grief. I have loved him for so long my heart has got used to its ache. It is harder now, but still I can bear it."

At breakfast Aunt Hannah said Sally had slept ill and could eat no breakfast. All Kenneth's inquiries got nothing more out of her than that.

At 12 Sally went quietly out of the back door, her eyes full of tears, her heart like lead.

Shakespeare will please excuse us if we modify him thus: Thrice is he clad who hath his system strengthened with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and he but naked, though arrayed in furs, whose blood is poor or with disease corrupted. An incomparable medicine!

The Head Surgeon

Of the Lubon Medical Company is now at Toronto, Canada, and may be consulted either in person or by letter on all chronic diseases peculiar to men. Men, young, old or middle-aged, who find themselves nervous, weak and exhausted, who are broken down from excess or overwork, resulting in many of the following symptoms: Mental depression, premature old age, loss of memory, bad dreams, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, emissions, lack of energy, pain in the kidneys, headache, pimples on the face or body, itching or peculiar sensations about the scrotum, wasting of the organs, dizziness, specks before the eyes, twitching of the muscles, eyelids and elsewhere, bashfulness, deposits in the urine, loss of will power, tenderness of the scalp and spine, weak and flabby muscles, desire to sleep, failure to be rested by sleep, constipation, dullness of hearing, loss of voice, desire for solitude, excitability of temper, sunken eyes surrounded with leaden circle, oily looking skin, etc., are all symptoms of nervous debility that lead to insanity and death unless cured. The spring or vital force having lost its tension, every function wanes in consequences. Those who through abuse committed in ignorance may be permanently cured. Send your address for book on all diseases peculiar to man. Books sent free sealed. Heart disease, the symptoms of which are faint spells, purple lips, numbness, palpitation, skip beats, hot flushes, rush of blood to the head, dull pain in the heart with beats strong, rapid and irregular, the second heart beat quicker than the first, pain about the breast bone, etc., can positively be cured. No cure, no pay. Send for book. Address M. V. LUBON, 24 Macdonell ave., Toronto, Canada.

Across the Continent.

Wm. Renwick, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Victoria, B.C., writes: I have used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in cases of indigent patients with the most gratifying results. It does not upset the stomach, is easily assimilated and possesses undoubted power in rebuilding weakened constitutions, where the ordinary form of administering Cod Liver Oil is not admissable. For the future, whenever I have occasion to prescribe any preparation of Cod Liver Oil, I will give Miller's Emulsion the preference, being perfectly satisfied with its therapeutic efficacy. Attacked by an Enemy.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B. and thought I would try a bottle. Four bottles cured me completely, and I am now strong and healthy.

Keep the Works in good order.

NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890.
W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece; frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,
H. F. ATWELL.

"German Syrup"

A Throat and Lung Specialty.

Those who have not used Boschee's German Syrup for some severe and chronic trouble of the Throat and Lungs can hardly appreciate what a truly wonderful medicine it is. The delicious sensations of healing, easing, clearing, strength-gathering and recovering are unknown joys. For German Syrup we do not ask easy cases. Sugar and water may smooth a throat or stop a tickling—for a while. This is as far as the ordinary cough medicine goes. Boschee's German Syrup is a discovery, a great Throat and Lung Specialty. Where for years there have been sensitiveness, pain, coughing, spitting, hemorrhage, voice failure, weakness, slipping down hill, where doctors and medicine and advice have been swallowed and followed to the gulf of despair, where there is the sickening conviction that all is over and the end is inevitable, there we place German Syrup. It cures. You are a live man yet if you take it. ●

The Reeveship of Dummer.

To the Electors of the Township of Dummer:

GENTLEMEN,—Legal proceedings having been taken to declare invalid my election as reeve of your township, I have decided not to oppose the application, but to consent to an order of the judge setting aside the last election. This I do to save litigation and expense over a matter which you can decide most appropriately.

It is unfortunate that I should be put to the trouble of another contest owing to what is a mere informality or irregularity in the mode of my assessment. I have no fault to find with the manner in which the assessor performed his duty, as it is not his fault, but it is hard that a second election should have to be fought out, not because I have not property enough, and not because my property is not assessed for enough, nor because I do not pay taxes enough, but merely and really because the property is not rated and assessed in a particular manner required by a particular statute.

I thank the electors who supported me in my former contest. I took no advantage of my opponent in the former election, and I believed the contest to be a fair and valid one, but I am unwilling to throw my hard earned money away towards the advancement of legal arguments and the settlement of legal quibbles, when Dummer can decide the matter more effectively at home at the polls.

Since my election I have cured the defect which it was alleged disqualified me. I did this so that there might be no doubt but that if elected again, I could peaceably and quietly hold the seat.

I respectfully solicit your votes and influence, and if elected, I shall strive to act in a manner most conducive to the public interest. Again thanking all those who supported me at the last election and hoping to receive their valued support again, as well as the support of those who voted against me, I remain

Your obedient servant,
JAMES ROBB.

Smith.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We record with regret the death of another Smith pioneer, Mr. Alex McGregor sr, who died on Feb. 3rd at the age of 87 years. He has been a resident of this township for over sixty years, having settled here in 1831 a year after his arrival from Perthshire, Scotland where he was born. About 36 years ago he was united in marriage to Isabella daughter of the late John Irvison who bore him six children of whom three daughters and one son are yet living. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and in politics a Liberal—one of the oldest—in Smith. In addition to his four children and widow, he leaves one brother, living in the township of Reach, who is now in Smith for the funeral of his late brother. The deceased gentleman held a high position in the esteem of his neighbors, and in the community of which he has been so long an honoured member.

Cure for A Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents package. dw

Mr. Peter Baptie we understand has sold out his planing mill to Major Bellaste and a partner who is coming out from England. They will also engage in the manufacture of furniture on a large scale.

By an Order in Council we see that in future all cases of small pox and outbreaks of diptheria and scarlet fever have to be reported direct to the Provincial Board of Health by the local officers, consequently they will have to strictly enforce the provisions of the act against all parties who do not report cases that occur, to them, and the public should understand that, to be of service, the report should be made as soon as the nature of the disease is discovered.

An informal meeting of the village council was held in the clerk's office on Monday night to discuss the question of consolidating the offices of assessor, collector, constable, road master, health inspector and caretaker of town hall and engine room, paying a yearly salary to the party appointed to devote his whole time to the corporation. After some discussion it was decided to give it a trial for a year and the clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law accordingly for the meeting next Monday evening, when, no doubt, there will be a host of applicants for the job. It is to be trusted that the council will be able to select a good man from among the number.

STORY OF A COAT.

A well-known police officer and Ontario Government official in town had occasion a short time since to visit Lakefield on business, calling at the office of a friend who was absent for hunting. As usual he proceeded to make himself at home, and as he had some running around to do, divested himself of his heavy coon skin coat, leaving it until he set off in the evening for home. A night or two after the Lakefield man concluded to drive out and see his girl, and donned his fur, but no sooner got inside it, than he discovered something was wrong. It did not fit; and on examination it was seen that it was not as nobby as his own, looking as if it had been out bush ranging, and smelt as if it had been raiding illicit whiskey shops. He had to wear it or disappoint the fair one. The next morning he tried to find who exchanged but it was no use, until he was down at the county council, when he went up to spend an evening with his friend, when leaving and putting on his coat he was rejoiced to find it once more fitted and looking as nobby as of yore. An explanation and laugh followed, and our friend vows that he will keep a look out when there are any more government men around his quarters, and says that if any of those infernal reporters hear of it and put it in the papers, they may order a coffin from Chaplin; so that if you do not get any more letters, you may know what has happened your correspondent.

SALISBURY'S REASONS

FOR THE DEFEATS IN MOLTON AND ROSSENDALE.

A Crowning Calamity and Disgrace to be Avoided—Enthusiastic Cheers Greet the Speaker, Who Thinks That Luke warmness Did it.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—In his speech at Exeter Lord Salisbury ascribed the results of the recent South Malton and Rossendale elections solely to the loss of personal influence, adding that if the Unionist vote increased everywhere as there a Unionist majority might be secured. Possibly the manifest lukewarmness on the Home Rule question was due to Radicals fostering the notion that its advocates only used the Irish vote as a tool to secure office without intending to grant Home Rule. The speaker said his auditors should observe, however, that the Irish quarreled among themselves, and vied with each other to obtain the most extreme concessions from Mr. Gladstone.

"The first step in concession," declared Lord Salisbury, "will soon lead to others and eventually place protectionists in impecunious Ireland in the hands of the priests, who, in all our quarrels with Spain, America and France, invariably fight against us. What would the world think of us if we displayed such weakness? If we fail in this hour of our trial the flowers will be plucked one by one from our diadem of the empire, and we will slowly recede from the great position handed down to us by our fathers. I appeal to you to make every effort to avert such a crowning calamity and disgrace."

Lord Salisbury resumed his seat amid a burst of enthusiastic cheers, which were prolonged for some time.

In responding to a vote of thanks which was passed immediately after the conclusion of his speech Lord Salisbury renewed his earnest appeal to the Conservatives. He said if he was still able to influence them to devote their whole energies to the burning question of the integrity of the empire, he would leave other matters upon which there was a divergence of views until a more fitting occasion.

LONDON, Feb. .—Th e long expected manifesto by Mr. Gladstone to his adherents will appear on Friday next in The Star. The document makes a leaded column of The Star.

Summed up briefly, the manifesto may be said to be a rehash of parts of the distinguished statesman's former speeches upon various subjects of interest to the voters of Great Britain and Ireland.

Mr. Gladstone does not advocate any particular policy, but simply makes some good points upon which to hang the elements of the Liberal policy.

He deals particularly with the history and conditions of rural population from the time of the severe oppression down to the present time. He considers that the conditions of the agricultural classes have slowly improved, but, he adds, the improvement is not yet sufficient and additional legislation for the agricultural population and the passage of further measures to enable them to acquire land are needed.

Public Meetings of the People.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Gladstone refers to the distressing incidents which happened at Manchester in 1819, when 100,000 workmen held a reform meeting and while so doing were charged upon by cavalry, who rode the defenceless people down beneath their horses' hoofs, killing 11 of them and wounding 400.

The veteran statesman contrasts that event with the present rights of the people to hold public meetings, which right he insists ought not to be hampered in the slightest by unnecessary local regulations or other restrictions.

Trades Unionism.

Mr. Gladstone then deals with the question of the repeal of the combination laws and the effects they have had upon the immense growth of trade unionism, which, he explains, has been a great benefit to laborers of all kinds and conditions.

The liberation of the press according to Mr. Gladstone is one of the greatest Liberal measures of the century, and has, in his opinion, been productive of an immense amount of good.

In former years, within the recollection of many, Mr. Gladstone also says, the highest wages an agricultural laborer received in England was nine shillings ($2.25) per week; while now the same class of workmen average 15 shillings ($3.75) per week, and there are but few cases where agricultural laborers are only able to earn 9 shillings per week. In Oxfordshire Mr. Gladstone thinks some rural laborers may only be able to earn the latter amount, but these are exceptions to the general rule.

Referring to the commissary law, settlement by which a pauper is returned to the parish where he was born, Mr. Gladstone says that he believes that it would be better to make them chargeable to the poor-house in the district in which they reside. The present poor laws are not sufficiently broad to cope with the amount of pauperism existing. The present land laws and the large holdings made possible by them are the cause of much of the pauperism referred to.

The Landlord, the Preacher and the Farmer.

In other portions of his manifesto Mr. Gladstone prays that the rural workers may be delivered from the landlord, the clergyman and the farmer, who, he says, are holding themselves aloof from the laborers and setting themselves upon a high plane where they are unknown and do not care for the laborers. The Liberals, by the county franchise, gave the agricultural laborers the greatest boon possible at the hands of a political party, and experience showed that the Liberals were justified in adopting this course.

Wedded to Parish Councils.

In conclusion Mr. Gladstone reviews the work done and the resolutions presented by the recent meeting in London of the Liberal delegates from the agricultural districts just previous to his departure for the Continent, and he again advocates the establishment of parish councils as being an indispensable complement to local government and advises, vaguely, that various economic remedies should be adopted which would bring social salvation to the tillers of the soil.

The formation of reading clubs for agricultural and other laborers is of the suggestions made by Mr. Gladstone with the view of improving their social and moral condition.

A Minister Uses a Whip.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4.—Yesterday Rev. Mr. Wardell made a vicious assault on William Loveday, cutting him badly about the head and face with a whip. Wardell is high chief ranger of a court of Foresters and Wardell past chief of the order, and the assault arose out of some dispute at a recent session of the lodge. The police magistrate this morning fined Rev. Mr. Wardell $20 and costs, remarking that the attack was most brutal and unprovoked.

Hicks-Beach Also Speaks.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, President of the Board of Trade, delivered a speech at Bristol this evening. He stated that the Government meant to have a working session of Parliament. It would puzzle the Opposition, he said, to give any real reason why in the best interests of the country there ought not to be a working session. Some cried for immediate dissolution, but for what reason? The result of the Rossendale election was a serious defeat for the Government, but it did not necessarily imply defeat in the general elections. He trusted to address his hearers again about the same time next year and still as a member of the Ministry.

ONTARIO'S FARMERS.

In Favor of Free Trade With England—What Makes Apples Bloom?

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—At yesterday's meeting of the Central Farmers Institute Professor Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, spoke of the possibilities of selling Canadian products at a profit in the English markets. A resolution favoring free trade was passed by a majority of 84 to 26.

Mr. Henry Brown of Chesley read a paper on the position of the Ontario farmer, looking at it from a very unfavorable standpoint.

Mr. Wolverton called attention to an article in an English fruitgrowers' paper, The Horticultural Times, which contained a long article lately on the danger of arsenic poisoning from Canadian apples asserted that the arsenic could be rubbed off the fruit with the hand. It was the arsenic in the fruit that gave it the many beautiful tints with which the English growers could not compete. The convention resolved to furnish Sir Charles Tupper such scientific information as would enable him to refute all such libelous statements.

To-day will be the last day of the convention.

Warm Weather Down East.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 4.—The weather record here for January was remarkable. The snowfall was only 14 inches, the smallest for many years and very little more than half the average, while the rainfall was over seven inches, or three times the average amount for January. It was about the warmest January on record, the average temperature being 24, or six degrees warmer than the average in January for 30 years.

Newspaper Office Damaged.

OSHAWA, Feb. 4.—The explosion of a boiler this afternoon caused a fire in The Vindicator office, Simcoe-street. The firemen responded to the call very promptly, but the fire had gained considerable headway. Three thousand dollars damage was done to stock and machinery, covered by insurance.

A Canadian In Trouble.

WINDSOR, Feb. 4.—Allan Murray, a Canadian stone cutter, who has been working in Ann Arbor for some time, was arrested in Windsor last night on advices from the sheriff of Washtenaw County, Mich., charging him with criminal assault.

Five Wives in Court.

PORT HURON, Mich., Feb. 4.—Cornelius A. Terry, the man with five wives, was convicted of bigamy in the Circuit Court to-day, when the jury rendered the verdict. The wives were present, including the Sarnia one. Some wept, some laughed, but the prisoner nearly fainted.

Struck Down the Lottery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The United States Supreme Court handed down to-day a decision in the Louisiana Lottery case sustaining the Government at every point. The court holds that the law excluding the lottery company's circulars and other communications from the mails is constitutional and may be enforced.

Gales in Spain.

MADRID, Feb. 4.—A terrible gale is blowing in this vicinity. Considerable damage has been done in this city and neighborhood. Ten persons have been seriously injured by falling debris

Who Will Secure the Twins?

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—An interesting dispute over the custody of two children came up at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning before Justice MacMahon. It seems that some years ago Charles S. Ellis married Mabel Hardy, daughter of George Hardy of Rose-avenue. The children of the marriage were the twin brothers, Matthew C. Ellis and Charles Q. H. Ellis, now bright and promising lads of eight years of age. In 1890 Mrs. Mabel Ellis obtained a divorce from her husband and the court allowed her the custody of the children. On the 24th ult. Mrs. Ellis died after bequeathing the custody of the children to her father, George Hardy of 50 Rose-avenue. The father, Mr. Charles S. Ellis, is now anxious to have the children handed over to him, and yesterday morning the boys were produced at Osgoode Hall in response to a writ of habeas corpus. This case will come up again at Osgoode Hall next Wednesday.

Riot at Lisbon.

LISBON, Feb. 4.—A crowd of workmen out of employment pillaged a number of baker shops in this city yesterday. Many were arrested.

Express Messengers Discharged.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Twenty express messengers in the employ of the Adams Express Company, it is stated here, have been discharged within two days. Most of the messengers are veterans, including Dresbach, who fought a gang of robbers at Seymour, Ind., in 1872 and successfully defended $50,000 of express money. No reason was assigned for the action of the company making the discharges. The men claim it is the result of a determination by the company's officials to exterminate the brotherhood of express messengers.

A Farmer's Suicide.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation, sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS, and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

MURDER REVIVED.

By a Petition to Release Macmahon From Penitentiary.

CHATHAM, Feb. 4.—A petition to His Excellency the Governor-General is being circulated in this district for the release of Benjamin Macmahon. It will be remembered that Macmahon was sentenced to be hung at the Kent Fall Assizes in 1888 for complicity in the murder of Willis Holton of Tilbury Centre.

The murder of Holton took place on the night of Jan. 16, 1888, in the old man's home near Tilbury Centre. Macmahon was immediately arrested, but his accomplices, Duff and Todd Quick, escaped. After a number of months Quick was found and both himself and Macmahon stood their trial. Quick was acquitted and Macmahon sentenced to death, the sentence afterwards being commuted to imprisonment for life. Proof was, however, afterwards brought to show that Duff, who cannot be found, was the actual murderer of Holton and that the others were only his companions on the occasion.

Now the friends of Macmahon, more especially the Orangemen, to which Order he belonged, have taken the matter up and on the plea that purely circumstantial evidence of the most untrustworthy character was produced and very grave doubts being entertained as to his guilt, urge the Governor-General to pardon him altogether, having taken into consideration that he has already served three years.

W. Dewdney's Suicide.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 4.—The funeral of W. Dewdney, Government agent, who committed suicide at Victoria the other day, took place yesterday. Dewdney made his will a few hours before the shooting and also left a note to the constable stating that he was getting softening of the brain and that it would be as well for him to die now instead of in an asylum.

Dewdney came to British Columbia in 1858, and was with the sappers and miners until 1862. The deceased was about 50 years of age and a native of England. He was a brother of Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior.

SCHOOL BOY KIDNAPPED

SEIZED WHILE ON HIS WAY TO AT TEND SCHOOL

A Note Received by His Father Demanding $6000 Ransom—He Failed to Return from School on Monday and Enquiry Showed That He Had Not Been There.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Officers from Long Ridge, Conn., reported at the Westchester County Sheriff's office yesterday the kidnapping on Monday of a boy named Ward Waterbury, 8 years old, the son of a well-to-do farmer named Charles P. Waterbury of the town of Poundridge, Westchester County. The object of the kidnappers, it is said, is to obtain money from the lad's father, from whom a demand for $6000 was made, although some of Mr. Waterbury's neighbors are of the opinion that an ex-convict, who was sent to the State Prison some years ago for stealing a horse from Mr. Waterbury, can throw some light on the child's disappearance.

The lad, who is described as of a slender build, with light hair and brown eyes, left his home for the public school in District No. 1, Poundridge, shortly before 9 o'clock on Monday morning. The school teacher, a Miss Stead of Bedford, in Westchester County, says he did not reach the school building. His luncheon basket was found during the day under a tree near the schoolhouse by Miss Stead. When last seen the boy was in the company of three men at the village of Middle Patent, near the Connecticut line. The men were in a wagon, and were driving in the direction of Danbury, Conn.

According to Mr. Sarle's statement the men must have been acquainted with the neighborhood and the family connections of the boy, for about 1 o'clock on Monday afternoon Charles Waterbury, jr., a young man 17 years old, son of Jared Waterbury, brother of the kidnapped lad's father, was met on the highway near the schoolhouse by two men. One was riding in a buggy and the other was walking. The man in the buggy threw Charles a note, with instructions to deliver it to Charles P. Waterbury, the kidnapped boy's father. The young man did so, little suspecting its contents. The note informed Mr. Waterbury of his child's abduction, and the further fact that if he would meet the writer at Miller's Bridge, near Long Ridge, Conn., at midnight on Tuesday, and deliver over $6000, his child would be returned.

CHEATED THE GALLOWS.

The Brockville Murderer, Fitzsimmons, Cuts His Throat in His Cell in New Orleans and Will Die.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—Frederick C. Fitzsimmons of Brockville, Ontario, who was arrested here Tuesday charged with murder in Pittsburg, Pa., cut his throat with a penknife at 11 o'clock this morning in a cell at the parish prison. He will die. Fitzsimmons left a long letter, in which he says:

"I have pursued crime with its fatal consequences, my liberty is again jeopardized and as liberty or death is paramount in my mind I prefer the latter to imprisonment, disgrace, slow death and dragging further in the mire the good name of honorable and respected relatives."

Fitzsimmons, after writing the letter this morning, jumped into bed, threw a blanket over his head and apparently went to sleep. Half an hour later one of the attendants in the jail heard him groaning, and on going to the bed found Fitzsimmons had slashed his throat three times while under the blanket and was weak from the loss of blood.

Normal School Drawing Book Copyright.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—A misunderstanding has arisen between T. H. McGuirl of the Normal School, Ottawa, and J. H. McPhaul, M. D., of the Normal School, Toronto, and the Education Department of Ontario, over the appropriation of drawing book designs, 75 per cent. of which Mr. McGuirl claims to be his, but which are all published in book form as the original designs of Mr. McPhaul. Mr. Henderson, of Belcourt, McCracken & Henderson, remonstrated with the Education Department and got the reply that the Department had nothing to do with inserting the name of Dr. McPhaul as the author in the copyright.

Gored to Death by a Bull.

WOODBRIDGE, Ont., Feb. 5.—Robert Kerr, aged 16, was taking a bull belonging to his employer, William Farr, to water yesterday, when the animal turned upon him, goring him so badly that he died.

Soulanges Canal Contracts.

OTTAWA, Feb 5.—It is understood that the contracts for the Soulanges canal construction will all go west. The contract for section 11 has gone to Messrs. Manning & Macdonald of Toronto. Those for 12 and 15 will all go west, unless Mr. Goodwin accepts No. 13.

Lord Mount Stephen's Mother Dead.

MONTREAL, Feb 5.—The news was cabled to Lord Mount Stephen of the death of his mother, Mrs. Elspeth Smith, widow of the late Mr. William Stephen. Mrs. Stephen died at her residence, 901 Dorchester-street, this morning after an illness of about a month of pneumonia and paralysis. The deceased lady was born in Morayshire, Scotland, nearly 90 years ago. She married the late Mr. William Stephen in 28 and settled in Duffton. She came to Canada with her husband in 1847 and resided here ever since.

Torontonians Divorced.

BUFFALO, Feb. 5.—Mary F. Sears was given a decree of absolute divorce from her husband Harold Sears. The couple were married in Toronto Ont., in 1888, and came to Buffalo a year later. Last October Harold went back to Toronto to visit his friends. While there he gave Mary cause for a divorce. Ellen Dunbar of Toronto is named co-respondent.

A Bullet For a Plague.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS.

LENNOX AND PRINCE EDWARD GO CONSERVATIVE.

Nominations in a Number of Constituencies—The Approaching Bye Election in Kingston—Is Hon. Mr. Fraser Shortly to Retire Owing to Ill Health—Quebec Politics.

NAPANEE, Feb. 5.—The bye-election today in Lennox resulted in the return of the Conservative candidate, Uriah Wilson, by a majority of 31. The contest was a keen one throughout, Napanee and South Fredericksburg being responsible for the change from last election. The majorities:

	Wilson.	Allison.
Adolphustown	..	10
Amherst Island	..	20
Bath	6	..
Ernesttown	..	33
South Fredericksburg	70	..
North Fredericksburg	..	18
Napanee	54	..
Richmond	1	..
	131	100

Majority for Wilson 31. Last March Allison defeated Wilson by 57 majority.

MILLER'S MAJORITY INCREASED.

Prince Edward County Quadruples Its Majority of March Last.

PICTON, Feb. 5.—The bye-election in Prince Edward yesterday resulted in the return of the unseated Conservative member, Mr. Miller, by a majority of 218 over Dr. Platt. The majorities:

	Miller.	Platt.
Hillier	59	..
Picton	116	..
Wellington	..	..
South Marysburg	115	..
North Marysburg	..	74

The Member for Pontiac Unseated.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Judges Belanger and Malhoit have unseated Mr. Thomas Murray, Liberal M.P. for Pontiac, on the ground of illegal payments by his agents. Mr. Murray will appeal to the Supreme Court.

Nominations Yesterday.

LINDSAY, Feb. 5.—At the nomination to-day for candidates to contest the election for the House of Commons in the South riding of Victoria the Liberals nominated Thomas Walters and the Conservatives Charles Fairbairn.

Peel.

BRAMPTON, Feb. 5.—Nominations were made here yesterday of candidates in the bye-election in Peel county. Joseph Featherston, the unseated member, was re-nominated by the Liberals. The Conservatives nominated James Jackson. Both gentlemen are farmers residing in Toronto township, within six miles of each other. A joint meeting was held in the Concert Hall during the afternoon. The largest audience ever gathered within its walls listened to speeches by the candidates, Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. George Foster. Sir Richard spoke for an hour and was followed by the Finance Minister for 1½ hours. Sir Richard replied in a 15-minute speech, but his opponent waived his privilege. It cannot be said that anything like the interest is shown in this election that characterized the campaign of 1891. The party which works the hardest on Feb. 11 will be the winner. During the past week Dr. Montague, Clarke Wallace and David Henderson, Halton, for the Conservatives, and Thomas Bain, Wentworth, and James McMullen, Wellington, for the Liberals, have addressed meetings in the county.

North Victoria

FENELON FALLS, Feb. 5.—At the nomination here yesterday for North Victoria Samuel Hughes (Con.), and J. A. Barron (Lib.), were nominated. The speakers on the Conservative side were Hon. M. Bowell, E. Cochrane, M.P., N. Clarke Wallace and Samuel Hughes, and for the Reformers John A. Barron and Mr. McLaughlin of Lindsay.

In East Bruce.

WALKERTON, Feb. 5.—The candidates nominated yesterday for East Bruce were Mr. T. Truax, Liberal, and Mr. Cargill, Conservative. The electors were also addressed by Mr. Somerville, M.P. of Brant, and Mr. Larke of Oshawa.

Halifax.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 5.—Jones and Farrell (Liberals), and Kenny and Stairs (Conservative), were nominated yesterday to contest Halifax for the Commons.

The Election in West Huron.

GODERICH, Feb. 5.—The nomination of Hon. J. C Patterson, Secretary of State, as the opponent of M. C. Cameron, the unseated Liberal of West Huron, is followed by the announcement that the election has been fixed upon for Tuesday, Feb. 16, and elections Tuesday, Feb. 23. Mr. Patterson has accepted the nomination.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—The writ for the bye-election in South Ontario has been issued: Nomination, Feb. 13; polling, Feb. 20.

FROM QUEBEC.

Judge Mathieu's illness continues to keep back the work of the royal commission. It is not expected that the commission will resume until next week.

Mr. Edward Farrer of The Globe spent yesterday in the city While here he was in consultation with several well-known Liberals.

The Late Mayor's Goldie's Funeral.

GUELPH, Feb. 2.—At a special meeting of the city council to-day a committee was appointed to wait on the family of the late Mayor Goldie and arrange to have a public funeral. It was decided that the council should take full charge of the funeral and that the body should be taken to the council chamber Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, and lie in state until 3 p.m.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—George W. Stephens, in an interview yesterday, says he will accept the Huntingdon nomination offered by the Liberals, but will feel bound to support the De Boucherville Cabinet. His opponent DeCameron is looked upon as a mugwump Conservative and is not getting much support from the party.

Vicar-General Castoagenay, rector of Ste. The English Market for Eggs.

Experience of the Egg King.

At the Central Farmers' Institute, Mr. D. D. Wilson of Seaforth, the "egg king," said that he had been trying the experiment of shipping eggs to England since Canada was threatened with the McKinley tariff. Before that tariff had been adopted he sent his first shipment to England with rather a disappointing result. He received four cents a dozen less in England for large selected eggs than he could have got for all sizes of eggs, large and small, at New York. The eggs sent to England had to be culled, as the small ones were not saleable there. Hence the small ones had been sold in Toronto and Montreal and other Canadian and American cities. He had tried to accommodate himself to the English demands by putting the eggs up in the way that the buyer wanted them. In the spring and fall and winter the eggs he sent over were in good condition, but in the hot weather of summer some of the shipments were not in a merchantable condition when they arrived at the market. The English market was very far away, and, therefore, the utmost expedition was necessary in getting the eggs into the hands of the consumer. Refrigerator cars and steamers were used in the transportation of the eggs, but often this care did not keep the eggs good in hot weather.

"The McKinley tariff," said Mr. Wilson, "is a wall put up against us, and we have to make up our mind to take less money for the product of the hen than we have been getting hitherto, because the English market is not uniform in price, not as steady, and it is so much farther away that we cannot get the article into the market as fresh as it can be got from other countries near by, such as France. That market is not as good or profitable as the United States was before the McKinley tariff came into force. Since that barrier has been placed against us there is nothing for us to do but to make the most of the English market, but it will not enable shippers to pay the price for the eggs that they have been paying in the past and would have been able to pay in the future if that tariff had not been placed against us. I have given you my experience, and, without boasting, I may say that I suppose I have shipped more eggs to England last year than any other man in this country."

Had it not been for the McKinley tariff, he went on, the farmers would have received three cents a dozen more for their eggs during the past year than they did receive, notwithstanding the efforts of shippers to comply with requirements of the English market.

Mr. Wilson also stated that former years, before the McKinley tariff came into force, the Canadian egg dealers paid about half a cent a dozen more for eggs than the dealers in Michigan, but after the McKinley tariff took effect the Michigan dealers paid about four cents per dozen more than the Canadian dealers, and all can thus see the effect of the high tariff wall.

Does not Like Late Hours.

Mr. Abbott has thought better of his proposal to go to Toronto, and has formally declined to attend a dinner to be given in his honor by the Albany club of Toronto. The premier does not believe that his advanced age justifies him in attending junkets or speaking in public. For this reason also he has asked the Macdonald club of Ottawa not to press their request for his attendance at a public meeting.

Premier Greenway of Manitoba arrived in Ottawa and on Wednesday morning had a conference with the officials of the department of agriculture upon immigration matters. He was accompanied by Attorney-General Sifton. Mr. Greenway, who expresses himself as well satisfied with the prospects for the Prairie Provinces next year, will leave in a day or two for the Maritime Provinces in the interests of immigration. He had an interview last evening with Mr. Dalton McCarthy in reference to the carrying of the appeal in the school case to the Imperial Privy Council. The appeal will be pushed, and Mr. Greenway is confident of success at the court of final resort.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me great relief in bronchitis. Within a month I have sent some of this preparation to a friend suffering from bronchitis and asthma. It has done him so much good that he writes for more."—Charles F. Dumperville, Plymouth, England.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is in a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

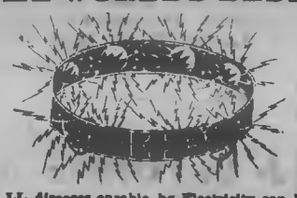
HEAD OFFICE—168 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles buy them, but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

SALVATION RESCUE WORK

A Distinguished Worker's Visit to Peterborough.

Sketch of the Career of Staff-Captain Blanche B. Cox—Her Conversion—Work in the Ranks of the "Army."

The following sketch of the career of Staff-Captain Cox is taken from the Christmas Number of the War Cry. The Peterborough corps is to receive the honour of a visit from this distinguished lady for four days commencing on Saturday.

HER CONVERSION.

Some eleven years ago the subject of our sketch sat listening to one of Mrs. Booth's fervid lectures in a crowded London hall. Her mother's enthusiasm jarred upon her, as together they wended their way homeward at the conclusion of the meeting. Conscience had been aroused in Blanche Cox, and she felt miserable.

Mrs. Booth's impassioned words had made plain the path, but it looked a difficult one to the bright, gaiety-loving school girl. She realised that it meant self-abnegation, and there was self crying loudly for pleasure, ease, indulgence.

She went again a few days later, with her mother, to the Steinway Hall, Portman Square, to hear Mrs. Booth preach on "Justification by Faith." In spite of herself she could not help listening with absorbing interest. A vision of two life paths arose before her,

THE PATH OF PLEASURE AND THE WAY OF THE CROSS.

She seemed to see their course, and the goal to which either must infallibly tend. The necessity of instant choice pressed an irresistible burden upon her heart. She yielded to the holy influence of the hour, knelt by her seat and chose the Christ-path then and there.

Testimony at home and at school followed. She was baptised, and took her place as a member of the before-mentioned church of her childhood. This did not prevent frequent visits to the little Whitechapel barracks—then the Headquarters of the Salvation Army—now a Food and Shelter Depot for men, the first of the kind started in accordance with the principles of Social Reform as laid down in "Darkest England."

A year later Blanche Cox was

ENROLLED AS ONE OF THE FIRST SOLDIERS

at Regent Hall.

A little later, after entering the Army work, she was promoted to the Training Home Staff, and took an active part in instructing the Cadets in the usual rudimentary branches. A careful routine of Bible study was also carried on under the girl officer's supervision. She still found time to steal away to be beloved slums. The Cellar, Garret and Gutter work had just been started, and many a dreary room was brightened by her visits. Eyes bleared with age and sin began to grow expectant at the sound of the young voice, so full of loving sympathy, with a frankness that made it known, even to those of her listeners mostly ready to avow their distaste for religion, and to push it from them with an impatient, "Well, it's not for the likes of us."

TELLING THE GOSPEL STORY

Staff-Capt. Cox was among the first to visit the streets of the great metropolis at midnight. A double purpose animated these devoted girl-rescuers. It was an opportunity not to be neglected of witnessing for Christ among the army of fallen women and abandoned men who thronged mighty Piccadilly and other well known resorts. They also sought with words of loving entreaty to induce these wretched sister women to quit their

LIFE OF SIN AND SHAME.

The oft-reiterated childish resolve, "If ever I'm good, I'll be a missionary in India," found its realisation, as Staff-Capt. Cox, obeying the Divine voice in her soul, volunteered for service in the Muktifauj. She was accepted, and with a joyful heart found herself at last on Indian soil. Her first appointment was to the Punjaub. At Umballa she spent some six months in visiting and holding frequent meetings. Bombay was the next scene of her labors. Here she visited the opium dens, held meetings, and sought in every way to reach and to bring the natives to the knowledge of their Saviour. Staff-Capt. Cox afterwards, accompanied by Captain Price, visiting various villages and gathering, wherever practicable, the native women around her to tell them the blessed redemption story.

EDITED THE INDIAN "WAR CRY,"

TRAVELLED AMONG THE HIMALAYAS

* * * * *

After some eighteen months service in India, Staff-Captain Cox returned to England. Here she desired and obtained a field-station. Sent in charge of Newcastle I, she was soon absorbed in the manifold interests, cares, and fascinations of corps work. During her stay of some eight months, God gave blessed victories. Scarcely a Sunday passed in which she did not see souls coming to their Saviour. Nor was her work confined to the barracks. She visited the vilest dens in Newcastle. Frequently, doors were flung open, and the officers entreated to come in to sing to a motley crew of dissolute men and fallen women. Eight girls or more left their evil life and were sent to the London Rescue Homes.

A season of specialling throughout the United Kingdom was followed by some happy months, in which Staff Capt. Cox assisted her beloved comrade, Staff Capt. Margaret Allen, in the task of

EDITING "THE DELIVERER."

Again volunteering for foreign service, her next appointment was at the request of Commissioner Rees to our Dominion. We praise God that already during her short period of service among us, He has been using and blessing her work at the time of writing, specialling at present, together with Captain Ethel Gale.

East Hastings Election.

The writ for East Hastings has been issued nomination on the 13th and polling on the 20th inst. Mr. W. R. Aylesworth, reeve of Deseronto, has been nominated by the Liberals to succeed the late Mr. Burdett. The Conservative candidate will probably be either Mr. John White, ex-M.P., or Mr. W. R. Northrop, both of whom desire the nomination.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

North Dummer.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In your last issue appeared a letter signed "J. J. Crowe" replying to my letter of the week previous. It is not my intention to make any unkind references to Mr. Crowe, but I pray that God will open his eyes and heart and show him the ridiculous position in which he stands. I deny all the charges contained in his letter. There is not one word of truth in them, and if Mr. Crowe would lead a life in keeping with his profession, he would be a better man and not the laughing stock of true Christians. I would just say, without following the stream of abuse, that runs through his letter, that I did not appoint the organist, but there is a feeling throughout the congregation that the appointment of the organist should be in the hands of the pastor, and not in the hands of one who remains away from the Sabbath school rather than face the disappointment of the children who would not (as they did not) get the prizes that they expected. In conclusion, rather than continue a discussion which is not, by its showing up the short comings of professing Christians in a way that will by no means promote the interests of religion and morality,

Yours, etc.,
A TRUE CHURCH MEMBER.

[It is intimated that the above letter must close a controversy which is, after all, bringing no credit upon the participants, nor in any manner promoting the interests of religion, or peace and concord in the neighborhood.—ED. EXAMINER.]

Cost of Some Rare Metals.

Very few people have any idea of the cost of some of the rare metals. For instance, vanadium cost about $11,265 per lb.; zeconium, $7,080 per lb.; and lithium, which is the lightest of metals, about $6,880 per lb. Rhodium, which is extremely hard and brittle and is only fusible at a very high temperature, brings about $2,260 per lb.; and irridium, the heaviest substance hitherto discovered, costs about $1,070 per lb. It will therefore be seen that gold and silver are far from being the most precious metals as far as their market value is concerned.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Last Night's Complimentary Concert.

A Good Audience and an Excellent Programme.

Last night a very fair audience assembled in the Opera House on the occasion of the complementary concert to Mr. Seward. There were, it is true, several vacant seats in the reserved section holding the placard "taken," whose owners' absence, was, perhaps explainable by the fact that they were "taken" themselves—with the influenza. There was a good sized audience who listened in a comfortably heated hall to a well presented programme, especially considering a fact that there was little time for preparation and the performers had to give what was available. At the last moment Mrs. Macklin and Miss Fairweather, became subjects of severe colds which somewhat deranged the programme. The first number was a pianoforte duo, an overture by Suppe, presented by Miss Nellie Wrighton and Mr. Fred Clarke, in a very creditable manner, considering that they had time for only a single rehearsal. This was followed by a sweetly sung vocal solo by Mrs. Clyde Green, though the effect of her singing, as well as of the subsequent numbers, was marred by the raised curtain throwing the sound back on the stage. Mrs. Seward and Mrs. Stapleton sang with fine effect a duet, which was well received. In the second part they sang another stirring duet, which was well performed and heartily appreciated. Miss Louise Yokoma enjoyed the honour of being brought out by Mr. Claxton, the veteran musician, who is never happier than when he is recognizing and encouraging musical ability, of which he is so capable a judge. The young violiniste, in particular compliment to Mr. Claxton, played an old-time flute favourite of his as the first part of her double number—Handel's celebrated Largo—in a broad and musicianly manner. The second part was a spirited production of an Irish air with sprightly variations, which deservedly won a hearty encore, responded to with "Bonnie Doon." Miss Vair and Mr. T. Dunn made great successes in the two vocal duets they presented so excellently. The first was, "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit," and the excellent production of it showed that both felt the spirit of the music they interpreted with such great success. They were equally happy in their second duet, "Excelsior." In this beautiful composition of Balfe, both singers distinguished themselves in the solo passages, while in the concerted bars the delightful blending of their voices answered every demand of harmony and expression. Both singers are vocalists of whom Peterborough may be proud, and it is seldom that visiting concert companies provide as delightful music as they furnished last night. Mr. Johnston Bane, the clever guitarist, performed a beautiful overture of his own composition, showing that he is not only a skilful and brilliant performer, but a musician as well. His technical skill cleverly joined to his expressive playing gave the auditors so pleasing an example of the resources of the guitar in the hands of an artist that he was heartily recalled, and responded with a fantasia on "Old Black Joe." The flute solo of Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge, Scotch Airs," by Carte, father of the well-known D'Oyley Carte, was very artistically and expressively presented and well won the warm encore, which brought out the flautist in an unique but delightful rendering of Welsh airs arranged by himself. In the interval between the parts Mr. Claxton introduced Mr. J. H. Long, of Camden, New Jersey, who gave a brief address, which he began by saying how much pleasure it gave him to see so many present to do honour to Mr. Seward, to whom the town owed a debt of gratitude for his musical services. He paid an eloquent tribute to music, as one of the most important factors in counteracting the sordid gain-getting and materialistic tendencies of the age, which were the prelude to the effeminacy and luxury that had wrecked the past nations of history. He closed by paying a warm tribute to Peterborough, which, in all his travels, was the most progressive and prosperous town he knew of in Canada.

It is due to Mr. Bane and Mr. Arlidge to say that they showed true musical sympathy and appreciation of Mr. Seward by giving their services for this concert. Mr. Bane postponed his guitar classes in Port Hope, and Mr. Arlidge postponed till to-night in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, the rehearsal of "Emmanuel," which will be presented in the opera house on Tuesday evening next.

The pianoforte used on the occasion was kindly loaned by Messrs. Jackson & Co.

Mr. Arlidge gave some of the accompaniments with that taste and correctness the result of many years of musical study and experience, and Mr. Fred Clarke the others, with a taste and sympathy extremely creditable to the young musician.

Hockey Notes.

What Ails the Bitterinas?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—We notice posters up announcing that a hockey match is being arranged between the Peterborough and the Edison Hockey Clubs for the night of the Carnival, Feb. 12. These bills have been up about a week, and the Edison Club have so far heard nothing about the matter.

This appears to be on a par with the arrangements said to have been made for matches on former occasions. See your issue of the 28th ult.

Knights of Labour.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—At the regular meeting of the Knights of Labour Assembly last Wednesday evening an unusually lively discussion took place on the subject of labour in all its interests, in the course of which discussion, reference was made to the attempt of the Edison syndicate, after obtaining the franchise for the street railway and coinciding with the agreement in connection therewith, to induce the corporation to alter or modify that part of the agreement contained in clauses 28 and 41, which declared that a failure to construct and complete that portion of the railway required to be constructed and operated by the 1st of July, would result in the loss of the franchise and also the forfeiture of $1 000 by the Edison syndicate. Considerable surprise was also expressed that the absurd plea of possible prevention by the acts of providence or other casualties should be advanced by the Edison syndicate as a reason why their agreement with the ratepayers of this town should be so altered and modified as would enable them eventually to act just as they pleased in the matter.

It was also argued that such lame excuses as these, were not not advanced by the town, nor would they have been entertained by the independent syndicate when their works were shut down and a large number of men thrown out of employment, because the railway siding was not forthcoming at the time agreed upon.

A resolution was then passed to the following effect.

"That this assembly strongly protests against any attempt at connivance between the Edison syndicate and the Council to modify or alter in any respect, their agreement respecting the construction and operating the street railway, as such an alteration would be an unfair violation of their agreement with the ratepayers of this town."

Your very truly,
A KNIGHT.

Trombone Speaks.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Kindly allow me a short space in your valuable columns to draw the attention of the music-loving public of Peterborough to the work to be given by the Peterborough Philharmonic Society at the Opera House on Tuesday evening next.

This Society, although only organized last September, will, under the leadership of Mr. J. Churchill Arlidge, place a chorus before the people of Peterborough that to hear will be a treat to all who attend the council. The sacred Oratorio, "Emmanuel," portraying the life of our Saviour from birth to ascension, will be given by the Society with full orchestral accompaniment. I have had an opportunity of hearing the work during their rehearsals, and have no hesitation in saying that the Society will score a brilliant success at this their first concert. It is some years since the people of Peterborough have had an opportunity of hearing an Oratorio here, and all lovers of good music should take this chance of showing their appreciation.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,
Yours truly,
TROMBONE.

Peterborough, Feb'y 5th, 1892.

Card of Thanks.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Allow me the use of your columns to publicly thank Mr. Arlidge and Mr. Johnston Bane for their valuable services; also those ladies and gentlemen who so kindly contributed their services at last night's complimentary concert.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 142 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Sarsaparilla. It had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

An Interesting Session.

At the session of Carswell Lodge I.O.G.T. held last evening, some important business was transacted. After routine six candidates were duly initiated. Arrangements were completed for the public joint installation of officers which is to be held in Ashburnham next Tuesday. In addition to the installation ceremony, an excellent programme of songs, recitations, musical selections etc., has been provided. Admission will be free to this open session. Votes of thanks were passed to several gentleman amongst others one to Messrs Ward & Co., Ashburnham and Mr. G. J. Early, town, for their kindness on the occasion of the fraternal visit to Math rs Corners. The programme was also arranged for an open session which is to be held in the Royal Templars Hall, Hunter street, next Thursday February 18th. All are invited.

A. O. U. W. Sympathy.

The body of the late Mr. Peoples, who died on Monday at the Nicholls' Hospital, was last night forwarded to his former home. The members of the A.O.U.W., who have shown their practical sympathy with their deceased brother ever since his sickness, carried out the whole of the funeral arrangements. The body was yesterday, after being embalmed, removed to Mr. A Clegg's undertaking establishment, where they were were viewed by a large number of the deceased's former friends. His fellow workmen at Peter Hamilton & Company's Foundry sent a most beautiful wreath, which was placed on the coffin, while the brethren of the A.O.U.W. forwarded a handsome pillow of flowers with the word "Brother" worked on the top. In compliance with a telegraphic request from his wife, the body was sent to his former home, St. Mary's, last night by the 5:20 train. A number of the fellow-members of the lodge accompanied the remains to the station, together with some of the employes from the foundry. One of the latter was deputed to accompany the body to St. Mary's, where it will be received by his sorrowing wife.

Croft vs. Snowden—McGill vs. Rutherford President vs. Vice-President's Match.

Quite a large number of people gathered at the rink yesterday afternoon to see the "championship match" between Messrs. Crofs and Snowden. A good and well contested game resulted in a victory for Mr. Croft by 6 shots to 4.

A MATCH FOR OYSTERS.

Last night a match was played for oysters between rinks chosen by Messrs. C. McGill and T. Rutherford. A rather one-sided game resulted in Mr. Rutherford being mulcted in the price of the soup, being in a minority of 19 shots.

Address and Presentation.

A Fellow Employe Handsomely Remembered.

Last night the elegant parlours of the Edison Club rooms were the scene of a pleasing display of good fellowship and handsome recognition of well deserved popularity. On the occasion of the departure to Toronto of Mr. John Mackenzie who has for the past two years been a member of the brass department of the Edison General Electric Company's Works, his fellow employes signalized the severance of past pleasant relations by two very handsome presentations. Mr. R. Brick occupied the chair, and Mr. Dan Ryan, on behalf of the employes of the brass department, presented Mr. Mackenzie with a beautiful gold watch, accompanying the presentation with a happy little speech, expressive of the high esteem which Mr. Mackenzie had gained in the hearts of his fellow employees during a pleasant intercourse of two years, and of the popularity which his many kindly qualities had won for him. This was not the full measure of Mr. Mackenzie's popularity, for, Mr. R. Layfield next on behalf the foremen of the different branches presented Mr. Mackenzie with an elegant, gentleman's morocco travelling companion, handsomely fitted. The remainder of the evening was spent very enjoyably in making and listening to brief complimentary speeches and songs and instrumental music. The speeches were made by those who had known Mr. Mackenzie, and accompanying the compliments were expressions of regret at the severance of the friendly relations of the past. Mr. Mackenzie left for Toronto this morning followed by the good wishes of the many friends he has made during his short stay in Peterborough.

Personal.

Dr. James Third, of the General Hospital, Toronto, was in town yesterday

Rev. Father Radkins' many friends will be pleased to learn that he is convalescent from the recent sharp attack of la grippe from which he has been suffering.

Mr. John K. Belcher, C.E., town and county engineer, was elected a member of the council of the Society of Architects of Ontario at its first annual meeting recently held in Toronto. Mr. Belcher is congratulated upon the honour conferred upon him.

Mr. R. L. Patterson, Canadian manager of the great type founding establishment of Messrs. Miller & Richard, has been elected chairman of the Toronto Collegiate Institute Board. Mr. Patterson is a typical man of the "hard face" series and if he manages the business of the board as successfully as he manages his regular business he will cover himself with glory in his new position, especially as he will have an opportunity of exercising his polyglot proficiency by addressing the pupils in French, Latin, Greek, Gaelic or Sanscrit.

The Evangelist.

The second of Mr. R. Telfer's gospel meeting was well attended. A very earnest and eloquent address was given, which was intently listened to be the congregation. There will be no more meetings this week, but the special services will be continued during next week.

The Street Railway Muddle.

The matters in connection with this enterprise, are of course a pure matter of business—but it will be a matter of pleasure, of genuine pleasure to attend the Sons of Canada Carnival on Friday night Feb 12th. Splendid prizes, which may be seen in the show window of the Peterborough Bookstore will be given for several exciting competitions. Brilliant costumes, exciting races, music, mirth, and general enjoyment. The first carnival of the season. Don't neglect to attend.

DEVONSHIRE.

The Old Duke and the Vast Estates Which Come to the New.

By the death of the seventh Duke of Devonshire, his eldest son, the Marquis of Hartington, is raised to the peerage, and becomes the eighth duke. The new duke was born July 23, 1833, and was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, taking his B.A. degree in 1854. He has sat in Parliament since 1857, for three different constituencies.

THE OLD DUKE.

The present duke is neither a born statesman nor a great orator, but is a great sleeper, as he spends most of his time during the session of the House of Commons in the arms of Morpheus. His name and wealth have certainly had much to do with his rise in the political world of England.

The late Duke owned land in fourteen different counties:

Derby	Somerset	Notts	Cork
York	Lincoln	Chester	Waterford
Lancashire	Cumberland	Stafford	Tipperary
Sussex	Middlesex

The estates extend to 193,000 acres, and the annual rental is something over $850,000. Much of the land in and about Eastbourne was the property of the Duke, and, like that in the vicinity of Barrow-in-Furness, has increased enormously in value of late years.

THE NEW DUKE.

The Duke possessed no fewer than seven seats, the cost of keeping up which alone must have been considerable. They are: Bolton Abbey; Chatsworth, Compton Place, Devonshire House (Piccadilly), Hardwick, Holker and Lismore Castle. The Duke had the patronage of over forty Church livings, the annual total value of which exceeds $50,000 per annum.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Oddfellow Notes.

Peterborough lodge, No. 111, Oddfellows, last night initiated five candidates and one joined by card. The new paraphernalia was used for the first time. The seating capacity of the lodge room was inadequate to accommodate the members and visitors, among whom were some from Havelock, Michigan, U.S., and Otonabee lodge, town.

Practice to-night is the first degree.

The Dominion Oddfellow says:—"Some Oddfellows are like pop-corn, so long as they keep cool they can hide what is in them, but whenever they get right hot they turn wrongside out."

SALLY.

By Albert Fleming.

Aunt Hannah said: "Sally has gone, Kenneth—for your good as well as her own. She has saved us a terrible trouble by acting so nobly."

Then Kenneth lost his head, but Aunt Hannah presented a front of iron.

"It was the right thing to do, and so you will own in time. Be patient. My heart is sore for you both; but you are young, and life with its duties is before you. At any rate, don't let a girl of 19 beat you in self-sacrifice."

But Kenneth flung family pride to the winds, and said: "You may say what you like; I'll marry her to-morrow if she'll have me."

After an hour's hot debate he agreed to wait a month.

VII

Sally went to Miss Parker's school. She had to face all the drudgery of preparing the girls for their lessons, and taking them safely through the rudiments. She knew what awaited her and did not flinch. During the last five years she had learned how to master her love, to use it as an incentive to hard work, but it was easier to fight the battle alone; to fight at all in Kenneth's presence was impossible. Day by day she plunged with feverish vigor into the work of teaching, plodding on with a pale face and heavy eyes through the long list of pupils. During the night watches she thought it was a hundred times better that she should suffer than he, better that the wrench should come now than that he should marry her, and his good name be clouded by her shameful story.

Time passed more quickly for Kenneth, for at the end of it shone hope. Sally had none.

When the month was over Kenneth said, "Today I am going to Sally."

"What! you will let the whim of a moment ruin your life?" said Hannah.

"If I followed your advice two lives would be ruined."

That very day he went to Streatham.

Sally's work had been harder than usual. The everlasting exercises, the never ceasing scales, the persistent wrong notes, the enormous difficulties of teaching suburban young ladies without voice or ear to sing had worn her out.

Suddenly a pupil exclaimed, "Oh! there is such a handsome young man coming up the drive." (Sally was unmoved; no young man was likely to call on her.) "He must have come to see Miss Davison. That's four cousins in three weeks!"

Sally looked up and saw Kenneth. Her heart seemed to rush into her mouth. She dismissed the girl and steadied herself. A mirror was in front of her, and she saw her own face pale as death, with dark shadows round the eyes. She wore a dingy old black dress, but even that could not conceal the grace of the lovely young neck and the sweep of the beautiful shoulders. And now Kenneth entered, and when she saw his radiant face, full of strength and fervor, she felt that he looked years younger than she did. That sorrowful, girlish face, full of pathetic endurance, appealed to his heart irresistibly, and without a moment's thought he flung his arms around her and kissed her.

All Sally's 19 years of life culminated in that first unwarrantable embrace. As her pretty, flushed face rested for a moment on his shoulder, her heart whispered, "Why not rest there forever?" Then she wrenched herself free, and her blush ebbed away, leaving her as pale as marble and as hard.

"You might, at least, have spared me this, and left me some self-respect," she said, looking like a young Joan of Arc. He ought to have been abashed and humbled, but he wasn't.

"Sally!" he whispered, so tenderly that she drew back again, mistrusting herself and him. "Sally, I love you—you know I do." Sally tried hard to keep back the flood of joy that welled up from her heart into her eyes.

"Do men in your rank of life act like that and speak afterward?" Looking down into the sweet depths of her eyes, he said:

"Oh, my love, you are wasting moments that might be so sweet. We love each"—— Ere he could finish Sally flashed in:

"Who told you I loved you? Have I ever led you to think I loved you?" He gazed at her with such sweet, manly assurance that she felt, her anger melting away.

"Sally, my darling, I see it in your eyes—I hear it in your voice. Love has given me insight."

"Of course you know it." And her voice took those thrilling tones which had moved his heart so when she sang. "I dare say every one does. I have loved you for years, and shall love you always. I am not ashamed to own it. It has been the strength of my life. If you had never spoken I should have gone on loving you all the same, and gone down to my grave single for your sake; but oh, my love, I shall never wed you—never be with you."

Kenneth would once more have flung his arms around her, but she composed herself by a great effort, and said:

"Wait just a moment and I will tell you all."

"You told me all when you said you loved me."

"Not all. Let me speak once and forever. What I am you made me. All I have you gave me; and in return I mean to guard your good name—to guard it from yourself and from me." He interrupted her with and impatient gesture, but she persisted. "You know what I was when you found me. You think you know all, but no one ever told you that I had been in prison for theft—that I had my hair cut short—wore prison dress and ate prison food, and"—Her voice failed her—her face grew deadly white—her hungry eyes searched his face to see if he shrank from her. To her joy the brightness of his eyes never clouded for a moment. He took her hand with a sweet gesture of love and reverence, and holding it steadfastly between his own, he spoke:

"Dear, I know it—have known it for years. Biddy came and told me long ago; and, knowing all, I still ask you to be my wife."

Sally's blood slowly came back to her pale cheeks, slowly flooded her fair face with its tender rose, slowly the sweet light mingled with the tears in her eyes and conquered them. It was so doubly sweet that he should know all and yet love on. Her joy at first was too great for words. She moved a little closer to him, then with swift, sweet abandonment she flung her arms around his neck and drew his face down to hers.

"But, dear," she whispered, "the world will know." As their lips met he answered: "You are all the world to me."

THE BEST FAMILY PILL IN USE

Keep the Works in good order.

NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890.
W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.
DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece; frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.
Yours faithfully,
H. F. ATWELL.

The Process of Expatriation.

Mr. Allen Pringle of Lennox, speaking to the Central Farmers' Institute, said:—"Suppose we send all our goods to England and still keep exporting our men to the United States. It seems that the less goods we send to the United States the more of our sons go there, and they are worth $1,000 apiece.

A voice—Some of them.

Mr. Beam—Our sons and daughters, too.

Mr. Pringle—I want to know if we can afford as a nation to let the best of our sons go to a foreign land. Our County of Lennox has lost between 5,000 and 6 000 in the last two years. There is hardly a family but what has lost some of its members. The best people go to the United States and stay there simply because they can get a better living there than they can here. They could buy farms here at the present time for almost nothing. In Lennox, where I come from, farms can be had for little more than the price of the improvements upon them. It is not because the young men cannot get farms that they go away; it is because they cannot live here. Their fathers are not doing as well as they could under favorable circumstances; they are in debt—mortgaged—and the consequence of this is that our young men are going to the United States. What is the of their expatriation? Is it because this country lacks resources? Not so. This country has abundant natural resources, more so than the country to which they go. What is driving them away. I will tell you gentlemen—they are going simply because they are so burdened with taxation in this country that they cannot make any headway. Take away the tariff walls between the two countries, let the monopolists and combines be taken from their throats, and then, gentlemen, they will be able to live in their own country instead of going to a foreign country. (Applause.)

The Next-Door and the Distant Market.

Here is a comparative statement of amounts purchased by Great Britain and the United States during one year:

	Great Britain.	U. S.
Horses	$ 17,925	$1,260,355
Sheep	486 200	764,167
Poultry	.....	49,233
Barley	12,017	4,581,576
Beans	1,293	228,769
Hay	109,634	822,727
Malt	.....	149 651
Potatoes	.....	205,915
Peas	330	1,793,803
Hides	23,083	477 630
Wool	.....	248,801
Flax	.....	175 563
Rye	53,413	123,330
Hemp	.....	26,560
Tobacco leaf	.....	55 176
Canned fruit	5,612	24 023
Total	$716 694	$11,897 562

So that the United States purchased over sixteen times as many dollars' worth of the articles enumerated before the increase in the tariff as did Great Britain. The time of the Farmers' Institute can hardly be more profitably spent than in discussing the question of markets for farm products.

POISONED BY AKEES.

Five Persons Die From Indulging in a Jamaican Luxury.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Branday, wife of Mr. C. H. Branday of the Public Works Department; Arnold Branday, their child; Miss Harper, Mrs. Branday's sister; William Pitkin and another person have died here after partaking of salt fish and akees.

The akees had been taken from a tree in the yard on the previous day, but unfortunately were plucked from a branch which had been broken about three or four days previously, and it is presumed that the fruit had had time to develop its poisonous qualities.

The akee is a quince-shaped, pulpy, yellowish fruit, the centre of which is of a bright-red color and poisonous. This portion Jamaicans are careful to remove ere partaking of the fruit. It is eaten fried in oil or boiled with salt codfish. If kept too long after being picked without the centre being removed, a fermentation occurs, which causes the poison to permeate the fruit.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MEETINGS IN THE QUEEN CITY.

The Central Institute, the Sheepbreeders and the Ayrshire Cattle Men Hold Their Annual Meetings, Elect Officers and Consider Gratifying Reports of the Year's Work.

TORONTO, Feb. 5.—At the morning sitting of the Central Farmers' Institute yesterday Prof. Mills read a paper on the advantages of a course of study at the Ontario Agricultural College. They have a farm of 550 acres, 80 of which is uncleared. They have nine different breeds of cattle, eight of sheep and three of pigs.

There are five heads in their course of study—agriculture, live stock and dairying, natural science, English literature and political economy, mathematics and bookkeeping.

The constitution of the council was amended so that in future the president will be elected on the morning of the second day, and the members of the Executive Committee will be elected by the majority of the delegates of their respective districts.

The Torrens system of land transfer was ably discussed before the meeting by Mr. J. Herbert Mason, who enumerated the several systems and explained in which points the Torrens system is superior. After the discussion of several minor farming matters the convention broke up.

Ayrshire Breeders.

The sixth annual meeting of the Dominion Ayrshire Breeders' Association was opened yesterday morning in Shaftesbury Hall. The president, Mr. Yuille of Carleton Place, presided. The morning was taken up in discussing the difficulties that have arisen out of the late revision of the herd book.

At the afternoon session Mr. Thomas Guy of Oshawa read a paper on "The progress of the Ayrshire in Canada in 1891." Mr. James McCormack of Rockton followed with a paper on "Premature Breeding." A resolution of condolence with the family of Mr. George Morton, Rosemavan, was passed. Deceased was a prominent Ayrshire breeder.

Officers for 1892 were elected as follows: President, Thomas Guy, Oshawa; vice-presidents, one from each province, M. Ballantyne (Ontario), W. C. Edwards, M.P. (Quebec), George Steele (Manitoba), C. H. Manners (Northwest Territories), C. C. Gardiner (P.E.I.).

Directors—Messrs. Eyre, Yuille, McCormack, Stewart, William Smith, Nicholl and Caldwell.

Auditors—Messrs. Bass and Brown.

The following members were appointed as delegates to the different fairs: Industrial, Messrs. Guy and McCormack; Western, Messrs. Ballantyne and Kain; Ottawa, Messrs. Yuille and Campbell Smith; Central Farmers' Institute, Mr. Yuille; Kingston, Messrs. Bass and Eyre; delegates to World's Fair Committee, Messrs. Guy and McCormack.

The following gentlemen were recommended as judges for the different fairs: M. Ballantyne, J. M. Jones, C. Smith, H. G. Clarke, W. Crawford, D. Nicholl, A. Kain, James McCormack, Thomas Guy and William Stewart.

The Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Sheep Breeders' Association was held yesterday afternoon in Shaftesbury Hall.

Officers for 1892 were elected as follows: President, James Russell; vice-president, John Jackson; secretary, F. W. Hodson; treasurer, F. R. Shore. In choosing the executive, it is the custom to select men, each a prominent breeder of different breeds of sheep. Those elected were: R. Gibson, Delaware, Ont.; John Kelly, Shakespeare; J. C. Snell, Edmonton; William Smith, Fairfield; Hector, Springfield; James Tolton, Walkerton; John Oliver, Avonbank; John I Hobson, Messboro; Auditors, John S. Pearse, London, and R. Gibson Delaware, Ont.

In the secretary's report it was noted with pleasure that the influence of the association was gradually increasing. The membership had also increased remarkably fast. In 1889 there were 98 names on the roll. Now, there were 94 paid members, and the prospects for a large increase during the ensuing year were very bright. Men who had never taken an interest in the association were now becoming members. Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, had consented to print and distribute the annual report, which would allow the association to use their grant to forward the sheep interests in other directions.

The report pointed out as desirable that an annual meeting be held and that the spring and fall meetings be discontinued. This would enable the association to get up a good annual report. It was proposed that the meeting be held in December and that the association should join with Guelph Fat Stock Club, or some other association, in order to have a good fat stock show. The present financial standing of the association would warrant it in saying that $400 could be given in December next, without any increase in the grant. By taking an interest in this show it was pointed out that the members of the association would lay the foundation of what might in the future be Canada's great winter exhibition.

The following breeders were recommended as judges for the fall fairs:

Cotswolds: John Thompson, J. C. Snell, Joseph Wald, William Thompson, Thomas Colley, Mr. Laidlaw, Heber Rawlings, Thomas Waters, Arthur Johnston, Hugh Crawford, Thomas Teasdale, William Petch.

Horned Dorsets: John Jewell, W. G. Hawkins, James Smith, John Jackson.

Shropshires: R. Wilson, F. R. Shore, T. M. Whiteside, D. G. Hamner, W. H. Beattie, J. Campbell, W. S. Hawkshaw, John Cowerth, Alfred Brown, W. D. Reesor, R. Miller, J. McFarlane, James Cochrane, Daniel Briens.

Oxfords and Downs: Henry Arkell, F. R. Shore, James Rowand, M. P.; J. Russell, William Dickison, James Tolton, Peter Arkell, James Harcourt, Robert Miller, Henry Arkell, Smith Evans, and Mr. Storey of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Leicesters and Lincolns: George Weeks, Milton Snary, W. Cowan, John Allan, John Miller, William McKay, Joseph Pearson, J. C. Snell, W. E. Swain, Robert Miller, Andrew Telfer and John Mason.

Expert Judges for Southdowns: Arthur Simonton, George Baker, Edwin Cresswell, Simon Lemon, Thomas Wilkinson, John Davidson.

Hon. John Dryden, who was present at the meeting, read a very instructive paper on "The Future of Sheep Husbandry in Canada." One paragraph gave some particularly good advice to Canadian farmers. It was as follows:

"There are some—and their number is too great—who, when the market drops, begin at once to lose interest in the quality of their animals and who forthwith say that anything will do, there is nothing in it anyway; whereas they should double their energies if possible in the opposite direction. They should say, "Now that dulness reigns I must take greater pains in my selection and management than before, and thus as far as can be produce such quality as will induce a demand."

After finishing the paper Mr. Dryden spoke a few words, saying that the Ontario Government were anxious to make the Canadian exhibit of sheep at the World's Fair the very best one possible, and would cheerfully do anything that would tend to make it such.

The association intends to have a grand exhibit at the World's Fair. Space had been asked for 150 animals; but as there will be seven or eight different breeds to be shown it was decided to ask for space for 100 additional sheep.

The meeting was continued in the evening. Papers were read by several members and discussed at considerable length.

ANENT DECK LOADS.

What the Deputy Minister of Marine Told a Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—Deputy Minister of Marine Smith was yesterday shown the cablegram from London with respect to the sensational evidence given before the Labor Commission by Mr. Samuel Plimsoll, the sailor's friend. He said Mr. Plimsoll must have overlooked the fact that at the very last session of Parliament Canada had passed a most stringent law to cover the abuses complained of by Mr. Plimsoll in his famous pamphlet attacking the Canadian mercantile marine. That law only went into force on Nov. 16 and had not had a fair trial, as the navigation season closed three weeks later. Enough had been shown, however, to prove that it would remedy most of the evils complained of, and he expected that when its operation was resumed in May next it would prove most beneficial. In reference to Mr. Plimsoll's crusade against deck loads on timber ships, the Deputy Minister stated that that subject was now under consideration by the Canadian Government.

MRS. OSBORNE ARRESTED.

The Plaintiff in the Celebrated Pearl Case Surrenders.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Osborne who figured in the Hargrave jewelry theft case was yesterday arrested in this city on her return from Gisors. Mrs. Osborne was taken to the Cloak Lane police station and was there formally charged with obtaining money by false pretences. She remains in custody bail being inadmissable in her case. It is expected that she will be charged before the Lord Mayor to-morrow.

Captain Osborne says that his wife is full of courage and will not flinch or murmur at the punishment meted out to her. If she escapes with a year's imprisonent he will be content. If her sentence should be made less than a year he would regard it as a great mercy. It is stated that defence will be that prisoner was suffering from hysteria and mental weakness when she yielded to temptation and allowed a moment for confession to pass. Then she resolved to brave everything sooner than shatter the confidence which her husband and her friends reposed in her innocence. It is hoped by Mrs. Osborne's friends that the consideration of these matters and the state of the woman's health will incline her prosecutors towards clemency.

Panic on the Paris Bourse.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Times' Paris correspondent says a panic was created on the Bourse yesterday. It originated by the suspension of the negotiations of the Ottoman Bank with a Swiss banking syndicate for the creation of an eastern stocks trust. Then came the rumor of the arrest of a banker, an affair which turned out to be merely a matter of deficit in an industrial enterprise guaranteed by the family of the inculpated manager. The Bourse is extremely susceptible, owing to the difficult and often uncertain position of one of its most enterprising financiers, who has been struggling for years and whose eventual collapse is expected.

Spurgeon's Remains Taken to London.

MENTONE, Feb. 5.—The coffin containing the remains of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon has been taken to the Scotch Church in this place and yesterday impressive services were held over the body. The church was decorated with palm branches and a few floral wreaths. Telegrams of condolence from the Prince of Wales and a message from Mr. Moody, the American evangelist, quoting the 25th and 26th verses of the 11th chapter of St. John, were read.

Upon the conclusion of the services the coffin was conveyed to a hearse beautifully decorated with flowers and taken to the railway station for conveyance to London.

Retire From Business.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—John A. Morris, the principal owner and director of the Louisiana Dottery Company, will give notice in the newspapers to-morrow that he intends to withdraw his proposition for the re-charter of the company and that the concern will wind up its affairs and retire from the field when its charter expires in 1894.

This action is the result of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States declaring the anti-lottery law constitutional.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The Boy Alone Survived.

ANTWERP, Feb. 5.—The French steamer St. Andre from Havre reports that when off Fecamp she collided with and sank the Danish brig Thor. All the crew of the Thor was drowned with the exception of a boy, who was picked up by the St. Andre.

Many Women and Children Drowned.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Thirty barges were borne from their moorings by drift ice at Breslau to-day. Several of the barges sank and it is reported that 40 persons were drowned, including many women and children.

The Pope May Inherit.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—In the case of the disputed right of the late Marquise Plessis to make the Pope her universal legatee the court to-day decided that in spite of the events of 1870 and the abolition of the temporal power, the Pope is a sovereign and is entitled to inherit property in France like other sovereigns.

Farewell to the Elder.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Divers report that the Elder's bottom is badly damaged and that it will be impossible to float her. Work of salvage has commenced. There are still 42 mail bags in the submerged part of the vessel.

Paying the Indemnities.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Advices received from China show that the government is paying all the indemnities demanded for the killing or injuring of foreigners and for the destruction of their property.

Riots in the Soudan.

CAIRO, Feb. 5.—Advices from Omdurman, one of the Mahdi's strongholds in the Soudan, show that the natives are engaged in continual riots and the state of affairs there is serious.

An Old Newspaper Man Dead.

KINGSTON, Feb. 5.—Edward Taylor Dartnell, who died here yesterday, was an old newspaper man, being at one time proprietor of The Limerick Standard and also a writer on The London Times. Subsequently he was manager of the Provincial Insurance Company of Toronto. For the past few years he has lived a retired life in this city.

Suicided With Strychnine.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 5.—David Long, near Woodford, whose marital relations were unhappy, suicided by taking a dose of strychnine last evening. A few years ago his brother took his life in the same manner.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation, sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS, and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

This Week An Avalanche Of Spring Goods

Is on us. It would take two columns of this journal to enumerate all we have received, but if there is one thing more than another that deserves special mention is our importation ex. S.S. "Sardinian," from St. Gale, Switzerland, of

NEW SWISS EMBROIDERIES, FLOUNCINGS AND HAMBURG EDGINGS.

Plain Hem Stitched Skirtings are in great favor and we show them in many qualities.

With this lot came our New Spring stock of

Swiss Muslin Embroidered Curtains, Swiss Applique Curtains, and one of the New Effects is Hem-Stitched Borders, New Tambour Sash Curtain Muslins and Tambour Curtain Nets, and New Silk Curtains.

All are on display in our show windows. As we import these goods direct from the makers, our prices are about as low as wholesale jobbers sell them for in this country.

GREEN INDEED.

His Experience With "Green Goods" Men Has Cost Him $310.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday morning an alleged "green goods" swindler, who gave his name as James Miller, was arraigned on the complaint of Samuel Price, a blacksmith of Dixey, Canada.

Price does not look like one who could be fleeced so easily. He went to Newburg, N.Y., on Jan. 21, in response to letters and circulars purporting to come from Miller, who offered to sell him $1000 in "green goods" for $100.

Price said that, on arriving here, they walked a few blocks, not far from the Grand Central Station, and there negotiated for the purchase of $3000 in "green goods," for which was demanded $475. As he had only brought $200, he paid $170 on account, and took Miller's receipt for the money. He also returned subsequently and paid Miller another $140. The "green goods" were to be supplied after the balance was paid. Miller was remanded.

WILL BE CREMATED.

A Woman Dies in Washington Who Has Three Sisters in Toronto.

WASHINGTON, Feb 6.—The will of Mrs. H. A. Townsend, better known as Ollie Astor, proprietress of a resort in Thirteenth-street, was offered for probate yesterday. The will directs that the estate be equally divided between three sisters who live in Toronto, Canada. The estate consists of the furniture in the house, cash in a safe deposit company, carriages and horses, jewelry, and several deeds to valuable real estate in this city. Miss Astor's will contained a clause providing for the cremation of her remains. Yesterday her remains were embalmed and removed to Harvey's undertaking establishment, to be held until her relatives are heard from.

Agricultural Implements on the Free List

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Representative Fithian (Ills.) yesterday introduced in the House a resolution instructing the Ways and Means Committee to report a bill at an early date placing all kinds of agricultural implements on the free list. A preamble to the resolution recites that it has been established by satisfactory evidence that manufacturers of farm implements in this country are selling farm implements abroad and to jobbers for export for a less price than is paid by farmers here.

Removal of Messrs. Skinner.

HAMILTON, Feb. 6.—It is expected that Messrs. James A. Skinner & Co., whose removal to Toronto has been announced, will have perfected arrangements for the change by the end of the present month. Last evening the employes gave a dinner at Newport's, which was a decidedly pleasant affair.

A Frozen Toe and Death.

ALMONTE, Feb. 6.—Richard Tennant died in great agony at his residence in Lanark township. Three years ago his big toe was frozen. It never gave him much trouble until about three weeks since, when it began to turn black and pain him. The pain increased in violence every day. Drs. Preston and Brown consulted together and advised amputation, but Dick was unwilling, as he thought he was doomed anyway.

Death Has No Terrors For Him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Carlyle W. Harris, the young medical student convicted of poisoning his wife, applied for a new trial. When the verdict sending him to the chair of fire was pronounced by the jury Harris was nonchalant and indifferent. No one in the court room was as callous or careless as he. The frightful testimony to his heartlessness brought no drop of blood to his cheeks. Dr. Fowler's recital of the conversation held in the room where the body of his wife lay did not move him in the least. When the jury retired he quietly lighted a cigar to mitigate ennui; when the jury returned with their verdict he laid the cigar on the window sill and listened to that fateful word "Guilty!" as though he had no personal interest in the affair, and when his doom was sealed he took up his cigar, relighted it and puffed away as though nothing of importance had happened.

Horrors of Slavery.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Emin Pasha, writing from Msua, confirms the stories of cruelties practised by the slave-hunters. Emin says that he pursued one hunter for six days, during which he counted 51 bodies of slaves who had been recently killed. The bodies of all were worn to a skeleton and the skulls of 30 had been beaten in.

Prince George's Wedding.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Ex-Empress Frederick will come to Windsor Castle in the spring with Princess Margaret, when it is expected the latter's marriage with Prince George will be settled. Emperor William looks with favor on the match.

The Czar's Daughter Betrothed.

COLOGNE, Feb. 6.—A despatch to The Gazette from St. Petersburg says that the Czar's eldest daughter has been betrothed to Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

WHAT HER MAJESTY'S SPEECH WILL CONTAIN.

Legislation Foreshadowed—Everything in Readiness for the Opening of Parliament on Tuesday—No Amendment to be Moved by Liberals.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Cabinet sat for nearly three hours yesterday shaping the Speech from the Throne, with which Parliament will be opened on Tuesday. No reference will be made to the coming session as bringing the present Parliament toward the close of its career.

The speech opens with a reference to the sympathy of the nation for the royal family over its bereavement, alludes to the death of the Khedive as not altering British relations with Egypt, refers to the continued prosperity of the country and says there is no reason to fear that England will be ultimately affected by foreign tariff legislation, and congratulates the country upon the prospect of an early settlement of the Behring Sea dispute and upon the pacific aspect of foreign affairs generally.

The speech mentions the Irish local government and education bills as adding completeness to a series of measures for securing order in and the welfare of Ireland.

Other measures announced are a small holdings bill, a district councils bill and bills to reform the India Council and Scottish private legislation.

This last measure has importance beyond its application to Scotland as affirming and extending the principle of local government. It proposes to remove Scotch private bills from the consideration of House of Commons committees to certain districts in Scotland.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has a clergy discipline bill which the government will support. This constitutes the business of the session.

No Amendment to be Moved.

The leaders of the Opposition do not intend to move any amendment to the address.

Mr. Gladstone will not appear in the House of Commons in the first week of the session. He has delegated to Sir William Vernon Harcourt the task of questioning the Government of its intentions in regard to the dissolution of Parliament. If the reply is indefinite Mr. Gladstone will make the question the subject of a great party fight.

A meeting of the dissidents will be held at Devonshire House on Monday, at which Mr. Chamberlain will be formally accepted as leader in the House of Commons. In the evening the Duke of Devonshire will give a dinner to a few adherents.

The Pearl Case.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Florence Osborne, who was arrested yesterday charged with stealing the Hargreaves jewels and with obtaining £550 upon them, was arraigned in the Guildhall court this morning. The Lord Mayor presided. Mrs. Osborne, who was deadly pale and in a fainting condition, was escorted to a seat at the solicitor's table.

An official from the treasury appeared at Guildhall and, to the astonishment of all present, announced that the treasury did not intend to offer any evidence against Mrs. Osborne. The Lord Mayor discharged the prisoner.

Mrs. Osborne was re-arrested shortly after leaving the Guildhall and taken to Bow-street police station, where she was formally charged with perjury. The prisoner was crying bitterly when placed in the dock. She was remanded for a week without bail.

Captain Osborne was given the privilege to remain with his wife in the Halloway jail until after the prison doctor certified that she was sick and fit for the infirmary. Then he was obliged to leave her. She was terribly prostrated, requiring constant medical attention. The official of the prison promised to inform her friends if a state of danger arose during the night. The strain of her position has told most on her since her arrest. She appears to have borne well the life of a fugitive tracked by detectives. Friends state that she was shadowed from Amiens to Rouen, thence to Eureux and thence to Gisors, where she rested a week under the name of Ogilvy. The officers, supposing that she was secreted in a convent, invaded and searched the institution at midnight, alarming the whole town. The fugitive resumed her flight in the morning, going to Bordeaux, where she awaited her husband, with the intention of starting for Buonos Ayres.

Captain Osborne, who was also watched, warned her to make her way to Cadix. On crossing the frontier she became ill at Irun and, tiring of pursuit, decided to surrender. No plea of mental infirmity put forth in her defence is likely to lessen her sentence under two years, in view of her perjury and her blackening the reputation of intimate friends.

Dr. Mackenzie's Knighthood.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The house occupied by the late Sir Morell Mackenzie contains a large number of gifts from celebrated people whom he had attended in sickness. A framed letter from the late Emperor Frederick hangs over the mantel, besides a letter from Queen Victoria to Emperor Frederick. The Queen's letter reads:

DEAR FRITZ,—I shall take much pleasure in conferring knighthood on the physician who has rendered you and us such great services, for Dr. Mackenzie has indeed treated you with great skill. (Signed),

VICTORIA R. I.

Sir Morell was a man of wealth and of striking individuality. He had long been the physician and friend of all singers and actors and he leaves a son who has already made a name as a comedian.

Dynamite and Death.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—A fatal explosion took place on the Gatineau Valley Railway line one mile north of North Wakefield, Que., this afternoon, by which Joseph Louden was instantly killed and two others seriously injured. They were engaged drilling a hole in the rock a few inches from where a charge of dynamite had been placed and failed to explode. The drilling started the explosion with fatal results.

Viscount Chelsea Engaged.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Viscount Chelsea, son of Earl Cadogan, who was for some time a suitor for the hand of Princess Maud of Wales, has become engaged to Mildred, daughter of Lord Alington. This marriage will unite the families of the two greatest ground landlords in London, whose wealth is enormous.

REVOLT IN MANCHURIA.

ATROCITIES BY BANDITS OUTSIDE THE GREAT WALL.

Massacres By Wholesale—Men Imprisoned and Burned to Death—The Terrible Revenge of the Victorious Chinese Army—A Blood-Thirsty Amazon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—Eye-witnesses of the suppression of the recent revolt in Manchuria have reached Shanghai, and the steamer China brought letters giving a vivid picture of horrors such as have never been known since the Mahdi captured Khartoum. Last spring, the bandits who roam over the country just outside the great wall of China, joined forces and entered upon a regular campaign of plunder. They were armed with repeating rifles, and being mainly composed of prescribed Chinese criminals, fought desperately and defeated all local troops sent against them. Some of the large bands were led by Buddhist priests. One of the most famous of these priestly marauders was Han Chan Chung, lately killed in an engagement with the Viceroy Li's troops at Mo Who Kun, about 200 miles northeast of Jehol.

It was he, in company with another member of the church militant, who led the attack on the large city of Cho Yang when it was captured in November. On that occasion, which was the most important incident in the rebellion, the rebels mustered a force of some 3000 men. Twenty or 30 ordinary bands joined together for the occasion. Horrible atrocities were perpetrated by these desperadoes, who showed unusual daring and ferocity. Eye-witnesses tell of the massacre of almost entire villages, the burning alive of children, the brutal treatment of women, and the carrying off of everything from the houses of the wretched people.

In a large Manchu village in the Jehol district 500 marauders swooped down in the night, captured all whom they did not kill outright, carried off all the women, and then put 60 men in a corn storehouse, securely fastening the doors, after which they set the building on fire, while the terrified children and the few women who had escaped into the surrounding hills could hear the shrieks of the fathers, husbands and brothers as they were being burned alive. This village was Kutulan, in the Jehol prefecture. It is only one of a dozen such incidents.

The rebels are not particular whether they destroy Christian or heathen villages so long as they get plunder. They generally indulge in peculiar and revolting deviltry when their wretched victims are known to be friends of the religion of the Foreign Devils, and they have gone great distances to wreak their vengeance upon professors of the western faith. At a place called Talijow, which has been Christian for two centuries, they massacred nine Christian sisters, or nuns, and burned an orphanage with its 60 little inmates. Such amusements as piercing the bodies of victims with heated bayonets and spears, gouging out eyes, disemboweling or burying alive can be heard of wherever these outlaws have passed.

One band is said to be led by an Amazon who rides astride like a man and is reputed to drink blood to maintain her courage. Li Hung Chang takes the credit for promptly suppressing the revolt, but it was really the extreme cold which settled the rebellion. The robbers couldn't endure campaigning in wintry weather and they retired to their fastnesses in the hills. Their power is broken, however, and spring will not see them on the warpath again.

The imperial troops showed no mercy to the conquered rebels. Many prisoners were taken, and the punishment meted out to the rebels was of a most revolting character, and executions were conducted on a wholesale scale. Men were beheaded in hundreds and entire trunks of trees were utilized as blocks along which the prisoners were ranged in lines, and their executioners simply mowed off their heads when the signal was given. Generally in China condemned persons are ranged in small knots kneeling before the executioner, but here the wretched miscreants were too numerous for the usual rules to be observed, and they were seized by the queues by soldiers from the other side of the improvised blocks and their heads lopped off. They were not even tied. The heads were hung in long rows on poles as a warning to others, and in a very short time the intense cold froze the bodies stiff, but not before the camp followers had stripped them of clothing.

Manufacturers Must be Included.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A Washington special to The Herald says: Politics for home consumption and not reciprocity, that is what seems to be the real meaning of a contemplated visit here next week of Sir John Thompson and Finance Minister Foster of Canada. It is suspected here that the Ministers who are coming do not expect to accomplish any practical result as to reciprocity. What effect their pretended efforts may have upon the bye-elections at home remains to be seen. But if the commissioners should offer a full reciprocity of manufactures as well as natural products, there is every reason to believe the American Government would listen to their propositions.

Slashed His Wife 38 Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—This afternoon Patrick Hirst, a laborer, attacked his wife with a knife while she was sick in bed, stabbing her again and again until he had slashed her 38 times. Many of the cuts were inflicted after the woman was dead. Hirst was arrested. He shows no concern and only says, "I killed her because she would not take care of me for the past 25 years." Hirst is believed to be insane.

Died En Route Home From School.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., Feb. 6.—Miss Stevenson, teacher at Newson's Corners, died suddenly while on her way home from school, where she had been teaching all day in her usual health.

A Fatal Fall.

NEWMARKET, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Eliza Allan, aged 87, fell from her chair, receiving injuries from which she has since died. All her property was willed to the trustee board of the Methodist church.

Death of Dr. Bowie.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Dr. James Bowie, late of Mitchell, Ont., died at the residence of his son, here, yesterday, aged 90.

Concealment of Birth.

STRATHROY, Feb. 6.—Mrs. McKay and Susan Wells have been committed for trial on a charge of having deposited the child of a daughter of the first-named in a raisin box and thrown the box in the road in Caradoc township.

The Day of the Evening Paper.

At a recent gathering of morning-paper owners, it was charged that press associations are building up evening at the expense of morning papers. This is a mistake. The developing and dominating preference for evening papers is grounded in the public taste, and accounted for by the many advantages they enjoy over mutational contemporaries. A morning paper is stale in the evening, when most people do the best part of their reading. News gathered in daylight is much more complete and reliable than that secured by the reporters of morning papers during the night. The evening paper leads. It is the great daily of to-day, and will be of the future. In the very nature of things, the morning press must take second rank.—Troy Press.

Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, writing in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists call it at 50 cents package. dw

Cobourg's Economy.

The Pruning Knife Unsparingly Applied.

Cobourg has had a sharp attack of municipal economy. At the last meeting of the town council sufficient reductions were made in the salaries of civic officials to aggregate $1,470, equivalent to a reduction of one mill on the rate of taxation. The following is

A SUMMARY OF REDUCTIONS AND SAVINGS.

	Salary Present	Proposed	Saving
Police Magistrate	$640	$440	$200
Town Clerk,	550	450	100
Treasurer,	300	200	100
Assessors,	200	100	100
Collectors,	250	225	25
Chief of Police,	600	500	100
Street Inspector,	500	425	75
Teamster	425	425
Night watchman (abol)	450		450
Fire Department	300	200	150
Chief of F. Dep't (abol)	50		50
Auditors,	60	40	20
	$4,425	$3,015	$1,470

This is something which has perhaps only the excuse of necessity. On general principles, the lowest salaries are not the best for a town. A man that enters on his duties with the feeling that he is underpaid, will not naturally exert himself above much more than is necessary to earn his salary. Although Cobourg is compelled to indirectly filch a little revenue out of the pockets of her civic officials, she has got the—the—expansion on Peterborough laid down 1,306 feet of sewer, and the medical health officer boasts that the town had only 37 cases of infectious diseases last year, and that the town was unusually healthy.

'Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me great relief in bronchitis. Within a month I have sent some of this preparation to a friend suffering from bronchitis and asthma. It has done him so much good that he writes for more."—Charles F. Dumperville, Plymouth, England.

Easily Caught.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains. dw

Worms cause serious sickness. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup destroys and expels all kinds of worms quickly and surely.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is is a perfect remover of Dandruff not only in the first stages but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

Self Application of Electricity

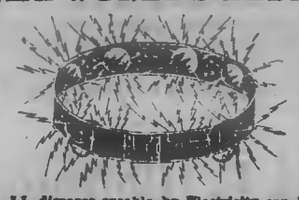
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. 6041 w

A DETROIT MIRACLE.

A Great Triumph for Canadian Medical Science.

Particulars of One of the Most Remarkable Cures on Record Described by the Detroit "News"—A Story Worthy a Careful Perusal.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 29th, 1892.—A case has just come to light here, the particulars of which are published in the Evening News, which will be read with considerable interest by all Canadians, as it records the remarkable achievement of a Canadian medical discovery, which has already, in its own country, won great and enduring fame. At this added triumph there is no doubt the fellow countrymen of the proprietors will rejoice, as it sheds lustre on Canadian science. The story is told by the News as follows:—

The following paragraph, which appeared in the News a short time ago, furnished the basis of this information—a case that was so wonderfully remarkable that it demanded further explanation. It is of sufficient importance to the News' readers to report it to them fully. It was so important then that it attracted considerable attention at the time. The following is the paragraph in question:—

"C. B. Northrop, for 28 years one of the best known merchants on Woodward avenue, who was supposed to be dying last spring of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis, has secured a new lease of life and returned to work at his store. The disease has always been supposed to be incurable, but Mr. Northrop's condition is greatly improved, and it looks now as if the grave would be cheated of its prey."

Since that time Mr. Northrop has steadily improved, not only in looks, but in condition, till he has regained his old-time strength.

It had been hinted to the writer of this article, who was acquainted with Mr. Northrop, that this miraculous change had been wrought by a very simple remedy called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When asked about it Mr. Northrop fully verified the statement, and not only so, but he had taken pains to inform any one who was suffering in a similar manner when he heard of any such case. Mr. Northrop was enthusiastic at the result in his own case of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was a remedy he had heard of after he had tried everything he could hope to give him relief. He had been in the care of the best physicians who did all they could to alleviate this terrible malady, but without any avail. He had given up hope when a friend in Lockport, N Y, wrote him of the case of a person there who had been cured in similar circumstances by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The person cured at Lockport had obtained his information respecting Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from an article published in the Hamilton, Ont., Times. The case was called "The Hamilton Miracle" and told the story of a man in that city, who, after almost incredible suffering, was pronounced by the most eminent physicians to be incurable and permanently disabled. He had spent hundreds of dollars in all sorts of treatment and appliances, only to be told in the end that there was no hope for him, and that cure was impossible. The person alluded to, (Mr. John Marshall, of 25 Little William Street, Hamilton, Ont.) was a member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, and after having been pronounced permanently disabled and incurable by the physicians, was paid the $1,000 disability insurance provided by the order for its members in such cases, for years Mr. Marshall had been utterly helpless, and was barely able to drag himself around his house with the aid of crutches. His agonies were almost unbearable and life was a burden to him, when at last relief came. Some months after he had been paid the disability claim he heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was induced to try them. The result was miraculous; almost from the outset an improvement was noticed, and in a few months the man whom medical experts had said was incurable, was going about the city healthier and stronger than before. Mr. Marshall was so well known in Hamilton that all the city newspapers wrote up his wonderful recovery in detail, and it was thus, as before stated, that Mr. Northrop came into possession of the information that led to his equally marvelous recovery. One could scarcely conceive a case more hopeless than that of Mr. Northrop. His injury came about in this way: One day nearly four years ago, he stumbled and fell the complete length of a steep flight of stairs, which were at the rear of his store. His head and spine were severly injured. He was picked up and taken to his home. Creeping paralysis very soon developed itself and in spite of the most strenuous efforts of friends and physicians the terrible affliction fastened itself upon him. For nearly two years he was perfectly helpless. He could do nothing to support his strength in the least effort. He had to be wheeled about in an invalid's chair. He was weak, pale and fast sinking when the timely information came that veritably snatched his life from the jaws of death. Those who at that time saw a feeble old man wheeled into his store on an invalid's chair, would not recognized the man now, so great is the change that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have wrought. When Mr. Northrop learned of the remedy that had cured Mr. Marshall in Hamilton and the person in Lockport, he procured a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through Messrs. Bassett & L'Hommedieu, 95 Woodward avenue, and from the outset found an improvement. He faithfully adhered to the use of the remedy until now he is completely restored. Mr. Northrop declares that there can be no doubt as to Pink Pills being the cause of his restoration to health, as all other remedies and medical treatment left him in a condition rapidly going from bad to worse, until at last it was declared there was no hope for him and he was pronounced incurable. He was in this terrible condition when he began to use Dr. William's Pink Pills, and they have restored him to health.

Mr. Northrop was asked what was claimed for this wonderful remedy, and replied that he understood the proprietors claim it to be a blood builder and nerve restorer; supplying in a condensed form all the elements necessary to enrich the blood, restore shattered nerves and drive out disease. It is claimed by the proprietors that Pink Pills will cure paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, palpitation of the heart, headache, and all diseases peculiar to females, loss of appetite, dizziness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, and all diseases arising from overwork, mental worry, loss of vital force, etc

"I want to say," said Mr. Northrop, "that I don't have much faith in patent med'cines, but I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The proprietors, however, claim that they are not a patent medicine in the sense in which the term is used, but a highly scientific preparation, the result of years of careful study and experiment on the part of the proprietors, and the pills were successfully used in private practice for years before being placed for general sale. Mr. Northrop declares that he is a living example that there is nothing to equal these pills as a cure for nerve diseases. On inquiry the writer found that these pills were manufactured by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Merristown, N.Y., and the pills are sold in boxes, (never in bulk by the hundred) at 50 cents a box, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., from either the above addresses. The price at which these pills are sold make a course of treatment with them comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies, or medical treatment. This case is one of the most remarkable on record, as it is one right here in Detroit, and not a thousand miles away, it can be easily verified. Mr. Northrop is very well known to the people of Detroit, and he says he is only too glad to testify of the marvelous cure wrought in his case. He says he considers it his duty to help all who are similarly afflicted by any word he can say on behalf of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If any of the News readers want any further information, we feel sure Mr. Northrop would willingly oblige them, as he has the writer in relating these facts to him.

Three and a Third Miles per Minute.

An inventor of electric apparatus is to construct a railroad, the cars are to be propelled at a rate of speed something like 3⅓ miles each minute. The motive power is electricity, the current being communicated directly to the motor by means of a third rail, which is arranged to be a complete conductor in any kind of weather. To guard against danger from the cars jumping off the track, which by the way would be inevitable were no provision made, each truck is equipped with a strong sliding clutch or shoe sliding along third rail. The rails are of a very heavy quality, and the road bed is to be especially constructed and to be the most substantial possible. Each car is to be provided with 200 horse motors. The inventor states that he will harness Niagara Falls, manufacture his electricity there, and run it by feed wires to the main line. If the plans materialize, the road is to be established between New York city and San Francisco.

"My Daughter's Life

Was saved by Hood's Sarsaparilla," says Mr. B. B. Jones, of Alna, Maine, "She had seven running sores in different places on her body, but on giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla there was marked improvement, and now she is well, strong and healthy."

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The Dog Shooting Case.

Judgment was given this afternoon in the Otonabee dog shooting case, in which George Davidson charged James Moore with shooting his dog, which the latter claimed he was justified in doing as it was a nuisance on his premises. The case was tried last Saturday and judgment was reserved till to-day, when defendant was fined $2 00 and costs and the value of the dog assessed by the court at $20.

It Comes With Grand Reference.

We trust our Canadian people will never class Paine's Celery Compound with the ordinary patents and nostrums with which the country is flooded. It is an honest remedy and thoroughly reliable, being a prescription of one of the most eminent physicians that ever lived. A trial will convince you.

The Oratorio "Emmanuel."

There was a very successful rehearsal at the Y.M.C.A. rooms last night. The work is well done. The solo parts are well in hand, and the choruses showed great steadiness and finish. The final rehearsal, with full orchestral accompaniment, will add the finishing touches, and, doubtless, the presentation of the Oratorio on Tuesday evening will constitute one of the greatest musical events of the past decade in Peterborough. It will be well worth hearing.

A Mysterious River.

"Prof. Gustav once with a mesmeric glance overpowered a frantic maniac." In the foregoing sentence is hidden the name of a celebrated river, and the successful discoverer of it may make money. For the first correct answer THE FIRESIDE WEEKLY offers $100 in cash, second $75, third $50, next two $25, next five $10, and more than a hundred cash and other valuable prizes; besides which $25 and $10 are offered for the first and second from each province. Fifty cents for a three months' trial subscription to the FIRESIDE must accompany each solution. Thirteen numbers of the best family paper in Canada for fifty cents. Send post office orders where possible, and send in early. Address, FIRESIDE WEEKLY, 9 Adelaide W., Toronto, Ont.

A Peterborough Boy's Success.

The Brandon Times in its account of the town of Wawanesa, has this to say of a former Peterborough boy who was at one time in the employ of Mr. Adam Hall:—"Mr. R. J. Nettbercut has the only hardware store in Wawanesa. He came from Peterborough, Ont., in the spring of 1890 to Brandon and was in the employ of Mr. Robert Wilson for a short time before taking charge of that gentleman's business in Wawanesa. In February, 1891; he purchased the Wawanesa business together with the building in which it was carried on. In September of the same year he added a large addition, and now has one of the largest stores and best businesses in the place, carrying a stock of about $7,000. His trade has more than doubled since he took it over, but this is partly accounted for by the removal of two other hardware firms from that place. His marked success can be attributed not only to his fine business qualities, but largely also to his personal attractions.

Personal.

Mr. K. G. Loch is recovering from an attack of la grippe.

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie is seriously ill. He has become delerious. His physicians have little hope.

Mr. Gil. Dafoe, well known in town, is dangerously ill at St. Joseph's Hospital. His recovery is doubtful.

Fred. O'Neil, of London, a well-known baseball catcher, who played in Peterborough at one time, is dying at his home in London.

Mr. A. B. Appleby, of Peterborough, the Post says, was in Cobourg on Wednesday. He reports having made an extensive deal in hides this winter.

Mr. S. Woodrofe, vice president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, was in town to-day consulting with the members of the local chapter in reference to the annual convention in Toronto next week.

Mr. Thomas H. Gemmel, at present conducting a very successful steam dyeing establishment in Guelph, is in town on a visit, combining business with pleasure. He is pleased to see Peterborough, his old home, making such growth.

Mr. Will J. Bailey, at one time connected with the WEEKLY EXAMINER, afterward joint owner with Mr. T. Braden of the Calgary Tribune, and at present manager of the New Westminster Daily Ledger, has been spending a few weeks in Ontario. On his way east he stopped over to renew old associations in Peterborough. He is much pleased to notice the great progress made Peterborough, which, he thinks, is one of the brightest towns in Ontario.

The EXAMINER congratulates Mr. William Harty, of Kingston on having received the Liberal nomination for the Local Legislature, and wishes him success. Mr. Harty will probably "get there." He is a Peterborough boy, and possesses all the pluck and energy that characterizes that class. He lived in Peterborough till he was about 15 years of age. His father conducted a general store in Peterborough on George street, in a shop in the neighborhood of Wyatt's jewelry store.

Ourliana.

Bobcaygeon defeated Lindsay on the home rink on Monday night by a score of 35 to 28.

In the curling contest on Friday afternoon Mr. Croft's rinks defeated Mr. Snowden's rink, the score being 13 to 5.

Yesterday evening the Montreal and Ontario Bank curlers met in the curling rink to take and give revenge. Montreal was again victorious by a score of 16 to 9. Ontario will have to brace up or her bank balance will be in a serious muddle.

Society Notes.

A special meeting of Court Langton, No. 354, Canadian Order of Foresters, will be held Monday evening, Feb. 8th. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be transacted.

The Salvation Army.

Staff Capt. Cox and Capt. Martin arrived in town on the C.P.R. noon train to-day. They were escorted through the principal streets by the local army band. Staff Capt. Cox will give an address to-night on "Travels in India." She will lead meetings all day Sunday, speaking to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on "Slum rescue work." On Monday night she gives an address on "Darkest England," and on Tuesday night she will give another address on "Midnight in London." The young woman is possessed of wonderful elocutionary powers, and is greeted with large and appreciative audiences wherever she appears. She is considered the pioneer in the slum work of London, and in the course of her lectures she gives graphic accounts of what she has experienced. She is the guest of Dr. Fife. Staff-Capt. Cox will conduct meetings on Monday and Tuesday afternoons at 3 o'clock.

Geary Still at Large.

On Thursday night the now notorious Geary, who is charged with having committed a series of robberies, was a guest at the Dominion hotel, on the corner of Bridge and Rear streets, Campbellford, the Herald says. Soon after his arrival in the evening, we are informed he was recognized by a man who is now residing in Campbellford, and the two went to the bar and drank together; and, it is said, that during the conversation which took place between them, Geary remarked that he would yet go down to the penitentiary for life, but no one man would take him. His friend did not make the presence of the burglar known, as he should have done, and Geary was allowed to quietly depart, which he did on Friday morning, going in the direction of Havelock. That same night the residence of Mr. Lemon, at Havelock, was entered and a gold watch and a sum of money was taken. Three other strangers were in company with Geary at Campbellford and represented themselves as being engaged in the sale of furniture polish. They had not, however, been in the village long when they were "spotted" and closely watched. They put up for the night at the Queen's hotel and left early Sunday morning. They were tall men, the being recognized as a young man who at one time resided in Peterborough.

Electricity at the Collegiate Institute.

The Literary Society's Lecture Series—Principal Fessenden's Talk on Electricity—Concise Statements of Electric Facts Illustrated by Experiments.

Last night there was a fair attendance at the assembly room of the Collegiate Institute buildings to hear Mr. Principal Fessenden deliver the second lecture of the the series.

Mr. Dodds, president filled the chair. As usual a short musical programme gave variety to the evening's enjoyment. Previous to the address Miss Boucher very pleasingly rendered a pianoforte solo, and another young lady gave a vocal solo. After the address Mr. B. Brooks played a pianoforte solo in good taste, and the Glee Club closed the evening's enjoyment with a well sung selection.

Mr. Principal Fessenden's address was intended to be largely introductory to the complimentary lectures to be delivered next.

LAST NIGHT'S LECTURE

illustrated by experiment, some of the principal facts and laws regarding the electric current, among which were, given concisely:

1.—The action of the current upon a compass needle suspended near the circuit.

2.—The effect of the current upon a piece of soft iron about which it is made to circulate many times, making the iron a powerful magnet during the continuance of the current.

3.—The effect of the current in heating the circuit through which it flows, this heating effect being greater, the poorer the conductor.

4.—The chemical effect of the current; a chemical compound being decomposed by the passage of the current through it, and its constituents set free, part at the point where the current enters the compound and part at the point where it leaves. Water was the substance actually decomposed.

5.—It was demonstrated that the strength of an electric current depended upon the exciting cause, or electro-motive force, as it is called, and also upon the circuit through which the current is forced. The greater the electro-motive force the stronger the current; the greater the resistance of the circuit the weaker the current.

6.—It was shown that the resistance of a circuit increased with its length, that the resistance offered by a fine wire is greater than that offered by a coarse one, and that a wire of one metal may than a wire of the same length and size of another material.

7.—It was shown that when the current passes from one body to another which it touches merely, there is considerable resistance at the point of contact, and that this resistance may be very much diminished by increasing the pressure between the two bodies.

8.—It was demonstrated that a current may be generated in a closed circuit by moving this circuit in the neighbourhood of a magnet or of an electric current in another circuit.

9.—It was also shown that an electric current may be obtained by heating the junction of two different metals.

At the next lecture on Friday evening, February 12th, explanations will be given, with experimental illustrations, of the manner in which the above facts have been taken advantage of in the more important practical applications of the electric current.

Found Frozen to Death.

Michael Greer Perishes From Cold on Spook Island, Rice Lake.

On Friday the body of Mr. Michael Greer, Sr., was found under the snow on Spook Island, Rice Lake. The circumstances connected with this sad event are these. Mr. Greer's son Michael Greer, jr., is manager of the Jubilee Point Hotel. Having been attacked with la grippe, his father started on Wednesday to cross the lake on foot to Harwood, a distance of about 3½ miles, to summon a doctor. The walking was extremely heavy and fatiguing, but Mr. Greer, Sr., reached Harwood, and started to return home, but he never reached it. He was accompanied by his dog and the faithful animal stayed with him till Friday morning when he returned home alone. This naturally alarmed the family and on Friday when Captain Clare Calcutt, returning from Harwood, called at the hotel and learned of the circumstances, he at once started a search for the missing man. In company with Mr. Robert Jackson, of Cow Island, they started to search the lake, and at length the latter's collie dog discovered the dead body of Michael Greer, buried under the snow, on the shore of Spook Island. It is supposed that the old man, on returning from Harwood, so overcome with fatigue, after his long, laborious, and wearisome walk through the deep and trackless snow, went ashore on Spook Island, which is about half way between the village and the Point, to rest, and was too much exhausted to prevent him succumbing to the deadly effects of the cold. His dog that accompanied him had stayed with the dead body of its master from Wednesday till Friday, when it went home alone as above stated. The deceased was about 65 years of age, and was for a long time a well known resident of Ashburnham, from which place he removed to Jubilee Point about two years ago.

Some tobacconos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. For in that case it burns at a lower temperature than almost anything else. Nothing of this kind is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.

News Nuggets.

—There was a blank at the police court this morning.

—There was a fair market this morning, and plenty of wood and hay offered for sale.

—Mr. George Newton, of Lindsay, intends starting a weekly newspaper in Campbellford.

—A rink of the Lindsay Curling Club left Thursday evening for Winnipeg to take part in the great bonspiel which opens there on Feb. 9th.

—The Berrie Advance has carried out its threat of publishing the names and amounts of delinquent debtors by the publication of a list embracing half a column.

The Smith Street Bridge.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In reading your paper I notice that a discussion took place about the Smith street bridge in the meeting of the county council. I think it would be a benefit to keep the old bridge at its old place, should it even get replaced by an iron one, for the town people make as much use of it—that is, the merchants' expresses—as the farmers do. I also notice in your paper that the engineer has condemned it. If so, a notice to that effect should be posted up, and then the travelling public would cross at their own risk. As long as there is no notice to guide a stranger, should an accident occur, who would foot the bill, the town or county?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours truly,

Address and Presentation.

Vice-Chief Ranger Farley Remembered by His Brethren.

On Thursday evening, there was a special meeting of Court St. Peter, Catholic Order of Foresters, the court meeting to signalize the occasion of the marriage of Mr. J. Farley, Vice-Chief ranger who has just returned from his honeymoon trip. The meeting was held in the hall of the Murray street school and after routine, Mr. J. P. Bryson read the following address:—

To Bro. J. Farley, V.C.R., St. Peter's Court 225, C. O. F.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—We, the members of St. Peter's Court, No. 225, C. O. F., take the opportunity on the occasion of your marriage, to extend to you and your honored companion, our sincere and hearty congratulations, and at the same time to express to you the high esteem and regard in which you are held by the body over which you have so ably helped to preside since our organization. It affords us much pleasure in taking a retrospective view of the progress made by our Order since you were elected to the position of V. C. R., to note the rapid strides, both financially and numerically made, thereby placing us in the front rank among the fraternal societies of this town. This we believe has been in large measure due to the untiring zeal and energy which you have always manifested in furthering the interest of our beloved order. And we beg you to accept this cabinet as a slight memento of our brotherly love. In conclusion we pray that God may shower his choicest blessing on you and your honoured spouse and we trust that you may long be spared to give us the benefit of your sound judgment and ripe experience.

Signed on behalf of the court.

JAMES BOGUE, Chairman. JAS. P. BRYSON, R.S.

J. J. LYNOH, C.R. FRED H. BRENNAN, M.C.

Mr. Farley, who was delightfully surprised, made a neat and happy reply, expressing his thanks for the unexpected and handsome kindness of his brethren. The cabinet referred to in the address was a beautiful combined book case and writing desk finished in antique oak.

WHAT IS THE 'G. C.' BRAND?

A Visit to a Local Pork-Packing Establishment,

Of Mr. George Carton—Description of the Various Processes through which the Dressed Hogs Pass Before Reaching the Consumer—A Thriving Business—Great Increase in the Amount of Business Done.

Yesterday afternoon the EXAMINER called upon Mr. George Carton, pork packer, and was favoured with a look into the various departments of his now flourishing business, through the courtesy of the proprietor. The importance of this rapidly growing industry has not yet been fully realized by the majority of the public. As one is shown, however, through the extensive premises of a pork-packer in a large way of business, he realizes what a great benefit it is for the farmers of this district to have a market so close at hand in which their hog products meet with such a ready sale and realize good prices.

THE FIRST PROCESS.

The dressed hogs are purchased by Mr. Carton from the principal western markets, as well as in large quantities from the markets of this district. A brief description of the way in which the hogs are treated, after being received into the establishment, may be interesting.

The dressed hogs are first taken into cutting room, where they are decapitated in a wonderfully expert manner by one of the workmen. Following this, the carcasses are split with a large cleaver, after which the hams are taken off. The lard is next taken out and the ribs, which latter completes the operations in the cutting room.

PICKLING AND CURING.

The remains of the light hogs are next despatched to the pickling room and the heavy, to the curing room. The former is a large room on the basement floor, containing a number of large pickling vats. Here the light hogs are pickled for the purpose of converting into shoulders, breakfast and rolled bacon, and smoked back. In the curing room the heavy hogs receive a similar treatment and are converted into bacon.

The pickling and curing of the hogs requires about thirty days, during which time they are kept "in a pickle" of brine. The remaining portion of the basement is occupied by the room used for the purpose of storing barrelled pork.

On leaving the pickling and curing rooms the ordinary pork is ready for shipment. The smoked, however, is subjected to a further process, being heated by a wood fire and smoked with sawdust. We might say here that the smoked pork has been very favourably received on the market, there being a continually increasing demand for the hams, etc., as soon as they become known.

THE "G. C." BRAND.

This may particularly be said of the 'G. C." bread, which has been introduced to the market by Mr. Carton.

The casing room is on the ground floor same as the cutting room. Here the prepared pork is packed for shipping.

The lard after being taken from the hog is dealt with in the rendering department.

GROWTH OF THE BUSINESS.

The establishment has now a capacity of from sixty to eighty hogs a day during the packing season of six months. This necessitates the constant employment of from seven to ten men. This is a large increase over the number that were employed when the industry was first started, when one or two men were quite ample for the needs of the business.

The goods, particularly the 'G.C." brand have taken such a hold upon the market, both wholesale and retail, that the business has now increased to about five times its original extent. This speaks well for the energy and push of the present proprietor, who has only been in the wholesale business two years, previous to which he was one year in the retail trade.

SNOW WHITE LARD.

Mr. Carton also makes a specialty of his snow-white brand of pure lard, which is put up in tierces. A visit to this thriving place of business, will well repay the time and trouble taken and the proprietor expects next season, to double his present output.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

JUDITH ARMYTAGE.

By Julian Hawthorne.

HEN he graduated from the theological college, Geoffrey Armytage thought he had a divine call to preach unto the nations; but after preaching to the parishioners of Marl for 10 years he suspected he was on the wrong tack. The bent of his mind was speculative and metaphysical rather than theological or religious. He flattered himself that he was too strong for orthodoxy; but, in truth, he was too weak; he could not steer a straight course. He had married meanwhile, and Judith was born: so he could not afford to quit the ministry. There he hung, between necessity and inclination—or conscience, as he called it—for nearly 10 years more.

A stranger by the name of Belzibo came to Marl one summer (it was a pretty, mountainous spot), and sat in Armytage's church for six Sundays in succession. Mr. Belzibo was hard to make out. He was about 65, shabbily clad, with a ragged, grizzly beard and glowing eyes, set under shaggy eyebrows. He was of unusual hight, very lean, and walked with his hands clasped behind him and his grotesque visage thrust forward. His head was high above the ears and conical, covered with short gray hair. The top of his right ear had been cut off.

Nobody liked him, or knew what to make of him, and everybody feared him, except Judith Armytage, who was then eighteen. She treated him with a sort of unceremonious indifference, as if he were neither peculiar nor important. This was noticeable because, ordinarily, Judith was courteous, shy, and highly impressionable. She seemed to regard Belzibo not as a human creature exactly, but rather as a kind of animal—a thing without a soul—not a thing to be respected.

Belzibo came to dine at the parsonage one day. Mrs. Armytage had died some years before. The clergyman and Judith sat opposite each other at the small, square dining table, Belzibo at Judith's right; the fourth side was, of course, empty. After Judith had poured out the coffee, Belzibo abruptly said, "Armytage, have I your leave to make that girl my wife?"

"You? Your wife! Why—Judith"—stammered Armytage, amazed.

"I have money, plenty of it," the other added.

"Do you know anything of this, daughter?" asked the clergyman.

"It is not worth heeding" said she, quite composedly. "There is your coffee, sir."

"I was a fine man 40 years ago," Belzibo rejoined, staring at the vacancy across the table.

Judith looked at him and smiled.

"You don't believe it? Look!" said he.

He lifted his bony finger and pointed across the table. Armytage and his daughter both looked there. Armytage saw nothing. Judith turned pale, half rose from her chair and sank back again with a low cry.

"What is the matter, my dear?" inquired her father.

Judith shook her head and moistened her lips.

"What are 40 years?" ejaculated Belzibo, with a dark glance at her.

"I knew you had lost it," returned she, commanding herself to speak.

"What is it?" repeated Armytage, blankly.

Belzibo grinned. "Metempsychosis," said he. After a pause, he added, addressing Judith: "You will meet him again; and I will have you after all."

She had now recovered herself and said:

"I don't believe in those things. At any rate it would make no difference. You are what you are and I am I." With this she rose from the table and went out.

"Really, this is most extraordinary," exclaimed the clergyman.

"Let us change the subject," said Belzibo. "I take an interest in you. You have no business in a pulpit. Your brain was built for other business. You want to burrow into the obscurity of things. The philosopher's stone—or Hermitic philosophy? What is the soul? What the body? What their creation? Is nature soluble and to be recompounded? These are the kind of problems for you. Quit the church and take them up."

"It can't be," answered Armytage, with agitation. "I have no means of support but from my calling. We cannot do what we would."

"Pshaw! We can if we will. That's it. When I was 25 I killed a man—murdered him."

"Mr. Belzibo!" protested the clergyman, his jaw falling.

"There, there! It may have been a case of suicide. And I shouldn't mind repeating it now. How would you like ten thousand a year and a fine house and grounds of your own?"

"I fear you are talking at random, Mr. Belzibo."

"Listen to me. Promise me to leave the pulpit and take up philosophy and you shall have them. Is it a bargain?"

"Come, come, Mr. Belzibo. I really must"—

Belzibo struck the table heavily with his hand. "Is it a bargain, I say," he cried. "Yes or no? Ten thousand a year and a splendid property on condition you leave the ministry. I am in earnest, you fool—in dead earnest! Yes or no? Answer me!"

"But I don't know—well, then, yes, of course!" faltered Armytage, flinching under the fierce stare and frightened by the imperious will.

Belzibo leaned back in his chair with a chuckle. Then he got up and, going over to Armytage, held out his hand.

"It's a bargain," said he. "Give me your hand on it. A bargain!"

Armytage faintly put forth his hand, which the other grasped in a cold, bony clutch.

II

A week later news came that Belzibo, who had left Marl on the day following the above incident, was dead, and in due course Mr. Armytage was informed that the will of the deceased made him heir to $800,000 and a handsome dwelling house, "The Cedars," standing in grounds 100 acres in extent on the sea shore. The house was completely furnished and contained a valuable library, particularly rich in works on the occult sciences and speculative philosophy.

Armytage had said nothing to Judith about the "bargain" he had made with Belzibo; indeed, he had supposed the man must be jesting or crazy, and had tried to forget the affair. The news of the bequest gave him a shock, only partly disagreeable. Here was a future of luxury passed in his favorite but hitherto unenjoyed pursuits. Nothing was said in the will about conditions, but the whole thing was incomprehensible. It almost looked as if Belzibo had gone off and killed himself in order to keep his engagement. But why? To suppose that he cared for Armytage was absurd, and as for Judith, had she not refused him with scorn? This was uncomfortable, but then, there was the fortune.

"An unlooked for blessing, indeed!" remarked he to Judith.

"I think it would be better not to accept it," replied she.

"My dear, money is not to be sought to the exclusion of higher things but neither are we to reject fortune when it comes. This bequest puts the world at your feet and leaves me free to study and—meditate."

"You might, perhaps, do some good with it in the church," said Judith.

"I—it has been my intention—I have for some time determined to take the first opportunity to retire from the ministry," returned her father.

She looked at him with a startled expression. "Don't do it, father!" she said earnestly. "No good will come of it. If you must keep the bequest, sell the Cedars and the estate, and live here; use the money in the parish."

"Perhaps. I will think it over. But I am getting old, and—there are other reasons. I will think it over, and decide," said Armytage, uneasily.

The next morning he came down to breakfast with a ghastly look. "I must accept the legacy and give up the fight," were his first words to his daughter.

Judith glanced up at him and her face darkened. But she make no reply, and for several minutes there was silence. At length she said, in a quiet tone: "How did you sleep last night, father?"

"Did you see it, too?" returned he, drawing in his breath.

"If it will make you more comfortable," she rejoined, evading a direct answer, "I am willing to go to the Cedars. The mischief has been done, and we will make the best of it."

So to the Cedars they went. Indeed, almost any one would have done so in their place. Mr. Armytage's sudden abandonment of the pulpit caused some gossip, as a matter of course, and superstitious old women declared that Belzibo was no other than the great Prince Beelzebub himself, and that he had bought the clergyman's soul and paid for it in real estate and cash. But this was absurd: for Mr. Belzibo was a retired shipowner, who had made his fortune years before, in the East Indian trade; and, assuming that he has a soul of his own, what should he want with anybody else's?

Shakespeare will please excuse us if we modify him thus: Thrice is he clad who hath his system strengthened with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and he but naked, though arrayed in furs, whose blood is poor or with disease corrupted. An incomparable medicine!

NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890.
W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.
DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.
Yours faithfully,

St. Andrews' Brotherhood.

The Knights Errant of the Church.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is an organization that in the seven or eight years of its life has attracted to itself a good deal of attention. The proportion of young men who are not religious seems so large that it is a matter of peculiar satisfaction that there is a section of them who are impressed with the solemn problems that confront every human being on the very threshold of life. Still more surprising and satisfactory is it to find that a portion of the young men of the United States, yea of Chicago itself, are banding themselves together, a bright-eyed body of youths full of enthusiasm for the work of the Master. The work is a very interesting one and the remarkable way in which it has spread argues that the ground was prepared for the seed and that the harvest will probably be abundant.

In the year 1883 a number of young men belonging to a Bible class in connection with St. James' Episcopal Church, Chicago, of that year and organized a society which they christened the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The first convention of the Brotherhood took place in 1886, at which time there were 36 chapters of the organization in existence. In 1887 the number of chapters had increased to 113, with a membership of 2,361. Canada was first officially represented at the annual convention in the year 1890. In that year 433 chapters were in existence with a total membership of 6,500. The first Canadian convention was held in the same year. At the time of writing there are 35 chapters in Canada with a membership of 500.

MET ON ST. ANDREW'S DAY

The numbers indicated here are not remarkable, but in considering them it must be noted that the society is not one likely to swell into tumid proportions. It is not an association whose members yield a merely faint adhesion to its principles. Every young man in the Brotherhood of St. Andrew

MUST BE A SOLDIER AND AN ENTHUSIAST.

Their rules are two: The rule of prayer and the rule of service. The rule of prayer is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's kingdom among men, and for God's blessing upon the labours of the Brotherhood. The rule of service is to make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one young man within hearing of the Gospel.

The following axioms, as they are called, give a good idea of the snap and energy that are behind this movement:

1. Every baptised man is pledged to service in the name of Christ for the spread of His kingdom.
2. Young men can most effectively spread Christ's kingdom among young men.
3. Two men working together can accomplish more than two men working apart.
4. The need of association and combination is as great in religion as in secular work.

And take this sample of instructions to the brethren:

Go right on working through the summer. No satisfactory reason can be given for the intimate connection between the thermometer and Christian work. As one goes up the other goes down. Wall street in August is just as bustling as Wall street in January. A life insurance company doesn't suspend business from June to October. Why should a Brotherhood Chapter? You are in the life insurance business. Doctors don't stop work during the summer. There is as much physical disease then as during the winter. Sin, too, is there just as much spiritual and moral disease. As long as there is any work ahead an athlete does not give up training.

Men permeated by this spirit are bound to make the world move a little. The The organization is confined to the Episcopal church. The Canadian convention assembles in Toronto on Feb. 12, 13 and 14. The programme for the three days is an excellent one, some distinguished Canadian and American speakers taking part.

St. John's Chapter.

There is an active chapter of the brotherhood in Peterborough organized some two years ago, the young men's guild founded by the rector being merged into the brotherhood. It is not easy to secure detailed information relating to the brotherhood here—there is no desire for parade or ostentation. The brotherhood is an organization of young men banded together for work—for quiet, aggressive, effective work, and does not court notice nor public attention. Membership means work—and no member is retained who fails in interest—for instance, a member who misses two meetings of the Chapter consecutively, without legitimate excuse, is excused from further connection. Every member has to pass a probationary period of three months before being fully admitted. In connection with the local chapter there is a young men's Bible class, and for a time there was a choir also, but in the reorganization of the church choir the Brotherhood choir was amalgamated with it. The work of the members and consists in part in seeking out and bringing young men to church and to the young men's Bible class; in paying personal visits to young men arriving in town, and giving them a friendly and helping hand; welcoming strangers to the church, and in numerous other ways promoting the interests of the church and arousing religious interest in young men. The results of the work of the local chapter is shown by the large number of young men seen in the congregation at St. John's.

IS INDIVIDUAL AND DIRECT,

St. John's chapter will be well represented at the coming annual convention of St. Andrews' Brotherhood in Toronto. On Saturday, Feb. 13th the second day of the convention, St. John's Chapter, Peterborough will give before the convention a sample chapter meeting, going through the routine observed at the regular meetings and the procedure will form the subject of discussion by the convention. In the afternoon conference of the same day Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough, will occupy the chair.

Again a Minority Member.

Thursday the Supreme Court of New Brunswick decided that Mr. Baird, the defeated Tory candidate in Queen's county was entitled to the seat in the House of Commons to which Mr. King was elected by a majority of 29 votes. Mr. King having admitted illegal practices by agents, the court held that his opponent was entitled to strike off votes from his majority, but found an excuse for refusing to Mr. King the right to strike off votes from Mr. Baird's total. Of course the case will be carried to the Dominion Supreme Court, the New Brunswick court being regarded as little more than a Conservative committee.

SUICIDE ENDS A SUIT.

Disgraced for Speculating With a $5000 Trust Fund—He Prefers Death to Prison.

EASTON, Pa., Feb. 5.—A suicidal shot which rang through the Court House corridors this morning startled Easton and put a stop to a most sensational lawsuit by removing the defendant therein, Preston M. Gernet, one of Northampton county's most prominent young lawyers.

Mr. Gernet, who was about 35 years of age and had been so successful in his practice as to have law offices both here and in Bethlehem, was defendant in a suit wherein he was charged with misappropriating $5000 belonging to the estate of Samuel J. Knauffman, deceased, and the trial was in progress when he fired the fatal shot.

Could Not Face Disgrace.

Many spectators were gathered in the courtroom to hear Gernet's continuation of the embarrassing testimony into whith he, as defendant, was led yesterday. The bell which rang its summons to the trial meant that Gernet must again take the witness stand and explain, under a hot cross-examination, his admission of yesterday that he had speculated in mining stocks with the $5000 which Emanuel Odenwelder, executor, had given him to deposit as attorney for the Kauffman estate.

Gernet had alleged that the money was given him to invest, and that he did so; but the investments, of which the executor approved, turned out bad, and the money was lost.

It was yesterday that the trial of the suit to recover the $5000 began and Gernet made his damaging admissions as to mining stocks. This morning he went to the Court House, and entering the Recorder's office spoke pleasantly, but did not refer to his case. He seemed downcast, and when the Court House bell rang he asked the Recorder for the key to a private toilet room, and entered. Those in the Recorder's office soon heard a noise, and rushed to the closet, when they saw smoke coming out of the door.

Forcing open the door the startled investigators found Gernet unconscious on the floor, with a ghastly wound in his right temple. He died a few seconds later. A revolver, still smoking from one of its two empty chambers, lay beside him.

The Suicide's Sad Letter.

The following letter, addressed to Mr. Gernet's wife, was found on his person:

"MY DARLING NELL,—Forgive me for what I am about to do. There is no escape for me, and, besides the cases in court, Knauss has been after me these two weeks past, although I only borrowed the money from him. I see before me perhaps ten to fifteen years in prison without ability to support you in any way. Forgive me, for I do it to save you the shame of having a husband in prison. My mother! Tell her to forgive me. I save her the shame of having a son in jail. Oh, that I might kiss you again. Good-by, forgive; forgive, good-by. Your own ROB."

Mr. Gernet, who was one of the most promising and popular graduates of Muhlenburg College, was prominent in local Masonic circles. The suicide of no other citizen of Easton could have created a greater sensation.

TRADE PROSPECTS.

Bradstreet's Reports for the Week May Be Considered as Satisfactory.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's on the whole are more favorable as to the course of general trade than in any preceding week this year. Nearly every despatch records some improvement.

General trade is only moderately active in the Province of Ontario. Feb. 4 was settling day and payments were fairly well met. In the Province of Quebec the reverse was true, renewals being quite conspicuous.

Business failures in the Dominion of Canada this week equal 34, against 44 last week and 58 one year ago.

The bank clearings' total this week for Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Hamilton is a little less than that of a week ago.

Concluded After Two Months' Argument.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—The longest argument ever heard in Canada was concluded in the Supreme Court yesterday, when Hon. Edward Blake closed the answer in the case of T.P.R. v. Conmee and McLellan. The argument lasted over two months.

BREEDERS' OF SWINE.

Annual Convention in Toronto—This Year's Officers—Delegates Appointed.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—The Swine Breeders' Association met yesterday afternoon in Shaftesbury Hall. J. C Snell, Edmonton, occupied the chair.

The election of officers took place, resulting as follows: President, J. C. Snell, Edmonton; Vice-President, D. de Courcey, Burnholm; Directors, Yorkshire, J. E. Brethour, Burford; Berkshires, S. Coxworth, Claremont; Suffolks, R. Dorsey, Burnhamthorp; Essex, James, James Main, Milton; Chester Whites, R. H. Harding, Thorndale; Poland Chinas, J. J. Payne, Chatham; Victorias, William Butler, Dereham Centre; Jersey Reds and Tamworths, John Bell, Amaroux; Auditors—Frank Green, Toronto; R. F. Shore, London.

A large number of delegates were appointed to the various fair boards of 1892.

Interesting addresses were delivered during the afternoon by the following gentlemen: Prof. William Saunders, Ottawa; Prof. Dean, O.A.C., Guelph; J. J. Payne, Chatham; Dr. W. Cowan, Galt; J. C. Snell, Edmonton; R. H. Harding, Thorndale; G. Coxworth, Claremont; D. D. Courcey, Bornholm; F. W. Fearman, Hamilton; J. E. Brethour, Burford; Thomas Bayles, Trowbridge; and F. W. Hodson, London.

Shire Horse Breeders.

The Shire Horse Association of Canada held it fourth annual meeting in the office of the Agriculture and Arts Association, with President John Gardhouse of Highfield in the chair.

The secretary reported that the registrations during the year 1891 numbered only 83, 20 of these being stallions and 13 mares. In all 319 shires were registered on the books of the association. Eleven new members had been added during the year. At the spring stallion show held last March, a few shire horses were shown, but the space was not all filled. No trouble has been found in having shires recorded in the report pass through the American customs. At the suggestion of the treasurer it was decided to offer a sweepstake prize of $20 for shire stallions.

The following officers were elected: President, John Gardhouse, Highfield; vice-presidents—Ontario, John Dunkin, Riverview; Quebec, J. V. Papineau, Barnston; Manitoba, Henry Munn, Brandon; Prince Edward Island, Thomas Robbins, Centreville; Northwest Territories, Dr. C. J. L. Bush, Glenfell; directors, J. Y. Ormsby, V.S., Springfield-on-the-Credit; W. H. Millman, Woodstock; J. G. Wardlaw, Downsview; Robert Mackress, Tullamore; William Ferguson, Auburn; F. Greene, jr., Toronto; W. Glendenning, Ellsmere; secretary, H. Wade, Toronto.

The following were appointed expert judges: William Elliott, Stanley Mills; Richard Gibson, Delaware; John Hope, Brantford; W. H. Hunter Orangeville; David Roundtree, Carleton West; Thomas Evans, St. Mary's; Mr. Hovey, Mitchell; John Bell, L'Amaronux, and William Bell, Willowdale.

Honoring a Citizen.

CLINTON, Feb. 6.—Mr. James Turnbull, who now resides at 116 Brunswick-avenue, Toronto, was requested to visit this town a few days ago and publicly presented with a beautiful silver service by the officers and members of Willis Presbyterian Church, with which he had long been connected. Mr. Turnbull has been principal of the Collegiate Institute here since 1868 and resigned on Jan. 1. The Collegiate Board also called upon him with a finely engrossed address.

SHELBURNE, Ont., Feb. 6.—James Fletcher, aged 45, a lawyer who has of late been living in Shelburne, has been committed for trial on a charge of having indecently assaulted a girl under 12 years of age named McLeod, daughter of John McLeod, in his (the lawyer's) own office.

Calamity City's Latest Victim.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 5.—Stephen Delacey, aged 48, a carpenter employed at the Michigan Central Railroad shops, was killed on the Ross-street crossing this morning while going to work. His body was horribly mangled. He leaves a widow and four children.

Heavy Failure in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—The firm of Boreau Freres & Co. suspended payment Friday. Their liabilities are $60,000 and the chief creditors Grant Bros. & Co. They were the largest French drygoods retail house in Montreal.

HARCOURT'S SPEECH.

And Violently Attacks Lord Salisbury's Speech.

SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 6.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt spoke here yesterday. In the course of his address he took occasion to denounce in vehement terms what he characterized as Lord Salisbury's "unjust references to the Catholic Irish" in his speech at Exeter on Tuesday last.

He pronounced the Premier's remarks under that head as "disgraceful and worthy a violent drunken Orangeman," adding that "such an appeal to the wicked passion of of national hatred was not only shameful but mischievous on the part of a statesman in Lord Salisbury's position."

Sir William declared that if the Premier had indulged in such remarks with regard to Canada or Australia those dependencies of the Empire would not remain 24 hours in allegiance to the Queen unless British claims on their fealty were supported by cannon and bayonet.

The Distinguished Dead.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Rev. George Phillips, D.D., President of Queen's College, Cambridge and ex-Vice-Chancellor of the University died to-day. He was born in 1804. He was the author of a number of works, including "A Syriac Grammar," "A Brief Treatise on the Use of a Case of Instruments," "A Critical and Exegetical Commentary on the Psalms." He edited and translated several works from the Syriac and contributed a number of articles to different periodicals.

Dismissed in Disgrace

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 6.—A. T. Hubbenet, Privy Councillor and Minister of Ways and Communications, has been dismissed from his place in the Cabinet by the peremptory dictum of the Czar for corruption in office.

Spurgeon's Successor.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The deacons of the Tabernacle, who have in their power the choice of a successor to the late Mr. Spurgeon, are inclined to select Charles Spurgeon, now at Greenwich, a fluent preacher and sound theologian. The choice lies between him, Dr. Purson and Archibald Brown of Shareditch.

Hungary's Professional Poisoners.

BUDA PESTH, Feb. 6.—A judicial inquiry recently held at Newsazat, Hungary, has resulted in the indictment of three men named Pioniski, Kurjakov and Kernaz for the murder of 10 peasants. It is charged that the crimes were instigated by the wives of the victims. The inquiry showed the existence of a class of professional poisoners living in villages in southern Hungary.

The Queen Depressed.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Queen is suffering from a more acute form of rheumatism than usual, especially in her knees. A court report adds that she is subject to long spells of depression, varied by attacks of irritability. Her physicians deny that there is any cause for alarm. Dr. Jenner's recent visits to Osborne House, which caused considerable talk, were made in accordance with his custom of seeing the Queen.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN

Covered with Scales. Awful Spectacle. Cured in Five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales being formed meanwhile were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, until I had been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began taking the REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I know of a great many who have taken the REMEDIES, and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express my thanks to you. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby's.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation, sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS, and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

This Week An Avalanche Of Spring Goods

Is on us. It would take two columns of this journal to enumerate all we have received, but if there is one thing more than another that deserves special mention is our importation ex. S.S. "Sardinian," from St. Gale, Switzerland, of

NEW SWISS EMBROIDERIES, FLOUNCINGS AND HAMBURG EDGINGS.

Plain Hem Stitched Skirtings are in great favor and we show them in many qualities.

With this lot came our New Spring stock of

Swiss Muslin Embroidered Curtains, Swiss Applique Curtains, and one of the New Effects is Hem-Stitched Borders, New Tambour Sash Curtain Muslins and Tambour Curtain Nets, and New Silk Curtains.

All are on display in our show windows. As we import these goods direct from the makers, our prices are about as low as wholesale jobbers sell them for in this country.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

MRS. OSBORNE WAS TERRIBLY PERSECUTED.

Parliament to be Asked Some Pertinent Questions Concerning the Action of the Treasury Department in the Matter—The Prince of Wales Said to be Anxious to Adopt Princess May.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Much disgust and indignation are being expressed at the shameful and cruel mismanagement of the Government prosecution of Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne.

In the first place, at the Lord Mayor's Court, the wretched woman was kept waiting over an hour before any one representing the Treasury condescended to put in an appearance at all. Then a Treasury solicitor, knowing that the charge would not hold good, coolly asked that the warrant for false pretences be withdrawn, and by way of exhibiting some zeal, applied for another warrant on the charge of perjury. Upon this Mrs. Osborne will have to stand trial. She was hauled from one court to another, half mad with distress and fainting from exhaustion.

This guilty but most unhappy and afflicted woman has been cast into prison on remand simply because the Treasury grossly mismanaged the case.

Nobody demands this prosecution. Full reparation has been made to all the injured persons, and the Treasury is not obliged to interfere, but if it has interfered in the name of justice let it pursue the paths of justice and not inflict tortures upon a broken-hearted woman such as Judge Jeffries himself might well have been ashamed of. I believe the subject will be brought up in Parliament next week.

Mrs. Osborne a Heroine.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley cables: Mrs. Osborne has suddenly become a sort of heroine. Her surrender is understood to have been at her own wish, and her treatment by the Treasury officials is deemed unhandsome. Hence the curious outburst of feeling in her favor. She expected to take her trial for obtaining money on false pretences, and has now to face a charge of perjury, on which she is remanded without bail.

The Anti-Parnellite Chairmanship.

DUBLIN, Feb. 8.—The Independent (Parnellite) says the re-election Saturday of Justin McCarthy as chairman of the section of the Irish parliamentary party, opposed to the policy of the Parnellites, was due to a compromise arrived at in order to avoid offending the numerous aspirants for the chairmanship, none of whom could command a majority, but whose defeat would have split the McCarthyites into several sections.

The Freeman's Journal (McCarthyite) admits that other anti-Parnellites are better qualified than Mr. McCarthy for the chairmanship, but in the present organization of the party their services are best given from the ranks.

Salisbury's Strong Sentences.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The portion of Lord Salisbury's Exeter speech which called forth the soreness of Sir Vernon Harcourt's reply is contained in these sentences: "England is the Protestant nation of the world. England, more than any other country, has resisted the denomination of the clerical profession. Yet now you are going to create an ultra-clercial state under the government of Archbishops Croke and Walsh. Ireland consists of a majority and a minority. You are going to give to that majority, which contains all that is backward, all that is unprogressive, all that is contrary to civilization and enlightenment, power over all that is enlightened, civilized and progressive."

Sir Morell Never a Strong Man.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley cables: Extraordinary as was his power of work, Sir Morell Mackenzie never was a strong man. He lived on his nerves. Work with him always meant overwork. His devotion to his profession and his patients knew no bounds. No matter what jealousy or detraction might say of him, he stood admittedly at the head of his profession. He was not only at the head, he had no rival, either in England or the Continent.

To Succeed the Late Mr. Decost.

STE. SCHOLASTIQUE, Feb. 8.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the electors of the county of Two Mountains took place in the courthouse here yesterday. Mr. Beauchamp, ex-M.L.A., opened the meeting with a few remarks. He said he counted on the union of the party because there were many desirable candidates anxious for the honor of succeeding to the position occupied by the late Mr. Decost.

Dr. Mingault of St. Augustine moved, seconded by Mr. Fauteux of St. Benoit, that Mr. Joseph Girouard, notary, of St. Benoit be chosen as the candidate for the House of Commons. The motion was unanimously passed.

BARTRAM'S KNIFE BLADE

IT WAS SUPPLIED TO HIM BY A YOUNG BIGAMIST.

The Governor of Brantford Jail Explains How It Came About That the Alleged Hesleop Murderer Had a Knife Blade in His Boot—Was He Preparing to Commit Suicide?

BRANTFORD, Feb. 8.—Governor Kitchen of Brant Jail, asked what he thought of the item in the papers regarding the piece of knife blade found in "Jack" Bartram's shoe when he was taken to Hamilton by Detective Greer said:

I have no doubt they found the piece of knife blade as they state.

When Herbert Smith, alias La Murtee, the young bigamist, was arrested we had to put him in the same corridor as Bartram, owing to a lack of room in the jail. Smith's relatives brought his meals to him. They brought a knife and fork. One day when they were going out we discovered that the knife had not been brought out. A search was immediately instituted, and the missing knife found. About two or two and a half inches of the blade was missing and could not be found. It was a common table knife, and I have it here.

The knife was produced and it was easily seen that it had been broken off. There were marks on the blade showing that it had been used for cutting tobacco.

I do not think Bartram had concealed it with the intention of taking his life. If Bartram wanted to take his life he could find plenty of ways to do so.

P.C. Wallace went to the Central Prison to-day to bring Herbert J. Smith back to this city, where he will have to stand a trial on a charge of embezzlement from the Bell Telephone Company. After his apprehension it was found that there was a deficiency of something like $60.

ROYALTY AT A FIRE.

He Superintends the Flame Fighters and Receives an Ovation.

ROME, Feb. 8.—An immense fire which caused much excitement occurred Saturday in Panlanelles' large flour warehouses in this city. The inflammable materials with which the warehouses were filled burned fiercely, and the flames spread quickly to all parts of the buildings. The whole sky was lit up by the glare caused by the burning buildings, and attracted an enormous crowd to the scene of the conflagration.

King Humbert, who was proceeding on his way to a ball given at the German embassy, which is situated in the vicinity of the warehouse, ordered his carriage to be stopped when he reached the scene of the fire. The King was quickly recognized by the crowd and received an ovation.

CAUSED BY MICE.

Occasion a Destructive Fire at Welland—Conflagrations Elsewhere.

WELLAND, Feb. 8.—P. McMurray's large stove and tin shop was destroyed by fire Saturday. Loss about $3000; fully insured in the Caledonian and Royal Canadian. W. J. Best's butcher shop, adjoining McMurray's, was damaged by fire and water to the extent of $400; insured for $500. Cause, mice and matches.

Sundridge Hotel Burned.

SUNDRIDGE, Ont., Feb. 8.—The Revere House occupied by J. McGowan and owned by J. T. Huber of Berlin, caught fire Saturday from the stovepipe passing through the ceiling and burned to the ground. All the contents saved except some liquors in the cellar.

Detection Due to Accident.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—Fabien Demers's house, 400 Cadieux-street, caught fire Saturday afternoon. The firemen, on making entry into the premises, found an illicit still in full blast. Demers was at once arrested and the still and seven hogsheads of whisky seized.

To Leave for Washington To-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 8.—A lengthy meeting of the Cabinet was held Saturday. Trade relations will, it is stated, be considered on Monday, and Sir John Thompson, Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell will start for Washington on Monday afternoon.

Coming Elections.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Following is a list of pending elections for which the dates have been fixed: Queens, N.S., Feb. 9; Peel, Feb. 11; North Victoria, Feb. 11; South Victoria, Feb. 11; East Bruce, Feb. 11; East Middlesex, Feb. 11; Halifax, N.S., Feb. 11; East Elgin Feb. 12; Digby, N.S., Feb. 13; King's, N.S., Feb. 13; South Ontario, Feb. 20; East Hastings, Feb. 20; West Huron, Feb. 23; Two Mountains, Feb. 27; Vaudreuil, Feb. 29.

The Connolly Books.

QUEBEC, Feb. 8.—Among the judgments rendered in the Court of Appeals Saturday was the case of the Federal Government v. Messrs. M. & N. K. Connolly to compel the defendants to deliver into the custody of the Crown the books of the firm, which were forcibly taken possession of by the defendants while en route to Ottawa. The Court of Appeal reversed the order of Judge Caron surrendering the books to the Government.

Little Private Legislation.

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—Private legislation next session promises much less than last. Only some fifty notices of application for private bills are so far given, most of which are for railways, and eight for divorce.

DUNNVILLE, Feb. 8.—Dr. Montague, M.P., who has been speaking for a few days in Bruce County, is home, sick with bronchitis, and it is feared that he may not be able to keep his arrangements for next week.

Another Letter of Credit.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—Tremps, director of the Montreal night schools, has been discovered to have made $1000 on a letter of credit. He sold to the Government of Mercier 9000 copies of his pamphlet on "Method of teaching drawing," receiving in return the letter of credit.

Chairman Mathieu Resigns.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—Judge Mathieu, chairman of the Royal Commission, has resigned on account of ill-health.

To Oppose Mr. Marty.

KINGSTON, Feb. 7.—Saturday William Drennan, ex-mayor, was nominated as the Conservative candidate for the Local Legislature.

MANY SCORE OF VICTIMS.

ANOTHER NEW YORK HOTEL HOLOCAUST.

Many Charred Bodies Taken From the Ruins and it is Believed That There Are Still a Number of Others There—Heartrending Scenes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—An appalling catastrophe paralleling in horror and perhaps exceeding in loss of life the Park Place disaster of last summer, occurred in the city at an early hour yesterday morning. The Hotel Royal at 6th-avenue and 40th-street, opposite Bryant Park, was completely destroyed by fire and a large number of people were burned and suffocated in the ruins.

The Hotel Royal was built more than 25 years ago. The house was the home of many persons in the theatrical profession and was patronized chiefly by transients for the night that class which keeps late hours in the upper part of the tenderloin district.

All Means of Escape Cut Off.

The fire broke out shortly after three o'clock this morning and spread with fearful rapidity, the flames soon enveloping the entire building and cutting off all means of escape for the guests rooming in the upper stories of the building.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in the basement near the elevator shaft, which was located in the middle of the building.

The fire department arrived within a few minutes after the alarm was given by an engineer on the elevated railroad, but meanwhile the most heartrending and sickening scenes were being enacted.

The horror-stricken crowd that had quickly gathered in the streets about the doomed building, saw men and women clad only in their night clothes, jump from the upper stories and fall upon the stone flagging of the sidewalks crushed to death or seriously injured.

Eye witnesses tell of the appearance at the upper windows of terror-stricken men and women who, unable to find escape, fell back overcome by the smoke and flames. Every window of the building seemed filled with men, women and children, crying out piteously for those below to save them. Many of those were certainly burned to death.

The fire escapes in the rear of the building afforded a means of escape to some, whilst the fire ropes provided in all the rooms were utilized by many male guests in reaching the street.

According to the most reliable reports there were about 150 people all told, sleeping in the hotel last night. How many of these were lost may not be ascertained for several days.

Every Room Was Occupied.

Nearly every room of the 124 rooms which the hotel had on its five floors was occupied last night by guests both permanent and transient, in fact all rooms save four had been taken at 1 o'clock in the morning when Richard Mears, the proprietor, went to bed.

At 3.05 o'clock Mears and his wife, who occupied a room on the third floor 40 feet from the staircase, were aroused and found the staircase in flames. Mears groped his way to a window through blinding smoke and escaped, and his wife was subsequently rescued by firemen in an unconscious condition.

Many Leap to Death.

Just as she reached the ground the body of an unknown man, who had jumped from a third-story window, struck the pavement and his brains were dashed out.

A moment later another man leaped from a window on the 40th-street side and was instantantly killed. Shortly afterward two women jumped from windows on the 6th-avenue side and were dead when picked up.

The Walls Tumble.

Suddenly the walls fell. At the time people could be observed at several windows on the top floor, crying for help, but they fell back and were soon burned in the ruins.

Five burned, crushed and disfigured bodies, two women and three men, were removed to the morgue.

It is feared, however, that a search of the vast smoking pile of debris in the cellar of the hotel will reveal many ghastly finds. It was reported at a late hour to-night that no less than 100 people are still unaccounted for.

RAILWAY WRECK.

A Passenger Train Dashes Into a Stock Train with Fearful Results.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 8.—The limited passenger train No. 52 from Chicago bound for Kansas City left Centralia at 6 o'clock yesterday behind time. Before reaching Larabee, five miles west of Centralia, the train had attained a speed of 45 miles an hour. At Larabee the switch of a siding had been left open and the passenger train dashed through it and into a stock train that was standing on the siding. The presence of mind of the engineer doubtless saved the lives of many passengers. When the train passed the switch he put on the air brake and before the engine crashed into the stock train the speed of the passenger train had been materially reduced. The two engines came together with such force that they wedged tightly together. The mail and baggage cars were derailed, but were not wrecked. Two of the stock cars loaded with cattle were demolished and many of the cattle killed. The fireman and engineer of the stock train were instantly killed, and the fireman of the passenger train so severely injured that he died within an hour. The baggage man of the passenger train had his arm broken and the engineer of the passenger train had a leg broken. Not a passenger received so much as a scratch.

A New Star in the Firmament.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—A new star has appeared in the firmament about two degrees south of the medium bright star "Chi-a-wriga." It may be seen with a good opera glass. It is of the fifth magnitude. The stranger first came within the range of the astronomers notice about Dec. 10. Dr Copeland, the Scottish astronomer, saw it on Feb. 1.

INDIA'S CORAL STRAND

And the Slums of Darkest London.

What Captain Cox Talked About in the Salvation Army Barracks—Large Congregations—A Grand Hallelujah Time Eloquent and Interesting Addresses—"Darkest England" Her Subject To-night.

The Salvation Army barracks was crowded to overflowing on Saturday evening to hear the address of Staff-Captain Cox on her "Travels in India." After a march out through the principal streets, and an open air meeting, the army returned to the barracks, where the services began by the singing of a hymn suitable for the occasion, and a prayer for the success of the meeting by Staff Captain Cox, after which she gave an account of her TRAVELS IN INDIA.

Staff-Captain Cox is a young lady, possessing an English accent, and has a very pleasing countenance, denoting intelligence and culture. She has a head of curly hair, and wears a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles. She is possessed of a remarkable flow of language, and is never at a loss for a word. During her addresses she grows eloquent in her description of what she has experienced, and appears to take a great interest in the work she has entered.

She began her instructive address by pointing out to the audience the fact that India had a population of two hundred and fifty million, a large majority of them living without the knowledge of there being a true God. But she assured her hearers that victory in the way of Christianizing India was near at hand, and the Salvation Army in that country was doing a noble work, and God was continuing to bless their labours. When she volunteered for army work in India, she left everything dear to her in her home in England, and when she boarded the ship at the dock for India she attired herself in the costume of the natives of that country. The great principle of the Salvation Army, she said, in their mission work, was to become like the people themselves, and in doing this they were awarded with success in their labours for God. When she landed in India she followed up the custom of the natives by appearing among them barefooted which although rather uncomfortable at first, was considered nothing when once accustomed to it. She was appointed to a

STATION IN THE PUNJAUB,

100 miles from Bombay, in the northwest provinces, which takes three days' travelling to reach. Near Bombay she met a young English girl whom she had known in England, who had volunteered for the work in India. She was accompanied by her grandmother. This young missionary, Miss Cox said, was the only white person in that part of the country, and the young girl had done a grand work for Jesus Christ among these poor heathens, and Miss Cox often returned thanks to God for having met her. The young missionary, Miss Cox said, had gone to meet our Saviour, for she died in an outhouse in Bombay, and the Staff-Captain grew very eloquent when she described the scene of her death—where she knelt beside her and waited until her soul had taken its flight to heaven. This portion of her discourse visibly affected part of the audience. She then described the mode of living in India. As before, the people live in mud huts, and barefooted, the Salvation Army officers are also being constructed of mud. Upon the burning sands of this country grew a prickly thorn, similar, Miss Cox said, to those which were planted on our Saviour's head at the time of His crucifixion, and Europeans, unaccustomed to this, were obliged to hop, skip and jump, in order to avoid them. When she first visited a native village she thought it the queerest dwelling she had ever stood on; although she had seen stranger

IN THE SLUMS OF LONDON.

The floors are very damp, and when you enter one you are forced to bend yourself, the door being unusually low. While in the hut she was treated for the first time to a native meal, and learned for the first time how the natives lived. Miss Cox, in company with the other members of the hut, sat round, or squatted as it is called in India, in a circle. For plates they were furnished with large palm leaves, no plates being used in that country, the reason being, Miss Cox humorously remarked, to save the time required in washing them. A native convert next brought in a cauldron of rice, and she wondered how the food was served on the large palm leaves. Her curiosity was satisfied she said by seeing the convert dip his large black hands into the cauldron and pour the food on to the palm leaves, Spoons not being heard of in that part of the country. Miss Cox said she next wondered how they would dispose of the food. The natives shape their forefingers into a kind of a spoon and they shoot the food into their mouths with their thumb, Miss Cox tried this but she shot it over her shoulder to her next door neighbor. They have also, she said, a peculiar manner in drinking water. They never touch the article which contains the water to their lips, but

THROW BACK THEIR HEADS

and hold the vessel about three inches from their mouth and pour it in. But the old fashioned way, Miss Cox said, suited her best, and she was glad when the meal was over. The natives of India never eat flesh meat, because they worship animals, and consider that when a native dies they pass into different stages of existence and then go into animals. Miss Cox said, it would be rather uncomfortable for anyone to kill

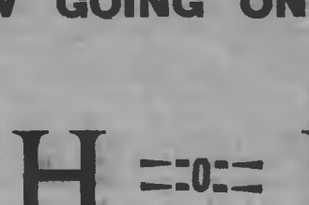
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASES, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the NERVOUS and MUSCULAR SYSTEMS.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; no duty on one to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not clean this Belt with the humbug compounds of leather and soap, with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEIR belt, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

INDIA'S CORAL STRAND.

an ox for fear of also killing their great grandmother or other relations. After the meal they held a religious meeting and were joined by the women of the village, who were attired in short red jackets. Although she could not understand their language, the expression on the faces spoke volumes, and showed that they experienced great joy in their hearts. At the close of the meeting she prepared to go to bed. The people of India sleep on mats and Miss Cox remarked that they carried out the command in the Bible in the morning when they awoke, "took up their beds and walked." Miss Cox used her valise for a pillow which was not too soft. During the night the rats, mosquitoes, centipedes and lizards, held high carnival about her and caused her a end of trouble In the morning she prayed to God that He would give her patience and fortitude to stand all the trials of missionary life in India. Miss Cox here stated that the Salvation Army officers had suffered martyrdom in their efforts to Christianize the Hindoos, and the seed that had been sown was nourished with the life blood of officers of the Army. They have, she said, two cemeteries—one at Ceylon and another at Bombay, where their officers have been laid to rest, The number of officers in India is estimated at 850, one half of which are natives, and the Salvation Army would soon be able to have all native officer preaching the gospel to the natives of India. Staff-Capt. Cox then gave a description of the

SOCIAL REFORM WORK

in India, conducted on the same plans as in England. The Army preached at the door of the gaols and large numbers of convicts' hearts were touched and they sought Jesus Christ in the Salvation army, and also conducted the work in Ceylon on island south of India, which is noted for its thieves. The Governor of Ceylon gives the army a grant of fifty rupees a month, and Staff-Capt. Cox said that they were doing a grand work of reform among the people of that island. They have a Prison Gate and Rescue Home in Columbo, Ceylon, where all kinds of girls are taken in. The army has experienced some difficulty in keeping track of their female converts. In India the Buddhist women are the slaves of the men, and are kept in total ignorance, being unable to read or write. When one of these women is converted it is difficult for the officers in charge to hear from her when she leaves the rescue home. They had hit upon a novel plan, however. When leaving the rescue homes the women are given a number of

RED AND BLUE TICKETS.

When they are in trouble, or need assistance, they send in a blue ticket, and if they are progressing favourably and are still Christians they forward a red one, and thus in this way an account is kept of the converts. In closing her address, Staff Captain Cox said if one thing impressed her more than another, it was the eagerness with which the natives accepted Christ as their Saviour compared with the indifference of the people of her own country, England, who had everything to gain and nothing to lose. She stated that she was sometimes ashamed of her country, for in India a native loses all that he possesses, sometimes even his life, when he embraces Christianity. The followers of Mahomet place spies in the army meetings and when they notice a native going to the penitent form they immediately notify their following, who surround the building, and in some instances kill the convert, or take his wife and family from him, or banish him into the Himalaya mountains. It was a common sight, Miss Cox said, to see native converts come to their meetings bruised and bleeding from the treatment they had received from their fellow beings because they had accepted Jesus Christ.

THE AFTERNOON ADDRESS.

In the afternoon the barracks was filled to the doors, with an audience anxious to hear this celebrated lecturer describe the work of the Salvation Army in the slums of London. After prayer had been offered up and the announcements made Staff-Capt. Cox commenced her address. It was, she said, the practice of the Army to appear alike unto all men. The churches had not been successful in reaching the people of the slums, and it remained, she said, for the Army to solve a plan whereby a successful missionary work could be carried on with success. You must be born to the manner in order to reach them, and the Army had brought people to the barracks who had never entered a church or attended religious meetings before. The slum workers of the Army stationed themselves in the slums, rented a room and lived among them. These people did not believe in theoretical Christianity. Long sermons failed to move them and it was evident that that more practical Christianity was what was necessary in order to acquaint them with the saving power of Christ. Accordingly the Army sent a number of female members into this quarter of the great metropolis, Miss Cox being among the number. They attired themselves in the costume generally worn by the women of the slums and with pail and scrubbing brushes sallied forth to win for Christ. They soon became known as "Sisters of the People," and their work was blessed by God. They went from place to place scrubbing, often times attending the dying and burying the dead. The people often asked them how much they were paid for such work, but they were told that they were servants, working for Christ's sake, and were paid nothing. The people of the slums called them the

WHITE APRONED RELIGIOUS GIRLS, and although, Miss Cox said, they were rotten-egged and pelted with old fish, the people soon began to love them, and they acted as priest, doctor, legal adviser and policeman. Miss Cox rented one room in an apothecary shop in the slums, and often in the dead of night a little girl or boy would repeat the door and ask them to come to their home immediately, as baby was dying—or perhaps that a father was pulling his wife's hair. Miss Cox said that God had blessed their labours and it was now an important work in connection with the army. The people are of the opinion that the churches shun them because they are in poverty, and on this account remain in ignorance and sin. To show that they had good reasons for believing thus, Miss Cox related an incident in her own experience in the west of London. She in company with a Scotch girl had been labouring in the slums all day and were tired, and wherever they attempted to rest on a doorstep were moved on by the police. Her friend asked her to go to some church near at hand where they would receive the comforts of religion after their labours. Miss Cox belonging to the Baptist faith, they both entered a church of that denomination. They were not long seated, however, when an official of the church objected them from the premises, thinking that they were the common people of the slums. But the minister who was a godly man, hearing of the occurrence, issued orders that rich and poor could enter the church, and all should be provided with hymn books. They were also shunned in the cabs and conveyances, and ladies would shun them as they would a serpent. All churches, Miss Cox stated, were not alike in this respect. Had she been a poor girl, she would have felt all these "unkind cuts." She had often went and pleaded the cause of the poor among the rich people whose stagnatly furnished houses would have fed all her poor. She had seen in the slums the pallid cheeks of the starving and had heard probably the most pitiable cry on earth, that of a

STARVING CHILD CRYING FOR BREAD.

At the houses of the rich she would always endeavour to tell them stories of poverty and misery which would shock them and cause them to take down their smelling bottles and become restless and uneasy. These rich ladies would, in order to get rid of her, tell her that there were too many demands upon their generosity, and that they were very delicate, and that such stories would cause them to grow uneasy. Miss Cox said it was painful when one half the world could not bear to hear what the other half endures. But, she said, there was a bright side to all this misery and poverty in the slums, and although they had no occasion during their work to be cheerful, they often were forced to shed tears. She here related a story about an old lady convert, which they had named "Batter and Eggs" from the fact that she had been served with the above food which was a rare treat, by the slum workers of the Army. This old lady was a cobbler in Whitechapple, making her living by buying old boots for one cent, repairing them and selling them for two. Miss Cox often visited her and took a great interest in her, taking her into the country before the army had transferred her (Miss Cox) to Canada in August. Miss Cox had often noticed the poor people of the slums gather up the food thrown in the gutter and the old tea and coffee from the

COFFEE HOUSES OF MIGHTY LONDON,

and their beds at night would be nothing but a heap of dirty rags. But in all their suffering they often returned gratitude to God, and she said it was among them that she learnt her richest lessons of gratitude to God, when hearing these poor people imploring His aid and protection. She had often shut herself up in her room and prayed to God in gratitude for what He had done for her. There was plenty of people who live comfortable and who never appreciate the blessings of God until they are taken away from them, and many are lost in darkness, who are imploring for the opportunities they once had of living good lives. Ills have no weight, she said, and tears no bitterness when you trust in God. She did not wish to eulogize the Army in any way, but she said that many built their hopes upon foundations of sand, and were gradually putting their salvation off until it was to late. Her address throughout was a very instructive and interesting one, and was listened to with good attention by the large audience present.

THE EVENING MEETING.

There was a still larger audience present in the evening. Staff-Captain Cox again had charge of the meeting, and spoke at considerable length on the words in Ecclesiastes viii, 8: "There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in that war." Her burning words on the dangers of procrastination were listened to with much attention, and during the prayer meeting some seven persons sought pardon at the front.

NOTES.

During the meeting yesterday afternoon, Misses Bacon and Huffman, gave a well rendered vocal duet.

The members of the army will attend the funeral of Alexander Renton who met such a sad death on Sunday.

Miss Cox will lecture to-night on "Darkest England," and on Tuesday evening will give her celebrated address "Midnight in London." She will be attired in slum costume, and this is considered her best address. A large crowd is expected to be present.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
IS the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Y.M.C.A.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Having an hour or two upon my hands every day, and desiring a place in which I could profitably spend them, I purchased a ticket for the Y.M.C.A. reading room, which I understood was comfortable and free from any disturbing elements.

Imagine my surprise the first time I visited the rooms to hear the blowing and tooting of band instruments. Anyone having heard a band at practice can understand the discordant and unpleasant noises caused thereby. To attempt to read or even discourse was out of the question, so I beat a hasty retreat. The indefatigable secretary will, no doubt, make a satisfactory explanation and cause the nuisance discontinued.

Yours,
READER.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's rally on Saturday night was largely attended and all present were much interested in addresses given by Messrs. Hamilton and Meanell. The singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. band.

The Sabbath morning Bible class and consecration meeting was held as usual in the parlour and was conducted by Mr. Dodds.

Sabbath afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A. large hall, a large audience listened to Evangelist Meikle give another of his plain talks, the subject being "Delusions." Singing was led by the Y.M.C.A. band.

The usual Gospel and Song Service was held last evening, a number expressing their interest in the meeting.

Mr. R. J. Colville left this morning to attend the Y.M.C.A. convention which will be held in that city from the 11th to the 14th. Mr. Early, president of the association, and Mr. Alf Miller leave here on Tuesday to attend the convention.

The Saturday edition of the Globe contains a fine picture of Mr. John McKee, druggist of Peterborough, a member of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, which is also illustrated in the Globe, cuts of the College building, which is claimed to be the best equipped on the continent, appearing, together with the portraits of the members of the faculty and of the council.

The numerous friends of Mr. Arnold Haultain, a former resident of Peterborough, will be pleased to learn of his continued success in the field of literature where he has long since won his spurs. In the last number of the Week appears an able and polished article from his pen, on the centenary of the birth of Shelly. His criticism of the graceful and spirituelle poetry of Shelly is broad and deep and well designed to arouse interest in the works of a poet too little appreciated.

Child Burned to Death.

Little Howard Wharton Meets With a Terrible Death.

On Sunday morning Howard Wharton aged three years and five months, eldest child of Mr. John Wharton, Townsend street, met with a shocking accident, the end of which was death this morning. It appears that between six and seven o'clock on Sunday morning the unfortunate child had been in the kitchen in his night clothing, the remainder of the family being in bed. He placed a chair near the stove in order to reach some matches in the case on the wall, and it is supposed that his clothes either came into contact with the fire or that in lighting the match the flame reached his clothing. At any rate the poor child rushed through the hall to its parents' bedroom a mass of flames, and uttering heart-rendering cries for help, which were distinctly heard at the railway "diamond." His parents came to his rescue, but the flames had entirely consumed his clothing. The poor child was burnt from his face to his limbs and went into convulsions from the sufferings experienced. Dr. Pigeon was sent for and although he could not save his life, he eased his suffering somewhat. The little fellow suffered untold agony until 9.30 this morning when death came to his release. Mr. A. Clegg took charge of the body and prepared it for burial. Mr. Wharton has the sympathy of all his friends in his sad bereavement.

Fatal Shooting Accident at Auburn.

Alexander Renton Meets His Death by the Accidental Discharge of a Gun—Instant Death Follows the Lodgement of the Contents in His Neck.

A distressing shooting accident occurred at Auburn Sunday morning which resulted in the death of Alexander Renton, youngest son of Mrs. Geo. Renton, a widow living near the Auburn Mills. An EXAMINER reporter called at the afflicted residence Sunday afternoon and learned the particulars, as far as known, from the eldest boy.

It appears that during the week the children had been annoyed by a dog which prowled about the premises, and they resolved to frighten it away by a shot from a gun. Accordingly, Elward Renton, aged 11, procured an old shot gun, which had been kept upstairs in the house, and loaded it with peas, awaiting the return of the dog. He placed the gun in the dining room near the door. On Sunday morning the two boys, Alexander and Elward were playing in the room, the former sitting on a mat on the floor, and herein lies the mystery as to how the gun was discharged. It is supposed that in their movements about the room Alexander came in contract with the gun in the corner, knocking it over, and, on its fall, the trigger knocked against a sofa, which was close at hand, discharging the gun, the contents taking effect in the little boy's neck,

SEVERING THE JUGULAR VEIN.

The mother, on hearing the report, hastened to the room, and was horrified to find her son with a ghastly wound in his neck. The boy struggled to his feet, made a staggering effort to walk, but fell at the door, exclaiming, "Ma! Ma!" When picked up the boy was in the throes of death. His brother, who was with him in the room at the time, is unable to give any particulars as to how the accident occurred, and it will forever remain a mystery.

The coroner was notified, but did not consider an inquest necessary. The unfortunate affair has cast a gloom over Auburn, where the boy was well known. Mrs. Renton is prostrated with grief over the sudden death of her son, and it must be a source of comfort to her to know that she has the sympathy of the community at large in the calamity that has befallen her. The funeral will take place on Tuesday.

The Smith Street Bridge.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In reply to a letter in your paper of the 6th, I would like to say that I have travelled over the Smith street bridge for a number of years, and never saw it in such a disgraceful condition as it is now, and I think it would be an act of humanity to have the bridge repaired at once to allow the farmers on that side of the river to attend the great ice carnival to be held on the night of the 12th, under the auspices of the Sons of Canada.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space,

I remain, yours very truly,
S. O. C.

Police Court.

MONDAY, Feb. 8.

Charles Baker was brought before the beak charged with being drunk in a public place on Sunday. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 or ten days in gaol. The fine was paid.

The celebrated Brealy-Grange case came up for trial this morning. Mr. Stone presented a doctor's certificate which stated that Mr. Brealy would be unable to leave his room for a time, and Mr. Stone stated that he would probably not be out for a month. The Magistrate enlarged the case for a week.

Purify Your Blood

...e importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditted and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing exclusively more conclusively than the proven positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Church Chimes.

Mark Street Methodist Missionary Services.

Yesterday was Missionary Sunday at the Mark St. Methodist Church, Ashburnham. Rev. S. Bartlett, of Lakefield, having charge of the services.

At the morning services there was a large congregation, who listened with much attention and profit to the excellent sermon delivered by the eloquent and earnest preacher. The text chosen was the 33rd verse of the 13th chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew.

"Another parable spake He unto them. The Kingdom of Heaven is likened unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was leavened."

The preacher then dwelt with his subject in a very practical, plain and simple manner, illustrating his points by using the homely operation of making our daily bread to show that the leaven of the gospel worked in individual hearts, permeating and saturating with its divine and regenerating influence the individual heart. From the individual the leavening influence of a righteous life spread through the church, and the church was the divinely appointed means of carrying the message and blessing of the gospel of Christ to the regions that lay in darkness. As in the natural process the leaven would not do its work unless the proper conditions of warmth were present, so in the spiritual world the heart of the Christian being kept in a proper state of receptivity, the leaven of righteousness must work; and, working through the individual and the church, the kingdom of Christ would be carried to the uttermost parts of the earth. The preacher applied his subject in a most earnest and practical manner, and those who took the lesson it taught to heart, must have greatly enlarged views of his duty towards the cause of missions, with great advantage to both his spiritual condition, and through that to the missionary cause at large.

The evening service, which was also listened to by a large congregation was a continuation of the morning subject, the text being "Thy Kingdom Come." The preacher spoke of the too frequent flippant way of repeating this portion of the Lord's prayer, with an imperfect understanding of the tremendous import of the phrase—it was really a consecration prayer. The kingdom of God could not come in our hearts—consequently into the work without thorough devotion of heart and life to God. This would lead to earnest word for Christ, and thus to the coming of His kingdom.

Liberal collections were taken in aid of the missionary fund at both services.

To night the annual missionary meeting will be held and addresses will be given by Rev. W. R. Young, of Millbrook and Rev. S. Bartlett, Lakefield. Rev. Mr. Thom the pastor will make the annual missionary statement.

Rev. Mr. Thom was in Lakefield yesterday, where he occupied the pulpit in Rev. Mr. Bartlett's church, preaching acceptable and earnest sermons morning and evening.

Charlotte Street Methodist.

Rev. George Edwards, pastor, occupied the pulpit morning and evening. The subject of the morning discourse, "Noah's fall," was handled in a masterly manner. The reverend gentleman took occasion to correct a misapprehension that was received by a number of his congregation, when he preached on the same subject a week ago. His views on moderate drinking and intemperance are very pronounced, and his words of warning, given with such force and eloquence cannot fail to do very much good. Seldom have the people listened to a more straightforward and clear exposition of gospel truth.

The evening sermon was on a similar line, the subject being "Sin and its consequences." Large congregations were present at both services.

Next Sabbath Rev. E. N. Baker, M.A., B.D., of Port Hope, will preach Sunday school anniversary services, and there will be an open session of the school in the afternoon.

He will preach both morning and evening, and on Monday evening will deliver a lecture upon the subject of "Rambles in Rome." On Tuesday evening a tea and entertainment for the Sunday school children will conclude the anniversary services.

St. John's Church.

Last night at St. John's the rector suggested that the men of the congregation should, if possible, make their arrangements to be in Toronto on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and attend the St. Andrew's Brotherhood convention, which will be then in session. He announced that Mr. James Houseling, a prominent broker of Chicago, and G. Harry Davis, barrister, of Philadelphia, and William Aikman, jr., of Detroit, will be among the prominent laymen to deliver addresses, as well as picked men from different parts of Canada. The sessions of the conference will be from 9.30 a.m. till 6 p.m. and will be open to the public. On Friday evening there will be service in St. James Cathedral, with the sermon by Bishop Leonard of Ohio. On Saturday evening there will be a great mass meeting in association hall, with addresses by the president of the American Brotherhood, and other leading men. The whole convention promises to be an enthusiastic and inspiring one.

There were fair congregations in St. John's yesterday, and a special feature of the services was the excellent music which is showing unmistakable signs of improvement. Mr. Fred Clarke, the organist, is succeeding very well in filling his difficult position.

George Street Methodist Church.

There was a large attendance at this church in the morning. Mr. Meikle, the evangelist, in place of a sermon gave a Bible reading bearing upon the subject of the sacrament of the Lord's supper. The love feast was followed by the administration of the sacrament, of which a large number partook.

There was a reception of church members, a large number being admitted into the church chiefly by certificate from outside places, some being from places in the State of New York.

There was a good congregation in the evening, when Mr. Meikle preached his celebrated sermon on the dangers of delaying in deciding for Christ. He quoted from statistics to show that there were very few conversions after the age of 40 years. One divine had collected statistics of 1 000 conversions, and of these only one had been converted between 60 and 70, and only three between the years of 50 and 60. The dangers of delay were vividly pointed out and the eloquent and impressive sermon seemed to have a decisive effect, for a good number stood up to express their desire to lead a better life and a large number remained at the after meeting. Mr. Meikie will hold special services in the George Street Methodist Church the coming week.

The Hockey Match at the Carnival.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in your paper of Friday evening a letter signed by Mr. Barnes, secretary of the Edison Hockey Club, and in reply would say that one of the players in the above club met the carnival committee in the Peterborough Bookstore on Saturday, Jan. 30th, and he gave the committee to understand that if arrangements could be made with the Peterborough club, that the Edison club would be willing and anxious to meet them for a short contest to advertise the game and show a large number how it was played. If Mr. Barnes requires the name of the above player I will be most happy to give it to him along with the names of some half dozen others who were present when the interview took place. Further I might state that three members of the Sons of Canada Carnival Committee met Mr. Montgomery, secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, and he said that if the Edison club were unwilling to play a friendly game, the Peterborough's would get up a match between themselves. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain

Yours very truly,
JAMES W. KENNEDY,
Sec. Carnival Committee.

Dummer Reeveship.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—In your weekly issue of the 24th inst, I observe an address written by Mr. Jas. Robb to the Electors of the Township of Dummer, in which he complains that "he should be put to the trouble of another contest owing to what is a mere informality, or irregularity in the mode of his assessment." Yet he does not complain of the assessment, nor the assessor, says "it is not his fault," and "it is hard that a second election should have to be fought out," "believes the contest was a fair and valid one" and says he is quite unwilling to throw his hard earned money towards the advancement of legal quibbles, having cured the defect" "Dummer can now decide the matter at the polls."

Now Mr. Editor I have no desire whatever to expose Mr. Robb's private affairs through the public prints, suffice it to say Mr. Robb well knew he had neither the legal, nor equitable qualification for the office he aspired to at the time of the election. On the 12th day of January, he was served with a notice to "disclaim," or legal steps would be taken to void his election. Notwithstanding, he took the declaration of qualification, and usurped the office of reeve as long as it was possible for him to do so, without it costing him anything excepting a couple of trips to Peterborough to consult his legal adviser. If he had handed in his "Disclaimer" as provided for by the Municipal Act, Chapter 184, Sec. 203, it would have saved the township, as well as himself, the "expense and trouble of another contest." Section 203 reads: Such disclaimer shall relieve the party making it from all liability to costs, and where a disclaimer has been made in accordance with the preceding sections, it shall operate as a resignation, and the candidate having the next highest number of votes shall then become the councillor, or other officer, as the case may be." This would not suit Mr Robb's case, he adopted the plan that gave him the opportunity to "Cure the defect," and now he calls on the electors of Dummer for a continuance of that confidence he must feel that he has forever forfeited.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I am, dear sir, yours, etc.,

NOW IS THE TIME TO PURCHASE.

JUDITH ARMYTAGE.

By Julian Hawthorne.

III.

The library more than made good the account given of it by its late owner; it contained everything in literature that could aid in making a man a modern magian. Mr. Armytage spent nearly all his time there, reading and writing. The change in his habits and pursuits seemed to make a change in his character. A certain cheerfulness and playfulness of demeanor disappeared, and he became grave and reticent and averse to company. But he was evidently growing profoundly learned, and one cannot do that without making some sacrifices.

On the other hand, it is difficult for society to dislike wealthy people, especially when one of the people is a beautiful girl living in luxurious surroundings. Accordingly the Armytages had a great many visitors, or in other words, Judith had plenty of admirers. She showed a talent for managing things, and the household affairs proceeded in an orderly and handsome manner. Each guest was made to feel comfortable and as if careful attention were being shown him or her; at the same time no one was distinguished above the rest. Mr. Armytage was uniformly produced upon fitting occasions, and middle-aged gentlemen and ladies were on hand to ask him about his studies and to express interest and appreciation for all he said to them. Altogether it appeared to be a successful menage.

Among the guests who turned up with a certain persistence that showed a liking for being there was John Revell, a man of 30 and upward, who had been in the army. He had lived a nomadic and adventurous life on his own account, and had sojourned several years in India. He was dark, quiet and massive, with a large square head, and eyes habitually introspective, but sometimes gleaming out in a look of exceeding penetration. He would pace up and down the veranda with his hands in his pockets and his head bent; he would sit motionless for hours in a corner with a book; he would often converse with Armytage, betraying an extraordinary familiarity with occult subjects; he spoke little to Judith, but he watched her quietly.

One summer afternoon, as she was walking along on a path bordering the shore, he came up from among some rocks on the beach and joined her. "Who is this Mr. Noel Mar?" he asked her after some general conversation. "Is he an old friend of your father's?"

"We have known him about a year," said she, turning her head away.

"He resembles a man I once saw in India," continued Revell. "He is much younger than that man would be now, but there is a strong likeness. He called himself Sartane. He was a rich man, engaged in trade of some sort, but he was not in very good repute. He had an unusual familiarity with the life of some of the native people, and it was said of him that he was an adept in black magic. His end was rather odd."

"What was it?" asked Judith, who had listened with interest.

"He was found dead in his bungalow one morning, with a knife between his ribs. At the inquest it was in doubt whether he had committed suicide or been murdered. The body was nailed up in the coffin and left in charge to be buried the next day. But when they lifted the coffin to put it in the hearse it was unexpectedly light, and they opened it. The body was gone, and was never found."

"It had been stolen."

"It would seem so. But the seals were unbroken. The natives said he had come to life and got out by arts known to himself and the evil one. I was reminded of the story by your Mr. Mar."

"He is not my Mr. Mar," said Judith; and, after a pause, she added, "You never saw the former owner of our house, did you?"

Revell shook his head.

"He was a retired merchant in the East India trade. He told us that he had once killed a man. He, too, resembled Mr. Mar very much; only he was a great deal older."

"What became of him?" asked Revell.

"He died here. His body was found lying in that clump of cedars. There was no apparent cause of death. But he seemed to have known that he was about to die, for he had executed his will only the day before, and had left directions that his body was to be buried where it was found."

They walked on in silence and presently came to the cedar grove. It stood on a sandy knoll near the water. Beneath the largest tree there was a low headstone, marking a grave, though there was no inscription on it. But as they approached they saw a figure stretched upon the mound—the figure of a man. It was, in fact, Mr. Mar, who now rose and advanced to meet them with a smile. He was a fine-looking personage, still young, with deepset eyes beneath thick, dark brows and a narrow but lofty forehead. He was tall and slender and his bearing was graceful and insinuating.

"The gentleman who rests there has chosen his place well," he remarked. "On a fine moonlight night one might expect to see his ghost there."

"Ghosts sometimes walk by daylight," said Revell.

"And do I look like one?" rejoined Mar, laughing. "In that case I suppose the proper thing to do is to vanish and leave the living to their own desires. But be on your guard! for though I become invisible to the eye I may haunt you still!" So saying, with another laugh he turned off amidst the shrubbery and was gone.

After a moment Revell turned to Judith and held out his hands.

"I love you," he said, in a deep voice. "Will you be my wife?"

She looked searchingly in his eyes. "But—can you save me?" she asked.

He only nodded and threw his arms around her.

IV.

Meantime Mar returned along the shore towards the house, throwing roses at the waves as he went, and talking in an undertone to himself. On arriving at the house he went direct to Mr. Armytage's study, and entered without knocking. Armytage, seated at his table, looked up with a pale face.

"I can waste no more time, Geoffrey," said the younger man. "It must be now!"

"She will never have you," returned the other, querulously. "You might at least do something to overcome her antipathy."

"Her antipathy is half her charm. Besides, I don't like that fellow Revell round her. He has been spying on me, and means to make trouble."

"It would be more trouble after than before."

"Not for me!" said Mar, smiling. "Come, I have waited a year, and that's enough. I have fulfilled my part of the bargain. You are very comfortable here. Do you want to be kicked out into the wilderness, to starve to death? Do you think I would let up on you?"

Mr. Armytage groaned. "Why don't you tell her yourself, then?"

"It will come more gracefully from you. She might think I was romancing."

"I wish you were dead!" said Armytage helplessly.

Mar laughed again. "Is there not a grave under the cedars?" said he.

Armytage rose from his chair and walked to the window, which looked out across the sea. After standing there a few moments he said, without turning around, "I will attend to it." When, soon after, he again faced about, he was alone.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy for ladies in clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1 dw

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital, in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough drug stores. dw

Palpitation of the heart, nervousness, trembling, nervous headache, cold hands and feet, pain in back, and other forms of weakness are relieved by Carter's Iron Pills, made especially for the blood, nerves and complexion. dw

It is a pleasure for me to say good words in favor of Anti-Dandruff, as its merits cannot be questioned. In my own case, Dandruff not only made itself known by appearance in more than liberal quantities from which I could not obtain relief, but its continued presence and increasing formation caused falling of the hair. My barber spoke highly of Anti-Dandruff. I used it, and not only has every trace of Dandruff disappeared but the falling of the hair has stopped. Having full faith in the preparation I not only endorse it for the above but further add that as a fine dressing for the hair nothing equals it.

THE "SUN LIFE"
ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA.
HEAD OFFICE, - - - - MONTREAL.

The year 1891 has been the Banner Year in the History of the Sun Life.

The Gross Applications for the year in the Life Department amounted to the enormous total of $5,901,000.00, an amount greatly exceeding that touched by the Company in any previous year, and it is believed no other Canadian Company has ever totaled a like amount in any one year.

THE SURPLUS PROFITS
have increased to even a greater extent than the new business, thus plainly indicating that the unbounded confidence placed in this great Financial Institution by the Canadian public, has not been misplaced.

"August Flower"

Dyspepsia.

There is a gentleman at Malden-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., named Captain A. G. Pareis, who has written us a letter in which it is evident that he has made up his mind concerning some things, and this is what he says:

"I have used your preparation called August Flower in my family for seven or eight years. It is constantly in my house, and we consider it the best remedy for Indigestion, and Constipation we have ever used or known. My wife is troubled with Dyspepsia, and at times suffers very much after eating. The August Flower, however, relieves the difficulty. My wife frequently says to me when I am going to town, 'We are out of August Flower, and I think you had better get another bottle.' I am also troubled with Indigestion, and whenever I am, I take one or two teaspoonfuls before eating, for a day or two, and all trouble is removed." ●

More Boodle Revelations.

Let the Enquiry be Opened and the Bottom Reached—If There is any Bottom to, What Savours of a Bottomless Region.

In a speech which he made at Halifax on the 16th of January 1892, (reported in the Empire of the 18th) Sir John Thompson "repeated the invitation made elsewhere that if any one has any evidence of wrong-doing against any official or member of Parliament, be he private member or minister, he (Sir John) pledged his honor that the fullest investigation should be made and the information used in the prosecution and punishment of the guilty party." A Montreal gentleman, whose name, a high and much respected one, is withheld for the present, has accepted this invitation and supplied the Globe with a number of facts and documents printed Saturday, which speak for themselves. Further disclosures may be made before Parliament meets. Those laid before the public to-day are sufficient of themselves to constitute a mortal stroke to one Minister of the Crown, Sir Aldolphe Caron.

It will be remembered that during the duration of their contracts Larkin, Connolly & Co. paid $55,000 to Mr. Thomas McGreevy for the use of the Conservative party in the Quebec district. Of this, $20,000 was paid to him for the campaign of 1887. It is alleged that all this money and more was OBTAINED BY FRAUD FROM THE PUBLIC TREASURY,

and Thomas McGreevy and Nicholas K. Connolly have been committed for trial to the next Ottawa Assizes on that charge. The documents printed to-day prove to a demonstration that Sir Adolphe drew upon the funds in McGreevy's hands, including Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s subscription, and that his drafts were for political purposes, the Tory party in twenty eight Quebec constituencies profiting by the expenditure. The first question for Mr. Abbott and Sir John Thompson is whether Sir Adolphe, who thus received a large part of the money said to have been filched from the public chest, and who applied it in demoralizing the electors, can be retained in the Cabinet whilst McGreevy and Connolly are thrust into the dock. There is a more important question. The investigation of last session is said by our correspondent to have been "superficial and in a large measure abortive." The statements he makes, together with the drafts and receipts which he exhibits samples of scores of similar documents, bear out the view. It is now shown not only that in McGreevy's possession, but that Mr. Tarte, who laid the charges last session, got some of the money himself. No doubt he will explain the use to which he put it. It is stated further, and the documents sustain the assertion, that the reptile system was carried on in the Quebec district under the direct personal superintendence of Ministers of the Crown and upon regular business principles. Everyone who had in Government contract was expected to contribute towards the fund that was employed in corrupting the newspapers and the people. The understanding with the contractors was that they were to be recouped at the expense of the taxpayer. It was obvious that they would not have contributed a dollar on any other ground. The money thus amassed was placed in a general fund and disbursed upon the written orders of Ministers and their chief supporters, receipts being taken from the persons, usually Tory candidates for Parliament, into whose hands it found its way prior to reaching the pocket of the elector. The whole affair was conducted as systematically as the business of a bank or counting house. Over $110,000 was spent upon the 28 constituencies which Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe "looked after" in 1887. A number of the members of the existing House of Commons

MINISTERS PROFITED BY THE FUNDS

SHARED AS CANDIDATES IN THE OUTLAY.

A couple of the vouchers printed in fac-simile show the payment of $2,000 to Mr. Philip Landry upon the order of Sir Adolphe. It is reported that Mr. Landry is to be made a Senator in a few days. If he goes to the Senate he will find several men like himself who where "helped" out of the reptile fund. This organized system of corruption is no new invention. It has been in full blast for many years in Quebec. The papers now made public implicating Sir Adolphe and Mr. Tarte and showing on their face that the reptiling was carried on upon a regular plan, warrant the Opposition in asking honest men on the Conservative side to join them in a demand for the re-opening of the investigation. Sir John Thompson cannot in honor refuse such a request. It is of vital moment that the damnable system should be destroyed root and branch, and its destruction can be achieved only by turning on the light. We do not ask Lord Stanley to follow the example of Governor Angers and nominate a commission of inquiry with a personnel hostile to his Ministers. We merely ask him with all respect to take care that his Ministers allow Parliament to resume an inquiry which promises to make an end of the long reign of rascality

BY EXPOSING THE REAL CRIMINALS.

Our correspondent seems at times to be defending Thomas McGreevy and Nicholas Connolly. That is not his desire. What he maintains is that they are far less culpable than the Ministers whom they served, for the Ministers were the sworn guardians of the public chest and betrayed their trust in a double sense by conniving at frauds upon it and by employing the proceeds thereof in debauching the people who were being robbed. The logic is unanswerable that if McGreevy and Connolly are to be pursued by the criminal law, the greater culprits should at least be degraded before the bar of public opinion.

The Globe has acted upon the principle of

SPARING NEITHER FRIEND OR FOE

in the boodle exposures that have been made at Ottawa and Quebec since May last. It publishes Mr. Tarte's drafts and receipts just as readily as those of Caron, and it will show no consideration to any other ally whose name may be brought out in subsequent disclosures. Every man without respect of party who is guilty must and shall suffer. This being our position, we venture with some degree of confidence to ask the better class of Conservatives to aid us in the task of compelling Parliament to reopen the inquest. Mr. McGreevy refuses to open his mouth, from what our correspondent calls a mistaken sense of honor. But we believe that new evidence can be obtained from other sources in sufficient quantity to astound the world; and it is only by letting daylight in upon the villainy that we can hope to save the country from a shameful end. If any of the persons whose names figure in the batch of documents published to-day, or at any future time, imagine that we have done them a wrong, we invite them to try a fall with us in a civil or criminal action for libel, either in the courts of Ontario or in the courts of Quebec. The Globe is prepared to do its duty to the community, but Parliament has likewise a duty to perform in the matter as the trustee of its own honor and that of the Dominion at large.—Globe.

GUELPH'S PAGEANTRY OF WOE.

Imposing Funeral Services at Guelph—The Body Lay in State at the City Hall. 10,000 Persons Present.

GUELPH, Feb. 8.—The funeral of the late Mayor of Guelph, Thomas Goldie, took place Saturday afternoon and was the most imposing ever witnessed in the city, fully 10,000 persons, including representatives of many cities in Ontario, attending the obsequies. At 10.15 the council assembled at the City Hall and drove to Rosehurst Just before they reached the residence the employes of Goldie's mill, about 50 in number, were drawn up in line to allow them to pass, after which they followed into the house to hear the funeral services. There were present almost all the prominent residents and officials of the city. The house was filled with mourners, many women being present. The services were solemn and impressive. The Rev. B. B. Williams, pastor of the Congregational Church, read selections of scripture. Rev. R. J. Beattie, deceased's pastor, offered up a solemn and sympathetic prayer.

The coffin was borne by the following pall-bearers: Dr. Lett, Henry Hortop, J. B. Powell, Joseph Heffernan, Robert Harvey, W. Wilson, Toronto; Colonel Macdonald, W. A. McLean.

The chief mourners were his brothers John, James, Roswell and Lion, Thomas, son; David and George Goldie, from Ayr; Charles Turnbull, Galt; David Owen, Utica, N.Y.; Fred Owen, Utica, N.Y.; William Griffith, John Goldie, Galt; John Caven, M.D., Toronto; William Caven, M.D., Toronto; Richard Mitchell, city clerk; Robert Mitchell.

The procession then formed and took its way to the city. At the Eramosa bridge the council and officials of the city and county left the carriages and preceded the company on foot to the city hall.

The mournful procession was watched by hundreds of people.

Both railways made special arrangements to carry from Toronto to this city any friends or acquaintances of the late mayor who desired to attend the funeral and several hundred took advantage of the privilege, including the members of the Board of Trade, the Albany Club and the Ontario Cricket Association and other friends of the deceased.

The Toronto contingent arrived at 2.15 and at once proceeded to the City Hall, where the order of procession was formed as follows:

Guelph Fire Company.
Sons of Scotland.
Ancient Order United Workmen.
The clergy.
Hearse.
Chief mourners.
Mr. Goldie's employes.
City Council.
Officials and guests.
School Boards.
Conservative Association.
Reform Association.
Board of Trade.
Government and county officials.
Citizens.

It was estimated that fully 5000 persons walked to the cemetery, the streets being lined with as many more.

Notes.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, and of them perhaps the most appropriate was that of the employees of the mill, "The broken wheel," with five spokes, representing the five brothers, one spoke and the tire broken, emblematic of the great break in the family. An anchor, sent by the employes in the cooperage, was also very beautiful. Among other offerings were: A pillow from the Conservative Association, North Waterloo, with the card, "The Conservative Association of North Waterloo mourns the loss of a loyal friend." Wreath from the Ontario Cricket Association; Anchor, Railway Friends, Toronto; City Council, Pillow, and the words "Our Mayor;" Managers Knox Church, Wreath; Guelph A.O.U.W., Anchor and Shield with the motto C.H.P.

Owing to the illness of Mr. James Goldie, he was unable to be present at the service.

It is a matter worthy of note that the meeting of the Conservative Association of this riding was held just eight months ago to pass resolutions respecting the death of, and appoint a deputation to attend the funeral of, the late Sir John A. Macdonald. At that meeting there were present, and were appointed on the deputation, three gentlemen who have since followed their political leader into the Silent Land. They were the late Judge Drew, Mr. F. J. Chadwick and Mr. Thomas Goldie.

COASTING DISASTER.

Serious Accident at Goderich to a Party of Merrymakers.

GODERICH, Feb. 8.—Saturday night a party of young people were coasting on the harbor hill, when the steering gear broke. The sleigh dashed against the corner of the Ocean House with tremendous force. Richard Cottle had one leg broken and the smaller bones of the other leg fractured and injured in the face; a young lad named Alvin Wallace, son of P. B. Wallace, commercial traveler, had one of his thighs broken. Miss Straiton, daughter of A. Straiton, G.T.R. agent, was knocked senseless by the concussion and slightly injured.

THE ACCIDENT RECORD.

A Father Frozen While on an Errand of Mercy.

COBOURG, Feb. 8.—Michael Greer, aged 30, left Jubilee Point, a summer resort on Rice Lake, last Wednesday evening for Harwood on the opposite shore, for some medicine for his son, who was ill with la grippe. He got the medicine and started for home the same evening, but not arriving home his friends became anxious and to-day they started to search for him and found him frozen to death on the ice only a short distance from the Point.

STEAMSHIP DISASTERS.

The Polynesian Runs Aground Near Cape Henry, But is Floated—Loss of a Greek Steamer.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8.—The Allan Line steamship Polynesian, Captain MacDougall, from Liverpool via Halifax, for this city, with a small number of passengers and a general cargo, went ashore at Cape Henry Friday, where she remained until to-day, when she was floated and proceeded to her destination. The vessel did not suffer any serious damage. There was no excitement among the passengers.

Loss of the Greek Steamer Embiricos

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The Greek steamer Embiricos, bound from Cardiff for Malta, has been lost on St. Martin, one of the Scilly Islands. Fifteen of her crew were saved, but 10 are missing, among the latter being the captain, mate and engineers. The steamer left Cardiff yesterday, and went ashore during a dense fog last night.

Two of the Etruria's Seamen Injured.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 8.—The Cunard Line steamer Etruria, Captain Hains, which arrived here yesterday, from New York, reports that during a fierce gale which prevailed on Sunday, one of her seamen had a leg fractured and another had his head injured.

Other Accidents to Vessels.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The steamer Angolus, outward bound, came into collision with the steamer Philomel, which was lying at anchor at Deptford. The Philomel was badly damaged forward. The British steamer Stanwick, 691 tons, at Madeira, from Demerara, bound for Liverpool, has been aground and has sustained much damage. She is leaky, and will discharge her cargo to repair.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — The steamer Venezuela, which ran aground on Brigantine Point last Friday, was floated this morning, reaching here at noon. She sustained but little damage.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The fishing smack Daisy, which has arrived at Hull, reports that during a series of gales which she encountered, three of her crew were washed overboard and drowned.

Captain Kennedy of the Germanic.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Captain Charles William Kennedy of the famous Germanic of the White Star Line has fallen upon a serious affliction and his services to the company have become a reminiscence. A cataract formed on one eye and he was forced to resign his command. The most skilled oculists were consulted, but science shook its head and the old sea dog is now nearly blind. He is left without the wherewithal to support himself or his family, and The New York Herald is taking up a subscription in his behalf.

BLAINE NOT A CANDIDATE.

His Name will Not Go Before the Republican Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The following letter explains itself:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6, 1892.

Hon. J. S. Clarkson, Chairman of the Republican National Committee:

MY DEAR SIR,—I am not a candidate for the presidency, and my name will not go before the Republican National Convention for the nomination. I make this announcement in due season to those who have tendered me their confidence. They will, I am sure, make earnest effort in the approaching contest, which is rendered specially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision of these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence. Very sincerely yours,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

Wales Wishes to Adopt Princess May.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—An intimate friend of the Prince of Wales states that His Royal Highness desires to adopt the Princess May as his daughter. Prince George is very attentive to May, and is often in her company. Prince George is troublod a deal with insomnia. Princess May surprised him the other day by giving him a pillow of hemlock, which she had thoughtfully obtained in America. The cover was embroidered by her own hands. The possibility of George and May being married continues to be discussed.

Another Parisian Murder.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—An old woman living in Rue Rambuteau, was found yesterday by her paramour, a man named Guichon, lying dead on the floor of her home. The body was terribly gashed and an investigation showed that robbery was the motive for the murder, but only 25 sous were obtained.

The man Guichon, who yesterday reported the murder of his paramour, has been arrested on suspicion.

He is a Swindler.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—In consequence of the many letters lately received from the United States in regard to the standing of William Lord Moore, as an agent in London to prosecute claims to property in England, the United States legation in this city, with the aid of the police, has investigated and established the fact that Moore is a swindler with a New York connection.

His Name Was a Flag.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—G. W. Smalley on Spurgeon: The whole Nonconformist world looked to him as its chief. He was the one man among them who had a hold on the people and on the popular imagination. He was their one great preacher. His name was a flag.

DISTINGUISHED RELATIVES.

Fitzsimmons Told the Story of His Life Before He Died.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 8.—Since Wednesday last the sole topic of conversation in this town has been the capture in New Orleans and subsequent suicide of Frederick C. Fitzsimmons, the young Brockvillian who escaped from Pittsburg jail while awaiting trial for the murder of Detective Gilkinson. The fact that the murderer was a well-known Brockville boy, and a member of one of our best known and most respected families, naturally served to excite more interest here than perhaps at any other point in the country. The news of the arrest was soon made by large crowds.

Of course it is impossible to say just at present what disposition will be made of the body. One member of the family said he thought likely that the remains would be brought here. He will likely go to Pittsburg at once to identify the remains, but no definite decision has as yet been made with reference to their final resting place.

The little girl, whose photograph was found in the hand of the dying suicide, was brought here soon after the Pittsburg shooting, and is now residing with relatives of the deceased. She is a nice looking, winsome little body, full of childish vivacity, and has found a happy home.

Fitzsimmons told his lawyer his life history. He is a Canadian by birth, the second youngest of a large number of brothers and sisters, his father having been married four times. His father and mother are both dead, and the balance of his family are residing at Brockville, Canada. His father was a successful merchant, mayor of the city and school trustee for a number of years. His uncle, William Fitzsimmons, was a member of Parliament for years for the constituency of Leeds and Grenville, Ontario, and is at the present time a Past Master of the Masonic fraternity. He was always well supplied with money. At the death of his father he fell heir to $19,000. He is now the owner of a valuable piece of property at Homestead, Pa.

Fitzsimmons says he followed the avocation of peddling "fake" jewelry for a number of years through the country parishes of Louisiana, and realized a good income from it. About three years ago he went to live at Pittsburg and secured a country home for himself, his wife and 5-year-old child. He secured employment in a large mercantile house and finally started in business for himself, selling goods on the installment plan.

Fell Through Business Reverses.

This business proved unsuccessful and he went into the brokerage business, which was also a failure, and he lost considerable money. He became disheartened with his misfortunes, fell from the path of rectitude and became a thief and a burglar. The murder of Detective Gilkinson while attempting to arrest him for a burglary, being the natural end of his career.

He was asked if his wife was a native of Louisiana. He said she was the daughter of an old-time planter, who had died since the war, but whose name he refused to divulge, as he thought it would not benefit him any just now. She was a distant relative of Andrew Jackson.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons is now in Pittsburg jail serving a term for complicity in Gilkinson's murder. The fact of his suicide was communicated to her and almost drove her insane. She is in a bad physical condition and it is feared an epileptic fit may end her life.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation, sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS, and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

This Week An Avalanche Of Spring Goods

Is on us. It would take two columns of this journal to enumerate all we have received, but if there is one thing more than another that deserves special mention is our importation ex. S.S. "Sardinian," from St. Gale, Switzerland, of

NEW SWISS EMBROIDERIES, FLOUNCINGS AND HAMBURG EDGINGS.

Plain Hem Stitched Skirtings are in great favor and we show them in many qualities.

With this lot came our New Spring stock of

Swiss Muslin Embroidered Curtains, Swiss Applique Curtains, and one of the New Effects is Hem-Stitched Borders, New Tambour Sash Curtain Muslins and Tambour Curtain Nets, and New Silk Curtains.

All are on display in our show windows. As we import these goods direct from the makers, our prices are about as low as wholesale jobbers sell them for in this country.

EXIT, FRED. FITZSIMMONS

THE BROCKVILLE MURDERER BURIED AT NEW ORLEANS.

The Money in His Pockets Paid For the Funeral, Although Mrs. Fitzsimmons and His Canadian Relatives Telegraphed Their Willingness to Bear the Expense.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—In No. 307, second tier of the public vaults of St. Vincent de Paul Cemetery, parish of Orleans, lies all that is mortal of Frederick C. Fitzsimmons. There were no mourners at the funeral, no minister, no flowers, no music but the clinking of the bricklayer's trowel. So was illustrated these words found in the memorandum book of the murderer and suicide:

'Tis the twinkle of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death.

Where the Knife Was Concealed.

The instrument with which Fitzsimmons killed himself is what is known by surgeons as a bitouri. It is very small, but very sharp, and is capable of cutting up the whole human body without any difficulty. Dr. W. H. Robin, who was the first physician called in to sew up the wounds, told me that the knife had been concealed by Fitzsimmons in his rectum, so that all the usual prison searches in the world would not have revealed its presence. He said that before he left Fitzsimmons he had made an examination which had convinced him of this beyond doubt.

His Unique Funeral.

As Fitzsimmons' murder of Gilkinson was cold-blooded, his escape from jail bold, his hiding for over four months remarkable, and his suicide nervy and mysterious, so was his funeral unique. Captain Journee of the New Orleans police let drop the information that there was $70 cash belonging to Fitzsimmons at headquarters. It was decided to place the remains in a vault, subject to the orders of Fitzsimmons' relatives, there to remain, unless they are ordered elsewhere for one year, and then buried.

In this city it is not possible to dig down more than three feet without striking water, and there are few spots hereabouts where even this is possible. The dead are therefore deposited in the vaults of marble or brick above the ground, which are sealed, numbered and suitably inscribed. The cemetery of St. Vincent de Paul is a Catholic institution owned by Mrs. Manuel Surnes. It contains the bodies of many thousands. Fitzsimmons was deposited in the commonest kind of a vault, such as rents for a year at $20. At the end of that time the bones of the deceased are removed, placed in a box and buried in a shallow grave in another part of the cemetery enclosure.

The Last Chapter.

It was 3.20 o'clock when the funeral procession left the doors of the prison. The body had been sewed together, the gashes in the neck closed, and the remains dressed in a neat silk faced shroud, with collar, tie and cuffs of the most approved funeral style. The coffin was of imitation cherry, with imitation silver mountings. Upon the lid was the customary "Rest in Peace," and upon the head a large cross. Four vagrants bore the remains from the hospital ward through the long corridors and down the winding steps of the prison to the hearse, pushed it into place, slammed the door to and then trotted back within the prison walls to finish their 90 days each. The hearse was of the finest, tastefully draped with crepe. The undertaker started off on the two mile drive to the cemetery at a lively pace.

Upon arrival at the cemetery a bricklayer quickly pulled out the loose bricks with which the opening to the vault had been closed, while a hodcarrier hurried away to the mortar box for a barrow of mortar. There was two minutes' delay waiting for this, and then, without a word, a prayer, hymn or benediction, the coffin containing the dead desperado was thrust into the vault. In two minutes more the vault door had been bricked in and the bricks faced with a coating of cement. Somebody remarked that at last Fitzsimmons was in a prison from which no-one could save him and no knife release him, and the funeral was over.

From His Wife and Home.

Just about that time Chief of Police Gaster received the following message from Chief of Police Rose of Brockville, Ont.:

Are you sure it's Fitzsimmons? If so, hold the body and answer me immediately. You will hear from me soon as I get reply. Any expense incurred will be paid by me.

Chief Gaster replied that the body had already been buried properly, but that the relatives could have it if they desired. Later a telegram stating that Mrs. Fitzsimmons would authorize the expenditure of $150 to secure a proper burial was received.

Fraud and Sentiment.

Coroner Lemonnier made an examination of Fitzsimmons' effects this afternoon. Among other things he found two sets of dice and what is known as a "spiel" dollar. The latter is a bogus silver dollar with a false head side to it, into which the dollar proper fits. An expert in crooked devices like Fitzsimmons could so manipulate the thing when "heads" were described as to win on every throw he made.

The lock of little Lacy Fitzsimmons' hair, wrapped in chamois skin, was opened. About it was a bit of paper, upon which was the following writing by Fitzsimmons:

The world may lose its motion,
Bright heaven may cease to be;
The storm may rule the ocean,
But I'll never prove false to thee.

The little book also contained many miscellaneous clippings and countless quotations on all manner of themes, including Robert G. Ingersoll's eulogy at the burial of his brother. On a page by itself was this in Fitzsimmons' handwriting:

'Tis hard to venture where our betters fail,
Or lend fresh interest to a twice-told tale.

Fake Jewelry and Weapons.

In the valise which the police had found was a lot of jewelry purchased by Fitzsimmons in Chicago and St. Louis. There were two dozen watches, two dozen chains, three dozen rings with settings and a great bundle of collar buttons, studs, rings, etc. It was all of the fake gold variety. It was Fitzsimmons' scheme to sell the stuff among the negroes in the Bycu Teche country near here. The bills for the goods showed that they had cost about $125. There were two big Colt's revolvers and the most murderous-looking clasp knife imaginable. This weapon had a blade on it fully five inches long, which sprang open at the touch of a spring, and was ground to a razor edge.

The Lawyer Opens His Will.

Fitzsimmons' lawyer, Richardson, opened Fitzsimmons' will, which had been sealed and directed to William and C. H. Fitzsimmons and David B. Jones, Brockville, as executors. It merely bequeathed his estate to his wife during her lifetime.

"LET HER GO!"

Were the Last Words of Murderer McElvaine Before His Electrocution.

SING SING, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Charles McElvaine was electrocuted at 11.26 yesterday. Just as the first current was about to be applied, McElvaine shouted "Let her go!" At that moment the current was turned on and all the sound ceased.

There was a quick convulsive jump of the subject following the application of the current. A livid shadow crept into the hollows of the dying man's face at the sides of the nose, the lips became purple, the wrists were ashen first and then welts of purple color showed around the edges of the straps. Meanwhile the current, alternating 230 times each second, was beating at the nerve cells and exhausting the oxygen from the blood corpuscles. There was no movement in any part of the entire frame.

"Close!" commanded Dr. McDonald, and the small lever at the switchboard was pushed [illegible] its place and the current was cut off. The hour was 11.12 49 a.m. The power of 1600 volts of electromotive force had been busy 49 seconds with the life centres of the silent, motionless figure.

Not Dead at the First Contact.

Dr. Ward reached down into the cell on the right side of the chair and was feeling for pulse beats, when from the livid lips of the subject there showed an exudation of mucus and almost at the same instant there came from the throat a broken exhalation of air from the lungs, which had thus expelled the last inhalation of air taken in at the last moment as the condemned man nerved himself for the death stroke.

Then came a shorter gasp, which was cut short in a gurgle by the reapplication of the current, which at the moment was flowing at 1500 volts and 10 amperes. Quickly there came to the ears of those nearest the chair the sound of a gentle hiss—steam simultaneously curled up from the electrode on the calf of the bared leg. There was no smell of burnt surface, though a few minutes later and after all was over there hung in the air a suggestion of smoke from burning flesh, probably the result of blistering under the heated water in the electrode.

"Stop!" again ordered Dr. McDonald and the little lever again cut off the current from the subject.

Dr. Wood again advanced and tested the wrists for possible pulse beats. There were none, showing beyond doubt that the man was dead. There came no more tremor of action anywhere, and when the mask on the purple face was loosened the neck relaxed and the entire frame sank down a senseless substance.

The Body Burned.

When the body was laid upon a table for the autopsy it was observed that there were slight blisters from the heated water in the electrode at the temples; the hands, which had remained completely immersed, were in a degree disfigured on the surface, but the wrists had each a slight blistered ring about them where they had been wet upon immersion, but had been withdrawn at the convulsion attending the first contact. At the calf of the leg, where the second contact had been made instead of at the hands, there had been something more than blistering, the rigid tightening of the muscles having pressed the sponge dry and heat resulting to singe the surface. The first period of contact was 50 seconds; period of second contact, 36 seconds.

The autopsy demonstrated that McElvaine was thoroughly sane, the substance and the tissues of the brain being entirely normal.

Immediately after the execution Dr. McDonald said that the experiment demonstrated that contacts with the leg and the forehead are the best.

Crime in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Chief Constable Grasett has handed the Police Commissioners his annual report for 1891. The total number of persons apprehended or summoned in the city was 9884 against 11,195 in 1890, a decrease of 1310. A comparison of the tabulated statements for the past two years show that crime of a serious nature declined, and the minor offences also fewer in number.

DEEPENING THE CANALS

IMPORTANT RESOLUTION INTRODUCED IN CONGRESS.

Proposed Opening of Negotiations With the Canadian Government to Deepen the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals—Tributaries to the Commerce of the Great Lakes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—An interesting report was yesterday submitted to the House to accompany a resolution reported by instruction of the Committee on Foreign and Inter-State Commerce, requesting the President to negotiate with Canada to secure the speedy improvement of the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals so as to make them conform in depth to the standard adopted by the United States for its improvements within the great lakes.

The report says that the great lakes furnish a highway for the interchange of productions that has no parallel in any other country.

No Bent-Up Ideas.

Thus far the traffic upon them has been confined almost wholly to the trade with Canada and the internal commerce between the States. The recent development of the untold resources of the great Northwest has, however, made the productions of that region not only a vital part of our internal commerce, but the leading factor of our foreign trade. To facilitate the internal commerce Congress has not hesitated to vote appropriations by millions. Its action in this behalf has met the country's approval. The committee believe that it is now equally important to take the proper steps to secure a deep-water outlet for the foreign commerce originating in states tributary to the great lakes. The impracticability of deepening or improving of the Erie Canal so as to admit the passage of ocean-going crafts, the report says, seems to be admitted on all sides. It is hoped that the claims that it is feasible, however, to construct a deep-water canal from Oswego to the Hudson are well founded, but this, the report says, would require many years for its execution and cost from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Pending this the committee think the great interest involved should be served by other means if available.

Available to the Commerce of the World.

Nature has provided an outlet by way of the St. Lawrence River which needs but comparatively little improvement to make the great lakes as available to the commerce of the world as they now are to the internal commerce of the United States and of Canada, and in support of this statement the report quotes from a letter of Col. O. M. Poe of the engineer corps: "This natural outlet Canada has already improved by the construction of the Welland Canal and the series of shorter canals along the St. Lawrence. These canals cover the entire distance where canals are required between Lake Erie and the sea. Their aggregate length is only 70 miles, while the Erie Canal is 363 miles long. The Welland has been deepened 14 feet and in three years the other canals should be deepened if appropriations are kept up.

A Proof of Practicability.

The trip of the "whaleback" Wetmore carrying 80,000 bushels of wheat from Duluth to Liverpool is cited as showing the importance of the work already done. This trip, though experimental, proved remunerative. It demonstrates that with the completion of the improvements now in progress steamers of the size and capacity of the Wetmore can be despatched from the great lakes to any port in the world provided we can use the canals in common with the Canadians. If the canals were further deepened so as to correspond with the new "Soo" Canal Duluth, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo would enjoy all the advantages of seaboard cities with reference to foreign trade.

Using Them Only Through Sufferance.

The report concludes: While we are now enjoying the use of these Canadian canals as the Canadians are ours, we should not lose sight of the fact that such enjoyment is not based on permanent treaty rights, and that the right to such enjoyment may be terminated on two years' notice. President Cleveland's administration claimed that notice of abrogation has already been abrogated, so that we are now using these canals by sufferance only. For these reasons it is deemed important by this committee that appropriate action should be taken by this Government to secure by a fair arrangement with the Canadians the permanent right to use these canals for our commerce in common with and on the same terms as the citizens of that country.

The Time is Opportune.

It also appears to your committee that the present time is exceedingly opportune for urging such action in behalf of the commerce of the great lakes. It is reported that representatives of the Canadian Government will shortly arrive in this city to negotiate with our Government for closer trade relations between the two countries.

Death of Grandma Thompson—Aged 105.

—WOODSTOCK, Feb. 9.—An interesting character passed away Saturday at Maple Lodge, West Oxford, in the person of Sarah, relict of the late William Thompson, in the 105th year of her age. The death of this centenarian was of course not unexpected, but up to a few days ago Grandma Thompson, as she was familiarly called, was as healthy and active as a woman of 60.

Endorsed by Principal Grant,

Can Vote without Hesitation for William Harty—One of our Very Best Men Should be Our Member—The Duty of the Conservatives to Strengthen Mr. Mowat's Hands.

KINGSTON, Feb 5—(To the Editor): I learn to-day that William Harty is to be nominated for the Local Legislature, and it is such a pleasure to have a candidate for whom one can vote without hesitation that I may be pardoned for stating at once why it seems to me that he should be elected. All citizens are on the same platform and it is in the common interest that we should speak frankly one to another. We are all in the same boat, and it is in the common interest that one of our very best men should be our member. Besides, I happen to know Mr. Harty well enough to speak of him, and especially of the qualities that fit him for public life. He was a neighbor of mine for years and we had opportunities of comparing notes, of learning something of each other. The better I knew him the more he impressed me as a clear and strong thinker, a man of independent mind and a

LOYAL PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZEN.

In these respects he has no superior in Ontario. How well he has served Kingston every one knows. I believe that he is capable of doing splendid service for the province and we must all desire to see Kingston represented by a man of more than local eminence. We want to make Canada the best country in the world; and one part of our share of this work is done when we put our ablest men in positions of public trust. Political considerations should not interfere with our doing so, as regards the city council or the local legislature. They have interfered in the past and a good many are beginning to feel that that game has been played to long. One object should be to have wise, pure and economical government; and when we have a man like Mr. Mowat at the head of a government it is the duty of Conservatives—I say it advisedly—to strengthen his hands. I see no reason why Mr. Meredith should not be a member of the administration, but as this is not a matter with which we have specially to do, nothing more about it need be said.

MY REAL REASON,

however, for writing in favor of Mr. Harty—though I have spoke in favour of him ever since Mr. Macaulay let us know that he intended to stand for Sir John A. Macdonald's seat—is that he is a Roman Catholic and that possibly some Protestants may oppose him, not on his merits, but on that ground. Now, it is true that no Protestant can be a bigot without being false to the foundation principle of Protestantism, but it is also true that—as the Duke of Wellington used to put it—"every red-coat is not a soldier." In the same way, there are Protestants who have nothing of the thing but the name, and it is the duty of true Protestants to do all in their power to prevent them—if there be any such in Kingston—from putting us in a false position before the country. Canada can never be a great country unless all her sons stands shoulder to shoulder on the principle of equal rights to all citizens. When a man is kept out of a political position because of his creed or his views on any matter with which the office, as—in the premises—has nothing to do, he is treated unjustly, and what is done against one man is an injustice to all. It is nothing to the point whether others act or do not act on our principles. We must be true to our own principles, whatever others do. In no other way can we hope to convert others. In no other way can we be really Christians.

Kingston has a name in some quarters for "Protestant bigotry." There ought to be no such thing under the sun, but at any rate we can now prove the injustice of the charge.

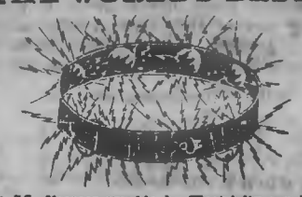
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, [illegible], GENERAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is flooded. If you want to experiment with cheap articles buy them, but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Greenhorn's Sketch on the Village of Bridgenorth.

Addressed to the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir, will you give me a small space to do a little sporting,
My rusted, nearly clogged up brain requires a little outing,
Each village, town, and township round, received their meed of praise;
As your late weeklies I perused, it seemed a popular craze,
There is one stands not far from me no poet's pen has praised,
It is no wild outlandish place where Greenland dogs are raised;
Bobcaygeon, Haliburton, no, Minden nor Lutterworth,
But the ambitious lake-girt spot, famed Village of Bridgenorth.

Why sir, you look astonished, is its name not on your roll?
Did you think it was in Africa, or near to the North pole?
You hire Martin Conners' two-ton colt, I will bet you ten and win it;
Keep speed up, you will reach Bridgenorth exact in thirteen minutes.
Permit me, sir, upon that place a few remarks to make,
It stands in stately splendour on the banks of Chemong Lake,
And from the south the summer sun its noon-day rays sends forth,
The wind tossed waves of Chemong lash its shore upon the north.

First upon its eastern boundary let our picturing fancies rise,
There the smokestacks of two sawmills stand conspicuous to our eyes.
Complete with all improvements in perfection, speed and ease.
They can rip up the largest sawlog, cut and slice it up like cheese.
And near by them stands a grist mill though not of the largest size,
It is one all prudent farmers would do well to patronize;
He gives you the best brand of flour and good full weight allows,
Above the average weight of bran to feed your pigs and cows.

A humming sound the shavings flies, a planing mill we see,
The boards are faced as smooth as glass and jointed to a T;
There too he bends wood every shape, perfect and quickly done,
Yes George could steam you up a frame to place upon the sun.
Three stores full to the door with goods, all in the grocery line,
There you can buy from pure coal oil down unto candles fine;
One takes and gives the letters out with P. O. stamped thereon,
Another holds the office of your own town telephone.

One place I nearly overlooked, that is the fine town hall,
It has one fault all must admit and that it is rather small;
The Court of Foresters sit there, in it Grand Tamplars meet,
To keep the boys with right end up and walk upon their feet.
There was a stately tavern stood right on the centre block,
The fire bug touched its inward part and sent it up in smoke;
The flames lit up the midnight sky and made the sleepers jump,
And all that remains of it to-day is a free flowing pump.

Two sons of Vulcan hard at work, they swing their hammers high,
From horse shoes on the anvil they do make the sparks to fly.
Likewise a school to teach the young more than the A. B. C.'s,
It needs it much, for children there are like a swarm of bees.
Above it stands a handsome church, of the good John Wesley's creed,
Where all can hear the gospel sound the anxious soul to feed,
If there be none free pardon needs I simply would remark
It's the first village full of saints since Noah left the ark.

A saddler shop will take your eye, where harness hangs for sale,
Made in the newest style to deck your horse from head to tail.
And near to that friend Wylie sits the awl and pegs to use
To suit the feet of old and young with handmade boots and shoes.
For carpenters, dear bless your soul one half I could not name;
They will build you house for nothing, to uphold your personal fame.
And Lord Gray the barrel hooper, large exports to the States,
And bold Alister McCalister he the bagpipes imitates.

I have sketched the village proper—to the western skirts I tread
To look on the pine-shaded knoll where sleeps the silent dead.
A little further west I reach the Chemong Park so grand
Where the magnificent hotel of Louis Fobert stands;
That superb, capacious structure, built in elegant design,
If the Prince of Wales was passing would be tempted there to dine—
Where the aristocratic tourists find a summer's quiet retreat,
With mine host kind and obliging, all their longing wants to meet.

Its surroundings are most lovely, full of beauty's master strokes—
The evergreen, high pencilled pines, and wide-spreading, shady oaks,
The green sward, summer's carpet, smooth, shed pleasure all around—
When waters from the Chemong kiss the banks on the background.

Now, Mr. Editor, some day when your press is shut down,
You might head straight north and view it—it is just six miles from town;
If you don't see just as described you in your press may jam us,
And in your largest type me call a downright ignoramus.

Peterborough Cheese Excellence.

Her Cheese-Making Talent Demanded Outside.

The reputation that Peterborough has won as one of the best cheese producing counties in Canada, not only sells her cheese at good figures but creates a field for her local cheese makers. The following from the Manchester correspondent of the Port Perry Observer refers to two well-known Peterborough gentlemen, one belonging to town and the other resident in Otonabee:

"There is every prospect of the cheese industry being again established in this village. The Messrs. Hewson, of Peterborough, have been submitting their plans to the farmers in the neighborhood and have met with very fair encouragement, so much so that they have made arrangements to build a new factory right away, and will have it ready for operation by the first of May. They are live business men, and coming from the great cheese centre—Peterborough—no doubt they intend to rush it for all it is worth, and they guarantee to manufacture a first class article. The Messrs. Howson have returned home but they have left instructions with the township clerk to call a meeting of those who have signed the agreement and all others who are interested in the business, to meet at the town hall, Manchester, for the purpose of electing a president, secretary, treasurer, salesman, and not less than three directors, who will manage the whole business for the patrons, so that the patrons will have ample security that no such such trick as Morrison performed on them will be again enacted."

North Dummer.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The letter from North Dummer, which appears in your daily issue of February 5th, is hardly worth serious attention, but any reference which I made in my previous letters I am prepared to prove. However, if the person who poses as a "true church member" will give the real name, I am sure that the reputation the said person bears will be sufficient answer and a sufficient explanation of the motives that prompt the attacks on my character. When the writer summons enough moral courage to give the real name, it will be time for me to justify myself. I am not afraid of any charge reflecting on my character which a "true church member," or any other anonymous scribbler, may bring. I am prepared to have my past record submitted to the closest scrutiny.

Yours truly,
J. J. CROWN.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Is the "ideal" Hair-dressing. It restores the color to gray hair; promotes a fresh and vigorous growth; prevents the formation of dandruff; makes the hair soft and silken; and imparts a delicate but lasting perfume.

"Several months ago my hair commenced falling out, and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y.

"My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."—P. J. Cullen, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Methodist Missions.

Missionary Meeting in Mark Street Methodist Church—Interesting Reports Read.

The annual missionary meeting was held Monday evening in the Mark street Methodist church. There was a fair audience present who listened with interest to the missionary addresses given. Dr. Ford, of Norwood, and Rev. Mr. Bartlett, of Lakefield, who were to be present, took suddenly ill, and sent word that they would not be present.

After a hymn by the choir and a prayer of thanksgiving Rev. Mr. Thom read a portion of the 98th Psalm, and 13th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. He then took up the mission work of the Methodist church which he said was divided into five departments, viz:—Home missions, Japan, China, Indian and French. He first spoke of home and Indian, they being the oldest missions in the church. The work among the Indians and French Canadians, the speaker said was most successful. Their Indian work extended throughout the whole Dominion. He read letters from Methodist missionaries in Japan and the work there was most successful. Their work among the Chinese of British Columbia was next referred to. God had been blessing the missions there, as new churches and schools had been erected, and the people there helped to pay the expenses incurred in such work. Among the Indians of British Columbia they had established a Board of Missions, and a Quarterly Board, and the work was meeting with success there, also among the Indians of Sudbury district, where the use of liquor among the Indians was almost unknown. The same success was attending the work in the Northwest and Manitoba. Among the French Canadian Roman Catholics of Quebec, they were doing a good work in spreading the truths of the Bible among these people. His address throughout was a most encouraging one.

Rev. Mr. YOUNG, B.A., Millbrook, was next introduced. Before beginning his address, he paid a compliment to the choir and pastor of Mark Street church. He based his remarks on the command given to the Apostles at Galilee by our Lord,—"All power is given unto you, go ye therefore and teach all nations." The reverend gentleman said that the Apostles at the time of this command being given, had their doubts as to what their mission in life really was. They had thought of leading conquering legions in life, but they had to appear humble like Christ and preach the Gospel to the people. They had, the speaker said, to face great obstacles, the Greeks with their philosophical strength and skill, the Romans with their political and military power, and the intense hatred of the Jews, all were barriers in their way. But they had Jesus Christ on their side, and they did not look at discouragement. Rev. Mr. Young said, at the present day there was about 900,000,000 people in the world who had never heard the story of the cross, and it was necessary that the Gospel should be placed in their reach. Among the professed Christians in the world to-day there was rationalism, scepticism and innumerable other isms, which must be ground out, and in the secular press of to-day the speaker said there was a controversy going on, one portion of the Christian church insinuating that another portion could not preach the Gospel to the people because they were not made members of God by a certain form of ordination and others say that they could not trace their religion back to the time of Peter. But he, as a Methodist minister and in a Methodist pulpit, would hurl back the charge. He then referred to the remarkable growth of Methodism in Canada. One hundred years ago, the speaker said, two young men crossed the St. Lawrence from where Odgensburgh now stands and wended their way to the Bay of Quinte, where upon its shore they erected the first Methodist church, capable of seating three hundred people. The church was sold for $50 in 1836. That was the first seed of Methodism sown in Canada, and since that time it had grown until now the church in this country could boast of a membership of a quarter of a million—a most remarkable growth, the speaker said. He closed his masterly address by pointing out to the people that the Methodist church was steadily growing, and that failure in their work was never thought of when Christ was their protector and helper.

Rev. Mr. THOM then stated that the Methodist church in Canada had last year contributed $242,600 for mission work, of which the Mark street circuit gave $95.58. A collection was then taken up for mission work which amounted to $46 50.

Y.M.C.A.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Replying to your correspondents of yesterday, in the absence of Mr. Colville, secretary, I may say that, as a rule, members of the Y.M.C.A. are too appreciative of their hand to take any exception to the slight inconvenience to which their practices may subject them. Nor is it customary for members to ventilate their grievances in the public press before submitting them to the management. For these and other reasons we are led to believe that your correspondent is not, as he represents, a member. If he is and has any just cause of complaint to make and submits it in the proper quarter, through the secretary, it will be fully considered.

A Duplex and Dashing Runaway.

A Lively Race on Hunter Street—A Young Lady's Pluchy Pull at the Ribbons—Nothing but a Custer Seriously Hurt.

Yesterday afternoon the staid serenity of Hunter street was stirred by the most exciting impromptu running race that has ever taken place on the turf. While business men in the vicinity of the post office were quietly attending to their duties amid the ordinary hum of traffic, they were suddenly startled by a report like a crash of summer thunder, followed by others in rapid succession. A gentleman from Smith township, Mr. Ellis, had been quietly driving along in a single cutter, when the cross bar bolt came out and, dropping against the horse's heels, he responded with a series of kicks against the dash-board, which produced the explosive sounds referred to. The thoroughly startled animal laid back his ears and, metaphorically speaking, spitting on his hands, went to work. On he plunged westward, kicking as he went, the driver grimly hanging on to the ribbons, and deftly dodging the flying splinters of the demolished dashboard. When near the Oriental Hotel the horse took another freak. He made a sudden leperine leap about ten feet sideways, like a hare doubling on the hounds. The jump cleared the shafts from the cutter, and the impulse given to the cutter by the driver, who had up to this point held the lines, sent the cutter flying at a tangent into the window of the bar of the Oriental hotel, the heavy wire grating only preventing it from going inside among beer kegs and the wine amphoræ. Fortunately neither of the occupants was seriously injured, but the cutter was "hurt past all surgery." On went the horse. He had only made a few strides kicking spitefully at the shafts that were still clinging to him, when he overtook a horse driven by a young lady. Her horse was startled and it too took the bit in its teeth and off the pair went like the wind. By this time the walks were crowded by spectators and they were treated to as pretty a race as was ever seen on an association track. Neck and neck the two flyers spep up the slope of Hunter street, the free horse with the shafts streaming behind parallel with his tail, and the horse in the cutter guided skilfully by the young lady, who slightly gained as the crest of the hill was reached, and made the turn southward on Rubidge street safely with a good lead, the free horse losing time by punctuating his strides with an occasional kick. He was however still in the running and swept round the corner from the view of the spectators, his tail streaming like "Father Watkin's old gray mare." The young lady's horse—still running but kept in hand by an skilful and cool a lady whip as can be found in the town—dashed down Rubidge street with a lessening pace. When at the South Ward school the other horse came up again, and again frightened the young lady's horse into a run, the other horse taking the turn up Sherbrooke street to the hill, where he was stopped little, if any, injured by his mad escapade. The other horse meantime kept on till it was confronted by a train of cars across the track at the Edison siding. The young lady side-tracked him with a great deal of pluck and skill. In the sudden stop the horse was cut about the feet, and his hind feet were somewhat injured by striking, in running, against the sharp edge of the cutter runners but he is not seriously hurt. This horse belongs to the livery stable of Mr. Fred Jones, and was driven by his sister Miss Maud Jones, who is entitled to great credit for her coolness and pluck under trying circumstances, in which many a man would have lost his head and his grip and come to grief.

Police Court.

TUESDAY, Feb. 9.

Geo. Grosmes, hailing from Oxford county, was arrested Monday by P. C. Stewart, charged with indecent exposure of person. From Constable Stewart's evidence it was learned that he had received frequent complaints from respectable ladies of having been bothered by this man, who, they said, misbehaved himself before their gaze. Constable Stewart received a telephone message from a lady on Hunter street, stating that the man in question had been exposing himself on the corner of Hunter and Rubidge streets. Constable Stewart arrested him and this morning he was brought up for trial. He said in defence that he was innocent, and that Constable Stewart's evidence was false. The magistrate remanded him for a week. Grosmes is said to have worked as hostler at an hotel in town. He is said to be a Mennonite in religion. The police are bound to put down such practices, and during the summer will be on the alert for such evil-doers.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BROOLS, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MORRIS, 29 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

FULL ORCHESTRA

Last Night's Council Conference.

A committee of the whole council assembled in the clerk's office last night and discussed the street railway franchise, and other business; came to no definite decision except to pass an unanimous resolution to adjourn to permit members of the council to prepare their costumes for the fancy dress carnival on next Friday evening, Feb. 12th.

GRAND CHORUS,

Race Prejudice.

The EXAMINER has received a well-written letter from Mr. Roland Peoples, a coloured citizen of the town, complaining of the treatment he has received in the columns of a local contemporary in connection with a police court case, the charge of technical larceny, in which Mr. Peoples' watch was broken. Mr. Peoples objects to being called "negro" in the public prints, or elsewhere, and prefers the designation "coloured," and in this matter his preferences deserve respect. He also complains that he is insultingly accosted by such expressions called out at him, as 'There goes a nigro," etc. Only the thoughtless and ill bred will thus humiliate any well behaved person. Mr. Peoples is a respectable and well behaved citizen and a taxpayer, and he is certainly entitled to be decently treated. Our best citizens are those who behave best.

Salvation Army Methods Outlined by Capt. Cox—The Practical Phases of the Work in London—Interest in the Meetings Still Continues.

That the interest in the series of meetings conducted by Staff Captain Cox still continues was evidenced by the large gathering at the Salvation Army barracks last evening when Miss Cox spoke at considerable length on "Darkest England." As is generally known General Booth outlined a scheme some time ago for the relief and elevation of the poor of the large cities of Great Britain—where poverty exists and crime abounds such as is unknown in Canada—and it was in elucidation of this scheme that the Staff-Captain spoke last night.

She said that it was of little use speaking, to a starving and half-naked man, of spiritual things. The army in their scheme for the reformation of the lower classes had recognized this, and had established in a number of the larger cities "shelters," where the fallen and the poverty-stricken could obtain a good substantial but plain meal and clean sleeping accommodation for a merely nominal sum. In London, England, there were a number of these places. For three pence these shelters provided a cup of coffee, bread, soup, etc., but no case of necessity was refused admittance for lack of the necessary three pence. Many of for kindness shown towards them, and many eventually were led to see their need of a Saviour and to accept Christ. There were some, however, as one man she related a story about, who "did not know much about their religion but thought the soup awfully good." A description was then given of the farm colony, which comprised some 1,200 acres, and on it were grown many of the articles required, such as vegetables, &c., needed in the shelters. This farm was worked almost entirely by men who had lived lives of sin, criminals, jail birds, &c., but who desired to reform. They were here given a chance to redeem their characters, and numbers had become honest, law-abiding citizens through having had stretched out to them a helping hand in time of need. She also related how the girls and women, who had fallen low in the moral-scale, were assisted. Staff Captain Cox told a number of stories of how the most depraved and apparently utterly hopeless cases had been restored to lives of respectability, and how these made the best workers among their former companions. Her interesting address was listened to with much attention.

To-night Miss Cox will give an address on "Midnight in London," and will give an account of slum work amongst the poor. She will be attired in the customary dress worn by those who engage in this work. It is expected that there will be a large attendance.

A Wood Drawer's Explanation

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I notice in your issue of Feb. 4th, a complaint regarding the action of wood drawers on both Lakefield roads, signed "Lakefield Ladies." I am a wood drawer on the above mentioned roads, and feel sorely grieved that such a complaint should arise. As I am always in a large crowd of wood drawers. I never saw a lady insulted or ill-used in any way on these roads, and as to their horses getting impatient I think our Lakefield ladies are not scared of high spirited horses. Therefore I think it must be some of the men instead of the ladies. As for me I am not afraid of County Constable Cochrane. Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space,

I remain,
A WOOD DRAWER.

Personal

There is a marked change in the condition of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, and it is said he will recover.

Mr. M. Coughlin, of the monumental works, is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from congestion of the lungs.

Rev. A. McWilliams has recovered from his recent severe illness. He occupied the pulpit in his church on Sunday.

Mr. R. J. Dowdell, of Almonte, was in town over Sunday, the guest of Mr. R. Morrow, registrar. Mr. Dowdell made an excellent candidate and a good run in the recent contest in South Lennox.

Mr. John L. Walton, of St. Thomas, Dakota, though he has been in Peterborough since Christmas, finds that he has so many friends, and is so cordially received by them, that it will take him another month to complete his visit.

Miss S. Anderson, of this town, left yesterday for Barrie to assume the duties of a responsible position which has been offered to her by the Singer Sewing Machine Company of that place. Miss Anderson was for seven years engaged as book keeper in the company's branch office here, and during that time, by her courteous disposition, unassuming manner, and close attention to business, earned the very highest respect of all with whom she came in contact. The best wishes of a large circle of friends accompany Miss Anderson to her new home.

Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success.

JUDITH ARMYTAGE.

By Julian Hawthorne.

V.

Late that evening a great bank of clouds that had been gradually accumulating in the west rolled up over the Cedars and burst in a thunderstorm, which raged furiously until far into the night, and raised a surf that sounded upon the shore like the explosions of cannon.

The study was lighted by a lamp pendant from the ceiling, moderated by a screen of silken gauze. Armytage and Mar were conversing in low tones at the table. "I shall take her away tonight," said the latter, "as soon as the ceremony is over. I don't like the looks of that fellow Revell. Do you take care to play your part straight. You know what I can do with you!"

"Are you a man or a devil!" said the clergyman.

"A distinction without a difference, father-in-law! But I am so far different that I am fed by souls, as other men by flesh and wine; without them I perish. But woe to him who cheats me of my chosen meal! I pay a fair price and I will be served!"

"She is coming!" exclaimed Armytage in a whisper. "Oh, my daughter!"

Mar stepped behind the curtains in the window as Judith entered. The clock struck 11. The reverberations of the thunder and the waves filled the room with heavy, muffled murmurs.

"Do you want me tonight, father?" Judith asked.

"One more experiment that I wish to try, my dear," replied he, in a deprecating tone. "I can promise you that it will be the last. You have already helped me to discover secrets known to no one else. Your clairvoyance is without parallel. One more voyage into the other world and we are done."

"Father," said Judith, "I am your daughter, but I am a woman, too, with an immortal soul. I have given you a power over me by which you might destroy me if you would. If you were to betray me, do you think that any gain it might bring you would make you happy? I have a right to my own life and love and happiness. Will you not stop here? Let us live an open and honest life among human beings and let these subtle mysteries go—for your sake as much as mine! It would be better to starve so than to live with anything between us and truth. Think, father!"

"My dear, your distrust hurts me! What can I desire but your well-being! And I am a better judge of what will secure that than a girl like you can be. Why should you hesitate now more than at another time? Do you doubt my love for you?"

Judith remained gazing at him a few moments, with a strange smile on her lips. He avoided her glance, affecting to be occupied with some papers on the table. In these few silent moments a great stake was won and lost. Presently she said: "I am ready, then," and seated herself on a low, reclining chair, a little removed from the table. She seated herself at ease, folded her hands and closed her eyes. He father stood up and looked at her.

The light of the lamp became fainter till the room was very dusky. A sound like the low, mellow note of a distant bell came to the ear in monotonous regularity. Judith lay motionless, save for a slow, inward respiration. The pulsations of the bell were like the beating of a heart, gradually becoming less and less. The cheeks and lips of the girl grew colorless. She lay like one dead, for even her breathing had become imperceptible.

Armytage made a sign, and Mar stepped forth from behind the curtain. He trod noiselessly to the side of the girl and contemplated her with a peculiar grimace, in which a sort of burning hunger was mingled with an expression of malice. But presently he shook his head and frowned.

"After all," muttered he, "it is not Judith that I shall get, but another woman. What is a soul? What will become of her whom we call Judith? Well, no matter! Make your conjuration. I will find means to reach her through the veils of identity."

Armytage now seated himself beside Judith and laid his hand on hers. "Judith," he said to her in a husky voice, "You love Robert Mar. You will always love him. You will be his wife and do his bidding. No one else can ever come between you and him. Waking or sleeping, you will be his. Body and soul, you will be his till your life end."

He paused and they heard the roll of the thunder, the booming of the surf and the rush of the rain.

"That will do," said Mar. "Now, rouse her and let us finish."

Armytage struck his hands sharply together. "Wake!" exclaimed he. "Wake, Judith!"

But not an eyelash quivered; not a breath stirred her bosom. She lay like one dead. Was she dead, indeed?

"What does this mean!" demanded Mar, suspiciously. "Are you trying to play me a trick? You might as safely play with that lightning!"

"I don't understand it!" returned Armytage, in a voice of alarm, as he made renewed efforts to arouse her. "My God, what can have happened! Have we murdered her! Judith! Judith!"

"You cannot deceive me," said Mar, with a sneer. "Unless she awakens at once, you must suffer the consequences. You know what they are!"

"Oh, God—Judith—mercy—save me!" cried the other, falling in agony on his knees beside his daughter. There was no response. After a moment of dead silence, while even the voice of the storm seemed hushed, Mar slowly raised his arms. Armytage started wildly to his feet, uttering a piercing scream that died away in a guttural quaver. With his hands before his face, he appeared to be striving to fight away some enemy that clutched at his throat. He staggered backward, stumbling and reeling, till he was caught in an angle of the wall, where he crouched down, a chuckle of imbecile laughter dribbling through his lips. Then an iron hand fell on Mar's neck. "What are you doing, Bolsito Sartanas!" said the deep voice of John Revell.

Mar turned with a savage cry and struggled furiously to free himself. He was strong and lithe as a serpent, but he was held by the strength of a lion. The struggle lasted but for a few breathless minutes. Revell forced him down, and, with his knee upon his breast, disarmed him of the knife concealed in his side. Then he flung him off and confronted him sternly.

"I know your history," said he. "This is not a safe place for you. God sent me to protect this girl. I fought you and your wretched victim there with your own weapons. Now, be off, or I will show you no more consideration than you meant to show him—and her!"

"But she is dead!" snarled the other, gasping and shivering.

"No, she lives," replied Revell, "and her life in future will be safe from any influence except what comes from her own heart and will. Awake, Judith," he continued, beckoning to the sleeping girl. "The trouble is past. You are free."

She sighed, moved, unclosed her eyes and slowly raised herself on one arm. Her glance, at first bewildered, finally rested on Revell, and with a smile she rose and came to him. He put one arm round her shoulders and so faced the defeated enemy. But he, by whatsoever name he might be known, seemed to dread the regard of her eyes more than the power of man. There must have been the remnant of something human in him. He covered his face and slunk back into the shadow of the room. They did not see him pass the threshold, but when Revell revived, the light of the lamp he was gone.

The storm passed away during the night, and the morning was as fresh and pure as a maiden's soul. Walking along the dimpling margin of the blue sea, Judith and her lover came to the grove of cedars. The largest of them had been struck by a lightning bolt and was split from summit to base, and the headstone of the grave was shattered.

And there lay the body of a man, seeming to wear the features of Mar. Yet the face was that of an aged man, with grizzled hair and furrowed skin. He was dead but there was no mark of death upon him. Perhaps he had died long before, or perhaps the vision of an unattainted love had smitten him with the death to which comes no hereafter.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4th, 1891.
It is a pleasure for me to say good words in favor of Anti-Dandruff, as its merits cannot be questioned. In my own case, Dandruff not only made itself known by appearance in more than liberal quantities from which I could not obtain relief, but its continued presence and increasing formation caused falling of the hair. My barber spoke highly of Anti-Dandruff. I used it, and not only has every trace of Dandruff disappeared but the falling of the hair has stopped. Having full faith in the preparation I not only endorse it for the above but further add that as a fine dressing for the hair nothing equals it.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably effective in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy for ladies in clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c and $1. dw

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital, in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough drug stores. dw

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since." PETER J. BRIALS, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.

Death.

Respectfully submitted to my Ballyduff friends, who mourn the loss of loved ones so recently:

Death, just that one little word,
Fills many a heart with pain,
For there is not a binding link
But Death shall read in twain.

Yes, fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers,
All must pass away,
When the angel of death knocks at our door
We can no longer stay.

Our earthly stay may be but short—
No lease to us is given,
But, oh, what comfort in the words:
"We all may meet in Heaven."

Ah! yes, we all may meet dear friends
In that bright land above,
Where sorrow and pain shall enter not,
But all be peace and love.

And those dear ones we've laid to rest,
Are just gone on before;
They are waiting there to greet us all
When our earthly life is o'er.

We know not when that time will be,
It may come very soon;
It may be in the dark midnight,
Or come with sunny noon.

It may be in the morn of youth,
When life is bright and gay;
Or not until maturer years,
When our heads are tinged with grey.

Oh! no; we cannot tell the hour
When we'll be summoned home,
For in an hour when ye think not,
The Son of man shall come.

But Oh! what joy to our lonely hearts,
When we meet to part no more;
For death can never enter there,
On that bright happy shore.

Then let us praise dear Jesus' name,
E'en till the latest breath,
For teaching us the way to live,
That we may smile at death.

HERB. D. WILLIAMSON.

Mount Pleasant.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Last Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Upper Canada Branch of the Bible Society was held in the Presbyterian church. The Rev. J. G. Manly delivered a very able and interesting address on the noble and extensive work of the society.

Mr. Samuel Keown, of Veralam was in town on Saturday last.

We are pleased to state that Willie Smith, who has been so seriously ill, is recovering.

Miss Bella Seney is visiting her uncle and family.

We have abundance of snow, fine sleighing and a few cases of la grippe.

Consequent on the retirement of Mr. James McIndoo from the mercantile traffic in our corporation, Messrs. Gardener and Shields have assumed control of Mr. McIndoo's store and intend carrying on the business somewhat after the style of their predecessor. We learn also that they have agreed to furnish the members of the Patrons of Industry with goods at a certain standard of prices. We extend our best wishes for success in the new firm. We regret that Mr. McIndoo has seen fit to sever his connection with us. We speak not only from a business point of view but also from a social one. During Mr. McIndoo's short stay among us, he has won many friends by his kind and affable manner both when behind the counter and when in society circles. His loss to this village will be greatly felt, and we wish him future happiness and successful enterprise.

Miss Emma Best of Peterborough is visiting at her father's.

The revival services in the Methodist church, closed on Friday last, with a number of converts. Rev. Cook has been much devoted and very earnest in the work.

Miss Annie Parker has returned to her home in Toronto.

One of our prominent citizens on his return home from watching at a sick bed, about midnight, was chased by some unknown scoundrel and would undoubtedly have been handled roughly had not his athletic powers been superior to his assailant's. Who the assailant was, or what the object of his chase, is a mystery. Persons travelling on our streets after the gas is out should be watchful lest they escape not so well as this person did. We have always been a quiet people and do not know of any desperate characters residing in our corporation, therefore we fancy this must have been an itinerant one.

Our township council has granted $1,500 to the extension of the agricultural grounds in Millbrook. When will our roads receive their attention? We have been petitioning for some years and little result from it.

Mr. Wm Brown, wife and Miss Brown, of Pontypool, visited Mr. James Smith on the 31st ult.

Mr. John Cottingham, of Peterborough, was in our village on Saturday last.

Messrs. Thomas and John Jamieson were "gripped" a short time ago, but are now convalescent.

Found the Pearl of Great Price!

A prominent citizen of London, Ont., says: "For two years I persisted in using several advertised remedies for rheumatism, but never obtained relief until I used Paine's Celery Compound. God bless the great discoverer."

Dropped Dead When Retiring.

WINDSOR, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Philip Resume, aged 30, Assumption-street, complained of severe pains in her right shoulder but continued her household duties. When about to retire she suddenly expired, even before her husband, who was in an adjoining room, could be summoned.

Crushed by an Elevator.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8.—Freda Stevenson, a young woman employed in the Clarendon Hotel, was fearfully crushed by a passenger elevator on Saturday and died shortly afterwards.

Killed on the M. C. R.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 8.— Saturday afternoon an unknown man walking on the track was struck and killed by the engine of M.C.R. mail train No. 7. The body was taken to Pelton station and a coroner notified.

Husband and Wife Drop Dead.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 8.—Mrs. John Stevens, an old resident of Port Stanley, was found dead in her dooryard Sunday morning. Her death was caused by heart disease. Her husband dropped dead in Nebraska two weeks ago. She was 58 years of age.

France's Finance Minister Ill

PARIS, Feb. 8.—M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, is suffering from a severe attack of influenza.

Hammond Pardoned.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 7.—Charles R. Hammond of Cleveland-street, London, notoriety, who has been in jail here on a charge of grand larceny for over a year, has been pardoned by Governor Ferry. Hammond was sentenced in December, 1890, to two years.

THE EVE OF THE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain Elected Leader of the Liberal-Unionists in Succession to the Duke of Devonshire—Entertaining the Members at Dinner.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—A meeting was held at Devonshire House yesterday to elect a successor to Lord Hartington, now Duke of Devonshire, as Liberal-Unionist leader in the House of Commons. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P. for Birmingham, who has long been talked of as the successor of Lord Hartington as parliamentary leader, was formally elected to the position.

Mr. Chamberlain, in a speech, said the Duke of Devonshire would still direct the policy of the party. He maintained his position was that of a Liberal. All the opinions he had expressed throughout the fight for the maintenance of the union he still firmly adhered to.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour gave a dinner to their prominent supporters this evening as is customary on the eve of the reopening of Parliament.

The Queen's speech, which is exactly as outlined in Friday's despatches, was read to the guests.

Lord Derby and the Duke of Devonshire gave dinners to the dissident leaders and Sir William Vernon Harcourt entertained the principal Liberals.

The Era of Recrimination Past.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—T. P. O'Connor says in yesterday's Sun:

"The stillness of the Irish political atmosphere just at present indicates, we have reason to believe, the coming, or at least a belief in the coming, of a reunion of the factions. The Irish are a little tired and also a little ashamed of continuing a struggle the cause for which no longer exists. It must be admitted that there is still much bitter animosity, but a change in the situation is apparent.

"The more rational members of the minority have altered the tone of their speeches and no longer indulge in insults and calumnies. There is a suspicion that this is due to pressure brought upon the mouthpieces of the faction by their own supporters.

"Whether there is to be permanent peace or not it is too early to state with confidence, but there is at present something in the nature of a truce. And we are rejoiced to believe that the era of bitter personal recriminations is past."

Referring to the recent caucus meeting of the McCarthyites, Mr. O'Connor says:

"We never saw a gathering more serious, more under control. The speeches were listened to with unbroken attention, and debateable questions were talked over without unreasonable criticism. We asked several members the reason for this unanimity, and received from all the same answer in substance, namely, that it was the effect of the terrible lesson taught by the occurrences in committee-room 15."

Scotland Yard Detectives Break Up a Spurious Legacy Agency.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Scotland Yard detectives have succeeded in breaking up the business of one of the most important of the spurious "Claim Agencies" that do business with silly Americans and colonials, who believe that large fortunes have been left them in England, or that they are legitimate heirs of valuable estates now in possession of Englishmen. E. Ross and William Lord Moore are the names under which the head of the concern did business. An enormous number of letters from the dupes of this "agency" were found at the place in Ingersoll-road, which is a small ordinary dwelling house. The modus operandi of its business is interesting.

The dupe first gets a circular informing him that search is being made for a person of his name who is heir to a large estate in Great Britain, or to a fortune in chancery, or to a deposit unclaimed in the Bank of England, and requesting him to communicate with "the European Claims Agency" in New York. If he does so, he gets a reponse, stating that he is entitled to $1715 and asking that $25 be sent for the headman who will prosecute the claim. If the $25 is sent that is the end of it.

SAFE FOR A TIME.

The Ill-Timed Comments of the Proprietor of The London Financial Observer.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—W. Perryman, proprietor of The Financial Observer and Mining Herald, who accused Messrs. Bonhard, Deakin and Pulbrook with bribing The Financial News, a rival paper, to support dishonest schemes and with obtaining £58,000 as "promotion plunder" in connection with schemes for the purchase of breweries at Baltimore and elsewhere, was to-day sentenced by Judge North to two months' imprisonment.

AN ELEPHANT'S VICTIM.

Mrs. Major Anson Killed in a Jungle Hunt in India.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—A party were out elephant catching at Garhwal under the charge of Major Anson, superintendent of the Bulrampur State, India, who with his wife was riding a tame elephant, which was attacked by one of the wild elephants and overthrown. Major Anson escaped unhurt, but his wife received injuries which a few hours later proved fatal.

THE NEW YORK FIRE.

Portions of Eleven Burned and Blackened Bodies Recovered in the Wreck of the Hotel Royal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The gruesome work of searching for the blackened corpses of the victims of the fire at the Hotel Royal Sunday was kept up uninterruptedly to-day, and up to midnight the bodies of six victims had been recovered, making the total death list to date eleven.

All the bodies were taken to the Morgue, together with numerous articles that may assist in the identification of the victims.

So far few of the corpses have been recognized. Charles Blake of Stamford, Conn., identified the remains of his sister Sarah, aged 49. A stylishly-dressed woman of dissipated appearance identified one of the bodies as that of an inmate of her establishment, who had left the house in company with Mr. Levy, whose body was found in the ruins. Samuel Cherley, the bell-boy at the Hotel Royal, recognized one body as that of Mrs. Lewis, the bookkeeper's wife, and thinks the remains in box 4 are those of her husband. The body of Housekeeper Begley was recognized by her teeth.

A steam derrick has been put to work on the ruins and the search will be prosecuted all night by the aid of electric lights.

During the night the trunk of a woman was found near the Fortieth-street entrance to the hotel. It was marked "Body No. 12." The legs and arms were gone and nothing was found near it by which it could be identified. Shortly afterwards the laborers found the foot of a human being wedged in under a piano.

There was found in the ruins a black alligator hand-satchel containing a 100 mile ticket on the Long Island Railroad made out in the name of J. H. May. The name of May is not on the hotel register; but it is thought he may have been one of those who registered under a false name.

Mrs. Hattie VanWorden, wife of H. J. VanWorden, manager of the Royal Worcester Corset Co., was undoubtedly among those who perished. Her husband says she had jewels worth $30,000 in her possession.

Another Hotel Burned.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—At 9.30 last night the building No. 230 Main-street, occupied by the Bruse Berne Hat Co., was destroyed by fire, which communicated to Leubrman's Hotel, probably the finest south of the Ohio River, which was destroyed.

The "Ruby" saloon and a large harness factory and another building were also burned. It is thought no lives were lost in the Leubrman Hotel as guests had ample opportunity of escaping before the fire communicated to the hotel.

The loss will foot up in the hundreds of thousands, as the burned portion was the finest building site in town.

Leaped Back Into the Flames.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—A mother, her mother-in-law and her three boys perished in a tenement house fire at Barsinghassen. The house was occupied by four families.

The mother had a chance to save herself without the children, but threw herself back into the flames when she saw them burning.

The mother-in-law tried to carry one of the children out in her arms, but was suffocated by the smoke and perished with the rest of the family.

Eighteen Passengers Cremated on a Turkish Railway Train.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 9.—A first-class carriage attached to an express train bound for Braila was burned last night, and 18 passengers who were asleep when the fire broke out perished in the flames, the doors of the carriage being locked.

Escaped in Their Nightclothes.

GANANOQUE, Ont., Feb. 9.—Fire yesterday morning caused these losses: Grocery store occupied by Robert Fair, loss $1000, fully insured; Robert Leaky's harness shop, loss $1200; building owned by G. Stunden, loss $1700, insurance $1200, and the millinery store and dwelling of Mrs. K. E. Baker, loss $6000, insured for $4100. The inmates barely escaped with their lives in their nightclothes.

Blown Up with the Engine.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—By the explosion of an engine on the Reading Railroad here last night the firemen of the engine, George Reardon, and two unknown boys who were stealing a ride, were killed and five other men injured, one fatally. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The Baby Burned to Death.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—At Edmonton the residence of J. G. Hamilton was burned to the ground during his absence and his infant children, which he had left there, fatally burned.

A St. John Steamer Lost.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb 9.—The capsized schooner Patriot has been towed in here. The fate of the crew is unknown, but it is presumed that they were all lost. The Patriot carried about 5 men, including the captain. The vessel sailed from St. John, N.B., Jan. 25, for New York, lumber laden.

Stole the Township Taxes.

PETROLIA, Ont., Feb. 9.—A satchel containing $500, proceeds of tax collections in Petrolea, was stolen from Tax Collector Thomas Steadman on a G.T.R. car Saturday night by an unknown man. The satchel had been left on the floor at the feet of Steadman's daughter, who accompanied him, and was purloined by the thief while she was looking out of a car window.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

OFF TO WASHINGTON.

The Canadian Ministers Go to Interview Blaine on Trade Matters.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—At 2 o'clock yesterday Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice; Hon. M. Bowell, Acting Minister of Customs; Hon. George E. Foster, Finance Minister, accompanied by Mr. Parmalee, Assistant Commissioner of Customs, and Mr. Douglas Stewart, private secretary to the Minister of Justice, who will act as secretary to the delegation, left to-day for Washington by special car by the Canada Atlantic Railway, West Shore and Pennsylvania Railway. A meeting of the Cabinet was held this forenoon to complete the arrangement for the trip, as Mr. Foster did not arrive in time on Saturday to attend the meeting. They meet President Harrison and Secretary Blaine on the 10th inst.

The Meetings to be Secret.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The Behring Sea Joint Commission, consisting of Sir Baden-Powell and Dr. Dawson of Great Britain and Professors Mendenhall and Merrian of the United States, met for the first time to-day at the Arlington Hotel and made preliminary arrangements for a series of sessions on the general subject of the seal hunting industry. These meetings will be held at the State Department, beginning to-morrow, and will be secret.

These meetings are for the purpose of comparing the results of the investigations made by the Commissioners independently last summer, with a view to the formulation of a joint report which may be accepted by the board of arbitrators, when appointed, as final on all questions touching the character and extent of the sealing industry.

Meanwhile arrangements are being made for settlement of the question of jurisdiction over Behring Sea by arbitration, and it is expected that a treaty to the effect between Great Britain and the United States will be in shape for submission to the Senate for ratification next week.

Emma Abbott's Ashes.

BOSTON, Feb. .—Messrs. Van Hough ton and Diffing of New York, executors of the will of Emma Abbott, the famous singer, to-day took the ashes of the deceased to Gloucester, where they were sealed into the beautiful monument in Oak Grove Cemetery erected by Miss Abbott before her death. The ashes were encased in a box about eight inches square.

A $3,000,000 Library for Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. .—The will of the late John Creerar was to-day declared valid by the Circuit Court. Cousins of the deceased contested the will, which bequeathed $3,000,000 of the estate to the city for the founding of a great library.

Spurgeon's Funeral.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The body of the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon arrived from France yesterday. All the deacons and elders of the Metropolitan Tabernacle were at the Victoria when the train arrived and an enormous crowd was in the station and about the entrance. A long line of mourning coaches followed the hearse to the Tabernacle.

PREPARING FOR SPRING BUSINESS

Our usual Stock-Taking has just been completed, and we are very pleased to be able to say that the past year's business has been particularly successful.

In all lines of business to-day one season has scarcely closed before another has commenced, and in no line is this more clearly illustrated than in the Retail Dry Goods. Scarcely has the demand for heavy goods ceased before the Spring trade is in full blast, and in order to be fully prepared for this we have passed into stock SPECIAL VALUE IN FACTORY COTTONS, PRINTS, SHIRTINGS, COTTONADES, WHITE COTTONS AND EMBROIDERIES. These lines may be said to constitute the staples of the Spring trade, and are usually purchased early in order that they may be "made up" during the many spare moments caused by the inclement weather during the months of February and March.

OUR FACTORY COTTONS (Samples of which we distribute on the Market on Saturdays) are admitted by all who have seen them to be

The Very Best Ever Offered in Peterborough.

Our Prints a Splendid Range, all new, and including "CRUMS" Celebrated Wide Cloth, should be seen by every lady who intends purchasing a Print Dress. Our EMBROIDERIES, for which we have always had a reputation, sell at sight. Our WHITE COTTONS, COTTONADES AND SHIRTINGS are the very best that can be procured for ready money.

From this date forward we will daily receive the Latest Novelties in DRESS GOODS, HOSIERY AND GLOVES, CORSETS, RIBBONS, LACES AND TRIMMINGS, and we want everybody who intends making a spring purchase to at least see our New Goods, feeling confident that business will surely be the outcome.

Is on us. It would take two columns of this journal to enumerate all we have received, but if there is one thing more than another that deserves special mention is our importation ex. S.S. "Sardinian," from St. Gale, Switzerland, of

NEW SWISS EMBROIDERIES, FLOUNCINGS AND HAMBURG EDGINGS.

Plain Hem Stitched Skirtings are in great favor and we show them in many qualities.

With this lot came our New Spring stock of

Swiss Muslin Embroidered Curtains, Swiss Applique Curtains, and one of the New Effects is Hem-Stitched Borders, New Tambour Sash Curtain Muslins and Tambour Curtain Nets, and New Silk Curtains.

All are on display in our show windows. As we import these goods direct from the makers, our prices are about as low as wholesale jobbers sell them for in this country.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

OPENED WITH THE CUSTOMARY FORMALITIES.

The Speech From the Throne—The Death of the Young Prince—Local Government for Ireland of the English Local Government Pattern—A Land Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Everything was in readiness for the opening of Parliament when day dawned. The House of Commons had been swept and garnished, sulphur burned to drive out influenza microbes, Guy Fawkes searched for in the cellar and wigs, gowns and court suits had been brushed up for their last appearance in the Parliament which is on its last legs.

Not a single one of the leaders who filled the public eye last session is present to-day. Parnell and Smith are in their graves, Hartington has gone to the House of Lords and Gladstone will appear a little later.

Many a member whose face was familiar has disappeared during the last six months. One is in jail, and another is to be expelled almost as soon as the House meets.

There is something ghastly about Parliament in its sixth year. All the fire and spirit have gone out of it. We seem to be walking over the ashes and the spirit of the dead. It reminds one of the blood-curdling song which they say the British regiment on the Gold Coast used during the ravages of yellow fever, when men dropped out of the ranks of the living every day. It had for chorus, "Three cheers for the dead already and one for the next who dies!"

One by one this very winter Mr. Gladstone has seen his contemporaries swept away by the Dark River. He is like one of the last of the small group of survivors at the Waterloo banquets which the old Duke of Wellington gave until the vacant places at the table became so numerous that it was a heartbreaking affair to see the anniversary come around. The spectres at the feast scared away the handful of guests.

The interest of the aristocrats, especially the largest portion of this class, was centered in the House of Lords where the Earl of Dudley, noted for his skill as a gentleman rider, was selected to make his maiden Parliamentary effort by moving the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

The Queen's Speech.

There was a general buzz of conversation in the Commons until Black Rod called the Commoners to the bar of the House of Lords to hear Her Majesty's speech read. The Lord Chancellor read the speech as follows:

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,—I am persuaded that you have deeply participated in the terrible sorrow which has afflicted me and my family in the loss at a moment when the prospects of this life appeared happiest of my dearly beloved grandson, Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale. It has been a solace to us in our grief to have received from all classes and conditions of my subjects, from all parts of the Empire, as well as from foreign countries, most touching assurances of deep sympathy under our grievous affliction and the expression of their affectionate regard and appreciation for the dear young Prince, whom they have lost by this great calamity.

My relations with other powers continue friendly. I have lost in the Viceroy of Egypt a loyal ally whose wise government had, in the space of a few years, largely contributed to restore prosperity and peace to his country. I have entire confidence that the same sagacious policy will be followed by his son, who has been named his successor in accordance with previous firmans by His Imperial Majesty the Sultan.

An agreement has been concluded with the United States defining the mode in which the disputes as to the sea fisheries in the Behring Sea shall be referred to arbitration.

Zanzibar has been established as a free port by the Sultan with my concurrence. I trust this measure will conduce both to the development of the Sultan's dominion and to the promotion of British commerce on the East African coast.

GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS,—The estimates for the public service of the ensuing year will be laid before you. They have been prepared with due regard to financial economy.

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,—Proposals will be laid before you for applying to Ireland the general principles affecting local government which have already been adopted in Great Britain. I trust it may be possible to consider provisions as to English local government which, for want of time, it was necessary to omit from the bill.

Measures for increasing the number of small holdings of land in agricultural districts in Great Britain will be submitted for approval.

You will be asked to consider a bill for extending the advantages of assisted education to Ireland for other purposes connected with elementary education in that country.

A scheme for modifying the existing system of procedure on private bills, so far as it affects Scotland and Ireland, will be brought before you.

A measure will be introduced for the improvement of legislative councils in India.

A bill will be laid before you for relieving public elementary schools in England from the present pressure of local rates.

Proposals for improving the discipline of the Established Church in regard to moral offences, for enabling accused persons to be examined on their trial, for revising the existing agreements between the Government and the Bank of England and for amending the law with respect to the liability of employers for injuries incurred in their employment will also be commended to your attention.

I pray that Almighty God may guide you in the performance of your weighty functions.

Many Ladies Present.

A large number of ladies filled the three back benches in the House of Lords and the strangers' gallery in that chamber was also crowded with ladies who desired to see the formal opening of the session. All the ladies were attired in mourning out of respect to the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

After the Queen's speech had been read in the House of Lords and the House of Commons they adjourned until 4 o'clock.

When the House of Lords re-assembled Lord Salisbury, the Prime Minister, presented to the peers the new Duke of Devonshire, Lord Hartington, who then took the oath as a member of the House of Lords.

The chief interest after the reassembling of Parliament was centered in the House of Commons, where the popular members as they entered and took their seats were welcomed with hearty cheers. The Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, the successor to the late Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith, Government leader, received a prolonged ovation from his supporters and friends.

W. L. Jackson, the newly-appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland, was loudly cheered as he took his seat.

John Henry Maden, the Gladstonian who was elected to succeed Lord Hartington (Liberal-Unionist) as member for the Rossendale division of Lancashire, was cheered by the Opposition when he entered.

George Lambert (Gladstonian), who in the South Molton division of Devonshire turned a Liberal-Unionist majority of 1600 into a minority of 1200, came into the House for the first time as a member for that constituency. He received an enthusiastic welcome from the Opposition benches.

Mr. Balfour gave notice that he would introduce the Irish local government bill and that he would move on Thursday next that Edward DeCobain, member for East Belfast, who is a fugitive from the country, be requested to attend the House on Tuesday, Feb. 23. The notice of Mr. Balfour leads to the inference that steps are to be taken shortly to expel DeCobain, who is charged with a heinous crime, unless he returns to England.

The Newfoundland Troubles.

When the House of Lords met subsequently to adjourn, the Earl of Kimberley (Liberal), formerly Secretary of State for the Colonies, expressed surprise that the Queen's speech made no reference to the dispute between Great Britain and France in regard to the claims of the latter country in Newfoundland. Parliament, he declared, ought to obtain an explicit and early statement of the position of affairs. The Earl said he concurred in the tones of the speech in its references to the loss sustained by Her Majesty and the nation in the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

Salisbury on Ireland.

Lord Salisbury said that the absence of special reference in the Queen's speech to the order and prosperity prevailing in Ireland showed the confidence of the Government in the country's fitness for local self-government. The fact that an Irish Local Government Bill was proposed implied that conditions now prevailed in Ireland which justified the Government in giving that country extended powers of local control.

With regard to Egypt Lord Salisbury said that after the sacrifices Great Britain had made in connection with that country he believed that England would never surrender its supremacy there to another power.

Replying to the criticism of the Earl of Kimberley regarding the absence of any reference to Newfoundland in the Queen's speech, Lord Salisbury said that the present settlement of the question was not due to the action of the Government, but to the people of Newfoundland themselves.

The address in reply to the speech was then passed by the House of Lords.

Harcourt in the Commons.

In the House of Commons Mr. Hodge moved the adoption of the address in reply to the Queen's speech.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt said it was his first duty to express the sympathy of the Opposition for the Royal Family in the loss sustained in the death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. Next he said the Opposition recognized the merits of Mr. Balfour as the new Government leader in the House, and added, he believed that Mr. Balfour would always sustain the honor and privileges of the House of Commons.

Balfour Replies.

Responding to Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Balfour made reference to the death of the Right Hon. William Henry Smith and said he desired to walk in the footsteps of that admirable leader of the House. Sir William, Mr. Balfour stated, had distorted the meaning of Lord Salisbury's remarks in his Exeter speech. The proposals of the Ministers granting an extension of local government, as well as an education measure to Ireland, would show that the Government had confidence in a Catholic majority. He hoped that Sir William's silence on the other topics in the Queen's speech indicated that the debate on the address in reply would not be prolonged.

Echoes of the Campaign.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—In the Supreme Court arguments were heard on motions to quash the North Perth, West Northumberland and Prescott election petitions. The plea urged was that the money on the petition was improperly paid. The argument was not concluded.

G. H. Macdonnell, M.P., is to be dined by the Tories of Fort William on Thursday.

The nomination for the Local House takes place in North Renfrew on the 16th inst. and polling on the 23rd. Henry Barr got the nomination of the Liberal convention, but James Finlay, ex-M.P., is out as an independent Liberal, the Conservatives having decided not to nominate a candidate.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 10.—The election in Queen's County yesterday resulted in the return of F. G. Forbes (Liberal) by 67 majority over Marine. Forbes' majority at the last election was 101.

An Iron Pole Pierced His Body Through.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—In the delirium of fever Joseph Polacek sprang from his bed yesterday and leaped through the window. He fell upon an iron fence, some of the poles of which pierced his body through, entering the right side just above the hip. People passing in the street released him, but after writhing in agony ten minutes he died.

A RACY CASE REPORTED FROM ST. CATHARINES.

Swore on His Wedding Day and Objected to His Wife Singing at Church Concerts—Another Fatal Coasting Accident—Mother and Babes Burned to Death.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 10.—Before Judge Senkler yesterday the suit was heard of Muir v. Muir, an action brought by Mrs. Alberta Muir, wife of Mr. John A. Muir of Port Dalhousie, for the recovery of her daughter, Gladys, a child of about 2 years of age, now in the possession of its father.

Before any evidence was taken Mr. Osler asked if all charges were withdrawn and bygones treated as such would Mrs. Muir return to her husband.

Mrs. Muir emphatically said no, adding that she was afraid of him; further, that she did not care for him at all.

Mrs. Muir was then sworn and gave her evidence at great length. They were married in 1883 and the child was born in 1889.

The trouble originated in the first place about church matters, the husband being a Presbyterian and the wife an Episcopalian.

Kicked Her Out of Bed.

Witness then stated that his abuse consisted in twisting her arm, pulling her hair, threatening to strike her, which he did with a soap dish, and also kicked her out of bed. She did not constantly refuse to submit to him, but wished not to have any more children. She locked herself in her bedroom alone and kept the window open so she could escape if he broke the door. He once slapped her face.

Objected to Her Little Pleasures.

She had a good voice and was fond of singing. When married she was taken to a comfortable home. Her husband is a sober and industrious man—a very domestic man—and appears to be an affectionate father, but he objects to her little pleasures, such as singing in churches.

She was horrified to hear him curse the day upon which he was married. He tried to force her to go to his church and used terrible words after Gladys was born. On another occasion, in presence of Miss Crane, he threw a goblet of black currant juice in her face and threatened to hit her with a jug.

Wanted to Go to Singing School.

Mr. W. Muir, father of the defendant, was examined by Mr. Rykert and gave some general evidence, showing the first difficulty arose between them over church matters. He was tired of hearing about their domestic troubles and had not visited their house in two years. He was not aware that John was an ill-tempered man, but like all other men he would not be nagged at or provoked without reason. She always complained that he did not give her money or take her into society, and after her marriage even wanted her husband to send her to a Boston music school.

The case was enlarged for a week.

KILLED THE CHILD.

Whether Wilfully or Accidentally a Coroner's Jury Will Determine.

CASTLETON, Ont., Feb. 10.—Sunday the little daughter of Mr. John Robinson, boot and shoemaker, died after only being ill about eight hours. Later on a laudanum bottle partly filled was found to be missing. Mrs. Robinson, the child's stepmother, then said she had given the child laudanum, and as she had destroyed the bottle the amount taken could not be ascertained. An inquest will be held.

Squire Gillespie Dead.

CANNINGTON, Ont., Feb. 10.—Malcolm Gillespie, aged 78, one of the oldest and most respected residents of this vicinity, ate a hearty supper and retired to bed feeling as well as usual. About 11 o'clock he complained of a severe pain in his head, and six hours later died. The squire, as the deceased was familiarly called, had resided in this vicinity for upwards of 40 years. He held the position of reeve of Brock for 12 years, and in 1878 was warden of Ontario county. In 1867 he contested this riding for the Legislative Assembly against the late Sheriff Paxton, but was defeated. Deceased was 78 years of age and leaves a wife and 13 children. Three of the sons are physicians: Dr. W. K. Gillespie (Toronto Junction), Dr. H. A. Gillespie (Cannington) and Dr. J. Gillespie.

The New Customs Detective.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—It is reported the new Minister of Customs, Mr. Chapleau, will appoint Lt.-Col. Audet, now of the State Department, to the position of chief of the Customs detective service, which became vacant some time ago owing to the death of Mr. J. F. Wolfe

Nail-Makers at Work.

HAMILTON, Feb. 10.—Yesterday morning the American Nail Works started work after three months' idleness, due to a strike of the men against a reduced scale proposed by the company; but an agreement was reached under which they went to work yesterday morning on the basis of 16 cents a keg.

Killed on the Crossing.

BRIGDEN, Ont., Feb. 10.—A Lambton farmer named John M'Gregor was crossing the M.C.R. track near here in a covered buggy when he was run down by a train and instantly killed.

Another Coasting Fatality.

FERGUS, Ont., Feb. 10.—A farmer named Joseph Hall of Garafraxa and his son, aged 17, were going up Tower-street hill with a team, when they encountered some boys coming down the hill on a hand sleigh. The horses took fright, throwing both father and son out of the sleigh. The young man was almost instantly killed and the father seriously hurt.

And Still Yielding.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 10.—One hundred and ten tons of rock from the Lingham gold mine in Belmont yielded $1100 worth of gold, and the cleaning up is not yet completed.

Calamity in Mattawa.

MATTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10.—Early yesterday fire broke out in a frame building in Main-street, owned by the Earl estate and occupied by Rothschild's tailor shop. Mrs. Rothschild, a little girl aged 6 and a baby of 16 months, who were in the upper flat, perished in the flames. The building, which was wholly of pine, rapidly succumbed, and the flames communicated to M. Gauvreau's large storehouse and ginger ale factory, all of which were destroyed. Loss about $12,000; partly insured.

Half the Road.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—There appears to be a commonly recognized custom, to which all well disposed persons are willing cheerfully to conform, namely, that the driver of a cutter or light sleigh should give up the whole of the beaten track to a team drawing a heavy load. This is quite right and proper. Common courtesy from man to man, as well as humane sympathy for the heavily laden horses, demands it.

But let us look at the other side of the picture. It is, unfortunately, the habit of many of the men who are the most benefitted by this custom, when they are returning home with empty sleighs, to selfishly occupy the whole road, as if they had a perfectly legal right to do so, to the great discomfort, and frequently to the actual peril of drivers of lighter sleighs. This—to the shame of their manhood be it said—is especially the case when the drivers of the latter are of the weaker sex. They not only do this, but they often form a kind of procession; the drivers congregate on one sleigh and leave their teams, frequently the leading one, to guide themselves. This is a most dangerous custom and, I believe, it is illegal.

The proper authorities—if there are such—should take steps to put a stop to this nuisance, and those who are the sufferers from it should do all in their power to assist them.

A polite word of thanks is due to the man who, if he has a load, civilly stops his team to let another pass, or if he has no load, himself takes the rough part of the road with his strong "bobs." But those who persist in making themselves obnoxious to their fellow travellers, by wilfully obstructing the road, should be made to suffer the highest penalty that the law can impose.

As it is impossible in many cases for strangers to identify these offenders it would be advisable to employ detectives to bring a few of them to book. A detective disguised as a woman, or even as a respectably dressed city man, would bait a trap into which these numskulls lately blows would readily fall, and I think that he might easily arrest half a dozen of them in one afternoon on the Smithstown road between Peterborough and Lakefield.

Yours, etc.,
LAW.

The Ontario Legislature.

The Ontario legislature is summoned to meet for the despatch of business on Thursday, but it appears that a difficulty has arisen owing to the continued illness of Sir Alexander Campbell, the lieutenant governor. There is provision for the appointment of a deputy lieutenant-governor or administrator in case the lieutenant-governor is absent from the Province, but the possibility of that functionary being incapacitated through illness seems never to have been contemplated by the law makers. Either the meeting of the legislature must be postponed or the formal opening must take place at the lieutenant-governor's residence. It is related in Canadian history that the first parliament of the old Province of Upper Canada, composed of sixteen members, was formally opened by Governor Simcoe at Newark, now Niagara. Here is a case in which the present difficulty might very easily

The Financial Statement.

During the month of January, 1892, the federal government spent $5,227,925 on ordinary account, and collected $2,963,972 of revenue. The deficit upon the operations of last month has wiped out the surplus accumulated during the preceding six months of the fiscal year, and the condition of affairs at the end of January indicates that Mr. Foster will have to do a lot of "figuring" and charge an immense amount of expenditure to capital in order to avoid a deficit at the end of the year. As a matter of fact the revenue collected during the first seven months of the fiscal year was not nearly sufficient to meet the expenditure. The government spent $19,868,325 on ordinary account and $2,104,419 on capital account, or $21,872,744 altogether, while the total revenue for the same period was $20,717,451, leaving a deficit of $1,153,293, which will no doubt be increased, as the revenue shows a decline each month. The fact that the Dominion revenue is becoming insufficient to meet current expenditure is evident from the large increase in the public debt. During last month the net debt of the Dominion was augmented by the sum of $2,264,637, and the gross debt is now $291,776,812, with a prospect that it will reach a round $300,000,000 before the end of 1892.

People who use arsenical preparations for their complexion, do so at the risk of their lives. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is guaranteed free from any injurious drug, and is, therefore, the safest as well as the most powerful blood medicine in the world. It makes the skin clear.

Easily Caught.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily caught in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains. dw

Worms cause serious sickness. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup destroys and expels all kinds of worms quickly and surely.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does, it is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it, a sample bottle free, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and a dollar. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption. dw

DORENWEND
ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of [illegible] medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not [illegible] this Belt with the humbug combination of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.
